This noon Proprietor Staats, of the Hotel Kensington, received a telegram from John Coye, of De Ruyter, N. Y., informing him that he would come to Plainfield today after the remains of Mr. Taylor. It has been learned that the deceased leaves a wife and two children. It is presumed that Mr. Coye is also a relative.

Baptist Deacons Elected.

At the regular business meeting held at the First Baptist church last evening Frank Jones and Henry E. Needham were elected deacons. One is to fill a vacancy and the other is an increase in the number usually serving the church. This was the only business transacted.

LONDON IN SUSPENSE

Intense Anxiety Over General Buller's Situation.

BOERS HOLD A STRONG POSITION.

No Word as to the Disposition of Recent Re-enforcements—British Losses Up to Date Over Eight Thousand Men.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The assemblage in Pall Mall outside the war office and those privileged to wait in the lobbies reluctantly dispersed at midnight, after the final word that nothing more would be announced. The morning papers went to press with conjectures and forecasts of all sorts, striving to guess out something from Spion's kop.

Topography maps show that Spion's kop is the highest part of a rocky plateau. Eastward for eight miles are the Boer positions along the Tugela. Northwestward from Spion's kop the plateau runs gradually up to a great spur of the Drakensberg.

General Buller's infantry, to reach the summit of Spion's kop, must cross a natural glacis three-quarters of a mile wide and climb 500 feet up a steep slope.

Nobody here seems to know, not even the war office, what Lord Roberts has done with his large re-enforcements. Six thousand troops awaited his arrival at Cape Town, and since then 6,000 others have reached there. Military critics are all hoping that a good share of these 12,000 have gone to help General Buller, and they argue that a few days' wait will make him strong enough to overcome the deadlock.

There are 19,000 troops at sea, and this heavy weight on the British side is expected to destroy the equilibrium now existing on every field of operations.

The British losses up to date in killed, wounded and captured, according to General Buller's last list, total 8,216 men.

A dispatch from Spearman's camp, dated Jan. 23, says: "The British field artillery and howitzers shelled the enemy posted on the crest of the ridge this morning.

"The infantry, under excellent cover, kept up an effective rifle fire. The Boers resigned a kopje, of which the British infantry took possession. When retiring, the enemy sheltered themselves behind a stone wall on the slope of the kopje, which they held for hours.

"This afternoon they ran across the ravine. The British artillery poured shrapnel and lyddite into them, and the infantry took the stone wall. The British casualty list was small."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Lourenco Marques, dated Wednesday, says:

"This morning all passengers booked for the Transvaal were stopped by government order with the exception of the members of the Russian ambulance corps, who proceeded by train."

A dispatch to The Times from Spearman's camp, dated Tuesday, 9:30 p. m., says:

"The Boers today had more guns and are prepared to fight almost interminably, having intrenched their ridge, which stretches in an almost unbroken line from the Drakensberg many miles eastward.

"Firing continued throughout the day. We have not advanced any further, but we threw up intrenchments during the night, from behind which the musketry duel continued from exactly the same position as yesterday."

The Daily Telegraph publishes the following dispatch from Spearman's camp, dated Jan. 23, 9:30 p. m.:

"On Monday Sir Charles Warren's force cannonaded and fusilladed the Boer positions west of Spion's kop, near the Acton Homes road. A lyddite battery cooperated with the other batteries and Maxims. Certainly the fire was effective, causing the enemy serious losses. The Boers, however, clung desperately to their works, from which they are only being very slowly driven. Today the enemy fired their guns oftener, using also the captured 15 pounders with shrapnel. Our casualties today were less even than those of yesterday.

"Fighting began about 6 in the morning and continued until dusk, but there has been nothing like a general engagement. The naval big guns assisted from Potgieter's drift in shelling the Boer positions."

A dispatch from Pretoria, dated Tuesday, Jan. 23, somewhat amplifies the dispatch of Monday, Jan. 22, from the Boer head laager. It says:

"Four or five times during the day the British replaced their wearied soldiers by fresh ones. The Boer casualties to date are one man killed and two men slightly wounded. Our men are in excellent spirits. There has been a large slaughter of British. General Botha is now in sole command, General Cronje having been sent elsewhere."

The same dispatch, apparently referring to the situation at Colenso, says:

"One of the large Boer Maxims was temporarily disordered, but was soon repaired. The British northern camp is in confusion. People are observed trekking aimlessly in all directions."

Last Vessel Released.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—The German bark Hans Wagner, stopped on Dec. 19 in South African waters by the British gunboat Fearless and ordered to go to Port Elizabeth to unload, after leaving the contraband specified by the British authorities, has proceeded on her way to Delagoa Bay, being the last of the seized German vessels to be released.

Many Signers For Intervention.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 25.—Nearly 100,000 signatures have been appended to the address promoted by M. Lejeune and other members of the Universal Peace society asking President McKinley to mediate, which will be forwarded to Washington in the course of a fortnight.

Counterfeiting In a Prison.

RICHMOND, Jan. 25.—The Virginia penitentiary authorities are puzzled over the discovery that counterfeit nickels are in circulation within the prison walls. They are satisfied that the "queer" is made in the institution, but so far have not been able to find the plant or connect any particular prisoner with the work.

Colorado Towns Scorched.

BOULDER, Colo., Jan. 25.—Nearly all the business buildings in both Ward and Lafayette have been burned. The loss at Ward is estimated at $75,000 and at Lafayette $100,000. About 50 families in Lafayette are homeless, and there is no place in the town to afford them shelter.

WAINWRIGHT HONORED.

Gloucester's Commander at Santiago Gets Sword and Silver Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Commander Richard Wainwright, who was in charge of the gallant Gloucester (the yacht Corsair converted into a cruiser) at the battle of Santiago, was presented a sword of honor and a silver service by a committee representing the citizens of the District of Columbia in the Columbia theater yesterday. The theater was filled with a fashionable audience of official and resident society, and the presentation was made under the shadow of the stars and stripes twined with the pennant that flew from the masthead of the Gloucester on the day of the battle.

President McKinley and Secretaries Hay and Gage and General and Mrs. Miles occupied boxes. Secretary Long and Admiral Dewey had seats on the stage with Commander Wainwright, immediately behind whom were the officers of the Gloucester in full uniform. President McKinley was warmly received as he came into the house, and Admiral Dewey was given an ovation as, escorted by the committee, he accompanied Secretary Long and Commander Wainwright to the stage. After a formal presentation speech by Mr. F. P. B. Sands, representing the committee, he handed the sword to Secretary Long, who, presenting the gift to Commander Wainwright, said:

COMMANDER WAINWRIGHT.

"There is a roll of honor, Commander Wainwright, which is known as that of the bravest of the brave. On that imperishable roll your name has been written by your countrymen. In token of your title I present to you, to have and to hold and to hand down to your boy, this sword, the loving gift of your many friends."

Commander Wainwright responded briefly to the secretary's remarks, expressing thanks for the gift and giving credit to the officers and men of the Gloucester for the work that had been done.

The committee also presented to the commander a silver service, the presentation address being made by Mr. George H. Harries of this city. Commander Wainwright is a resident of Washington, and the money necessary for the purchase of the gifts was raised among the citizens here.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The loss in the fire at Dawson City is placed at $400,000.

Former Minister Phelps was reported ill with pneumonia at New Haven.

A writ of habeas corpus was refused former Captain Oberlin M. Carter.

Fifteen thousand persons are said to be afflicted with influenza in Rennes, France.

Chicago teachers, angered at the cutting of their salaries, appointed tax inquisitors to watch alleged tax dodgers.

Steel freight cars were ordered at Pittsburg for French railroads. The French war department may order more, to be converted into armored cars.

Jamaica's Fruit Trade.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 25.—Notwithstanding the negative nature of the published replies of public men and representative bodies to the circular of the governor, Sir Augustus Hemming, regarding the fruit trade with England, the privy council yesterday decided to place the proposed contract with Elder Dempster & Co., abolishing the present subsidy to the Royal Mail company and levying a special acreage tax on banana cultivation. It is rumored that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has brought this about with a view of stemming the growing tendency of the general trade of Jamaica to drift from England to the United States, and it is thought that the banana tax, as adversely affecting American interests, will constitute a violation of the pending reciprocity arrangements.

Options on Virginia Land.

NORFOLK, Jan. 25.—A representative of the Vanderbilt and Rockefeller interests is in this section taking options on valuable lands. One tract, situated on the eastern branch of the Elizabeth river, has been optioned for $100,000 and another on Broad creek for $45,000. The Vanderbilts practically own the Virginia Beach and the Norfolk and Southern railways and large holdings in the Chesapeake and Ohio. What the present movements mean can only be conjectured. There have been rumors for some time that Rockefeller was gradually acquiring valuable property in southeastern Virginia and eastern Carolina.

One Miners' Strike Over.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 25.—The strikes that have prevailed among the coal miners of the Wyoming valley for the past ten days are now ended. The miners employed at the Baltimore colliery of the Delaware and Hudson company, who went out on strike a week ago, have returned to work, an amicable agreement having been reached with the company officials.

Exposition Exhibits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—It is announced at the navy department that the Prairie, with the second installment of exhibits for the Paris exposition, will sail from New York about Feb. 1 and Baltimore Feb. 5 for Havre.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain, with southeast gales, followed by fair and much colder.

IN PLAINFIELD.

Every Claim is Backed by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants anything stronger than the opinions and experience of his neighbors, what can it be? Mr. H. C. Lippencott of 39 Chatham street, says: "I was a victim of kidney complaint and dreadful backache, so bad in damp weather or when I caught cold that I could not get about. I was in the hardware busines at this time and the heavy lifting and being on my feet so much greatly aggravated the trouble. I was in my worst when I concluded to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It only required a few doses to convince me that I had the right remedy. My backache disappeared before I had finished the first box."

TRIP THROUGH CUBA

Prosperous and Pleasing Condition of Manzanillo.

SANTIAGO PROVINCE CLAIMS WOOD.

An Overland Trip Reveals Sugar Plantations Running Full Time. Cordial Relations Exist Between the Americans and Cubans.

MANZANILLO, Cuba, Jan. 25.—Governor General Wood, with his party, arrived here at noon yesterday on the Ingalls and spent three hours in inspecting the city, which, according to a census taken with considerable care since the American occupation, has a population of 14,000. He expressed himself as greatly gratified with the police record, which showed only two cases untried.

General Maso met General Wood at the landing stage and had a short interview with him. This was devoted chiefly to an explanation of what Maso had told the residents of that locality regarding the doings of the council of Cuban notables recently held in Havana. The people, General Maso said, seemed to be entirely satisfied, and, in fact, the province of Santiago looked upon General Wood as one of its own sons.

After inspecting the post of the Tenth cavalry General Wood paid a visit to headquarters, where he received the mayor of Manzanillo, the local judges and other prominent men. He then started on an overland trip, accompanied by General Chaffee, Colonel Black and others, with an escort of cavalry. All the sugar estates of the neighborhood were found running on full time, and any person wanting work can obtain it in that locality. The public buildings are gradually taking on an aspect of prosperity, and everything in the city proper is looking so much better than it did when Colonel Ray took control in October, 1898, that it is difficult to realize that the old and the new Manzanillo are the same.

The greatest cordiality exists between the Americans and Cubans. The public works have given employment to thousands, and as a result the whole section is filled with small farmers owning their land, oxen and tools. There is no wasted charity. Here, at least, "indigent rations" are not given to people who do not need them. The only charitable organizations are an orphan asylum, a hospital and a dispensary free to poor persons.

The Ingalls, with General Lee and those of the party who did not accompany General Wood overland, sailed at daybreak for Santiago.

Havana Vital Statistics.

HAVANA, Jan. 25.—A complete report of the vital statistics of Havana for 1899 has just been issued. The deaths show an apparent excess over the births of about 4,000. General Ludlow says, however, that a great many births were not recorded. From the beginning of April to the end of December 140,000 cartloads of refuse were removed. In December there were 14,000 cartloads removed as compared with 10,000 in April. General Ludlow believes that this increase shows that the inhabitants are becoming accustomed to the idea of having rubbish removed regularly and of cleaning out their own premises instead of allowing an accumulation.

General Brooke's Future.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—General Brooke, who has arrived in Washington, called at the war department yesterday and paid his respects to the officials. He spent an hour in close conference with Secretary Root, and the two repaired to the White House, where the general was welcomed by the president. The talk ran on Cuban affairs, and if any reference was made to the future of General Brooke it did not take the shape of a formal order. It is understood, however, that he is to be assigned to his old command, the department of the lakes, over which at present General Wade has temporary command.

Beet Sugar Plant.

LYONS, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Articles of incorporation of the Empire State Sugar company have been filed here. The capital stock is $400,000. The directors of the company are: Orlando F. Thomas, James D. Bashford, Lyons; Seymour Scott, William Buchheit, Edwin N. Post, New York. The corporation is empowered to buy, sell and traffic in beet sugar and beet products, buy, sell, rent and lease land and carry on operations or business deemed incidental, necessary or advantageous to any such purposes. The plant will be located here and have 500 tons daily capacity.

Clairvoyant In Trouble.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Belle Eddy, alias Mrs. R. B. Yates of Cleveland, a well known clairvoyant, has been arrested on the charge of using the mails to defraud. Mrs. C. L. Common of Kenilworth avenue, a widow, accuses her of wrongfully obtaining from her $10,000 for the purpose of breaking up a conspiracy alleged by the clairvoyant to exist, the object of which was said by Mrs. Eddy to be to deprive her of property which rightfully belonged to her dead husband. The extent of time embraced in this case is about two years.

A Famous Pig In Court.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—Sagasta, the frisky and much admired 17-month-old pig that was the mascot on Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, figured in a lawsuit here yesterday, action having been brought by contestants to determine ownership. Sagasta is no ordinary pig, for he was a witness of that great naval conflict which resulted in the capture of Manila and in which the boasted sea power of Spain was scattered like chaff before the wind.

Jail Breaker Captured.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 25.—James Moran, the notorious criminal with several aliases who escaped from the Rockland county jail the 1st of last February through a skylight, was put back in his cell there again at midnight Tuesday night after an absence of nearly a year. Moran was arrested at Wappingers Falls on Monday and taken to Poughkeepsie, where he was locked up.

Cockran to Speak at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 25.—Dean Francis Wayland of the Yale Law school has announced that the speaker for the commencement exercises next June would be the Hon. W. Bourke Cockran of New York city. His acceptance of the invitation to deliver the annual address to the seniors of Yale Law school was received yesterday.

MR. BRYAN IN NEW HAVEN.

He Had Not Forgotten His Treatment on a Former Visit.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 25.—William J. Bryan arrived in New Haven on the train reaching here at 2:15 p. m. yesterday. Contrary to plans at first announced, he was driven to city hall first, where a reception was planned for him. After a brief rest Mr. Bryan, accompanied by Alexander Troup of this city, Homer S. Cummings of Stamford and Philo S. Bantell, also of this city, repaired to Music hall, where fully 2,000 people awaited his coming. Several hundred more crowded into the aisles after he arrived, having followed his carriage through the streets.

Mr. Bryan's entrance to the stage was the signal for a wildly enthusiastic demonstration. Men and women rose to their feet and cheered themselves hoarse. Mr. Bryan bowed his thanks.

Alexander Troupe as chairman of the meeting spoke briefly in introducing Mr. Bryan, assuring the Democratic leader that "as the New Haven Democrats were for him in 1896 so they were for him in 1900."

Mr. Bryan in prefacing his remarks referred to his former visit to the city. He did not directly refer to the student demonstration on the city green in 1896, but his words were so pointed as to indicate that he recalled it. The subject of his address was "Trusts, Money and Imperialism."

Bryan In Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 25.—Colonel William J. Bryan was banqueted by the Robert Davis association at their clubhouse in this city last night, after which he delivered a political speech before a large crowd in St. Mary's hall. Colonel Bryan was escorted to Jersey City at 6:30 by Congressman William D. Daly and City Attorney Minturn of Hoboken. They were taken in a carriage to the clubhouse of the Robert Davis association, and dinner was served immediately. Mayor Hoos of Jersey City presided, and 30 men of local prominence were seated at the table with Colonel Bryan.

SKELETONS UNEARTHED.

Supposed to Be Those of Soldiers From British Prison Ships.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The bleached bones of about a dozen skeletons were unearthed yesterday at the Brooklyn navy yard by laborers Charles R. Steeger of 85 Bleecker street and James Johnson of 247 Ryerson street while they were engaged in digging an extension for warehouse No. 33. Rear Admiral John W. Philip has given directions that the skeletons be buried in Fort Greene along with the bones of the prison ship martyrs of the Revolutionary war, as it is presumed that those discovered yesterday belonged to heroes of the same period.

One of the darkest blots on the conduct of the Revolutionary war by the British was the inhuman treatment dealt out to Continental prisoners on board these prison hulks. In some instances they are charged with having set them on fire while still occupied by the unfortunate captives of the American cause, thus destroying the lives of thousands. Prisoners who gradually wasted to death on board were given burial on the banks of the ancient Wallabout creek. In the year 1808, seven years after the establishment of the Brooklyn navy yard, eight piles of human bones were taken from the soil of the reservation and deposited by the Tammany society a short distance from the yard. Afterward they were given burial in Fort Greene, and for years Brooklyn organizations have been bravely struggling to get congress to authorize the completion of a monument in that park to the memory of the martyred dead.

Mrs. Conger Returning to China.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Conger, wife of the United States minister to China, is returning to China, having been in the west visiting friends. During a call here upon Mrs. Eddy she related that the empress dowager recently held a reception at which the wives of all the foreign ministers were invited. She entertained them in a most cordial manner, an event never before known in Chinese history. As a mark of special courtesy to the United States she drank tea from the same "love cup" with Mrs. Conger and at the banquet said through her interpreter to the ladies present, "All one family."

A Transport From Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—The United States transport City of Peking has arrived from Manila via Nagasaki. On board the Peking were a large number of naval and army officers. In the steerage were 170 men returned to this country from the Philippines for various reasons. The Peking also brought the bodies of 156 soldiers, including that of Commander James W. Carlin, U. S. N., who died Dec. 31 of peritonitis. The bodies of the dead soldiers will be taken off and conveyed to the cemetery at the Presidio.

A Fatal Fall.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Fifteen-year-old Margaret Lewis of Millport was killed yesterday by a horse backing the buggy in which she was riding with her father over an embankment between Millport and Horseheads. Her skull was fractured.

MORMONS SCOURGED.

Congressman Landis Bitterly Arraigns the Apostles.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The second day's debate in the house upon the Roberts case was less dramatic than that of Tuesday. The galleries were almost as crowded, but the ladies were less demonstrative. The president's pastor, Rev. Dr. Bristol, was in the executive gallery the greater portion of the afternoon listening to the arguments. Mr. Roberts was not present during the day. Had he been he would have heard the most scathing excoriation of the Mormons ever delivered upon the floor of the house. Mr. Landis of Indiana, the young orator who distinguished himself during the last congress in an oratorical duel with Mr. Johnson of his state, won new laurels. He charged that Utah had been admitted to the Union as a result of a Mormon conspiracy and reviewed the history of the apostles of the church, whom he charged with living in open and flagrant violation of the statute against polygamy to show that they had basely broken their solemn pledge to the government.

Routine business occupied the attention of the senate in a brief session. The resolution offered Tuesday by Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota calling upon the president for information regarding the treaty entered into with the sultan of Sulu was passed after Mr. Pettigrew had made an attack upon the administration for entering into an agreement which, he said, authorized slavery. An extended debate was precipitated by a conference report on the census administrative bill, but the census committee gained its point, and the measure was sent back to conference.

Ex-Representative Bennett of New York has been nominated for the secretaryship of the senate by the Republicans.

JEALOUS OF AMERICA.

French Industries Threatened by Our Doings in Turkey.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The Havas agency publishes a letter from its agent in Constantinople expatiating upon what he describes as "the efforts of American commerce to establish itself in Turkey in a way which is threatening French industries." The correspondent goes on to say:

"Not only has the American consul succeeded in establishing a direct steamship line between the United States and Constantinople, but he is now actively working for the success of an enterprise which the commercial world is following with great interest."

He then proceeds to describe a "scheme to install a sort of permanent exposition of American products," and adds:

"It is impossible to ignore the fact that the project contains the elements of success, and the Americans, being practical men who are not afraid to take risks and work on a large scale, will probably succeed."

White House Reception.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President and Mrs. McKinley gave a brilliant reception at the White House last night in honor of the judiciary. There was a very large attendance, about 2,500 guests having been invited, including a large portion of resident society and many out of town visitors. The guests of honor, the judges of the supreme court and their ladies, assisted the president and Mrs. McKinley in receiving the guests in the blue parlor, as also did the members of the cabinet, the members of the Philippine commission and a number of senators and others with the ladies of their families. The reception lasted from 9 to 11 o'clock. The floral decorations were on the usual elaborate and tasteful scale, the conservatory was open for the inspection of the visitors and the Marine band played during the evening.

Antiprizefighting Bill.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—The codes committee of the assembly gave a hearing yesterday on Assemblyman Lewis' bill, which calls for the entire repeal of the so called Horton law, which permits prizefighting in the state. Petitions and memorials from the citizens of Franklin, Wayne and Clinton counties urging the committee to report the bill favorably were presented by the assembly representatives of these respective counties.

Is Macrum Kruger's Envoy?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The arrival of ex-Consul Charles E. Macrum in Washington from Pretoria is expected to solve some puzzling questions. It is admitted about the state department that there will be no surprise if it should turn out that he has become a citizen of the Transvaal and that he left Pretoria for the purpose of reaching the United States as a consular or diplomatic representative of President Kruger.

Lawton to Rest In Arlington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Arrangements have been practically completed for the transportation of the remains of General Lawton, which are expected to arrive at San Francisco in a few days on the transport Thomas, to this city, where the interment is to be made at the Arlington National cemetery. The remains of Major John A. Logan, which are on the same vessel, are to be taken to Youngstown, O., for interment.

A Task For the New Cabinet.

VIENNA, Jan. 25.—Acting in conformity with the desire of Emperor Francis Joseph, the new cabinet, headed by Dr. von Koerber, will undertake the task of effecting conciliation in the coal miners' dispute. Pressure will be brought to bear upon the powerful mine owners who refuse conciliation while the workmen remain on strike.

Roosevelt at Union College.

SCHENECTADY, Jan. 25.—Governor Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to deliver the honorary chancellor's oration at the commencement of Union college next June. At the semiannual meeting of the trustees of Union Hon. Daniel S. Lamont and William Rankine of New York were elected life trustees.

Engineer Injured.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Fred Eck, a flagman on the Ontario and Western railroad, failing to stop a rapidly approaching train near Fallsburg with a lantern, threw the lantern through the cab window as the engine passed by Engineer Burke was cut in the face by flying glass, but stopped the train, avoiding a wreck.

Exposition Secretary's Salary Raised

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—The assembly has passed the bill authorizing the Paris exposition commissioners to increase the salary of Secretary Griffith from $2,500 to $5,000.

BIG RAILROAD DEAL.

Fitchburg Line Goes to the Boston and Maine.

MASSACHUSETTS SELLS AT PAR.

Governor Crane and His Council Make What Is Generally Thought a Good Bargain—Legislature Is Likely to Ratify.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—The legislature willing, within the next six months the Fitchburg railroad, one of the great transportation lines of New England, which for 25 years has been practically under the control of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, will become a part of the Boston and Maine railroad and will, if the hopes and desires of Governor Crane and his council who sanction the transfer are fulfilled, prove of the greatest benefit to the city and port of Boston as well as to the state itself. The action of the governor and council yesterday was somewhat unexpected, in view of their refusal only a week ago to express any view whatever on a proposed lease between the two great properties and of the action of the state directors against such a lease. A substantial offer, however, was made to the governor for the 50,000 shares of the common stock of the road which the state has held as security for the cash advanced in the building of the familiar Hoosac tunnel, and after consulting and obtaining the approval of the council the governor consented to sell the stock and take in payment $5,000,000 in 3 per cent 50 year gold bonds of the Boston and Maine railroad. As a proviso, however, the governor stipulated that the legislature must approve of this sale and the subsequent lease.

In view of the proposed lease of the Boston and Albany to the New York Central, which is also before the legislature for approval, the action of the governor and council is generally regarded as a shrewd business move, although there is some doubt whether the selling of the stock is contrary to the act of the legislature passed seven years ago, which contemplated keeping the stock in the possession of the commonwealth and not giving it up to a rival road. The evident intent of this legislation was to prevent just such a disposition of the securities as the governor has sanctioned. How the legislature will view it remains to be seen.

In brief, the state trustees, backed by the governor and council, have succeeded in obtaining par for stock which only a week ago was quoted at 30 and have substituted for a nondividend paying security bonds paying a yearly interest of 3 per cent. Whether the governor and council had the right to make such a transaction in view of the act of 1893 remains for the legislature to say, and it is generally conceded that the move was a good one and that the action of today will be ratified by the general court. Comment at the statehouse after the governor's action was known seemed to indicate that the ratification of the sale and lease would not be made without opposition.

A Chance For Sheldon.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25.—Edward and George Meeks, lynched on Saturday night at Fort Scott, were buried in Oak Grove cemetery here yesterday. The funeral took place at the home of Mrs. Edward Meeks, widow of one of the men. Dr. Stephen A. Northrup, pastor of the First Baptist church, who preached the sermon, condemned the mob's act and said: "Kansas, especially that part where this crime was committed, is a good field, it seems to me, for the author of 'In His Steps' to put into execution his ideas of saving men. It might be well for the Rev. C. M. Sheldon to personally superintend the reformation of Fort Scott, for it does appear that that part of the world is sorely in need of Christianity."

Sunday Laws In Baltimre.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25.—The crusade against violations of the Sunday laws begun a few weeks ago by the ministers' associations of various denominations is about to bear fruit, and next Sunday, as well as succeeding ones, will probably find the spirit as well as the letter of the blue laws rigidly enforced. Little or no effort has been made to compel shopkeepers to observe the Sabbath, except saloon keepers, since 1891. The police department throws the blame for this laxity upon the grand jury, who, they say, when arrests were made took little or no notice of the cases presented to them.

Roosevelt Wins the Fight.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—A large proportion of the leading Republicans of the legislature are declaring that Senator Platt has forsaken Louis F. Payn. This is the latest news regarding the contest over the office of superintendent of the insurance department. It is also asserted that Governor Roosevelt has selected a Republican of high standing as Mr. Payn's successor. No well informed person here now has any doubt that the senate will confirm the name to be sent in by the governor.

Alaskan Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The postoffice department has opened bids for Alaskan mail service during the coming summer. The service from San Francisco via St. Michael's to points along the Yukon river and to Dawson and Circle City will be continued. Four round trips will be made. A like service from Seattle will remain in force, three round trips being made. All classes of mail matter will be carried by the steamers making these trips, an innovation in this service.

One of the Spartan Band.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 25.—Edward A. Frost, deputy collector of internal revenue and county clerk, is dead at the family residence on Plymouth avenue, aged 64. In 1880 Mr. Frost was a delegate from this district to the Chicago Republican convention. He never wavered in casting his vote for Grant and was presented with a gold medal which was struck bearing the figures "306."

Assumptionists Fined.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The trial of the 12 Assumptionist Fathers before the correctional tribunal resulted in their sentence to 16 francs' fine, and the court decreed the dissolution of the order. The proceedings closed without incident.

Millions For Liquor Privileges.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—The report of the state excise commissioner shows that the liquor law receipts for the year were $12,643,592.

Legal Value of Youthful Life.

It has been regarded as almost inevitable that the Legislature would be called upon to amend the law under which the Supreme Court has held that the loss of a child's life involves only such damages to the parents as can be proved are pecuniary. As a child is seldom the sources of revenue to its parent, the highest award that the Supreme Court permits to be allowed the grieved plaintiff is $1. This interpretation of law has brought about a world of severe criticism upon the judiciary of the State. A bill which Assemblyman Tennant, of Hudson county, has drawn up, is designed to obviate this condition of affairs. Assemblyman Tennant's bill provides that "in every such action the jury shall give such damages as they shall deem fair and just with reference to the loss and suffering of the widow or widower and next of kin resulting from such death."

It does appear to be a rather shocking condition when the courts permit heavy pecuniary damages to be awarded men for the loss of animals ranging in importance from goats to horses, as have been the case several times, and deny to the bereaved parents the financial balm which they ask for from negligent corporations whose facilities often times cause the tragic and pitiable ending of juvenile lives.

Assemblyman Tennant's bill will undoubtedly win the support of those who are moved in the cause of humanity, but as corporations are generally regarded to be soulless the latter will probably do what they can to defeat the measure that will threaten their exchequer in case a youthful life is ended through a fatality for which they are held responsible.

Good Laws Proposed.

Assembly Benny has introduced two measures in the Legislature that will, if they are permitted to pass by the Republican majority, make the way clear for municipal ownership of gas and electric lighting plants. At the present there is no law that authorizes a municipality to undertake the establishment of such enterprises. Mr. Benny's first bill permits any city to own and operate such plants, and empowers them to issue bonds to pay for the expense neccessary to such an end. The other bill authorizes any city to purchase or condemn for public use any gas or electric light plant, with all the grants and privileges, for public use.

Here are a pair of bills that may not become laws at this session of the Legislature, but the ideas they propose will be inculcated into the statutes of the State in time. The influence obtained by corporations under the present state of affairs will undoubtedly be sufficient to kill both of Assembly Benny's measures, but as time goes on the belief in municipal ownership of all utilities depending on public privileges for operation continues to grow, and it is inevitable that public sentiment will force the proposed laws upon the statute book eventually.

According to the Philadelphia Record more than ten thousand bills and resolutions have already been introduced in Congress, and there remain still other thousands to go on the official files. Few of these proposed measures of legislation are of national interest or concern. Probably two-thirds of the entire number relate to claims of persons upon the Federal Treasury, and this sort of legislation is easily expedited. The Senate, for example, has upon occasion passed eighty bills in a single minute. But where consideration in committee is required or discussion is evoked there is but the faintest possible chance for enactment. For the few preferred measures there is the test of political exigency; and all that is not politics is log-rolling, adds the Record.

In introducing a bill in the New York Legislature to provide that no foreign labor shall be employed on the big rapid transit tunnel which New York city is soon to commence building, Maurice M. Minton, the author of the measure, stated that Italy is already flooded with circulars setting forth the fact that there will be plenty of work in the great metropolis, and that a flood of undesirable immigrants is to be expected. The circulars, Mr. Minton says, were put out by the transatlantic steamship companies.

The testy manner which Governor Voorhees evinces over the criticism of the management of the State Industrial School for Girls affords the Democrats in the Legislature a chance to worry the chief executive, and Assemblyman Abbett has lost no time in taking advantage of the opportunity. He has introdueed a resolution in the Assembly that a special committee of five members be appointed to investigate the charges of mismanagement of the institution.

To advertise continuously is to advertise well, says the Philadelphia Record. As it is desirable to do business every day, so it is necessary to use the public prints daily. The merchant who asks is the one who receives. In these three sentences may be found the sermons which the aspiring business man needs to guide him to his goal.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest to Plainfield.

Attorney General Grey found no less than four good and sufficient reasons for declaring the Supervisor of Bills law unconstitutional. It is somewhat strange that none of these objections should have suggested themselves last winter to the able lawyers of the Senate and Assembly or to the Governor. The incident suggests that it might be well for both legislative and executive departments of the State government to acquire a more intimate acquaintance with the State's organic law.—Newark News.

* * * * *

Senator Reed has flouted the charge that a deal was made in his contest in Somerset by obtaining the appointment of a Republican Law Judge for his county. It was only natural that he should sustain the good record made by Judge Bartine, even though the Judge is a Democrat, and if the precedent were established that the County Courts should become non-partisan he doubtless felt he should set the pace with a fitting candidate. As the Governor arose to the occasion of the survival of Republicanism in the County Courts, however, Senator Reed deferred to his judgment and named Lewis Schenck to succeed Judge Bartine. In this sensible action the Senator purges himself of the charge of dealing for Democratic support and at the same time brings to the bench a Law Judge of excellent character and attainments.—New York Press.

Getting Ready for English Services.

The announcement given out sometime ago that St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church was intending to add English services, has caused a demand for them. An order for new books has been placed, a class of singers are being trained and other preparations are being made for this branch of the work in the parish which is constantly proving its usefulness.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, January 25.—The three days' bazaar to be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 15th, 16th and 17th, at Apgar Hall by the ladies of the Epworth League of the M. E. church gives promise of being one of the interesting social functions of the season. Besides being plenty of good things to eat there will be provided a musical entertainment of pleasing variety. Tickets are now on sale with the members of the church.

The Dunellen Banjo Club and Ladies' Orchestra are to give another of their splendid entertainments next Thursday evening in Apgar Hall. Those who attended the concert given by the organization last fall will recall the interesting programme that was furnished. The music is of a superior order and the members of the orchestra are artists of high order.

The heaters have been placed in the handsome new residence of Mrs. Wm. E. Terry on Main street. The finishing touches are being put on and the interior made ready for occupancy by the first of March. It is one of the most complete and modern dwellings in Dunellen.

The dinner and ball of the deaf mutes at Taylor's Hotel tonight gives promise of being an unique affair. It is expected there will be a number of ladies and gentlemen present who are fortunate in being in possession of all their faculties.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 25.—The residents of the village are anxiously awaiting some word from the Grand Jury as to whether any indictment has been found against the local hotel keepers who were charged with Sunday selling.

No meeting of the Sacred Literature Society of the Baptist church was held last evening. It has been decided to discontinue the meetings while the revival is going on in the church. This is the third week of the meetings, and Mr. Shott feels very much encouraged by the support given him by the members of the church.

Mrs. John Robinson, who has been seriously ill since Christmas, has so far recovered that it is hoped by her friends that she will soon be able to be around again as usual shortly.

The teachers of the Methodist Sunday-school have organized a Bible study class and will meet in the church every Thursday evening.

The light epidemic of chicken pox which has been prevalent among the children in town for several weeks has about died out.

James Johnston and Judge Clark were drawn as jurors upon the murder trial now being held at the Courthouse.

Mrs. Harry Hall, of Fanwood, has returned from a visit with relatives and friends in Massachusetts.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Critical tastes pleased at Peck's.

—The Borough Board of Health will hold a regular meeting on Monday evening, February 5th.

—There will be a dance in Red Men's Hall next Saturday evening which will be one of a series.

—Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue grocers, are headquarters for the celebrated hockdale print butter.

—Woodhull & Martin, the dry goods merchants, are displaying a fine line of dress goods in all the popular shades and prices.

—Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher, is making some notable improvements at his place of business, whereby he will have more room.

Free Lectures, Debates, Etc.

Friday mornings, at 11 o'clock, the Plainfield Business College has a lecture on some practical subject, a debate on some living issue, or some other exercise of interest and profit to the students and all who choose to come in. Last Friday morning there was interesting debate on the merits of the war between England and the Boers. A week from tomorrow Lawyer Swackhamer is expected to give an interesting lecture.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cts. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Saturday afternoon and evening "Hi Hubbard," the latest and greatest of all rural comedy dramas which have been so successful in New York recently, will be presented at Music Hall for the first time, coming direct from the New York engagement, where the play and company received the unqualified endorsement of the entire metropolitan press. It is a beautiful story of New England farm life, somewhat on the order of "The Old Homestead," "Way Down East" and "The Village Postmaster." The company carry the entire scenic production which was used last week in New York, and is said to be very elaborate One of the many features is the famous "Sleepy Hollow Band" and Concert Orchestra." There will be a bargain matinee for the ladies and children at prices reduced to 15 and 25 cents.

* * * * * * *

The enduring popularity of William Gillette's famous comedy, "All the Comforts of Home," was evidenced in New York recently, when one of the leading metropolitan theatres selected it as the Christmas week attraction, and put out the standing room sign at each performance. The company producing the comedy here at Music Hall Tuesday next, comes direct from New York, with new scenery, elaborate costumes, and all other complete equipment, such as Mr. Frohman gave the original production at the Empire Theatre, Miss Myrtle Edwards, whose vivacious acting and costly Worth gowns are receiving much attention from the press, heads the organization, and she is surrounded by capable people selected purely because of their qualifications and fitness for the brightly contrasting roles of this delightfully humorous play.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Florida oranges and grape fruit, fresh arrival, at Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue grocers.

—In this week's issue of patents granted to American inventors 10 were granted to residents of this State

—Business of importance will be considered this evening at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.

—Next week Tuesday evening the Senior Order of American Mechanics will hold a public meeting to which their friends will be invited.

—Several new cases of rare birds have just been added to the collection at the cigar store of M. C. Dobbins, and the public is invited to see them.

—L. L. Manning, the marble dealer, West Front street, is making some improvements about his yard to facilitate matters in the movement of monuments.

—"An Evening With the Masters" has been arranged by the Epworth League of the First M. E. church to be held in Vincent chapel tomorrow evening.

—The Order of Chosen Friends are gradually increasing in membership. At the meeting held Tuesday evening another application for membership was received.

—The Plainfield Street Railway Company is making improvements at the car house to accommodate the cars, some of which have to be left outside all night.

—A cordial invitation is extended to all persons interested to attend the Christian Endeavor Society meeting to be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening.

—The W. C. T. U. expect to meet for the first time in their new place in the Babcock building, next Sunday. It is hoped that the change will be effected by that time.

—Why take your laundry to be done in New York, when the City Steam and Hand Laundry will call for and deliver it free of charge. They do all kinds of the finest up to date laundry work.

—The postponed progressive patch work party of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will be held tomorrow evening at the residence of M. E Dwight, Rockview avenue.

—The Women of the Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross have sent out invitations for a tea to be given in the Parish House, corner Mercer and Washington avenues, Friday, Jan. 26th, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

—Mayor Smalley is authority for the assertion that Somerset street will be widened and that one or two persons cannot very well prevent such an improvement. It is reported that commissioners will be appointed at an early date to condemn land, that is if the property owners do not sign for the widening. It is also understood that the commissioners will offer their services gratuitously. This they will do to assist in the grand improvement.

ADOPTED DAUGHTER CONTESTS.

Wants a Share in the Estate of Her Late Stepmother.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 25.—A will contest was begun yesterday in Union County Orphans' Court. The contestant is Miss Catherine Evers, the adopted daughter of the late Anna Evers, of Elizabethport, who left an estate worth about $10 000. Of this $3,700 is in stock in the Republic Savings and Loan Association of Newark, and the balance of the estate consists of a mortgage for $2,000, and property on Bond street, Elizabethport, in which the deceased resided. This property was bequeathered to the children of a Mrs. Adams at Elizabethport, who was not a relative of the testatrix. The remainder of the estate is disposed of in several bequests, the principal one being $500 given to Rev. Martin Gessner, rector of St. Patrick's church, Elizabethport. Nothing is left to the adopted daughter.

After the taking of some testimony in the contest Judge Vail said he would continue the hearing next Wednesday in the Orphans' Court, when he hoped all the evidence would be submitted. The contest is based on the ground that undue influence was brought to bear on Mrs. Evers to change her mind and add a codicil to the will by which a legacy of $300 to the contestant was cancelled.

Dr. John Schindler Dead

Dr. John Schindler, one of the oldest veterinary surgeons of Central New Jersey, died at the Alexian Brothers Hospital, at Elizabeth, Tuesday. He was eighty-two years old, and had a life right to the Bloodgood farm in Cranford where he lived. Dr. Schindler was well-known by the country people for miles around. His funeral was held this morning at 9:30 from the St. Michael's Catholic church, Cranford. The remains were brought to the St. Mary's cemetery in this city for interment. Dr. Schindler is survived by four sons and two daughters, all of Cranford.

HINTS FOR THE HOME-MAKER.

BY ELIZABETH LYON.

The absurdly short lived utility of the pretty lamp shades of satin paper that have been so popular and which were such good covers for the ugly old fashioned white china lamp globes has driven a charming little woman almost to distraction, her complaint being that after hours of labor she had only succeeded in making something that was bound to look dull and seedy at the end of a few weeks. How she happened on her novel idea is something she cannot explain, but the result was not only quite original and durable, but it was beautiful as well.

AN ARTISTIC LAMP SHADE.

The material used was an ordinary red and yellow cotton handkerchief of Turkish pattern about 15 inches square, a piece of red sateen to line the handkerchief, 1¾ yards of cotton fringe about three inches wide, costing 10 cents per yard, and a thin cotton cord and tassel to match, at about 6 cents. If you would like to make such a shade, get these materials and then proceed as follows:

Place the handkerchief, right side up, on a smooth surface and lay the lining, face down, over the handkerchief. Be sure that both pieces of material are without wrinkles, for the success of the shade will depend wholly on the neatness in making. Then baste all edges closely to avoid shifting and sew by machine. Remove the bastings and, if it is necessary, press the goods with a hot iron. Fold the goods into quarters and cut out a right angle section of a circle at the intersection of the creases. This will leave a circular hole in the middle of the goods when unfolded which will fit over the top of the china lamp globe. Turn the goods inside out and blind stitch the raw edges, having first turned them toward each other.

Sew the fringe around the outer edges of the square, make a double gathering 1½ inches below the edges of the circle and draw in to fit the top of the globe. Tie the cord and tassel in place.

The complete shade will cost less than 50 cents and can be adapted to a wire frame as well as the china globe.

How to Make a Shirt Waist Box.

"It is such a nuisance to care for the freshly laundered shirt waists unless one has much closet space and many shelves that I simply had to think of something to hold them," said a natty little lady who is always contriving something to ameliorate the small comforts of an expensive city apartment.

She had an upholsterer make this "something" for her, but any ingenious woman can easily do the same thing at trifling cost.

If you happen to have a recess window, all the better. Get a large wooden shoe case from an accommodating dry goods house with a smooth fitting cover the exact length of the box. Have the box short enough to fit into the recess easily.

Remove the cover. It will probably consist of a number of loose boards. If this is the case, you will have to get a few narrow boards with length equal to the breadth of the box and use them as crosspieces on which to nail the boards, thus making a strong, serviceable cover.

Line the box, also the inside of the cover, with white cotton "paper lining," the glossy kind, bringing the material well over the edges and fasten the goods firmly with gimp tacks. Use tiny brass headed tacks where it is necessary on the inside. Either a hair cushion or the thick part of an old discarded comforter will serve for padding on the top of the cover; tuft it regularly.

For the outside material use light blue denim with a running design or any preferable color to match the other furnishings. Lay the goods in plaits around the sides and ornament with large brass headed tacks. Finish the edge of the cover to correspond and fasten it in place with three fancy, long, brass hinges.

This ornamental shirt waist box can be used as a window seat or as an ottoman standing out in the room.

A Novel Use For Broken China.

The first qualification necessary to make the following pedestal of unique design is that you must be a clever woman of many friends. And you must not hesitate to call upon them freely. Tell them that you are going to make an oriental pedestal and that you want all their old and discarded china.

It does not matter how chipped or broken it is so long as there is a bit of color on every scrap. If you can carry your point, you will probably get more pieces than you really need. But don't mind that. Take them all and save them to give back to those same friends. They will want them when they see your artistic creation.

A second requisite is a devoted brother, father or husband who will do almost anything for you. Have him "beg, borrow or steal" a piece of clay drain pipe. A new one is best, but if you cannot get that take an old one and be content. Buy from a builder's supply 15 cents' worth of mortar and a 25 cent bottle of gilt paint from a hardware store. Get the kind that comes with the gold powder and the oil separate. It not only wears better than that which is already prepared, but it is more economical to use. Also get 5 cents' worth of putty from a paint store. Be sure that it is very soft. Should it harden before you have finished with the pedestal, work in a little oil. Crude oil is the best. This is an unpleasant task, so it is well to be particular and get it soft at the start. Provide yourself with an upholsterer's tack hammer, one that has a wedge shaped end, and a small trowel.

Having all the materials at hand, I should advise taking them into an unused room, where everything can remain undisturbed just as you leave it if you should be called away from the work.

Stand the drain pipe on a low box, so that you can work all around it while sitting on the floor. Break the china into small pieces, using the wedge shaped end of the hammer. To get the best result it is well to strike the reverse side of the pieces. By doing so the edges will be clean and free from chips on the right side. The more irregular the bits the more beautiful will be the effect.

Arrange the various colors harmoniously beside you on the floor, have the trowel and mortar within easy reach and gather your patience.

Lay on the mortar a foot at a time, beginning at the bottom, and press the pieces firmly in place. Fit them quite closely, being careful to remove the mortar that rises in ridges between them. Have no regard for design, but do be careful that the colors do not clash.

When you have covered the whole outside surface of the pipe, open the windows and let it dry slowly. Artificial heat is apt to dry the mortar too quickly at first, and the pieces are liable to drop out in a short while.

After three or four days get your putty ready. Point all the joints and let the putty dry slowly for a few days. When it is firm to the touch, mix the gold paint, a small quantity at a time, and cover all the pointings.

An ordinary large flowerpot that fits well over the stand and decorated after the same fashion makes an artistic finish. The whole effect is beautiful, and it has cost less than $1.

A movement is afoot for the creation of a magistrate's court, which shall be a children's court purely, where none but children's cases will be tried. Its object is to keep the younger separate from the older offenders, many of whom are vicious and take pleasure in contaminating these little people's minds.

HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE

THEY SHOOT TO KILL.

The Women of Oom Paul's Land Are Ready to Defend Their Homes Against Heavy Odds.

Oom Paul's warriors are receiving great assistance from their women.

A Boer girl learns to shoot as soon as she is old enough to lift a rifle, just as a southern girl learns to ride a horse. The Transvaal country is a plateau, rolling and surrounded by mountains. The plateau itself is interspersed with them, and deep gorges lie between the farms and intersect the country.

Upon these hills there is game, and, as the country is not thickly populated, it is the favorite pastime of the wealthier of the Boer people to make up hunting parties and go to shoot in the mountains, just as they do in this country, but with more opportunities.

The poorer of the Boer women tend their flocks upon these hills, though there are not many Boer shepherdesses. Among the Dutch the men do the work among the live stock and the women confine their outdoor labors to such small truck gardening as their space affords them.

At the first signal gun the Boer women were up and in arms. Many of these villages are situated off in the mountains like small towns in the mountains of the west of our own country. Highly educated, cultured, wealthy and beautiful, the women have, by the very nature of their surroundings, picked up out-door arts which women of the crowded cities of the east never know.

So with the Boer women. They have gone with their brothers to hunt and they know every inch of the country.

When the gun sounded which brought President Kruger, his son and his grandson out, that same gun fired the enthusiasm of the maids and matrons. They said that it was necessary to send their men off to war and they promised the men that they would defend their own households. As yet there has been little skirmish work done by the English, but there has been sufficient to show these Boer women the necessity of being on the alert.

The women of the Transvaal are remarkably well equipped as to uniform for the South African campaign. They own short skirts and warm convenient waists and snug hats. They also possess not only a knowledge of firearms, but the firearms themselves; the most modern implements are found there, and those who suppose that the old smoky rifles of long ago are the only ones in the Transvaal, should have a talk with the women.

This is not the first time that campaigning has been done by the fair sex.

During the war of the revolution none worked harder than the women of the colonies. If near a fort, they supplied the men with food and clothing If isolated, they defended themselves.

Owing to their early training, the Boer women are excellent markswomen; when they shoot they shoot to kill; and they generally kill. The climate of the country is such that they are very vigorous in body, and their Dutch lineage has endowed them with a constitution of iron. They show this in nerve and sight, and the man who sees a Boer woman with her rifle out for him would do well to shield himself; for he is in range of a sharpshooter.—Chicago Democrat.

Recipe for a Cheesecake.

If you want to make
A splendid cheesecake,
And one all tastes to please,
Your cook hereby pronounces
You need butter—two ounces
And double that amount of cheese.
Put 'em into a basin and beat 'em together
Until they are quite as light as a feather;
A sprinkle of currants, little salt, and pur-
paste,
Two eggs—then sugar and flavor to taste
When all of these have together been beaten,
In a quick oven bake it, then let it be eaten.

THE LINEN COLLAR.

How to Transform a Soiled, Crumpled One Into a Fresh One in Five Minutes.

Rail against linen collars as one will they hold a place for trim morning or street toilets that has not yet been filled by any of the numerous styles of neck lingerie exhibited in the shops just now. To transform a soiled, crumpled collar into a fresh, clean one may be made the work of a few moments without so much as a visit to kitchen or laundry. A cheap little affair that fits on the gas fixture or large lamp will insure a hot iron, and with the aid of a bit of white castile soap and a little powdered French chalk, a nice finish may be given to the linen. The latter, however, must not be confused with the high polish no longer desirable.

When the linen has been washed and starched in the usual way ("elastic" or cold water starch does away with the need of boiling water), place the collar on the ironing board well stretched, and just before applying the hot iron rub first with a damp cloth rubbed over with the soap, then with another upon which the chalk has been sprinkled. This application and the ironing is all to be done on the right side. Do not attempt to dry thoroughly while ironing, as this turns linen yellow, but finish by drying in the sun if there is no heat convenient. The use at the last of white castile soap and French chalk gives a coating to the linen that helps much in the washing, as after a few minutes' soaking in tepid water the dirt slips off without having penetrated the whole. This hint will be found a very practical one, as it insures against the ingrained dust and grease which is so difficult to deal with in quick laundry work. This does not, however, do away with the need of thorough rinsing.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

HEALTHFUL SLEEP.

It Cannot Be Secured Unless the Spring of the Bed Is Level and Properly Adjusted.

The most important element in solving the question of how shall we get the best and most refreshing sleep is that of the bed. If your bed or mattress it not right you will not get the best and most from your hours of repose. Every one knows that it is bad to sleep on your back, but it is even worse if the bed is such that your stomach is as high as your head and your feet are lower than both, as must be the case on too heavily wadded mattresses. On the other hand, if the spring is too yielding you will find that the heavy parts of the body make you lie in a kind of hollow, whether you sleep on your back or on your side. It is most unhealthful to have your feet so high as they are in this kind of bed, when you sleep on your back, and if you try to sleep on your side the spine is curved most uncomfortably and unhealthfully.

What then is to be done about it? The spring of the bed must either be made in several pieces, or be made up of spiral springs, so that all parts are independent of one another, and the springs at the center are stronger than those at the head and foot, because they have more weight to support. In this way it becomes possible for the tired man or woman to obtain the greatest possible amount of benefit from the hours devoted to sleep. If they will use a moderately hard mattress, of cotton or hair, never of feathers, and not too high a pillow, seeing that when they are in bed the body is not curled up in a knot by the poor springs and that the feet and back are in almost a straight line, the repose gained while lying either on the right or left side will prove refreshing and healthful.—Chicago Record.

Care of the Finger Nails.

Great attention should be paid to keeping the nails brushed at least twice a day, not with a stiff brush, but with a soft one, preferably a camel's hair brush, and the skin around the lower part should be kept down by rubbing with a soft towel. In this way the "moons" are exposed, and these are indicative both of health and beauty. The habit of running a pointed instrument around the nail under the flesh is not to be advised, as it makes the skin tender, and, if the material of the instrument is a cheap metal, sometimes brings on blood poison. The sides of the nails need clipping about once during the week. If they become stained wash them well with a pure soap, and after rinsing off the soap brush them with lemon juice.

The Dramatic Field

Rise of Brilliant Stars from the Lowly Paths of Life—The Story of Quo Vadis.

FROM canal-boy to president, from log cabin to the white house, this generation is familiar with. Those who study the history of the stage see like changes of fortune there. A short time ago Edna May was only a chorus girl from Syracuse. Now she is the talk of London. As the Salvation Army lass in "The Belle of New York" she has made a most pronounced hit. In the world's metropolis "The Belle of New York" has played for 700 consecutive nights, and, with the exception of one period, late last summer, when she took a short vacation, Edna has played her part continuously.

Another notable rise is that of Blanche Walsh, who plays with Melbourne McDowell, Fanny Davenport's husband, in Sardou's "Gismonda." Miss Walsh is a native of New York, and is fast acquiring fame in the city of her birth. It was not in an aristocratic quarter of the big town she drew her first breath; her early years were spent in the old Tombs prison, where her father was warden. From an early age she accompanied her parents to the theater, and early fell a victim to stage fever. When a mere slip of a girl she made her first appearance before the public, and has trod the boards ever since. Miss Walsh is one of the lucky few whose fame has come early in life.

The stage offers choice of careers to women with the proper talent; they may appear before the footlights in person, or they may write the words which those before the footlights utter. Of women playwrights, and successful ones at that, there are not a few. In America Madeline Lucette Riley, Martha Morton and Marguerite Merrington have won considerable fame and no inconsiderable incomes in this line of work. Mrs. Burnett, who belongs to both England and America, has realized more money from the dramatized version of her work than from the original. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" piled high her coffers; perhaps this success led her to attempt the role of dramatist, in which she appeared in last season's "A Lady of Quality." Madeline Lucette Riley's "An American Citizen," which Nat Goodwin plays, is well and widely known. Marguerite Merrington wrote "Capt. Letterblair," which E. H. Sothern produced, and Martha Morton's "Brother John" and "His Wife's Father" have given her place among the writers of successful plays.

"Quo Vadis" is a most decided financial success in Chicago. The business for one week, and that the holiday week, reached almost $14,000. Day and night the house is crowded, and two and three lines struggle at a time for precedence at the box office. "Quo Vadis" has been one of the best-selling books of the day, and that probably gives the play vogue; as did the novels "Trilby," "The Christian," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "A Gentleman of France," "The Little Minister," and "Ben Hur" give to their stage productions. The strong dramatic qualities in "Quo Vadis" make it specially adapted for the stage; with the added feature of music, there is a good reason why, apart from the fame of the book, the drama meets with success.

Joseph Haworth plays the part of Vinicius, and Arthur Forrest that of Petronius. The play opens in the house of Petronius, where Vicinius, the young patrician, informs his uncle that he loves Lygia, supposed daughter of Aulus Plautius, a Roman general. The scene changes to the home of Aulus, where Vicinius watches Lygia playing ball. The pretorian guard arrives to carry Lygia away to the palace of Nero, and Aulus, who threatens to kill her rather than see her dishonored at court, is overpowered. In the second act is shown an orgy in Nero's palace. Lygia is rescued from a drunken assault, and is taken away and put under the protection of the Christians, to whose faith she belongs. In the third act, which opens in the villa of Petronius, Vicinius tells of his search for Lygia among the Christians, and of the service given by the Apostle Peter. The act ends with the panorama of the burning of Rome, which is one of the sensations that attract people to the play. In the fourth act Nero's palace and Mammertine prison afford strong contrasts. In this act the sufferings of the Christians are shown in a harrowing realism. The climax is reached in the final act, where is given a view of the arena and the last conflict. Those who like horrors will have their tastes pandered to in "Quo Vadis."

How queer we mortals be, anyway. How many sides we show. The same sort of folks go to see "Quo Vadis" that go to "The Little Minister," and the two are as widely different as December and May. They plead it is the historical interest that draws them to the former, and the delineation of Scotch character and life to the latter; that it is for their intellectual improvement they attend the first, and their intellectual and emotional improvement the second. May be, may be.

Many folk, no doubt, will find the historical interest a strong feature in "The Only Way," the dramatized version of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." Long years ago it was we read that stirring story, but we remember nothing since that has so impressed us with the inevitableness, the mercilessness, the hatred of those dreadful days of the French revolution. You know how it begins. The miserable, downtrodden peasants, who might hope for no redress when their women were dishonored at the caprice of the noble. Downtrodden peasants, whose backs must bend lower and lower that the senseless luxury of the aristocrats may increase. The reader himself feels a blind hatred for those oppressors, almost sympathizes with the feelings that culminate in those atrocious deeds. Grim Madame Defarge with her ceaseless knitting, is symbolic of Fate spinning the inextricable web, nd when the pleasure loving lords and ladies are entangled therein, one thinks rather of justice than of mercy.

The book is a great one, and the play follows pretty closely the lines of the story. That the novel, which was written 40 years ago, had dramatic possibilities Dickens himself knew, and made a journey to Paris to consult Regnier, manager of the Comedie Francaise, in regard to a dramatization of the work; but, so far as is known, no attempt was made to place it on the French stage. Dickens was years and years in collecting and arranging materials for the book, and smallest details in it were most carefully verified.

Just now, when the Dreyfus affair has stirred up the world in regard to the manner of man represented by the Frenchman, it is not a bad time to present plays dealing with French life and history. "More Than Queen" and "The Only Way" may aid a little in the understanding of the volatile French folk.

"The Only Way" has met with approval from the critics in both England and America. When it was brought out in London last season, in spite of seemingly desperate obstacles, it proved a great success. Sir Henry Irving was ill and his theater closed. A young actor of the Irving company, Martin Harvey, secured the house and produced the play. It made a great hit, and the success continued when it was removed to the Prince of Wales' theater. In this country, the play was produced last September by Henry Miller at the Herald Square theater in New York, with Miller in the role of Sidney Carton; Miss Margaret Dale, Lucie; J. H. Stoddard, Mr. Lorry, and Daniel Harkins Dr. Mannette. After a long and prosperous engagement at the Herald Square, "The Only Way" was transferred to the Garden theater and proved a strong attraction there. In Chicago the Columbia theater presents the play, and in that city it is found the name of Dickens is still a name to conjure by.

Mr. Wain's emphatic testimony for the Sovereign Rheumatism Cure:
Sovereign Remedy Co.:
Gentlemen,—Have suffered from Sciatica all last winter—could not work—tried doctors and medicines without avail. Last week I heard of the wonderful Sovereign Rheumatism Remedy, called and obtained a sample bottle, used it according to directions, and am thankful to say I am a cured man; all pains have ceased, and I cannot sufficiently thank you. I called on my doctor, and told him I was cured, and he said he "never expected to see me a well man again."
Shall be pleased to satisfy any sufferers from Rheumatism of the value of your wonderful Sovereign Rheumatism Remedy.

WAYS OF THE COYOTE.

He Is a Cunning Midnight Marauder and His Speed Exceeds Even That of the Fox.

One of the interesting and typical animals of the far west is the American wild dog, lowland wolf or coyote, Canis latrans, it being known under these and other titles. While a very common animal, it is rarely well figured in the books, and is made to look more fox-like than wolfish. A wolf the coyote is, a lowland form, and every traveler through the west who has wandered from the beaten paths or visited small places knows it well.

"Don Coyote" is essentially a night animal, and my observations of the living animal were made chiefly in the saddle in full chase after him in the dull early morning, and I can commend his speed, which is greater than that of the fox. When the sun goes down Don Coyote comes out of his haunts in the foothills and wanders down around or into the settlements. He lies in the spurs of the hills and mountains in southern California, as in the San Gabriel valley, in some safe and inaccessible point, and surveys the country, his vision perhaps directed to some henroost or the home of some fat turkey. At such times I have occasionally seen him, his fur an almost perfect protection in its resemblance to the rocks that surrounded him; and that he recognizes this was shown in one instance when I rode within 30 feet of one, pretending to look directly ahead, but watching him out of one corner of my eye. He crouched as I approached and seemed confident that I did not see him imperceptibly moving, ever keeping his head pointed toward me; and few would have recognized in the gray rock a coyote.

While the coyote hunts singly in towns or villages, he runs in packs in the open, and it is here that he demonstrates his skill and cunning. A friend of mine observed a pack of coyotes on the edge of the desert manipulating a jack rabbit. They swept across the country in a line, soon starting a hare, then formed in two parallel lines about 200 feet apart. There was a regular plan of action, and none of the coyotes seemed overexcited, but when the hare was started they wheeled into columns like soldiers, the leading coyote running at the top of his speed. After a few moments he dropped to the rear and a fresh coyote took the lead; and this was kept up until the hare was run down. The chase was a silent one. This method recalls the wild dogs of Australia, or dingo.

While the coyote is invariably written down as a coward, and it is true that either singly or in packs he will not attack man or beast larger than himself, when cornered he is a vicious fighter. I have seen one fight off a pack of grayhounds, wounding them so that to save the dogs the hunter was obliged to finish the animal. The coyote in this case had run at least two miles at race horse speed, and when reached by the hunters was backed up against a rock, snapping his jaws at his crazed antagonist, his teeth sounding like a steel trap as they came together, and taking a piece of flesh whenever they hit the mark.

Don Coyote can be tamed, and I knew of one instance where a herder kept one that was apparently as tame as a dog. The near allies of the coyote are the maikongs or crab-eating dogs of South America, that hunt in packs and resemble the coyote in appearance. There are several species in South America that call to mind the coyote, as the Guara Canis jubatus, a large, powerful, ferocious dogwolf five feet in length. Like the coyote, it frequents the lowland countries, especially in Paraguay.—Prof. C. F. Holder, in Scientific American.

Used In Place of Coins.

Chocolate is still used as money in certain parts of the interior of South America, as are also cocoanuts and eggs. According to Prescott the money of the Aztecs consisted of quills full of gold dust and bags of chocolate grains. Before the introduction of coined money into Greece, skewers or spikes of iron and copper were used, six being a drachm or handful. The small, hard shell known as the cowrie is still used in parts of India and Africa in place of coin. Whales' teeth are used by the Fijians, red feathers by some of the South Sea islanders and salt in parts of Abyssinia. In parts of India cakes of tea and in China pieces of silk pass as currency. Oxen still form the circulating medium among many of the Zulus and Kaffirs.

Pussy Adopted a Rabbit.

A curious instance of maternal instinct was exhibited the other day by a cat. Some of the officials of the Norfolk county asylum caught a young rabbit, which they gave to the cat, thinking that she would kill and eat it. To their astonishment puss did nothing of the kind; she adopted it and suckled it with her own offspring. Both the rabbit and its foster mother seemed to be perfectly happy together.

CULLEN DIDN'T MEAN TO

ADMITS HE HIT M'EVOY, BUT PLEADS EXTENUATION.

Quarrel Commenced When Beer Wagons, Which Each Drove, Collided—City Judge Runyon Suspended Sentence on Cullen.

Patrick Cullen and Michael McEvoy were once the best of friends. Their friendship came to a sudden and unsatisfactory close Monday evening which ended in Cullen knocking McEvoy down. Cullen had a hearing before City Judge Runyon this morning as a result.

Cullen is a special officer in the borough and drives for Mrs. Hoerster, beer bottler, while McEvoy holds a like position in the employ of Frank Linke. Both men were delivering beer on Richmond street Monday night.

Now Cullen and all his witnesses declare that McEvoy ran into Cullen's wagon, as the latter stood at the curb and upset it, and that McEvoy then drove on for some distance, finally turning back. When the two men met, Cullen accused his erstwhile friend of being the cause of the catastrophe. There were high words and finally Cullen knocked McEvoy down. He claims that he did not strike until McEvoy applied an insulting term.

Testimony of a remarkably contradictory character was given. One man swore that he was driving with McEvoy at the time of the accident, while McEvoy swore just as positively that he wasn't. Cullen pleaded guilty through his lawyer, Francis J. Blatz, of the firm of Murphy & Blatz, but explained what he considered extenuating circumstances. The Judge seemed to think so and so suspended sentence.

SPORTING.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Daily Press Bowling League.

	Games Won.	Games Lost.	High Score.
Roselle Casino.....	7	2	921
Westfield Club.....	6	4	866
Park Club.....	5	7	864
Cranford Casino....	4	11	863

Its now a question as to whether it will be Roselle or Westfield that will win the trophy this season in The Daily Press Bowling League. Roselle is in the lead at present but it's only a little margin a few games can change it. These two clubs will meet this evening on the Roselle alleys and a battle royal may be expected. Roselle took two games out of three when the two clubs met on the Westfield alleys and the Westfield boys will make a desperate effort to retrieve themselves when the clubs meet this week.

After that, Roselle comes to Plainfield for three games and is likely to win one and possibly two games. Then Cranford goes to Roselle which will probably mean three more victories for Roselle. Westfield has rolled three more games than Roselle and has, besides the Roselle game, only three more games on its schedule. They are to be rolled at home with the Park Club team for competitors.

STATE EDITORS.

They Will Meet in Trenton the Fifth of Next Month.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Editorial Association will be held at the Trenton House, Trenton, Monday, February 5th, at 11 a. m.

The following amendment to the constitution has been proposed by Colonel H. C. Page, of Bayonne:

"Strike out 'Trenton' as the place of annual meeting and insert 'at such place as may be designated by the executive committee of the association.'"

Jacob L. Bunnell, of the New Jersey Herald, Newton, will read a paper entitled "The Newspaper, its Relations with State and County Officials."

Thomas B. Appleget, of the Hightstown Gazette, will also read a paper on a topic of general interest.

The annual dinner will be served at 1:30 in the banquet room of the Trenton House, at the conclusion of which addresses will be delivered by Colonel A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, and Dr. S. Giffard Nelson, of the Brooklyn Eagle.

—There will be a regular meeting of the Borough Board of Education next Monday evening.

A BRITISH VICTORY.

Gen. Warren Has Captured Spion's Kop. So General Buller Reports

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, January 25.—All England is thrilled by the word Victory!

Gen. Buller has won. Gen. Warren has captured Spion's Kop.

The War Office has received this official despatch:

Spearman's Camp, Jan. 25, 12:10 Morning.—"Gen. Warren's troops last night occupied Spion's Kop, surprising the small garrison, who fled.

"It has been held by us all day, although we were heavily attacked, especially by a very annoying shell fire.

"I fear our casualties are considerable, and I have to inform you with regret that Gen. Woodgate was dangerously wounded.

"Gen. Warren is of the opinion that he has rendered the enemy's position untenable.

"The men are splendid."

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Representative Roberts, of Massachusetts, who is known in the House nowadays as "the other Roberts," is said to have introduced more bills and amendments to the Constitution during the current session than any other member of Congress. He is the author of two amendments and of fifty-two bills, covering a large variety of subjects.

While the storm sewer has certainly done wonders in draining the neighborhood of Park avenue in time of storm, there is still one drain pipe from a roof on that thoroughfare that spouts delightfully over the sidewalk whenever the rain happens to fall particularly hard. It doesn't flood the street by any means, but it makes walking in that particular spot rather unpleasant.

Tax Collector James Martin is having lots of fun with delinquents whose property is under the axe the result of an enforcement of the Martin Act. Delinquents call at his office in a state of excitement and some declare that they will never pay the amount against them. Some have the audacity to say that they knew nothing about the enforcement of the Act, despite the fact that they have received proper notices of the same and in addition have seen the list published in the local papers. Fortunately for the delinquents, Collector Martin is a man that does not lose his head, otherwise somebody might get hurt, and it is not at all likely that it would be the collector. Thus far the city has a clean profit of about $18,000 from the enforcement of the Act, and it is possible that it may receive enough to build a city hall.

* * * * * *

Everybody is remarking on the remarkably mild winter that this section has experienced and that now all the signs point to an early spring. There has been little or no snow and the temperature has not been low enough to make much trouble. The ice crop so far has been excellent, thanks to a moderate but continued cold spell. A young Plainfielder who is called on to travel all through the eastern and central states, tells of a far different state of affairs and not so far away either. At Watertown, New York state, there has been winter with a vengeance. When he was called upon to visit that city several weeks ago, there was over four feet of snow on the level while the drifts amounted to twenty and thirty feet high. Some still higher were reported out in the country. Many of the young people who came home from colleges to spend their holidays in Plainfield told of sleighing parties and lots of snow. Plainfield, however, hasn't seen enough snow altogether to make running for a sleigh. The present winter is in remarkable contrast with the one of last year.

Blaze in Attic.

The fire department was called out last evening for a little blaze at the home of T. M. Kenny, 336 East Fourth street. A match set fire to a mattress in the store room in the attic and damage was done to the extent of $10 before the flames were extinguished. The fire alarm whistle did not work properly.

Plainfield Couple Married.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bloomfield, Jan. 25 — Miss Olive Barber, daughter of Wm. E. Barber, of Plainfield, and Frank L. Lancaster, of that city, were married here last evening at the parsonage of the Park M. E. church by the pastor, Rev. J. G. Johnston.

ANTHONY MAY BE CHIEF

SUMMIT AGITATED OVER THE WONDERFUL REPORT.

Mr. Comstock, the Arch Enemy of Vice, is Said to be Willing to Serve the New City Without Receiving a Salary.

Summit citizens are discussing with keenest interest a rumor to the effect that the redoubtable Anthony Comstock will soon be their Chief of Police. It is related with some show of corroborative circumstance that the name of the arch-enemy of vice will be presented to the Common Council by its police committee at the next meeting of that body.

The report has it that Mr. Comstock has signified his willingness to become the directing head of Summit's impressive array of bluecoats. Nay, more, it is said that so enamoured is he with the idea of exercising the powers of that position that he has actually offered to serve without compensation.

The police committee has power under the recently amended police ordinance to appoint a chief who will serve without compensation. That the committee will choose a man for the position shortly, is believed to be certain, and many indications point to Mr. Comstock. In the first place it is asserted that he is the only man in Summit capable of filling the position who would undertake its duties without pay. Then again it is said that the word has been passed around by certain members of the Common Council to grocers and other small dealers, to be careful not to violate Sunday or excise laws. Mr. Comstock's idea of this sort of offences is well understood.

Not since Summit doffed the swaddling clothes of the township and donned the breeks of a real city—population 5,000 or thereabouts—has an event, or the prospect of an event, so stirred the community. Residents old and young, rich and poor, are alike discussing the report.

Mr. Comstock is indeed a stickler for the letter of the law, and the strict enforcement thereof. Summit people recall the part he played some years ago in ferreting and running out of the town the burglars who were beginning to regard it as something of a happy hunting ground. Their memories also go back to the time when certain saloon keepers in the municipality had a habit of keeping open for business beyond the hours which the law prescribes and permits. Possibly this recollection is not so grateful to some of the citizens as the other. Newspaper and milk dealers can recall a certain crusade against the sale of their wares Sundays. In fact, the reign of the "Blue laws" in Summit will not soon be effaced from the city's history.

JERSEY MASONS MEET.

Annual Session of the State Grand Lodge Opens in Trenton.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, January 25—The annual session of the New Jersey Grand Lodge of Masons opened here yesterday.

The morning session was devoted to the address of the grand master, Josiah Ewan, and to speechmaking by a number of distinguished visitors, including Grand Master George E. Wagner, of Pennsylvania; Grand Master Wright D. Powell, of New York; Grand Masters W. J. Kelly and Conrad B. Day, of Pennsylvania; Past Grand Masters Stewart and Shearer, of New York; Past Grand Master Rile, of Delaware; Chaplain Vanderhoever, of New York, and Grand Secretary W. A. Sinn, of Pennsylvania.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Neuman Bros., grocers, are headquarters for apples. Every variety that is good. Prices are right, too.

—Hepburn & Co. are having quite a sale for their cough syrup they ship to a great many outside places. It is guaranteed.

—J. Stuart Blockton, who appears in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course with Miss West Monday evening, is a cartoonist and caricaturist and not a lecturer.

—All ladies are cordially invited to attend the sessions of the State conference of the Women's Auxiliaries to the Y. M. C. A., to be held in the Association Hall tomorrow at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

GOT TWENTY YEARS.

Philip Davis Found Guilty of Murder in the Second Degree at Elizabeth This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 25. — Philip Davis, colored, of Elizabeth, who was charged with the murder of George Monks, of Brooklyn, was found guilty this morning of murder in the second degree. The jury was charged this morning and was locked up at 11 o'clock. At 1:45 o'clock they brought in a verdict. Judge VanSickel immediately sentenced Davis to twenty years in State prison.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS TOO GAY.

Profuse Display of Big Red Flowers at a Funeral Shocks a Whole Town.

Chrysanthemums will no longer be used as a mourning flower at funerals to be held at Mankato, Minn., announces a traveler from that community. It appears that a popular young society man of that town recently died. He was a member of many social organizations. Each strove with the other in indicating at the ceremonies of his burial how much his loss was felt.

The time of the year was the football season, also the period when the chrysanthemum defies all laws of color and flaunts its wanton shades in public view. The Isis society, to which this young man belonged, in an unhappy moment determined to attend the funeral ornamented with chrysanthemums. The deceased had always admired the flower and it would be a striking tribute to his extinct preferences. An order was sent to a florist in St. Paul to forward by first express 60 pure white chrysanthemums to the Isis members.

The morning the funeral was to take place they had not arrived, but there was a train due from St. Paul 20 minutes before the services would commence. One of the Isis members volunteered to meet that train, get the flowers, hurry with them to the church door and distribute them as the society marched in. This was agreed to and the members marched to the sacred edifice. The flowers arrived, were taken to the church door and there uncovered. The Isis was just coming in and quick action was needed. The organ was playing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," when the society marched up the center aisle, each decorated with a flaring red chrysanthemum. The florist, not having white, had forwarded red with apologies.

Drawing a Fine Distinction.

Laurence Gronlund, the socialistic writer who died a few weeks ago in New York, was a thorough pessimist. One evening, after he had denounced the modern industrial system in savage terms, a friend remraked: "It is not so bad as Russian despotism, is it?" "Not quite; the former is the worst possible; the latter the worst conceivable."

CITY REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE TONIGHT.

City Executive Committee Will Elect Officers.

WHO WILL BE CHAIRMAN?

GILBERT, BARROWS AND DUMONT ARE PROMINENTLY MENTIONED.

Councilman Dumont Also Spoken of as Treasurer — William Newcorn is Like to Succeed J. B. Coward as Secretary of the Committee—Will Discuss Plans at the Meeting Tonight.

The coming political campaign will be the most important of any that the local Republicans have conducted since that of 1896, when McKinley was elected President. The Presidential campaigns are always of special importance, and the year they come there is an unusual burden on the shoulders of the city executive committee of the G. O. P. So the organization of that committee this evening will be watched with unusual interest.

The new city committee, the members of which were chosen at the Republican primaries preceding the city election last December, will have its first meeting this evening. Then will come the question of choosing a chairman, a secretary and a treasurer for the committee.

For several years, Alex. Gilbert, of the Third ward, has been chairman of the committee. His name has been prominently mentioned for re-election. The chairman this year will be called upon to preside at mass meetings and other functions that are sure to be important parts of the coming campaign. He will, so to speak, general the local forces in the battle against the Democrats. Naturally the members want a strong man at the head of the organization. Former Councilman Elliot T. Barrows seems to be the choice of a number of the committee. The name of Councilman J. B. Dumont has also been mentioned. It is understood, however, that the ticket on which Mr. Barrows is down for chairman, Mr. Dumont has been slated as treasurer, which is a particularly important position in a presidental campaign.

For many years J. B. Coward has been secretary of the city committee and, when he was defeated in the First Ward primary, there was much speculation as to his successor. The choice of the committee will probably fall on William Newcorn. Mr. Newcorn has an office in the business section and is easily accessible to the members of the committee. He is also considered a good man for the place.

There will be little else done at the meeting this evening besides completing the organization. It is not probable that any plan of campaign will be formulated as yet, but there will probably be a general discussion of the situation and the best means to be adopted.

FARMERS VS. COMMUTERS.

In Election at Nutley the Former Win Victory Against the Proposed Borough Government.

The "farmers" scored a decided victory over the "commuters" in the vote on the question of adopting a borough form of government in Nutley Monday.

They were led in the fight against the borough by William Kierstead, Alfred F. Skinner and other practical politicians of Franklin township, who conveyed voters to the polls in carriages. The boroughites, not being experienced in politics, failed to do this, and consequently lost many votes. The vote for incorporation was 72, against 174. The antis are very happy and celebrated the event in a quiet manner.

Opposition Disappearing.

It is reported that much of the opposition to the widening of Somerset street is gradually disappearing and that the project is making friends every day. One person in the borough argued that Duer street should be opened first, but when facts were explained to him he changed his mind, and now favors the widening scheme for the general benefit of the borough.

Pleased With Changes.

Edward L. Brown, of Chicago, who was a resident of this city seventeen years ago, has been the guest of W. R. Cock, of East Fifth street. When he lived here, Mr. Brown was foreman of the Alert Hose Company. During this visit, he went to fire department headquarters and saw the improvements made there. He was greatly pleased with what he saw.

THE AUDUBON SOCIETY.

H. M. Maxson Resigned as Chairman, as He Could Not Give Proper Attention.

The Executive Committee of the Audubon Society of New Jersey met last evening and considered the resignation of H. M. Maxson, as chairman, which was presented at the previous meeting. As Mr. Maxson stated that his other duties prevented him from giving the attention to the business of the society which he felt it needed, the committee were obliged to accept his resignation.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson was elected as his successor, but the valuable services of Mr. Maxson will not be lost to the society, as he will continue as a member of the committee.

It is understood that Mr. Nickerson is much interested in the preservation of our feathered friends, and aggressive work in this state toward that end may be expected.

NEED OF ORGANIZATION.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE PROPOSES TO ACT.

First Meeting of the New Committeee Held in Elizabeth Yesterday—John L. Crowell Elected Chairman Again.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 26. The Democratic county committee met in the Dix building yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the year. Less than one half of the members elected at the primaries last October were present, but with the infusion of some younger blood into the body considerable interest was mainfested in the project of effecting better Democrating organization throughout the county.

The committee was called to order by John L. Crowell, chairman of last year's committee. In the choice of a chairman Mr. Crowell was re-elected to the position for another year. In accepting the office again Mr. Crowell pointed out that the great need of the Democrats in Union county was organization, and especially so at this time when a National campaign is approaching. W. C. Lathrop, of Elizabeth, was re-elected secretary of the committee, and Ira B. Hall, also of Elizabeth, was chosen treasurer.

The by laws and rules and regulations, proposed by State Chairman Chairman Gourley for the use of county committees throughout the State, were brought up and read through for the information of the members. But as they involve important matters and there is some question whether or not the suggestions made in the proposed plan are applicable to this county, it was decided to appoint a special committee to take up the matter and report at the next meeting. W. W. St. John, of Plainfield, was made one of the committee, which will have a meeting in Elizabeth Saturday afternoon of next week.

It will be the purpose of the committee to carefully consider the Gourley plan of organization and use such parts, with amendments that may be thought advisable to adopt, as are applicable to this bailiwick. The meeting then adjourned.

TO KEEP UP ORGANIZAT.ON.

Local Letter-Carriers Resume Thier Standing by Straightening Out Arrears to National Body.

After a period of inactivity the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers, Branch No. 396, has been re-organized and placed on a substantial footing once more. The branch fell in arrears in in dues to the National organization but that has been straightened out and everything is in good running order again.

A meeting of the branch was held Wednesday evening when the reorganization was effected and officers elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, P. J. Revilles; vice-president, Daniel Shea; secretary, J. J. Hines; treasurer, Philip Giese; sergeant-at-arms, Charles B. Stephens.

Congressmen to Eulogize Hobart.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Jan. 26.—Representative Gardner has completed the list of speakers who today will eulogize the late Vice-President Hobart in the House of Representatives. Besides the New Jersey delegation the list is as follows: Messrs. Grosvenor, Dalzell, Brosius, Payne, Dolliver, Richardson, Griggs and Swanson. The last three are Democrats, and all are from the South. Messrs. Howell and Loudenslager may simply have their speeches printed. The latter expects to be compelled to be absent on business of the Naval Affairs Committee.

Bought Finger's Hotel.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, has purchased the hotel property at Watchung avenue, formerly owned by the late Peter Finger, and will take possession April 1st.

ROSELLE HAS GRIP ON PRESS TROPHY.

Won Two Out Of Three Games From Westfield.

AT ROSELLE CASINO ALLEYS.

PRACTICALLY DECIDED THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF LEAGUE.

Westfield Made Strong Effort and Won the First Game but Lost the Other Two — Good Scores Rolled — Second Game Was Very Close and Nineteen Pins Decided It — The Individual Scores.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, Jan. 26.—Roselle's grip on the Daily Press Bowling League trophy was tightened last evening. Only the complete collapse of the team from the Roselle Casino can prevent the trophy from spending its first summer here. The Westfield Club came here last evening bound to win and did win the first game. But after that, the supreme confidence of the Roselle bowlers of victory on their own alleys carried everything before it and the last two games went to the home team.

To begin with, Cauncey D. Smith, captain of the Westfield team, missed his train and took the trolley to the B. and O. crossing, walking the rest of the way. When the first game began, he was the only one who could roll at all. The strain of waiting may have effected the rest for they couldn't hit anything. The farce lasted for three frames and then Westfield woke up. Roselle woke up, too, and stayed right with the visitors for two frames. Then Chauncey Smith started for a triple header and Westfield walked away to win by 46 pins.

The pace that was started by both sides on the second game was killing. Westfield opened with a clean frame. There wasn't a break for either side on the second and Roselle did the same thing on the third. Warner and Townley both began with triple headers while Mulford swept the alleys with one ball in the third, fourth and fifth frames. Warner fell down but Townley set a fast pace only to get a split on the windup. Mulford rolled in great form and with any amount of luck.

For three frames, Westfield held the lead. Then Roselle jumped to the front by twelve pins. That was made 24 in the fifth but fell back to 11 in the sixth. The fight was close as the windup approached and it was a question as to whose game it was likely to be. Roselle's windup was slightly stronger than that of the visitors and the home team won by 19 pins.

Roselle led all the way on the third game. The opening was fair and then Roselle went the fourth and fifth frames without a break. Westfield did the same on the fifth and sixth and made a strong brace. Some hard luck and more poor bowling ruined the visitors' chances and Roselle took another jump. The windup was slow but Roselle had it easily by 82 pins so there really wasn't any need of a hot finish.

The individual scores were:

ROSELLE CASINO.

	1st game.	2d game.	3d game.

OFFSET BILL RULED OUT.

Justice Nash Decided in Favor of Jerry VanWinkle in His Suit Against William Abbott.

The action of Jeremiah VanWinkle, a painter, against William H. Abbott, Justice of the Peace and real estate dealer, to recover $3.19 alleged to be due the plaintiff for painting a sign for the defendant's office on North avenue, was tried before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. The sign in question was painted more than one year ago and has been in use ever since. Mr. Abbott refused to pay for painting on the ground that the work had not been satisfactory. At the trial yesterday the defendant's counsel offered in evidence an offset claim of $6.50 against the plaintiff. The bill was ruled out by the justice, it being shown that it had been purchased from B. W. Hand after the plaintiff had commenced the action. The court gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount and costs. The plaintiff was represented by V. W. Nash, Jr., and the defendant by Willie Sweeney. This was Master Nash's maiden effort.

HEALEY CANNOT EAT.

WILL BE OPERATED UPON AT HOSPITAL SHORTLY.

Went Insane While Watching at Bedside of Sick Friend—Friends From Brunswick Visited Hospital Yesterday.

There is no change in the condition of Andrew Healey, the man with his throat cut, sent to the Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday by the police. It was expected that the house physician would operate on his wound yesterday afternoon, but the operation was postponed owing to Healey's condition. It is believed that the wound, while of a serious nature, will not be fatal. At present Healey is not able to take any nourishment and his exposure, with lack of food and drink, has not improved his condition.

Chief Grant notified the New Brunswick police yesterday. In the afternoon Joseph Higgins, of New Brunswick, with whom Healey boarded, came to this city with a friend and visited Healey at the hospital.

They were very anxious to take Healy home with them, but the authorities at the hospital would not permit it. Higgins told the Chief that Healy was born and brought up in New Brunswick and had always borne a good reputation there. He was not a drinking man. Thursday evening he was sitting up with a friend who was ill, when he suddenly became insane and left the house after acting very queerly. It is supposed that he has been wandering about the country since. His friends are at a loss to account for the sudden attack of insanity.

UNIQUE SOCIAL EVENT.

A DANCE BEING ARRANGED FOR DEAF AND DUMBS.

The Afflicted Guests Promised to Attend in Such Numbers That it Has Been Necessary to Look for a Large Hall.

The ball and supper to be given by the Century Gun Club of Dunellen, composed of deaf mutes, has grown to such huge proportions that it has been decided to postpone the function, which was to have been held last night to the 22d of February—Washington's Birthday. At first it was intended to hold the ball at Taylor's Hotel, but when it was learned that the attendance was liable to grow from a mere handfull to two or three hundred, Mr. Taylor, the proprietor of the hotel threw up his hands in despair at the thought of finding accommodations for the large number of ladies and gentlemen whom it is expected will attend. To the large number of invitations sent to friends of the mutes living in New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Bound Brook, New Brunswick and other cities many responses have been received. It is predicted by those in charge of the affair that fully 200 people will be present. With this view of the situation the members of the Gun Club have thought best to seek larger accommodations than are to be found at Taylor's Hotel, and it is probable that Apgar's hall or the town hall will be secured.

A meeting of the club will be held at New Market Sunday to definitely arrange about the ball. Among those from New Market and Dunellen who are interested in the success of the affair are Joseph and Frank Penrose, of New Market, and Edwin and Thos. Heller, of Dunellen. Other members of the gun club are Messrs. Manus, Combes, Shannon, Salmon, Shea, Readington and Wm. Heller.

The affair promises to be as unique as it will be pleasant, and many from Dunellen and nearby points who are not mutes expect to attend. Besides the dance the mutes will enjoy a supper at Taylor's Hotel, to which many have been invited.

SLANDER NOT PROVEN.

Eugene Chamberlain Unable to Show That James French Had Injured His Character.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 26—A jury of twelve men in the court at Elizabeth yesterday, before Judge Atwater, gave a verdict of no cause for action in the case of Eugene Chamberlain, of this town, who brought suit for $300 against James French. Chamberlain alleged that he was slandered by the story that he had used the men hired by the township to do his own private work. Paul Q. Oliver represented the plaintiff and Lawyer Wolfskeil, of Elizabeth, looked after the interests of the defendant. Many witnesses were examined on both sides, and at 2 o'clock the case was given to the jury which returned in about one hour with the verdict of "no cause" for action.

WOMEN OF TRINITY MEET WITH SUCCESS.

Annual Turkey Supper Tickled The Palates of Many.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS, TOO.

NAMES OF THOSE WHO ARE IN CHARGE OF THE AFFAIR.

Patrons to the Number of 215 Were Served With the Delicious Menu That Had Been Prepared—Mrs. E. T. Van Winkle was Chairman of the Committee That Had Various Details in Charge.

It was a happy event in the history of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church last evening, when their annual turkey supper was attended with success that was well-deserved. For weeks past this society has been working hard and faithfully in completing arrangements for this event of the year, and they certainly must have felt gratified with the result, for notwithstanding the very disagreeable, rainy night, 215 persons were served with supper. Every member put forth her best effort and all worked in unison to make the supper surpass all previous ones, and those who were present last evening can testify that a more successful affair was never held. From beginning to end it was complete in every detail, and not a thing was left undone that would add to the pleasure and success of the event.

The Sunday-school rooms, where the supper was given, spacious and brilliantly lighted, presented an attractive and welcome sight. Here and there were to be found numerous tables, handsomely decorated with dainty china and costly silver, while in the centre a palm or a fern added to the general beauty. It was at these tables that the supper was served, and those in charge were kept constantly busy attending to the wants of their many patrons. The hours were from 6 until 9 o'clock, but it was long after 9 o'clock when the last person was served. The unanimous opinion of all, as they left the tables, was that they had never partaken of a better turkey supper, and this was, of course, gratifying to the women.

While the supper was being served the usual formality of such occasions was delightfully relieved by a programme of pleasing instrumental music rendered by a trio composed of Mrs. Buckley, Mrs. C. D. Corle and Mrs. George Saums. This was one of the features of the evening thoroughly enjoyed. As the guests of the society arrived they were received by a committee of gentlemen, who gave their personal attention in seeing that everyone was made to feel perfectly at home.

The attendance throughout the evening was very large, as was to be expected, and aside from the real purpose which brought people out in such large numbers, there was a delighful sociability evidenced which still further added to the enjoyment of all. So general was the sociability that all formed themselves into reception committee.

Of course, all of the members of the society assisted in the affair, but upon a certain number there was placed the responsibility, and to these women too much cannot be said in praise of their efforts. Mrs. Edwin T. VanWinkle was chairman of the whole affair, and she was assisted by Mrs. P. M. Demarest, as head of the supper committee. Mrs. VanWinkle's ability was clearly evidenced, and she was ably assisted in the work of this committee by Mrs. Seaman Williams, Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, Mrs. Salmon C. Baker, Mrs. Peter A. Emmons, Mrs. Howard B. Templin, Mrs. R. B. Rogers, Mrs. H. B. Paul, Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver and Mrs. A. M. Gillem.

Now from the above number there was selected persons to take charge of the supper tables. Mrs. Cornelius Schenck presided at one table, and she was assisted by Miss Emma Hantsch, Miss Grace Berg and Miss Minnie Berg. Another table was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Startup, assisted by Miss Josephine Fritts, Miss Grace Emmons and Miss Sadie Holmes. Mrs. H. B. Paul was in charge of a table, with Miss Maude E. VanDyke and Miss Chandler as her assistants. At another table Mrs. O. W. Dunham took charge and her assistants were Miss Jennie Quick and Miss Edith Dubois. Another table was presided over by Mrs. Horce J. Martin, assisted by Miss Bessie Martin, Miss J. Kissam and Miss Mabel Wikoff. Mrs. Howard B. Templin was in charge of the other table and was assisted by Miss Grace VanFleet and Miss Grace

FIRST COME, FIRST SERVED.

No Reserved Seats in Music Hall When Col. Bryan Will Speak There.

The public announcement that Col. William Jennings Bryan would honor the citizens of Plainfield by being the guest of one of her well known citizens, and address them in Music Hall February 7th, has led many people in this and nearby cities to make requests of Mr. Martine for tickets of admission. There will be no reserved seats. The hall will be open to the public, and Republicans as well as Democrats will be welcome.

Although Mr. Martine has received many letters from his friends throughout Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties, begging him to save seats for them at whatever cost, he has decided that it will not be wise to do so. The only seats reserved will be those on the stage for the gentlemen who accompany Mr. Bryan and the representatives of the press. To secure a seat it will be necessary to be at Music Hall early the afternoon of February 7th.

FINE MUSIC AT "TUNLAW"

EXCEPTIONAL TALENT WAS SECURED BY MISS WILSON.

Understudy of the Great Melba Was Heard—Local Musicians Also Distinguished Themselves—The Decorations.

One of the events of the season in musical circles was that of yesterday afternoon when Miss Minnie Wilson, of "Tunlaw," entertained the Club Musicale, one of Plainfield's select clubs. The club meets occasionally, and as a rule no one outside of its thirty members are permitted to enjoy the events. However, as Miss Wilson, who entertained yesterday, had invited out-of town talent of great note, she was allowed also to invite a few outsiders, which brought the attendance up to about fifty people.

At 1 o'clock Miss Wilson gave a delightful luncheon to a few of her friends and in honor of her guests from out of town. There were eleven guests present, including Mrs. Nelson G. Green, of New York; Mrs. Edward Ely and Mrs. A. J. Cray, of Philadelphia. The dining room was decorated in a most pleasing pink effect.

The hour set for the musicale was 3:30 o'clock, and the drawing room, where it was given, was certainly a picture of beauty. The decorations were of pink roses and palms and were arranged in the most attractive manner.

Those who entertained the fashionable assemblage were people of note. The club was particularly fortunate in having Madame Patzousky and her sister, Miss Aggie Troubman, of New York city. The former is the understudy of Melba. It was the opinion of those present that such singing had never been heard in the city before This can also be said regarding the singing by Miss Troubman, who is a member of the Grand Opera Company. Their work was so highly appreciated that they were recalled time and again. Both singers accompanied themselves on the piano.

Another delightful feature was the reading of the last chapters of "Mill on the Floss," by Miss Grace Cooley. The part given is a pathetic one, and so impressive was it read that the guests, held spellbound, failed to applaud. There was the most intense silence during this part of the programme.

Miss Sadie Mae Howell rendered several piano selections. Her work was appreciated equally as well as that of the other artists.

After the musicale all remained and a delightful social time followed. Miss Wilson entertained the out-of-town guests last evening at her charming home, and they left this morning for their homes.

Concert for Benefit of Baptists.

A concert of unusual excellence will be held Tuesday at Y. M. C. A. hall for the benefit of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The artists that will take part in the programme are Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith, reciter; Mrs. Nelly Udell Smith, violinist; Charles L. Lewis, baritone, and Mrs. Charles L. Lewis and Frank J. Smith, accompanists.

No Definite Plans Yet.

There has only been one meeting of the new fire committee of the Common Council yet, and then no definite plans for the future were laid. The committee is not likely to propose any radical changes. The next great improvement that is likely will be an engine house in the eastern end of the city.

Looking for Delinquents.

Chief Marshal Campbell is a person that some people in the borough are not looking for at present, in fact they are endeavoring to keep out of his way. This official has blood in his eye for the delinquents who will not pay their personal and poll tax for 1899.

WOMEN WHO AID IN WORK OF Y. M. C. A.

Annual State Conference Being Held in This City Today.

MANY DELEGATES PRESENT.

MRS. JAMES E. KIMBALL WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT.

State Secretary Donald McColl Also Attended and Led in the Discussion of the Reports—Substantial Collation Served by the Ladies in the Small Hall — Two Sessions Were Held.

The sixth annual conference of the Women's Auxiliaries to the Young Men's Christian Association convened at 10 o'clock this morning in the large hall of the local association building in this city. There was a large attendance. Many delegates were present from Trenton, Newark, Hoboken, Summit, Madison and this city.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Mrs. M. P. Baldwin, Newark; Mrs. Joseph C. Nixon, Hoboken; Mrs. J. H. Shoper, Summit. The proceedings of the conference were opened by a short devotional service conducted by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, D. D., pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city.

Mrs. James G. Kimball, of this city, gave the greeting after which the responses were made by the various delegates, being led by Mrs. Crowell Marsh, of Trenton.

At 10:30 o'clock the organization of the conference was perfected by the election of the following officers: President, Mrs. James. E. Kimball, of Plainfield; vice-president, Mrs. William Wright, of Trenton; secretary, Mrs. William Webb Davis, of Madison.

After the organization the delegates listened to an animated discussion of reports, which was led by Donald MacColl, the State secretary. At 12:15 the convention adjourned and the delegates repaired to the small hall and enjoyed a splendid collation that had been prepared by the local Women's Auxiliary committee composed of the following ladies: Mrs. J. W. Gavett (chairman), Mrs. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Mrs. J. E. Kimball, Miss Ada M. Runyon, Mrs. John M. Lewis, Mrs. Reuben Knox, Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. F. J. Hubbard, Mrs. A. B. Meredith, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Miss S. Lena Boss, Mrs. L. H. Gates, Mrs. Roger F. Murray, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, J. O. McKelvey.

The afternoon session was highly interesting and equally well attended. At 2 o'clock there was a praise service, followed by the reading of an important paper on "The Means and Methods That Win," by Mrs. W. B. Millar, of Montclair. This was followed by a business session, during which pledges were made for State work. Mrs. W. F. Bailey, of Summit, read an interesting paper on "Boys" that was well received. The conference was brought to a close by the half hour discussion of difficulties that are met with and if possible overcome in conducting the work of the auxiliary. This was led by the president. The conference was conducive of much benefit, and those present were well repaid for their attendance.

REMAINS SENT HOME.

DeRuyter Hotel Keeper Came After Body of Traveling Salesman Who Died at Hotel Kensington.

John Coye, a hotel keeper at DeRuyter, N. Y., arrived in Plainfield last evening for the purpose of taking the remains of Charles E. Taylor to his late place of residence. Mr. Taylor is the travelling salesman who died in this city Wednesday evening. Mr. Coye stopped at the Kensington Hotel last evening and this morning left for South Plainfield where he took the 9:02 train for his home. He took the body with him. He could not speak too highly concerning Mr. Taylor and his wife and children. Regarding his illness, he said that so far as he knew Mr. Taylor had never suffered very much from asthma, and when he left home was in his usual excellent health.

Mr. Barrows Denies a Report.

Former Councilman E. T. Barrows, President of the Produce Exchange, has denied the truth of the report that three of the five trustees of the Gratuity Fund had offered their resignations, and that the others intended doing so later. Mr. Barrows declared that only one trustee, G. K. Clark, Jr., seemed anxious to resign, and that all the others still held their offices. There was a meeting of the trustees in the afternoon, which was a protracted one, and was attended by A. E. Blackmar, the counsel of the trustees.

ROBERTS SHUT OUT.

House Sustains Majority Report by Decisive Vote.

HIS SEAT IS DECLARED VACANT.

The Mormon Gentleman Says He Is "the Martyr to a Spasm of Prejudice"—Will Not Run For Congress Again.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon representative elect from Utah, which has occupied so much of the attention of the house since the assembling of congress, has been decided by the adoption of a resolution to exclude him by a vote of 268 to 50.

The exact language of the resolution was as follows:

"That under the facts and circumstances of the case Brigham H. Roberts, representative elect from the state of Utah, ought not to have or hold a seat in the house of representatives and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

The amendment to expel Mr. Roberts without seating him offered by Mr. Lacey was ruled out on a point of order, and the house only voted upon the resolutions of the majority and minority of the committee. The latter—to seat and then expel Mr. Roberts—were defeated by a vote of 81 to 244.

An analysis of this vote shows that 168 Republicans, 96 Democrats and 4 Populists voted against it and 71 Democrats, 7 Republicans, 2 Populists and 2 Silver Republicans for it. The majority resolutions—to exclude Mr. Roberts and declare the seat vacant—were adopted by 268 to 50. The affirmative vote was divided as follows:

Republicans, 164; Democrats, 90; Populists, 4, and the negative vote, Democrats, 47; Silver Republicans, 2; Populists, 1. There were over a score of speakers yesterday, and the closing speeches on each side were particularly able. Mr. Lanham of Texas closed for the majority and Mr. De Armond of Missouri for the minority. Mr. Roberts was present throughout the day and only left the hall after the result of the last vote had been announced. As he did so he gave out a statement justifying his retention of his plural wives on the ground that his moral obligation was more binding upon his conscience than technical obedience to statutory law and saying that there was little excuse for the extraordinary efforts to crush a system already abandoned and practically dead. He said he was a "martyr to a spasm of prejudice." He would not, he said, attempt to run for congress again, although he would go back home with a light heart confident of the future.

Just at the close of yesterday's session of the senate a speech delivered by Mr. Money of Mississippi on the race question in the south precipitated a heated colloquy between him and Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.), in which the latter alleged that the southern senators by intemperate statements were reopening the whole southern question in the senate after it was supposed to be dead. The charge which Mr. Chandler particularly criticised was made by Mr. Morgan of Alabama, who is absent at present, but as it had been reiterated substantially, in Mr. Chandler's opinion, by other senators he declared he did not purpose to permit it to go unrefuted. The charge was that the civil war had been precipitated by designing politicians of the north for the purpose of putting the slaves on a political and social equality with the southern whites. Mr. Chandler's refutation of the statement was made with characteristic vehemence and aggressiveness, but as no reply was offered the incident ended there.

The urgent deficiency bill, carrying about $9,000,000, was passed without division and practically without debate.

The Manauense Was Unseaworthy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Reports have been received at the war department from Colonel Pettit and Lieutenant Colonel Webb Hayes of the Thirty-sixth volunteer infantry in regard to the recent trip of the transport Manauense from San Francisco to Manila with part of the Thirty-sixth infantry. They reaffirm the original statements to the effect that the machinery of the Manauense broke down on the voyage during a typhoon; that she was undermanned and that the vessel narrowly escaped being wrecked. She was rescued from a perilous condition by the transport City of Peking, which towed her several hundred miles into Manila. The purpose of the inquiry is to fix the responsibility for the condition of the machinery of the Manauense. Pending the investigation payments under the charter of the vessel will be suspended.

China's Emperor a Suicide.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, it is reported there that Emperor Kwang-Su has committed suicide. Yesterday a dispatch was received from Shanghai stating that the North China Daily News had published an edict signed by the emperor on Wednesday night. In the edict he appointed as emperor in his place Pu-Chun, the young son of Prince Tuan. The new emperor, it was said, would ascend the throne on Jan. 31. The imperial edict says that owing to the emperor's poor health he is unable to conduct the business of state.

To Shut Out American Meat.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—According to reports from United States consuls in Europe, the butchers of Germany and Austria are about to combine to keep out of those countries American meats. The Austrian butchers have already taken steps to convene a congress of butchers to take steps to meet our competition in meats, among other things.

Deserter and an Embezzler Located.

CARACAS, Venezuela, via Haitian Cable, Jan. 26.—A man named Holmes, alias Kelly, who, it is alleged, was formerly a sergeant and deserted from the army, and another man named Coleman, accused of being an embezzler, both of whom, it is announced, are wanted by Governor General Davis of Porto Rico, arrived at La Guayra Jan. 22.

Struck by an Engine.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 26.—Clarence Baker of this city was struck and instantly killed by an engine on the Boston and Maine tracks near Brightwood.

Weather Probabilities.

Cold and fair; high northwesterly winds.

SCHWAN REPORTS PROGRESS.

His Forces Drive Filipinos From Trenches at San Diego.

MANILA, Jan. 26.—A part of General Schwan's column, consisting of six companies with some artillery, drove a force of 500 insurgents from their intrenchments at San Diego, near San Pablo, on Sunday. The enemy officially reported that they lost 67 killed and many wounded. Our casualties were 1 killed and 14 wounded, the injuries in most instances being slight.

Another battalion while executing a flank movement came upon a hundred other rebels in an intrenched position and routed them, killing 15. The Americans had two wounded.

General Schwan moved against Majayjay, Laguna province, on Tuesday. He found its position almost impregnable, but by lowering men down the steep river banks by ropes flanked the enemy and drove them out. A part of his command proceeded to Santa Cruz, killing six insurgents.

The white flag has not been seen in the province of Laguna de Bay. The inhabitants are afraid the Americans will abandon the captured towns the same as was done after General Lawton's expedition last year and that the insurgents will reoccupy them.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Germany adopted the naval bill.

John Ruskin was buried at Coniston.

General Wheeler and daughter sailed for home.

The president nominated ten second lieutenants for the marine corps.

The transport Grant, with the Forty-eighth regiment, reached Manila.

The Canajoharie National bank closed, pending examination as to solvency.

The creditors of the Earl of Yarmouth decided to place his estate in bankruptcy.

Ervin Hopkins, Jr., of Chicago was stung to death by a serpent in a Colombian jungle.

Osman Digna, chief general of the late Khalifa Abdullah, was brought to Suez, a British prisoner.

One thousand mountaineers, armed with Winchesters, arrived at Frankfort, Ky. Governor Taylor says he is ignorant of their intentions.

Emperor Kwangsu of China issued a decree announcing his abdication in favor of Prince Put Sing, aged 9. The coronation will be on Jan. 31.

A wharf laborer at Sydney was stricken with the bubonic plague, and the attending doctors were of the opinion that he was inoculated with the disease through the bite of a flea.

Lumbermen In a Wreck.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 26.—The special train bearing the Indiana lumbermen on their southern tour collided with a freight engine in a dense fog in the Waycross yards yesterday. Several people are reported injured, among them three or four ladies. One man, who is believed to be from Wabash, Ind., is seriously hurt. The injured were removed to the Plant System hospital, which is located at Waycross. The train was on its way north from Jacksonville.

Grip Raging In Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The grip is now raging in Berlin, the spread of the disease being promoted by the moist, mild weather. The Rev. Mr. Dickie, pastor of the American church, has just recovered from the disorder. Many courtiers have been attacked, among them Prince Albrecht. Dr. Hasse, a member of the reichstag, is also a victim. During the first half of this month the deaths from grip in Berlin numbered 117.

A Large Shaft Forged.

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 26.—The work of forging the largest iron shaft cast in the country was completed at the Nashua Iron and Steel company's plant yesterday. It was forged under the ten ton hammer, is 21 feet long, 25 inches in greatest diameter and weighs 31,400 pounds. When completed, it will be sent to the Pennsylvania Iron company of Philadelphia.

Summer Cottage Burned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The summer cottage owned by John P. Duncan on Ocean avenue, Seabright, N. J., has been totally destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. The Duncan villa was formerly owned by Senator John P. McPherson of New Jersey and cost $20,000.

Separate Cars In Virginia.

RICHMOND, Jan. 26.—The bill providing for separate cars for whites and negroes on the railways in this state has passed the senate without a dissenting vote and as it came from the house. The governor's approval, which will make it a law, is considered a foregone conclusion.

Ex-Minister Phelps Very Ill.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 26.—Edward J. Phelps, former minister to England and international Bering sea commissioner, is lying critically ill at his residence in this city. He is suffering from pneumonia, and it is feared that because of his advanced age he may not recover.

Blizzard In Michigan.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Jan. 26.—A blizzard is raging here and is increasing in violence. Nearly a foot of snow has fallen. The storm is a blessing to lumbermen, who were on the point of breaking up camps on account of the extended thaw.

Argentina Has a Deficit.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Financial News publishes a dispatch from Buenos Ayres asserting that the Argentina budget shows a deficit of $10,000,000.

GOVERNOR SCOFIELD.

"Mentioned" as an Available Candidate for Vice President.

Wisconsin Republicans Think the Gallant Major Would Make a Good Run and, If Elected, a Splendid Official.

Gov. Edward Scofield, of Wisconsin, who has been proposed for vice presidential candidate on the republican national ticket, has all the qualifications usually demanded in "a good man for the place," besides many sterling qualities and abilities which, as vice president, he would not be called upon to show.

Wisconsin's governor, says the Chicago Times-Herald, is one of those men whose all around capacities fit them for almost any station in life. In a career ranging from the humble, though very necessary, position of "printer's devil" in the office of a country newspaper, to that of chief executive of the great state of Wisconsin, Maj Scofield has always been able to do the right thing at the right time. His political life has been quite brief, but very successful. He never sought an office, but offices have been brought to him, and, like the good citizen that he is, he has never refused to serve the people and has always appreciated the honor which he believed was honestly intended to confer on him.

Thus, in 1889, when the people of the Oconto district desired him to come to the capital as the guardian of their interests in the capacity of state senator, he accepted the trust in the spirit that tendered it, and did not refuse to return when he was asked to do so for the next term. In 1894 his friends desired that he should try for governor, and he went before the convention. He was defeated, it is true, but then he received more votes than any other of the unsuccessful candidates, and in 1896 he was nominated and elected and reelected in 1898.

Gov. Scofield has devoted most of his life to business and has been singularly successful in his line. His first attempt at earning a living was in the capacity of helper in an Indiana printing office. Thus he became a "newspaper man" at the age of 13. In 1858 young Scofield went to Brookfield, Pa., and there obtained employment as compositor on the Jeffersonian. In this position he received the remuneration of $100 a year "and his board." For three years he labored thus, but in 1861 he became one of President Lincoln's 75,000 volunteers. He began as a listed man and ended as a major, having won every intermediate rank by his gallantry and devotion to his duty. His sufferings were great, but he has never discussed his army experience except with old comrades, and even with them he is silent about his own performances.

Maj. Scofield did not return to the printer's "case" after the close of the war. His first work as a civilian was in the way of civil engineering. Coming west, he went to Chicago and was then engaged by Finn Hall as foreman of Hall's mills in Oconto. In 1880 he formed an association with the Marinette Lumber company, and later with George Arnold. These partnerships resulted in the organization of one of the largest lumber concerns in the country. Gov. Scofield has satisfied nearly everybody with his administration of state affairs and should make an acceptable candidate for the vice presidency. Such, at least, is the opinion of a good many republicans in Wisconsin. The governor himself will not discuss the subject. He feels somewhat delicate about expressing himself thereon, owing to the fact that he has taken open issue with the national administration on some features of its Philippine policy, having publicly declared against the United States taking possession of the islands. These views, it is asserted, he has modified since the party attitude on the issue has become more clear.

Aguinaldo's Wife's Earrings.

Earrings worn by the wife of Aguinaldo, the Philippines insurgent, are now in possession of Mrs. T. L. Wells, of Atchison, Kan. Mr. Wells, who is a transfer clerk connected with the United States mail service in Atchison, said that the pendants which were once used as personal adornments by Mrs. Aguinaldo were sent to his wife by Lieut. Fred Manes, a friend of the family. The ornaments were secured some time ago, when the wardrobe of Aguinaldo's wife was found by the American soldiers. The earrings are of solid gold and appear to have been cut out of the metal with a die. They are marked off in squares and are much larger than the earrings in use in most civilized countries. They are greatly prized by Mrs. Wells on account of their historic connection.

KENTUCKIANS ARM.

Large Band, With Rifles, Surround the Statehouse.

THE MOVEMENT IS A MYSTERY.

A Committee Appointed to Draft Resolutions—State Contest Boards Hear Testimony In Regard to Recent Election Methods.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 26.—The arrival in Frankfort yesterday of from 800 to 1,000 men armed with rifles might have terrorized a community less inured to unusual sensational happenings, but by nightfall the excitement caused by the appearance of the warlike visitors had subsided, and the people were prepared for another turn in the events now making history at the state's capital.

The train that bore the armed men was made up of 14 coaches. Apparently but few here knew that it was expected. The men left the coaches in front of the Louisville and Nashville station and, forming into companies, marched to the statehouse, where their arms were deposited promiscuously, and the men scattered about the buildings.

Lunch was served to them at the rear of the statehouse. Most of the visitors wore badges of white ribbon adorned with a picture of Governor Taylor.

While it is generally believed that many of the men who arrived are soldiers, no person in authority will stand sponsor for the statement, while Governor Taylor and Adjutant General Collier disclaim any connection with them. The men hail from various sections of the state.

Shortly after their arrival the visitors gathered in front of the main state building, where ex-Secretary of State Findlay addressed them, afterward introducing Stephen Sharp of Lexington, former judge of Fayette county and treasurer of state by appointment, succeeding the absconding treasurer of state, J. W. Tate. Judge Sharp spoke briefly and put himself at the service of the men. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions which indicated the purpose of their mission.

The state contest boards announced the result of their consideration of the contestees' counter notices. Two paragraphs were stricken out entirely, demurrers to 25 paragraphs were sustained, and demurrers to nine paragraphs were overruled. Attorneys for the contestees asked for and were granted time to amend the paragraphs.

A dozen Wolf county election officers testified concerning the use of alleged tissue ballots.

Colonel Andrew Cowan, a wealthy business man and member of the Louisville "Honest Election League," testified that the changing of election officers the night before the election caused the greater part of the apprehension that there would be trouble on election day.

State Guard Not Ordered Out.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 26.—Concerning the claim that armed men who went to Frankfort from here yesterday were part of the state guard and were under orders, Roger D. Williams, colonel of the Second regiment, said: "Some of these men may be members of the state guard, but no order has been given for their assembling there. All such orders would go through my hands, and none such have been received by me."

Japan Favors Great Britain.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—K. Hirata, recently connected with the Japanese war department and now traveling to become acquainted with English speaking countries, made some significant statements yesterday regarding the relations of Japan to current events. Mr. Hirata, in reply to questions, said: "The Japanese people are strongly in sympathy with Great Britain, and the soldiers of Japan want to be sent to South Africa to fight for the British. Russia, France and Germany are at the back of the Boers and in a measure waging war today against Great Britain through the Boers. What they are driving at is clear enough to well informed Asiatics. It is to so weaken the military power of the British in South Africa that the strain shall compel Great Britain to neglect the defense of India and her interests in China. British defeat in South Africa means a Franco-Russian march through India. France and Russia are making every preparation for it."

A Christian Scientist Suicides.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 26.—A special to The Times from St. Cloud, Minn., says Frederick A. Lempke, who had conducted Christian Science parlors in St. Cloud for some time, met a horrible death at the home of J. K. Orton in East St. Cloud. It is supposed he deliberately placed his head in a heating stove, for when found he was in this position, his head and shoulders burned to a crisp. A letter was found in which he said he had been unable to concentrate his thoughts for some time, and it is believed to be a clear case of suicide.

British Attacked In West Africa.

LAGOS, Colony of Lagos, British West Africa, Jan. 26.—Advices have just been received here from Jobba that Captain Carrol of the Norfolk regiment and 150 men of the West African frontier force while escorting a telegraph construction staff were attacked on Jan. 9 by 2,000 Mitchi and Basa tribesmen. Captain Eaton of the East Kent regiment and 12 others were wounded, and one member of the escort was killed. The tribesmen left 80 dead.

Hendricks May Succeed Payn.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—Unless something unexpected happens it is believed that Governor Roosevelt will send to the senate next Monday night the name of a successor to Louis F. Payn as superintendent of insurance. All signs point to the selection of ex-Senator Francis Hendricks of Syracuse, who has been agreed upon, it is said, by the governor and the leaders of the Republican organization.

Killed by a Train.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 26.—George C. Graham, aged 17, was struck by a work train and instantly killed at the Union street crossing of the New York Central railroad. His head was crushed to a pulp and his left lip almost torn from his body.

MR. BRYAN'S TRIP.

Welcomed by Pennsylvania Democrats at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—The state Democratic committee has set the pace for the Democracy of other states by making Colonel William J. Bryan its choice for the presidency in 1900. This action was taken by the committee while Colonel Bryan was on his way to Harrisburg from New York to attend the meeting and confer with the party leaders.

This is probably the first time in the party's history that the Democrats of Pennsylvania have indicated their choice for president in advance of the state convention. There was a large attendance of Democrats from over the state to meet Colonel Bryan and hear him discuss the issues on which the coming campaign will be waged. The state convention will be held in this city on April 5 and will adopt a platform along the lines laid down by the Nebraska orator in his speech last night before 5,000 people at the Kelker Street hall. The platform will indorse the Chicago declaration of principles, denounce trusts and imperialism, advocate ballot reform and pure elections and condemn machine politics.

Colonel Bryan reached here at 3 o'clock and was escorted to the board of trade rooms, where the state committee was in session, by a committee representing the state and local Democratic committees. He was introduced to the assemblage by State Chairman Rilling and made a short speech, which was received with much enthusiasm. At the close of the meeting he held an informal reception at the Commonwealth hotel, and later he was the guest of Mayor Fritchey at a dinner party at which Colonel Guffey, Chairman Rilling and other party leaders were present. After the meeting he attended a session of the local lodge of Modern Woodmen, of which he is an active member at his home in Lincoln. Colonel Bryan will go from here to Smyrna and Wilmington, Del., and from there to Washington to meet the national leaders.

SOLDIERS WELL FED.

MacArthur Says Our Boys In the Philippines Have Good Fare.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Acting Commissary General Weston has received a personal letter from Major George B. Davis, commissary of subsistence attached to General MacArthur's division in the Philippines, in which he includes a high testimonial to the character of the food supplied to the army in the field. The letter is dated Bautista, Dec. 14, 1899, and reads:

"In the few moments that I have to spare I thought you would like to have a word or two in regard to the department. General MacArthur told me the other night that never in his history of armies had one been as well supplied as this one. He thinks it is remarkable the way the troops have been fed. I do not hear a complaint, although I have gone around to learn if there were complaints. I am now giving the troops here fresh beef. It is brought on a refrigerator car as far as Mabalacat and carried across the river and loaded on cars and taken as far as Bamban. Then it is carried across the river, put in box cars, and we run the beef through to Dagupan. The troops at that place are not in this division, but I told the commanding officer that I would get beef to him if he wanted it. He jumped at the offer. I have sales cars running between Tarlac and San Fernando, and another between Tarlac and Calasiao. The sales are very large. It is here and elsewhere that the subsistence department is more than filling expectations."

Silk Weavers Go Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Three hundred weavers employed in the Rolling, David & Schoen silk mills in West Hoboken, N. J., went on a strike yesterday for higher wages and a reorganization of their union. The strike has been threatened for some time past. During the past few years the working force of the establishment has greatly increased, until now there are employed over 500 hands. On Monday morning the firm received a communication from the weavers demanding the discharge of the nonunion weavers and an increase of wages. A committee of the weavers visited Mr. Schoen on Tuesday night and repeated the demands. The result of their visit was not satisfactory to the weavers, and they decided to strike.

Mother of German Empress Dead.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The dowager duchess of Sleswick-Holstein died of pleurisy at Dresden yesterday. Immediately on receipt of the news of the death of the dowager duchess the imperial banner on the royal castle sank to half mast, and the music on the parade ground was countermanded. Throughout the city flags were half masted, including those over the United States embassy and consulate. The emperor quickly dispatched messengers countermanding several important appointments he had made and then hastened with the empress for the train that would carry them to Dresden.

Honolulu Plague Stricken.

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—A special to The Times from Victoria, B. C., says that the steamer Miowera, just arrived, has news of 38 deaths at Honolulu from the plague, one a white woman of good class. The city is panic stricken. An armed mob prevents the landing of steamers at Hilo. Cooper of the board of trade of Honolulu had ten blocks burned. Dr. Carmichael has been ordered to Manila. Three thousand four hundred Japanese at Honolulu are in quarantine.

Postmasters Nominated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The president has sent to the senate the following nominations of postmasters: Connecticut—R. C. Tyler, Chester; Frederick A. Smith, Colchester. New Jersey—Harry L. Jacques, Jamesburg. New York—Charles G. Bacon, Northville; C. H. Willard, Randolph. Pennsylvania—William P. McMasters, Munhall; William G. Bassler, Zelienople.

Cold In the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 26.—The mercury has dropped from 8 above zero to 4 below, and a gale of wind emphasized the cold wave. Subzero temperatures are quite numerous over the northwest. Minnesota led, with 28 below, followed by Prince Albert with 18, Winnipeg 16 and Port Arthur 10. A continuation of the cold is therefore considered probable.

Ex-Secretary Olney a Regent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The president has signed the resolution of congress appointing former Secretary of State Richard Olney to the vacancy in the board of regents of the Smithsonian institution vice William Preston Johnston, deceased.

TERRIBLE TRAIN WRECK.

Cars Run Away and Cause Deadly Explosion of Dynamite.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 26.—A fearful explosion of dynamite occurred in the yards of the Jersey Central railroad at Ashley, a suburb of this city, last night, which resulted in the killing of Frank McLaughlin of Mauch Chunk aged 27; Michael Bird, aged 22, of Ashley; William Buckley of this city, aged 28, all brakemen, and fatally injuring two unknown men.

Engineer John Rehrig of Mauch Chunk was badly injured. Engineer John Roughley of Ashley, who ran a side engine, was severely scalded. William Brown of Ashley, night boss at the roundhouse; Brakeman Thomas Rowe of Newtown, and Flagman Michael Coyle of Ashley were badly injured.

The accident was caused by the loss of the control of a heavy freight train consisting of 24 cars which was coming from Mauch Chunk to Ashley. The train was in charge of Engineer John Rehrig. At Laurel Run, while descending the steep grade down the mountain, control was lost and the heavy train went thundering down in the direction of Ashley at a tremendous rate of speed. It had been raining during the early evening and the tracks were wet and slippery.

At the foot of the mountain, just where the Ashley yards commence, near the roundhouse, the fugitive train dashed into a helping engine standing in its path and it was sent flying along the track into a shifting engine. The shock exploded a car containing 30 boxes of dynamite, and 18 cars in the train were wrecked. Everything that stood near was knocked to pieces.

Ten locomotives were wrecked. The stacks of the roundhouse and a large portion of the roof were blown away. An immense tank containing thousands of gallons of water was torn to pieces, and several people who happened to be in the vicinity narrowly escaped drowning by the flood in which they were suddenly submerged. Nearly every window in the town was broken. Even in this city many of the strongest edifices felt the severity of the shock and trembled violently. The scene of the disaster resembles the track of a cyclone.

The loss cannot be accurately determined as yet, but is estimated at over $1,000,000.

A COSTLY FIRE.

Fredonia, N. Y., Suffers Severely. Two Lives Lost.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Fire did $200,000 damage at Fredonia, three miles south of Dunkirk. Besides the loss to buildings, the power house of the Dunkirk and Fredonia Street Car company was totally destroyed, together with all the cars, and as a result traffic between the two places by cars has been suspended. Two lives were lost in the flames. Miss Alice Huntington was consumed in the home of Fred W. Case while trying to save her personal effects. Warren Leopold Bretsckgi, a Swiss printer, lost his life in the Pan-American hotel while asleep in his room.

The total insurance is only $63,150, while the total loss is estimated at $200,000. Both the Dunkirk and Fredonia fire departments fought the fire and prevented its wiping out the entire business district.

The Ugly Slot Machine.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—State Excise Commissioner Henry H. Lyman devotes a lengthy chapter in his annual report to the abolition of the use of slot machines. Among other things he says: "The so called slot machine is a matter which has required and received much attention from this department in the last two years. This form of cheap and extremely demoralizing gambling spread throughout the whole state with mushroomlike growth. It was early apparent that these gambling devices were doing great injury. School children were allowed to enter saloons and allowed to gamble. Many poor men and women often with needy families were feeding their money to these cunning devices for robbery.

Poison on a Transport.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Acting Commissary General Weston has received several reports in regard to the epidemic of ptomaine poisoning which occurred on the transport Rio de Janeiro on her last trip out to Manila, with the Thirty-fifth volunteer infantry. These show that the fresh meat which caused the poisoning was of the best quality when placed aboard the ship, and that the packing was carefully and properly done by experienced packers. It was 30 days after the meat was shipped before the poisoning occurred, long enough for the ship to have reached Manila if she had not been delayed on the voyage.

Count Boni and the Figaro.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The Figaro publishes this morning the following statement by the manager of the paper: "Count Boni de Castellane having had inserted in several newspapers his dispatch of yesterday, which our chief editor personally could afford to disdain, but whose evident intention was to injure the commercial prosperity of the Figaro company, we have decided to reply to the count's claim of 100,000 francs by a cross action for 200,000 francs as damages."

A Cargo of Cannon Balls.

NORFOLK, Jan. 26.—The schooner Hume has sailed from St. Helena for Boston with a cargo of obsolete cannon balls, to be sold there as old iron. The balls have been stored in the St. Helena magazine for years and on account of improvements in cannon are not available.

WARREN TAKES KOP

Buller Reports Success of British Arms.

GENERAL WOODGATE DIES OF WOUNDS

Small Force of Boers Fled From Spion Kop—Many Miles of Defenses Yet Bar the Way to Ladysmith.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—General Buller's phrase, "The men are splendid," thrills England with pride and confidence. His taking and holding Spion kop are considered permanent advantages.

Sir Charles Warren's opinion that miles of the adjacent Boer intrenchments are untenable is accepted by most expert observers as obviously true, because of the height of the position, although some point out that it may lack adequate gun platform to resist artillery fire from the two extended sides.

It is not likely that General Warren will let go anything he holds, and news of further success is calmly awaited. The military authorities recognize of course that in the 12 or 15 miles between Spion kop and Ladysmith there are continuous defensive positions and rugged hills and ravines which far outrange Spion kop, but they are sure that the troops who have turned the Boers out of difficult places can do it again. The military expert of The Times says:

"It is exceedingly difficult to arrive at any exact estimate of the advantage gained. A definite tactical object has been attained, and definite steps have been taken in the fulfillment of the strategic plan. It is necessary to await fuller information before attaching undue weight to the successes thus far attained. At least there has been steady progress."

The Kildonan Castle reached Durban yesterday with 2,000 additional troops for General Buller, and three troopships have arrived from India, bringing among others a regiment of lancers. Beyond these it is not publicly known here how heavily

GENERAL WARREN.

General Buller has been re-enforced, but those having certain connections with the war office are confident that General Buller will have as many men as he may need to make his work easier.

The war office has issued the following dispatch from Spearman's camp, dated Jan. 25, 12:10 morning:

"General Warren's troops last night occupied Spion kop, surprising the small garrison, who fled. It has been held by us all day, though we were heavily attacked, especially by a very annoying shell fire.

"I fear our casualties are considerable, and I have to inform you, with regret, that General Woodgate was dangerously wounded.

"General Warren is of the opinion that he has rendered the enemy's position untenable. The men are splendid."

Advices have been received from Spearman's camp that General Woodgate has succumbed to the wounds he received in the attack upon Spion kop.

The situation in the neighborhood of the other armies is unchanged, but a forward movement by General French is daily expected. A dispatch to The Standard from Rensburg describes General French's dispositions as now forming a great semicircle around the Boer positions. The correspondent says he could take Colesberg, two miles away, at any time.

A letter from Pretoria gives the text of a complaint which President Kruger made to President Steyn regarding the want of co-operation on the part of the Free Staters at Modder river, and also President Steyn's address to the Free Staters. Mr. Kruger said he had learned with regret that "only about 1,000 men of the Free State fought in the last battle and that many others remained in their camps, while their brothers resisted and even defeated their enemy." These statements appear to give official confirmation to the reports of disagreements between the allies.

A dispatch from Modder River, dated Jan. 24, says General Hector Archibald Macdonald has arrived and assumed command of the highlanders.

Tolstoi For the Boers.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—Count Leo Tolstoi, in an interview published in the Russki Listok, denounces the war in South Africa as showing the "sordid and soulless commercialism that rules the world." He says: "I hope daily to hear of a fresh British reverse. It is incomprehensible to me that England, boasting herself to be the land of freedom, should wish to crush out small republics which have never done her the slightest injury."

Pensions For All.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A favorable report has been made by the senate committee on pensions on Senator McBride's bill extending the provisions of the act of 1892 giving pensions to the survivors of the early Indian wars of Oregon, California, Texas, Florida and other states.

Escaped Convicts Recaptured.

CANON CITY, Colo., Jan. 26.—Two of the four convicts who escaped from the penitentiary Monday after killing Captain A. C. Rooney have been captured near Victor and have been returned to prison. They are Antone Wood, the boy murderer, and "Kid" Wallace, train robber.

A New Classification of Cities.

The Passaic News thinks the New Brunswick Fredonian makes a good suggestion when it points out that Newark and Jersey City at present stand alone as first class cities, with thirteen cities, ranging from Paterson down to Perth Amboy, the latter having only 13,000 people, in the second class.

The second class includes cities of from 12,000 to 100,000, and they must wear the same kind of clothes. "The Fredonian" says this range is too great, and that either first-class cities should comprise all over 50,000, or else a new class should be created including cities of 50,000 to 100,000. This class would contain, after the promulgation of the census of 1900, Camden, Trenton, Hoboken, and Elizabeth. Orange, New Brunswick, Bayonne, Passaic, Plainfield, Bridgeton and Perth Amboy would be left in the third class, with populations of from 13,000 to 30,000. There would probably be some new recruits from the present third-class also.

The Passaic paper declares that "there is no doubt that legislating in the same breath for Paterson and Perth Amboy, Camden and Passaic is a constant perplexity to our legislators, and is the cause of many unconstitutional laws. The present division is wrong. There is more similarity of needs between Camden, with 80,000 people, and Newark, with 250,000, than between Camden with 80,000 and Perth Amboy with 13,000. The present classification ignores this important fact."

Although lynchings decreased in number last year as compared with the records of former years, according to the Philadelphia Record, the lawlessness which pretends to prevent violations of the law is yet altogether too common in an advanced and progressive country like the United States. The Record argues that the commission of one crime cannot excuse the perpetration of another. Statutes for the prevention and punishment of crime have been formulated and adopted through public desire and by public action. In enacting such statutes it was the people's purpose to enforce them in an orderly manner, so that there should be no excuse for private vengeance for private wrongs. The whole scheme of lawmaking has its source in the necessity of preserving public order by making crimes against person or property offenses against the whole public, to be punished by the public. The law is made for all, and where it is found to be inoperative or impotent it can by public enactment be abolished or made stronger and more drastic.

However much the majority of Plainfielders may disagree with James E. Martine on the political principles of the day, everyone feels like congratulating him upon the fact that he is to have the honor of entertaining his distinguished friend, Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan is undoubtedly the foremost personage in the public eye of this country today, and it is an exceptional pleasure to entertain him as guest in one's own home, as the generous host of "Cedar Brook Farm" will do. Now that the Nebraskan is being accorded recognition from Democrats who less than four years ago absolutely scoffed at the man and his ideas, it is a gratifying political reminiscence to Mr. Martine to know that he was one of very few in New Jersey who quickly and enthusiastically accepted and advocated the election of Bryan in 1896 with all the vigor and loyalty that he is famous for.

The New York Times prints an interview with an unnamed New York Democrat which says that Richard Croker will not take part in any of the controversies about Bryan or the platform for 1900. It is further said that the Tammany leader will remain abroad until after the national convention, possibly until just before the election of 1900.

The press is the bond which unites the public and the merchant, and makes the former respond to the influence of the latter, says the Philadelphia Record. No advertisements are written in vain. All bring customers; for well presented inducements to purchase cannot be resisted by those who have money to spend.

A Detroit clergyman advances the novel proposition that "if Adam had worked three hundred days each year from the day he was created to the present time, at a salary of $50 a day, he would not have earned by this time as much property as is owned by Rockefeller or Vanderbilt."

There should be no more doubting Thomases as to the announcement that Col. Bryan will visit Plainfield, Mr. Bryan yesterday gave out his engagements for the coming two weeks, and for the afternoon of February 7th he has a speech scheduled for Plainfield.

If what a little bird whispers to us is true, our esteemed and generous friend, Editor Runyon, of the News, will presently hear of something in local Republican circles that will fall with a sickening thud upon his roseate view of the world.

* * * * * * *

After his newspaper interviews William J. Bryan could scarcely have omitted reference to free silver in his Jersey City speech without stultifying himself to a degree impossible even to Mr. Bryan. Nevertheless, he had regard for the feelings of the Hon. Robert Davis, and his silver roar was but little louder than that of a sucking dove. Trusts and imperialism Mr. Bryan attacked with all his old-time fervor and frenzy, but the money question was handled most delicately, even though "Farmer Orator" Martine assured him that it was unnecessary to apologize for free silver. Upon the whole, Mr. Davis and Mr. Daly have reason to compliment themselves upon the consideration shown them by Mr. Bryan.—Newark News.

Don't forget the matinee performance at Music Hall tomorrow afternoon. The new Rural Comedy Drama, "Hi Hubbard," is the attraction, and a better and more wholesome play for ladies and children could not be imagined. It tells of honest country life and in New York City, where it was a great success at the Third Ave. Theatre. It was considered equal to "The Village Postmaster" and "Way Down East." A special feature of the performance will be solo band and orchestra carried by the company, and in the parade which will be seen on our principal streets tomorrow noon, "The Sleepy Hollow Band" will afford much merriment. New and beautiful scenery will be seen also. Prices for the matinee will be 15 cents for children 12 and under, and 25 cents for adults.

There has always been a difference of opinion as to which of William Gillette's two most famous comedies, "All the Comforts of Home," and "The Private Secretary" was the funnier. Without entering this controversy, it may be pointed out that the former certainly has the most vitality, and is apparently the most enduring in the affections of theatre goers. The phenomenal success which attended the recent revival of "All the Comforts of Home" in New York, led to the sending out of the company on a tour, and this company is announced to appear at Music Hall Tuesday next. The organization, which is headed by Miss Myrtle Edwards and Guy Taylor Bennette, is composed of players of players of reputation and carries a duplicate of all the original scenery, as well as otherwise presenting the comedy with all that careful attention to detail which characterizes the famous Frohman productions.

John Kernell and Tim Cronin and their latest Irish success, "What Happened to Reilly," will be presented at Music Hall next Thursday night and it is said to be away up-to-date, and as full of fun as an egg is of meat. The people in it have all been selected with a special eye to their fitness for the parts they play. The stars and play have been well received elsewhere, and a jolly evening may be anticipated by our theatre-goers.

The remarkable intelligence of horses has never been more forcibly shown on the stage than in "Ben-Hur." Eight are used in the wonderfully realistic chariot race. In a "front scene," representing the exterior of the circus in Antioch, Sanballat, the agent of Simonides, jeers the Roman, Messala, and his friends, into wagers at great odds against Ben-Hur. His last wager is "five talents against five talents that Ben-Hur will win." Threatened by the Romans he declares: "This offer holds. Till the race is run I may be found in the seat of the consul." Sanballat enters the arena, followed by the crowd. The moment he reads this line the thunder of the hoofs of galloping horses is heard. The animals always start of their own volition. They know their cue and begin the race without any prompting from their drivers. They evidently listen for Sanballat's final line.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

O. B. Leonard, of Perth Amboy, has been visiting relatives in this city.

—Miantonomo tribe of Red Men will hold a regular meeting this evening.

—An important meeting of the Sons of Veterans will be held next week Tuesday evening.

—Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will meet this evening and a full attendance of members is desired.

—The Plainfield Hygiea Ice Company plant has shut down for a time to make some changes in the machinery.

—Borough Collector Brown has about completed his report, which will be presented at the annual meeting.

—The sale of stock and fixtures formerly belonging to Julius J. Stahl will be held by the assignee next week Tuesday.

—The Division Encampment of the Sons of Veterans will be held at Paterson next month and it promises to be one of the best encampments ever held.

—The furnishings belonging to the W. C. T. U. are being removed from East Front street to the new place of meeting on Madison avenue in the Babcock building.

—Fred Endress, the butcher, says confidence is a simple thing, but it has sold more meat for him than pages of advertising. You risk nothing by buying your meat of him.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

Frank Whiteside, of the News, is detained at his home by illness.

Grace Vail, of Elmwood place, has about recovered from an attack of the mumps.

The Misses Runyon, of East Sixth street, have returned from a visit at Stelton.

Miss Mabel Carney, of Central avenue, has about recovered from a slight illness.

Former Councilman F. E. Marsh of Madison avenue, who is critically ill, is no better.

Miss Romie Giles, of the Babcock building, is able to be out again after a slight illness.

G. Elston Woodland has returned to Trenton, after a short visit with Plainfield friends.

B. W. Hand, the West Front street stationer, has returned to business after a short illness.

A baby boy has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christianson, of South Second street,

A slight improvement was reported last evening in the condition of George Demler, of Watchung.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robinson, of East Fifth street, have returned after a visit at Philadelphia.

Herbert Woodland, of Flemington, who has been visiting relatives in the borough, has returned.

W. J. Allen, of Clinton, who has been spending a short time in town with friends, has returned.

Mrs. Apgar, of New York, who has been visiting her parents on East Fourth street, has returned home,

The Misses Frentz, of Scotch Plains, have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Fifth street.

—An entertainment will be given this evening in Vincent chapel under the auspices of the Epworth League.

In the near future a concert is to be given at New Brunswick when Miss Raybert, of this city, will appear as one of the entertainers.

Mrs. G. M Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, is home after a southern trip with her husband. He is still absent on a business trip.

This afternoon a reception and tea will be given in the parish house of the Holy Cross church under the auspices of the Woman's Guild.

The last issue of The Railroad Employe contains a picture of Fred Van-Liew, who is now assistant terminal superintendent of the Jersey Central.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Sisk, of LaGrande avenue, entertained a number of friends at their home. The evening was pleasantly passed in listening to good vocal and instrumental music, and in having a general good social time. At a late hour supper was served. A feature was dancing which all enjoyed.

MAY BREAK A DEADLOCK.

Superintendent of Rahway Schools, Who was to be Superseded, Brings Suit for Salary.

The deadlock existing for nearly a year in the Board of Education of Rahway over the appointment of a public school superintendent to succeed William O. Robertson, a Republican, will now likely be broken. The board was tied in the selection of a successor, and during the deadlock it refused to pay Superintendent Robertson his salary, although he presented his bill in due form and at proper time each month, declaring that the by-laws of the board stated that a superintendent should hold office and receive pay until his successor shall have qualified.

Tuesday night the City Council was served with a summons to appear before the Supreme Court, at Trenton January 25, and there show cause why Superintendent Robertson should not be paid his salary. Councilman William Howard moved that the matter be allowed to go by default. The motion was carried, and means that the matter will not be contested. The Board of Education and the Mayor of the city were also cited to appear before the Court, but they have taken the same action, and it is believed that Superintendent Robertson will win and get his back pay, and that a successor will shortly be appointed.

Another New Lodge.

Former Councilman W. A. Westphal is organizing a lodge of the Order of the Iroquois in this city. He has been appointed a deputy organizer and is meeting with excellent success.

Cured the Queen's Cold.

For the first time the great home remedies prescribed by the late Sir James Simpson, physician in ordinary to her Majesty Queen Victoria, are being put up in this country, where they are already commanding an enormous sale, under the name of Sovereign Remedies. This profound scholar and scientist who was the first to introduce chloroform into England as an anaesthetic, thereby saving the afflicted from untold sufferings, and whose statue in bronze now stands in West Princes Street Gardens, Edinburgh, devoted his entire life to the study of the effects of medicines, and his knowleege of the pharmacopœia was so broad that his contributions to the literature of his profession on the subject of allopathy and homœopathy are the standard works of the day. In his prescriptions he selected from either. He acknowledged no school but his own. His sole object was to gain results, and after a life crowned with honer and success he has left perhaps the most valuable lot of prescriptions extant. His remedy for colds was the only one that Queen Victoria relied upon, and which she has by her at all times for immediate use.

These invaluable prescriptions have been generally used in England for over a quarter of a century and have received immediate recognition in the United States for their Sovereign virtues. It is a little less than a year since the Sovereign Remedy Company began to put up the prescriptions in this country, and now it has agencies all over the east, and as far west as Cleveland, and is preparing to extend them to the Pacific coast during the coming spring. It is decidedly novel to see a distinct line of home remedies on the market which combine in their ingredients the discoveries of both the old and the new school, reflecting the highest derivations of each. This is one of the features which the company prides itself on, that it is not attacking any school, acknowledging the value of both, drawing unreservedly from them for the best ingredients, essential to the best results. It has now twenty-seven remedies, the majority of them being Sir James Simpson's, and the balance scientifically determined by the most learned physicians of Europe and America. Other remedies are being gradually added as their absolute and specific value is proved, and Sovereign remedies have undoubtedly come to stay on the simple ground of efficiency right along the line. The medicines are put up in tablet and triturated form, and are sold everywhere.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Uncle Sam had adopted a new kind of a mail pouch that is an improvement over the old style. They can be fastened in an instant and with little or no trouble. The first one of these new pouches reached Plainfield a few days ago. Others will soon be in use as the old ones wear out and become valueless.

Silas Dewey Drake, who has a happy way of bringing factories and various kinds of enterprises to Plainfield, is about to undertake an enterprise of great magnitude. He is going to erect a soldiers' monument that will be a credit to the city and the veterans of the Civil War and those of the late war with Spain. It will be large and imposing. Mayor Drake says that if it is possible to erect a monument at Lincoln, surely Plainfield can have one, and he is going to make it his business to see that the monument is erected.

"The Harvard Crimson" says that one hundred years ago Joseph Willard was president of Harvard, with a salary of $1,400 a year, in addition to fees for degrees and grants of land. Eight of the present thirty-five endowed professorships existed then. There were six tutors and one instructor. There are now 135 instructors and one tutor. Of the forty-six buildings now built or being built, there were five standing in 1800—Massachusetts and Hollis, the chief dormitories; Wadsworth House, the home of the president; Harvard Hall, in which were the chapel, library and dining room, and Holden Chapel. In 1863 the first catalogue of the university was published on one sheet of paper. There were sixty-five men in the senior, sixty one in the junior, fifty in the sophomore and fifty-seven in the freshman class. The most successful student societies, which were becoming popular in 1800, were the Institute of 1770 and the Porcellian and Hasty Pudding clubs, all of which are flourishing today.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Hier fand zwischen dem Generaldirektor der Nordbahn, Zeitteles, und dem Rechtsanwalt Eder ein Pistolenduell statt. Nachdem bei zweimaligem Gange die „Mordwaffen" jedesmal versagt hatten, erklärte der Unparteiische das Duell für beendet. — Obgleich in Oesterreich die Streitfrage, ob Poker ein Hazardspiel ist oder nicht, juristisch endgiltig noch nicht entschieden ist, hat die Wiener Polizei dennoch vier Präsidenten hervorragender Klubs unter Strafandrohung aufgefordert, in ihren Klubs das Pokerspiel zu verbieten.

Bozen. Der Magistrat ordnete Nachforschungen nach dem Studenten Otto Wadwitz aus Dresden an, welcher bei Hochtouren im Gebirge verschwunden ist; derselbe ist wahrscheinlich verunglückt.

Budapest. Auf Grund des Beschlusses des Ministerrathes hat der Unterrichtsminister den obligatorischen Unterricht in der ungarischen Sprache in den Fiumaner Volksschulen angeordnet.

Graz. Der bekannte Schriftsteller Peter Rosegger hat einen Aufruf zum Bau einer evangelischen Kirche in seinem Wohnort Münzzuschlag erlassen.

Meran. Hier starb Herr Adolf Gumprecht aus Berlin, einer der treuesten Kurgäste, im 82. Lebensjahre. Er war lange Jahre hindurch Vertreter der Kurgäste in der Kurvorstehung und Mitglied des evangelischen Presbyteriums. Er war selbstlos bis zum letzten Lebenshauche für das Wohl seiner Mitmenschen in Wort und Schrift thätig.

Miskolcz. An den hier wohnhaften Ludwig Steinbrecher traf aus Langenwang ein angeblich von dem in Pichlwang wohnhaften Michael Gallo abgesendeter Koffer ein. Steinbrecher fand in dem Koffer die Kleider seines seit zwei Jahren vermißten Sohnes, des Tischlergehilfen Julius Steinbrecher. Alle Nachforschungen nach dem Absender Gallo blieben bisher erfolglos.

Neuhaus. In Münichschlag, das etwa 400 Einwohner zählt, sind 13 Kinder, die sich auf dem Wege zur Schule befanden, in einem Schneesturm erfroren.

Nachod. Hier verschwand das christliche Dienstmädchen des israelitischen Papierhändlers Emanuel Kohn, Namens Cervinka. Alsbald wurde von den Christen das Geschrei erhoben, es liege ein Ritualmord vor, und grobe Ausschreitungen gegen die jüdische Bevölkerung waren die Folge. Später wurde dann die Leiche der Cervinka aufgefunden. Das Mädchen ist offenbar ertrunken. Ihr Dienstherr, der von den Behörden wohl mehr, um ihn gegen die wildaufgeregte fanatische Menge zu schützen, als auf Verdachtgründe hin, verhaftet war, ist sofort von den Behörden ehrenvoll entlassen, dagegen der Denunziant, der ihn, wie jetzt fest steht, in boshaftester Weise verdächtigte, verhaftet worden.

Tarnopol. Barnet Grinberg, ein bekannter früherer Geschäftsmann in Seattle, Wash., ist hier unter der Anklage, Mädchenhandel von Oesterreich nach den Ver. Staaten betrieben zu haben, verhaftet worden. Grinberg hat in Seattle acht bis neun Jahre Geschäfte betrieben und ist naturalisirter amerikanischer Bürger.

Schweiz.

Bern. Weil er im Doktoregramen durchgefallen war, hat sich in Bern ein polnischer Student aus Warschau mittelst Cyankali vergiftet. Auf die Zeit, da er den Selbstmord auszuführen gedachte, bestellte der Unglückliche einen Kommilitonen zu sich auf sein Zimmer; als Letzterer jedoch kam, fand er den Freund bereits mit dem Tode ringend auf dem Bette vor. Herbeigeholte ärztliche Hilfe konnte keine Rettung mehr schaffen. Der Verstorbene war der Sohn vermögender Eltern und hätte nach den bestehenden Bestimmungen noch ein zweites und drittes Mal der Doktorprüfung sich unterziehen können.

Zürich. Die kaufmännische Gesellschaft beauftragte ihren Vorstand, mit den Behörden in Unterhandlung zu treten, damit die staatswirthschaftliche Fakultät der Hochschule dem Kaufmannsstande geöffnet würde. Die Handelsabtheilung der Kantonsschule wäre zu einer selbstständigen Handelsschule mit der Berechtigung zum Uebertritt zur Universität umzugestalten.

Luzern. Die Verkehrskommission von Luzern, Vierwaldstättersee und Umgebung hat beschlossen, eine dritte Ausgabe des in russischer Sprache erscheinenden „Führers der Centralschweiz, Berner Oberland und Gotthardbahn" zu veranstalten.

Glarus. Die Gesellschaft zur Ausbeutung des Goldbergwerkes „Goldene Sonne" am Calanda will zunächst mit einem Kapital von 60,000 Francs Versuche anstellen, ob ein rentabler Betrieb möglich sei. Als erster Aktionär hat sich angemeldet der Direktor der Berg- und Hüttenwerke von Monteponi auf Sardinien, der auch in Zürich wohnhafte Ingenieur Erminio Ferraris.

Zug. Die außerordentliche Generalversammlung der Dampfschifffahrtsgesellschaft für den Zugersee beschloß, den Betrieb nur fortzusetzen, sofern die Kantone Zug und Schwyz und die Ufergemeinden jährliche Subventionen von 4000 bis 5000 Francs fest übernehmen.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING,

BY ANNETTE CRAWFORD.

Some Of the Unusual Activities Of the "Unquiet Sex."

An anxious mother from Creston, Ia., with seven children to look after was recently en route to Wichita Falls, Tex. She had read of the perils of travelers in big cities, so she provided herself with a 20 foot rope and separate pieces of twine against emergencies. On arriving in a city she fastened one end of the rope about her waist and the other end to her eldest child. The remaining six children were fastened to the rope with the binding twine. They attracted considerable attention in changing cars, the 20 feet of rope trailing behind the mother and the little ones fastened to it at every few feet.

Mrs. William B. Lowe of Atlanta, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has been appointed honorary president from America of the woman's board of the Paris exposition.

Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson of Georgia, widow of the late governor and well known in the best social circles of the south, has just become state agent of several fire and life insurance companies. While it takes courage for a woman to enter fields where women are already in competition with men it calls for heroism for one to enter a line which has heretofore been assigned to men alone.

Mrs. Helen Morris Hadley recently started on a continental tour with her husband, Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university, to arouse the alumni of old Eli to the need of raising $3,000,000 for the bicentennial. She is a Vassar graduate and has always been at her husband's side in the preparation of his educational and platform work.

Mrs. L. Z. Leiter, mother of the vicereine of India, has just sailed for England. From there she will go to Cairo, where she will pass the winter with her two unmarried daughters.

The wife of General Joubert, commandant general of the Boer forces, has always campaigned with her husband and not only looked after his mess arrangements, even to cooking his meals, but is said to have inspired some of his military maneuvers.

The beautiful ex-queen of Naples took to the field more than once with her husband and, donning an officer's uniform, fought as bravely as any of his soldiers. It is said of her that when bullets and shells were raining the heaviest she would infuse new courage into her soldiers by showing her contempt for danger.

Mrs. Charles L. Fair received as a Christmas present from her husband a Russian sable evening cape. The softness and silkiness of the 30 skins that were used in its manufacture can scarcely be excelled. Three years were required for collecting and matching the skins, and their united value is in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Mrs. Emma Hull, wife of Representative Hull, chairman of the military committee of the house, is considered the best parliamentarian among the congressional women. She was constantly engaged in relief work during the war and has just been appointed a vice president of the Cuban provisional Red Cross.

The oldest known love letter in the world is in the British museum. It is a proposal of marriage for the hand of an Egyptian princess, and it was written 3,500 years ago. It is in the form of an inscribed brick and is therefore not only the oldest, but the most substantial love letter in existence.

Mrs. J. Von Wagner is the first woman in this country to pass a civil service examination for sanitary inspector. She is a New Yorker and a professional nurse.

The beautiful Marchioness of Londonderry, who turned the hisses of the mob directed toward her husband into cheers at the opera in London, is coming to attend a wedding in Washington.

Mrs. Winifred Sweet Black, a clever journalist of Chicago, is the only newspaper woman who has ever gone to the leper settlement out in that gloomy island in the Pacific. With Sister Rose Gertrude she traveled the length and breadth of the island, writing graphic stories of the wretchedness and misery she encountered. As Annie Laurie she is well known on the Pacific coast. It was through her aid that the Children's hospital in San Francisco opened its doors to incurable boys and girls alike.

Among the most precious possessions belonging to Mrs. Bertha Spitzy of San Francisco is an elaborately worded invitation from the king of Siam requesting her presence at a festival given in honor of the royal birthday. Mrs. Spitzy attracted much attention while traveling in the east through her musical talent.

One of the most important educational developments of the present day is being inaugurated in Chicago by Miss Mary R. Campbell. She is devoting her life to the study of weak and defective children. There are many slightly defective children but little below the normal who cannot without injury to themselves study in the ordinary private or public school. It is for these that Miss Campbell is working. She hopes to overcome by her method many of the mental and physical peculiarities and to bring their minds as nearly as possible to a normal mentation.

One brave woman who returned from the Klondike with a fortune in Cape Nome gold will go back to her home in Sweden to enjoy the fruits of three years' labor, amounting to nearly $100,000. She went to Dawson with her husband, traveling many miles over the arctic wilderness on snowshoes.

A Denver woman, Mrs. A. A. Blow, has suddenly become the intimate of princesses and duchesses abroad. It is all due to her being the originator of the idea of equipping the hospital ship Maine. The idea is generally credited to Lady Randolph Churchill. She requested Lady Randolph to head the movement on account of her larger experience of English life.

Mrs. Ray Devereaux, who was a special correspondent for the London Post in the Transvaal, has recently published a book the title of which is "Side Lights In Africa."

Miss Claire Ferguson occupies the unique position of deputy sheriff of Salt Lake City. She is also private secretary to the sheriff.

The "Old Maids' club" in a far western city, with the object of protecting its members "against the wiles of designing young men who seek to enslave them," has recently met with a setback. The president unexpectedly became engaged and married, another member followed her example, and now the few remaining girls of the "Old Maids' club" are looking askance at each other, and every one of them expects from sister members treachery or elopements, while the fate of the organization hangs in the balance.

Miss Fannie Mickles is the new pastor of the Christian church at Knox, Ind. She is said to be the only woman minister of the Christian denomination in the central west. Though this is her first charge as pastor of a congregation, she has shown herself capable of performing all the duties devolving upon one in her station, from performing a marriage ceremony to officiating at a funeral. She is about 30 years old, but she looks ten years younger.

San Francisco has a new fad. Boxing is listed as a womanly accomplishment. Physicians concede it the most scientifically beneficial of all exercises for the body and mind. Several fashionable women are said to be quite skillful in "the manly art."

New York society is enthralled by the beauty of Miss Phyllis Langhorn, a debutante of the season. She is one of a group of beautiful sisters from the south who have made notable marriages. Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Moncure Perkins of Richmond and Mrs. Robert Shaw, third, of Boston are all of the well known Langhorn family.

Mrs. Edward Pearmaine, the wife of a Boston banker, has not only brought up three beautiful children during the seven years of her married life, but she has also found time to add the degrees M. A. and B. S. to her A. B. received at Wellesley college in 1890.

TIME NOT VALUABLE.

Chinese Do Not Seem to Care Much for Rapid Transit.

They Travel Contentedly in Junks Making Two or Three Miles per Hour—Steamboats Few and Far Between.

[Special Hinghua (China) Letter.]

THE statesmen of the powers are planning the opening of China to the commerce of the world. The newspapers are discussing it. The Chinese people are expecting it, and the mandarins dreading it. But not many people in America have any adequate idea of what such an opening will involve, either to the outside world or to the middle kingdom itself. How much China is shut off from communication with the rest of the world can only be realized by knowing her means and methods of transportation. The native methods, which are the only kind that have been permitted in the interior, beyond the "treaty ports," and a few exceptions in north China, are about as crude and laborious as human stupidity could devise. The cheapest is, of course, transportation by water.

But hitherto all this has been done in boats or junks of the rudest pattern, propelled by rowing, towing or sailing. On what are known as "native waters," being all the sea-coast, rivers and canals not opened to foreign commerce by special treaty with the powers, steam vessels, both small and large, have been prohibited. A very few exceptions have been made in favor of small steam launches run under a special charter granted by provincial governors, who, for this unexampled liberality, would pocket a large share of the profits. All this will be changed by the opening of the inland waters to steamers.

Then, as in Japan, within a generation the clumsy old junks will disappear, and be replaced by steamers of all sizes and sailboats of modern pattern. Along the coast and on the large rivers junks are used in great numbers. They are built of thick pine planks, with high stem.

Their tackle is of the rudest, involving great waste of strength in friction; thus requiring double the number of sailors. The sails are generally made of bamboo and cane leaves, though canvas is now occasionally seen. The ordinary sea-going junk is of about 100 to 200 tonnage; though they make them as large as 1,000 tons. It is hardly necessary to add that these crude vessels are about equal in sailing capacity to Noah's famous ark, which was not intended to do anything but float; and the original pattern, from which all have since been made, must have been designed in the dim remote past, nearer to the times of that ancient shipbuilder than to the present. These "tubs" can sail with the wind, if they have plenty of it, and not too much. If the wind is high, or contrary, they must put in to some sheltered nook and wait for favorable weather, which may take a day or a month, or even longer. It is not to be marveled at, then, that there are no passenger junks running from Hinghua by the sea to the provincial capital, Foochow, only 70 miles north. It takes 48 hours to travel it by land, taking the ferry the second night, but that is much faster than these boats are likely to make it. A small steamer would make the trip in one night; but the government has persistently refused to allow foreign-built vessels to run.

CANAL BOAT FOR PASSENGER AND FREIGHT SERVICE.

Then these junks are the prey of pirates that infest this coast. They have their haunts on the islands and inlets of this rough coast. In little boats, that can be propelled by rowing, they swarm out upon some large junk that is becalmed. They throw fire-balls, they are armed with muzzle-loading shotguns and knives and spears. The crew is slaughtered or surrenders and is bound, all the cargo taken, and the boat set adrift. This is often done in broad daylight. The local magistrate gets his share of the plunder, and the pirates are not molested. Occasionally the provincial government makes a show of putting a stop to it, by sending an official, with soldiers, to the chief center of piracy. But due notice is served when he is coming, and by the time he arrives the leaders are conspicuous for their absence. The less guilty or innocent people of the neighborhood are caught and beaten, or "squeezed," the official and his train go back enriched, and piracy is soon worse than ever. This makes transportation by sea very hazardous.

All these impediments to traffic would be disposed of at once, by the opening of these ports to steamers; and the advantages following would be very great. The pirates would then have to quit their robbery. They could not overhaul a steamboat.

River navigation in China is carried on with great industry, if not skill. Not only do they use the larger streams, but the small ones, full of shallow rapids over which the boat must be almost carried by sheer muscle, are used for freight transportation and passengers. These boats for shallow streams are made with round bottoms and ends, 20 to 30 feet long, and are pushed by poles, carried and dragged up the streams, and float down.

It is a life of miserable brute labor that these poor boatmen live. A harder lot can scarcely be imagined. Yet these little streams must be used until roads are built for carts and trains. As long as the only competition is the shoulders of men, even this laborious use of navigation is the cheapest to be had.

Canals are more numerous in China than in any other country in the world, except Holland. The Grand canal in the north, and some others, were made for navigation; but the plains of central and south China are covered, whenever possible, with small shallow canals for irrigation. The water is pumped from these by treadmill pumps upon the rice fields, which must be kept covered with water all the time. But these canals are also used for transportation, little flat-bottomed rowboats being seen everywhere upon them, carrying freight and passengers.

That which impresses the foreigner most in all this is how utterly oblivious the native methods are to time. Two miles an hour is a fair average rate upon these canals, and 1½ miles is medium slow; three miles an hour is swift dispatch, with strong, fair wind and light cargo. When we are in a hurry we walk. Launches of light draught are sure to take the place of these wretched rafts for pasenger traffic in the near future. These well-watered plains are all very densely populated, and a swift passenger service would be well patronized.

IMPORTANT RULING.

Ohio Supreme Court Decides That Divorced Wives Cannot Be Insurance Beneficiaries.

The supreme court of Ohio has decided a case that is interesting to all fraternal organizations. It was a case where a member of a fraternal society died leaving his certificate payable to his wife, and it so happened that before the death of the brother, the wife had procured a divorce from him, yet he neglected to have his beneficiary changed. He left surviving him three children, and when the claim was made for the beneficiary fund by the divorced wife, the grand lodge resisted the claim. The children were admitted into the case as parties interested. The case did not go to trial upon the issue between the grand lodge and the divorced wife, the court holding that on the case made by the pleading, the grand lodge's answer set forth the fact that the beneficiary named in the certificate was a divorced wife, and that not being denied by the plaintiff, the said divorced wife, the court held that having procured a divorce she was not a party interested in the suit and could not maintain any action against the organization upon the certificate.—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

Veritable City of Padlocks.

Irkutsk, Siberia, is a city of padlocks. There are more padlocks on the shutters and doors of an Irkutsk store than can be found in an American city of 200,000. There are as many as three padlocks on some store doors, and every lower story shutter bears from one to five. The padlocks weigh from one to fifteen pounds. The popular size is five pounds and 2½ inches thick.

Shipping Trust in England.

The consul of the United States at Birmingham reports as an unusual event in Great Britain the beginning of an inquiry by the board of trade of that city into the shipping trust, which is said to be injurious to British industry.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 28—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TEXT.—Lessons for Simon and us.—Luke vii, 36-50.

This is a very touching and instructive incident in the life of Christ. The manifestation of the poor woman's love is touching in the extreme, and the happy way in which Christ used her act to teach the Pharisees an important lesson displays His wonderful ability as a teacher. Christ is being entertained in the home of a Pharisee. A poor woman whose sins He had pardoned comes with a box of ointment and touchingly anoints His feet, washes them with tears, wipes them with her hair and kisses them. The Pharisee complained, and in answer Jesus spoke to him a parable in which He showed that one loved in proportion as he had been forgiven. He then pointed to the great love of the woman as proof of the great debt for which she had been forgiven. We may learn, with Simon:

1. A lesson on forgiveness. This woman had sinned much, and yet she was forgiven. It is thus taught that the forgiveness of God can be manifested toward the very lowest of sinners. It was difficult for the Jews to comprehend this fact with all Christ's teaching, yet after Christ's ascension they did not comprehend the fact that the love of God and the forgiveness of God extended to the publicans and sinners. And do we fully realize it today? Do we not speak of men and women as hopeless, thus abridging the pardoning power of God? Do we not look askance at a poor wandering sinner who may by chance have dropped into the house of God, as much as to say, "This is no place for you?" And, if one does repent with tears and sorrow, are we not slow to recognize him as the child of God? The Simons are not all dead. Let us learn Christ's lesson to them.

2. A lesson on love. This poor woman loved much because she was much forgiven. She was not forgiven because she loved, but loved because she was forgiven. Do we love much? If not, may it not be that we do not realize how much we have been forgiven? Simon would probably think that Christ put His debt at a high figure, and often we do not realize the greatness of God's forgiveness in forgiving us. Is it not true that the best of us have been much forgiven? If we think not, let us try to see sin as God sees it, let us try to realize the enormity of that which separates a soul eternally from God, and we can't help but see that we have been much forgiven. And, being much forgiven, we should love much and should confess and manifest our love before men.

Sweet the moments rich in blessing
Which before the cross I spend,
Life and health and peace possessing
From the sinner's dying friend.

Here it is I find my heaven
While upon the Lamb I gaze.
Love I much? I'm much forgiven.
I'm a miracle of grace.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a "Bible reference memory meeting." Let each one recite from memory a Bible reference on forgiveness or love. These can be interspersed with appropriate hymns, prayers or remarks.

Bible Readings.—Ps. xviii, 1, 2; cxvi, 1-5; cxlv, 20; Isa. i, 18; lv, 1-7; Song viii, 7; Math. x, 37; Luke xv, 1-10; xvii, 11-18; John iii, 16; xiv, 23; xxi, 15-17; Acts x, 9-20; I Tim. i, 14, 15; I John iv, 19.

More Fruit.

More fruit. This is a very searching word. As churches and individuals we are in danger of nothing so much as self contentment. The secret spirit of Laodice—we are rich and increased in goods and have need of nothing—may prevail where it is not suspected. The Divine warning—poor and wretched and miserable—finds little response just where it is most needed.

Let us not rest content with the thought that we are taking an equal share with others in the work that is being done or that men are satisfied with our efforts in Christ's service or even point to us as examples. Let our only desire be to know whether we are bearing all the fruit Christ is willing to give through us as living branches in close and living union with Himself, whether we are satisfying the loving heart of the great Husbandman, our Father in heaven, in His desire for more fruit.—Rev. Andrew Murray.

The Danger of Self.

Dangerous as the devil is, dangerous as worldly amusements are, the most dangerous enemy we often have to encounter walks in our own shoes. That cunning, artful, smooth tongued heart devil, self, is the foe that needs the most constant watching and subjects us to the worst defeats. The flesh lusteth against the spirit and the spirit against the flesh, and these are contrary the one to the other. Paul had a tremendous battle along these lines, beating down his carnal nature by hard blows, and the old hero was able at last to shout: "I have fought a good fight. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D., in Christian Intelligencer.

God Was Preparing Them.

How often after those who are dear to us have been suddenly called to the better life we recognize that a strange tenderness and responsiveness to spiritual motives characterized them in the day or weeks immediately preceding the summons! They did not in the least realize that they were so near the end, but God was preparing them for it.—Watchman.

Sunshine Will Follow the Rain.

Under the storm and the cloud today,
And today the hard peril and pain—
Tomorrow the stone shall be rolled away,
For the sunshine shall follow the rain.
Merciful Father, I will not complain,
I know that the sunshine shall follow the rain.
—Joaquin Miller.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 28, "Lessons For Simon and Us"—Text, Luke vii, 36-50.

"To whom little is forgiven the same loveth little." Correctness of outward deportment is of much value in social life. It may exist with all degrees and varieties of inner sentiment. Courteous words and manners may be assumed when intensest hate and malice fill the soul. The one thing valuable between friends is sincere affection. Irregularities of expression and abandon of ordinary forms assist at times to express the depth and sincerity of the emotions. Love is the one sentiment above and beyond all else in value in human life and character. Warmth of expression varies as the love varies. What would be false and hypocritical, absurd and abhorrent in the case of one person may be the most natural and beautiful when done by another.

The cold iron has little resemblance to the glowing metal in appearance or possibilities. The difference is not all in the degree of heat and brightness. The more important item is the superior workableness of the heated mass. Blows which would fall useless on the cold bar speedily shape the redhot one into the desired pattern. Melted, the metal flows into the most delicate tracery of the prepared mold. Human lives are made more divine by the fires of love. Cold calculation and regard for law as mere form and ceremony may give an outward semblance of goodness and piety. The shape of piety, however, is wholly external in such cases. The inner nature remains in its original baseness and only needs to be stripped of its outer covering to stand revealed in all its deformity and hideousness.

The unloving can never comprehend the loving either in their spirit or actions. Only when the pulsations of affection thrill through soul, body and mind, melting, enlightening, quickening all faculties and lifting the whole being to higher, purer experiences and impelling to unusual courses, can we understand love and rightly judge the loving one.

Love sacrifices all it has in glad passion of self abandon at the feet of its loved master and finds supreme happiness in giving.

Selfish calculation can never understand this. It is sure to regard such action and feeling as foolish if not insane.

Simon had his motives for inviting Jesus to his house to eat, but it was not his devotion which prompted him. No wonder he criticised the action of the sinful woman and the sinless Christ, who showed Himself the sinner's friend and sin forgiver.

If we do not yet love the Christ devotedly, let us not criticise those who do or despise Him for receiving them.

"Love shall cover a multitude of sins."

With the Crowd.

There is much sneering at those who go with the crowd. It is thought to be a good thing to be strong minded and to show one's penetration and independence by being in the opposition, doubting and standing alone.

There's a deal of nonsense in all this. If the crowd is doing the right thing and going our way, it is absurd and may be dangerous to try to go the other way too rapidly. The important thing is to find out how the crowd is heading. If it is pointed all straight, it is a good thing to go with the procession. A caravan is safer to travel with in the desert than to go alone.

There is immense value in our great international conventions in impressing all concerned with the fact that there is a multitude marching our way and that there is power and profit and pleasure in going this path. Indianapolis and Toronto and Chattanooga are all valuable because of the awakened and renewed enthusiasm of the host which attended or felt the influence of those great assemblies.

Agitate.

This year we are to have quarterly temperance meetings in the League. Why not make these services occasions of power to stir up local authorities to the evils in your community and secure improvement? Are you not responsible in a measure, if not for the iniquities and crimes of the past, surely for the existence of the wrongs which exist unrebuked? Closing the eyes to a disagreeable scene does not change it. Closing ears or nostrils will not purify the pestilential morass or stop the groans of the smitten. Think of your relation to the matter. Ask God to show you the condition of things and your duty toward these conditions. Pray till the sacrifice of Christ becomes real to you and you become ready to sacrifice all for Him and His cause. Then talk. Talk and act. Agitate till agitation produces conviction in others and co-operation of effort to remove the dangers and bring in safety and sobriety.

Ultima Thule.

In solitude, on wings of prayer,
My soul ascends before the throne.
My only hope of help is where
My heart the Father meets alone.

In vain I search the works of man,
In vain the church declares it's well,
In vain the priest marks out his plan—
There is no sign infallible.

God only is my guide and stay,
My hope in hours of darkest night.
From His blest throne a single ray
Makes all my pathway glow with light.

Oh, grandeur of that hour sublime
When I unveil my inmost need
And feel each moment of the time
The heart throbs of the life indeed—

A life that pledges now and here
The surety of eternal day,
That knows no death, no hell, no fear,
But flames with fires of truth for aye!

Such, Father, is the life I know
When heedless of earth's noisy call
In solitariness I throw
My soul on Thee and find my all.

PAINTS HIS CHURCH.

English Clergyman Surprises His Brethren of the Cloth.

Funds of His Parish Were Distressingly Short, So He Turned In and Did the Work Himself, and Did It Well, Too.

Rev. G. M. MacDonald, vicar of the historic old Church of St. John the Baptist, in Spalding, England, has just given his brethren of the cloth an impressive lesson in practical Christianity and also won for himself the interesting distinction of being the first preacher-house painter recorded in the history of the English church.

For a long time the walls of his venerable charge had been sadly in need of a new coat of paint, but the parish was so poor that there were no funds available to pay for having the work done.

It was at this unfortunate juncture that the vicar proved the practical character of his devotion to the church. Instead of wasting time in idle regrets, Mr. MacDonald donned a painter's blouse and painted the walls of the church and school himself.

It was a unique undertaking for a clergyman, and one that has attracted general attention. It is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that Mr. MacDonald, unlike many other English divines, is not descended from tradesmen or mechanics, but is the scion of a distinguished English-Scotch family, whose most illustrious member was the famous Flora MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald is a talented antiquarian and was engrossed in his studies, but willingly stopped to chat a little in reference to the church-painting episode.

"I don't see any particular occasion for all this comment with reference to my having temporarily discarded the minister's gown for the painter's blouse," he said, "for I consider that I simply did my duty. As a minister of the church I consider that I should at all times to be ready to perform any service whatever pertaining thereto and believe each of the many duties to be equally important and dignified.

"When I came to this I found both the church and the school buildings in a state of extreme dilapidation.

"Even under normal conditions the limited resources of the parish would have precluded the expense necessary and this year we are even poorer than usual, for the congregation donated all its available money to the war fund.

"I took the matter in hand promptly and did all the painting myself, including spouts, woodwork and windows, and finally, with the assistance of one of my parishioners, succeeded in painting the roof."

"Is it not rather uncommon for a rector to perform manual labor, even in the interest of a parish?" was asked.

"Oh, not specially so," answered Mr. MacDonald. "The history of the church of England affords several examples.

"Rev. C. H. Wood, for more than 50 years curate and incumbent of St. George's, Preston, whose death was recently announced, was an expert carpenter, whose skill was always at the disposal of his poor parishioners. Household furniture of their pastor's design graced their cottages, and not infrequently were they interred in coffins made by the same hand.

"Another of my brothers of the cloth who achieved distinction in this direction was my old and valued friend, Rev. C. Sellwood Goodwin, of St. Aidan, Middlesborough. He having no edifice in which to hold services, suggested to his parishioners that they should construct one themselves.

"He himself dug the foundation and then with a gang of volunteer helpers to the number of 80, who labored in their spare hours, set about the work with such zeal that a few months back the building, which can seat between 600 and 700 people, was opened by the archbishop of York.

"A short while back the blacksmith of a Lancashire village was suddenly taken so ill that he was obliged to quit work, which at that time promised to be exceptionally brisk. There was no one to take his place, and his business would have been at a standstill had not the vicar, who in his younger days, for the sake of exercise, had often worked at the village forge, appeared opportunely on the scene. He grasped the situation at once, and, doffing his coat, proceeded to demonstrate that he still retained all his old skill by filling the smith's place until that worthy was sufficiently recovered to return to his duties."

BASKET BALL.

One of the decisions made by C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., as referee in the basket-ball game between teams from the Summit and local associations, was not satisfactory to the management of the Summit team and Wm. Jessup, the secretary there. As a result there has been considerable correspondence between Mr. Heywood and Mr. Jessup regarding the point at issue, and Mr. Jessup declared his intention of taking the matter before Mr. Gulick, the "father" of basket-ball. It is likely, however, that another game will be played here instead to settle the point in contest. What Summit objected to was that Mr. Heywood refused to allow a goal thrown by Summit on a foul to count, because there was a Summit player within six feet of the goal. Summit was given no other opportunity to make a try for the goal.

DAKOTA DIVORCE COST $750.

What Streitwolf Paid for a Decree That was Set Aside.

(Special to The Daily Press).

New Brunswick, January 26.—In the taking of testimony before Vice-Chancellor Pitney in the suit for a divorce brought by Mrs. August Streitwolf against her husband, the defendant admitted he had paid $750 to secure a Dakota divorce, which was afterwards set aside by the New Jersey courts.

Streitwolf formerly conducted a wholesale liquor business here. He has always been considered well off, but he testified he had lost nearly all his property in plunging on Brooklyn Rapid Transit and other stocks in Wall street.

The suit for divorce was brought in the New Jersey Court of Chancery two years ago by Mrs. Streitwolf on the ground of cruelty. Her husband contested the suit. Then he wrote to Fargo, N. D., and secured a divorce from his wife. Mrs. Streitwolf succeeded in getting a rule to set aside the Dakota divorce, and since then her own suit has been pending.

WOMEN OF TRINITY MEET WITH SUCCESS.

Rowland. The service was perfect and the wants of all were promptly attended to.

In addition to the above there were other attractions that appealed to those present. There was an apron table where all kinds of this necessary article was to be found. This was in charge of Mrs. VanDoren, Mrs. John Prough, Mrs. B. Frank Coriell and Mrs. Garret VanWinkle. One of the tables that proved very attractive was that where home-made candies were sold, and as a side feature a handsome collection of Japanese dolls were offered for sale. Mrs. E. H. Bird was in charge, assisted by Miss Minnie Williams, Miss Martin and Miss Griffen. In one of the class rooms there was an attractive table where the most delicious home-made cakes were sold. Mrs. Peter A. Emmons, Mrs. R. B. Rogers and Mrs. T. R. VanZandt were in charge there. One other attraction, but not the least, was the "mystery box," where for a small sum one could get a useful article. Mrs. E. E. Anthony took charge of this, and she did a good business. At all of the tables good business was the rule, and those in charge had no trouble in disposing of their goods.

In the culinary department the women were assisted very much by John H. Tier, Sr., who so generously carved the turkeys. At the door was to be found a person with an eagle eye—E. H. Bird—assisted by E. T. VanWinkle, who saw that no one entered without a proper passport. W. C. Startup added still further to the comfort of those present by looking after their coats and hats. The members of the society in thanking one and all for their many kindnesses, take this occasion to thank Woodhull & Martin for so generously allowing them the use of the necessary dishes. The affair will be continued this evening, when another large attendance is looked for.

The Pure Food Question

Has attracted a great deal of attention during the past few years. Pure food inspectors at a good, big salary are appointed, but we never hear of any attempt being made to compel the use of pure cooking utensils. No matter how pure the food may be, it will suffer by being cooked in a kettle that will scale off, and is not acid proof. Stransky-steel has four heavy coats of enamel—each coat burnt on separately—that's why it don't chip off in big flakes and get in your food. Just try one piece of "Stransky"—more good argument in that than in all our talk. Sold in this city by Woodhull & Martin exclusively.

Miss Randolph's Informal Dinner.

Miss Josephine Randolph, daughter of Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, gave an informal dinner at her home last night in honor of the four debutantes of the season, the Misses Louise G. Fisk, Fanny C. Cox, Lydia P. Ackerman and H. Efna Strong.

—A very enjoyable affair of last evening was the entertainment of the King's Daughters of Warren chapel by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ely, of Summit avenue.

IN HONOR OF BOBBY BURNS.

Jolly Time Enjoyed by Local Scotchmen on the Birthday of the Famous Poet.

In honor of the anniversary of the birthday of that Scot whom all of that nationality love to revere and praise—Robert Burns, the poet—the Scottish Thistle Club of this city last night arranged to hold a meeting that would serve the purpose of giving them a good time and honor the memory of the Scottish bard. The programme that was arranged was a most enjoyable one, and was participated in by nearly 175 Scotchmen and their friends.

The affair was held in Red Men's Hall. The committee in charge of the anniversary exercises was composed of Neal Head, Thomas Kenney and William Gray, who were assisted by the wives.

The early part of the evening was devoted to music and recitations, dancing and the sociability for which all true Scotchmen are famous.

At midnight an elaborate banquet was set down to, and after it had been served a number of poems written by Burns, and dear to the hearts of his countrymen, were read and recited. Alexander MacDuff was a recitationist of considerable ability in this direction.

WESTFIELD POLITICS.

Both Parties Have Candidates in View for the Spring Municipal Election.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 26.—The machines of both political parties in this town are being oiled up and gotten in shape for the spring campaign. The Republicans have, it is rumored, settled on Martin Welles for freeholder, Fred C. Decker for tax collector and Messrs. C. C. Dilts, E. H. Gilmore and former Township Committeeman George H. Embree for members of the township committee. Charles D. Reese, the present township clerk, will get the nomination for that office but it has not been decided upon who will run for assessor on the Republican ticket.

The Democrats are sure of electing Mulford M. Scudder to the board of freeholders and the present tax collector, A. H. Clark, will make Mr. Decker hustle for that office. For township committeemen the Democrats are talking of Patrick Traynor, a local grocerman, Robert A. Fairbairn, the wealthy stock broker, and W. E. Tuttle, Jr., a member of the firm of Tuttle Brothers, coal dealers.

T. A. B. BALL.

Annual Reception Held at the Crescent Rink Last Evening—Was a Success.

The twenty-eighth annual reception of St. Mary's T. A. B. Association was held at the Crescent Rink last evening. The weather was against it but it proved a success nevertheless. The attendance was good, fully a hundred and fifty couples being present. P. J. Reville was general director with James J. Kane as floor director and T. McInerney, A. McGinley and F. Egany as his assistants. There was a large reception committee of which Clinton A. Shannon was chairman. A delegation was present from the Elizabethport T. A. B. Association.

A SPELLING MATCH.

Pleasant Affair Held at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church held a sociable last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, Grove street. A feature was a spelling match between sides championed by George F. Brown and Dr. Kempton Browning. Dr. Browning's side won easily. This match afforded no end of amusement for all. At a late hour refreshments were served and everyone departed well pleased with the affair. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Susie Woodland, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, Mrs. W. B. Vail, Miss Mamie French and John G. MacLoughlin.

Entertained Whist Club.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Taylor, of Westervelt avenue, entertained last evening the whist club of which they are members. The usual number of games were played and the customary prizes awarded, after which dancing and refreshments concluded an evening of great enjoyment to all. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor proved again that they are delightful entertainers.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Bertha Landrigan, of North avenue, and John McElyum, of Baltimore, is announced. The marriage will take place at St. Mary's church Wednesday, January 31st. The couple expect to take up their residence in Washington.

S. P. C. A. Case on Trial.

The action of William N. Pangborn, agent for the S. P. C. A., against Ferdinand O. Smith, for alleged cruelty to a horse, was tried this morning before Justice Moffett. The Court decided that there was no cause for action.

—The Borough Board of Health will hold a regular meeting on Monday evening, February 5th.

ABANDONED BY BRITISH.

General Warren's Troops Withdraw From Spion Kop, So Buller Has Wired.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, Jan. 26—The War Office posted the following despatch from Gen. Buller, just after 11 o'clock this morning, dated at Spearman's Camp, Thursday, January 25th, noon.

"General Warren's garrison, I am sorry to say, I find this morning, had during the night abandoned Spion Kop."

It is impossible at present to say whether the British suffered a reverse, or whether the movement from Spion Kop was dictated by strategic reasons. Obviously, the position was useless unless guns could be planted on it.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Among the guests at the Wednesday cotillion held this week at Delmonico's in New York was Miss Katherine Reinhardt, of Netherwood.

Mrs. Julia Rushmore, who was been away from Plainfield for several months, has returned and is stopping at Mrs. Moore's on Central avenue.

John Young, an assistant of Civil Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, is confined to his home on South Second street with an attack of the mumps.

Hunting Big Game.

W. F. Mannix, a member of the staff of the Philadelphia Press, is spending several days in this city where he is engaged on a important assignment. Mr. Mannix was one of the staff correspondents of the Press in the Spanish War, and is well-known for the excellent work he performed during the hostilities in Cuba. He is stopping at the Hotel Kensington.

Last of Series of Teas.

Mrs. George A. Strong and daughter, Miss Strong, gave the last of their series of teas at their home on Central avenue yesterday afternoon.

The Jigger in Uganda.

Several sepoys were suffering from that African pest, the "jigger," whose scientific name of Pulex penetrans describes him and his habits concisely and well. He is an exact reproduction in miniature of the common flea (Pulex irritans), but instead of merely inflicting a comparatively innocuous bite he burrows under the skin, close to the toe nails for preference, and then proceeds to propagate the species. Unless he is very carefully removed the sores cause the most intense irritation and may lay a man up completely. The usual method of removing him is to widen the hole in which he has entered and then extract him, intact if possible, with a needle, care being taken that no eggs or young are left behind; the place should then be dressed to prevent festering. It is not advisable to march much after removing jiggers, but unfortunately it is frequently unavoidable.

I may mention that Lieut. Col. Macdonald once told me that during his first visit to Uganda some natives caught a leopard in one of the banana plantations whose feet were so thoroughly diseased from jiggers that he was quite unable to move or to defend himself.—Blackwood.

The Debt of Hospitality.

It is a question whether it pays to accept much hospitality. When one is over-indebted the strain shows in a certain obsequiousness of manner which is hard to conceal. The man, or more especially the woman, who is boarding, without the householder's gracious right of hospitality and welcome, is appreciative of kindness. "We'll ask Mary, for she's lonely," and thus begins a false position and a species of bondage. Mary comes and comes again, each time paying her way with amusing speeches and thoughtful compliments. She has a limited income or salary, which prevents her from living, as all women should, under her own rooftree. It is true she has a few books, pictures, draperies, perhaps furniture enough for two rooms, but she cannot entertain, except with chafing dish suppers or boarding house luncheons—hackneyed the one and dreary the other. Her friends come as apologetically as they are asked. So it goes. Mary becomes in time a social parasite, and feels, when out, like the castle buffoon of olden times, who must laugh and caper for his bread and salt.—N. Y. Herald.

A Murderous Missile.

Shrapnel shell is a beautiful and ingenious missile. It consists of a hollow, elongated shell, with a bursting charge of powder at the base, and filled with from 200 to 600 half-inch bullets, according to the size of the gun. It is fitted with a time fuse, which is "set" to fire the bursting charge at a given number of seconds after the shell has left the gun. The bursting charge in turn blows the head off the shell and sends forward the 200 to 600 bullets, which continue their course in a conical shower on to the ground.—Chicago Chronicle.

Women in Brazil and Japan.

The legislative bodies of Brazil and Japan present a rather striking contrast in their policies toward the movement for the freedom of women. The senate of Brazil has under consideration a bill to authorize women to practice the learned professions, and the Japanese parliament has just passed a new press law which prohibits women from becoming publishers or editors on the ground that "the discharge of such work by females is neither becoming nor desirable."—N. Y. Sun.

Voice Returned Unexpectedly

(Special to The Daily Press.)

DIED ON HER WAY TO BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. James M. Boice Expired in Her Husband's Arms.

HAD URGED HIM TO HASTEN.

HOUSE OF REJOICING FOUND HUSBAND AT DOOR WITH HIS DEAD.

Mr. and Mrs. Boice Were Going From Their Home at New Market to Attend a Surprise Party at Her Son's Home in Raritan Landing—There Was Mourning Instead of Joy.

On her way to a birthday party Mrs. James M. Boice, of New Market, died in her husband's arms at Raritan Landing, Thursday evening. The nearest house was that in which the party was to be held. They carried her body there.

Mrs. Boice and her husband were driving to the residence of C. N. Conover, at Raritan Landing, where her son by a former marriage, Daniel Conover, of Charleston, S. C., was awaiting her. It had been long since she had seen him, and she talked much about the joyful meeting in store for her. She was sixty-seven years old. She kept urging her husband to drive faster.

"We'll be there in good time," he said to her, but she seemed uneasy and overanxious to reach her destination. Afterward the husband remembered her haste and thought perhaps she had a premonition that she would never arrive there.

She fell back in her seat as they reached Hoey's lane. Her heart had grown weak. As her husband supported her she cried weakly, "I am dying!"

She did not speak again and Boice found that her pulse was still. He drove furiously to Conover's. There were guests from New Brunswick, Plainfield, Dunellen and many other places in the neighborhood.

The company waited the mother. They heard the sound of wheels and cried, "There she comes!"

A door was opened and a voice was heard shouting "Help!" They rushed out to find Boice checking his plunging horses.

"What is it?" they asked.

"My wife is dead," he said.

And so the birthday party was one of mourning.

WANTS A COMMISSION.

William B. Marchant Claims That He Was Not Paid for Negotiating Sale of Livery Stable.

The action of William B. Marchant against Daniel S. Roberts, who formerly kept the North avenue livery and boarding stables, was tried before Justice Abbott yesterday afternoon. The action was to recover an amount alleged to be due the plaintiff as commissions for securing a purchaser for the property. Mr. Marchant at first demanded 10 per cent. of the amount of the purchase as his commission. Afterwards he agreed to take two-and-a-half per cent. This was considered too much by Mr. Roberts, hence the suit. The court gave a judgment for $200 and costs. W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, for the plaintiff; Walter L. Hetfield for defendant.

HACKMAN GOT HIS FARE.

Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone and a New York Councilman Disputed the Charge.

Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone, secretary to President Guggenheimer, of the New York City Council, formerly a resident of this city, had a dispute with a hackman in New York last evening while in company with Councilman Brice. They refused to pay the charge at first, claiming it exhorbitant. Councilman Brice was one of those who drafted the hack ordinance and he said he ought to know. They finally drove to the Thirtieth Street police station and Sergeant Daly was called in. He said the price was too high. The two passengers finally paid the fare demanded, but Councilman Brice declared that he would see that the hackman's license was revoked.

Celebrated Her Birthday.

About twenty of the young friends of Miss Mattie Klein gathered at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Klein, 334 East Second street, Thursday evening and assisted in celebrating her fourteenth birthday. The evening was passed most delightfully with music, games and refreshments.

W. C. T. U. New Room.

Interesting dedicatory exercises will be held tomorrow afternoon in the new rooms of the W. C. T. U., 100 Madison avenue, Babcock building. The meeting will be conducted by Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson. All are invited.

WIFE WAS ILL-TREATED.

After Many Complaints Jacob S. Jones is Arrested and Locked up Over Night.

Numerous complaints that have been made from time to time to Justice Nash by the wife of Jacob S. Jones, of 222 West Second street, culminated last night in the arrest of Jones who was charged with ill-treating and threatening Mrs. Jones' life.

Jones, who is the district manager of the Mutual Aid Union Beneficial Association, was arrested by Constable Mattox early in the evening and brought before Justice Nash, who had issued a warrant for his arrest on the complaint of Mrs. Jones and her 17-year-old daughter.

When Jones was arraigned before the magistrate he showed evidence of being slighly intoxicated and displayed an ugly disposition. He was ordered locked up for a few hours and then released to appear at 10 o'clock this morning.

IN COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

PLAINFIELD BOYS WHO ARE ACTIVE IN THEM.

In Yale There are Several Persons Who are Proving Likely Candidates for Honors in the Various Sports.

Those who are interested in athletics, particularly at the colleges, have remarked on the number of young men from this city who have distinguished themselves in that line during the past few years. Plainfield sends its largest delegation of young men to Yale University, where Plainfield has been specially well-favored.

In football Westley Abbott, Raymond A. McGee and Charles Dupee have kept up the name of Plainfield at New Haven during the last few years. McGee also made a good showing for the crew while Carroll L. Runyon, now a Freshman there, promises to stand in the front rank of collegiate hammer-throwers when the outdoor athletic season begins. W. M. McCutchen is one of Yale's best men awheel. J. Vincent Rittenhouse, now a Junior at Lehigh, is a member of the lacrosse team from that college. J. M. Middledith, who recently graduated from there, also played on that team. Arthur W. Lederer won honors at Princeton on the baseball team.

Rhey T. Snodgrass, while a Freshman at Dickinson College, won his "D" by winning his quarter in the intercollegiate team race at Philadelphia. He also won honors by making the hundred yards in ten seconds flat. Ernest H. Rapalje, a former student of the Plainfield High School, is a member of both football and baseball teams at Rutgers College, while William A. Fisher, who graduated from the Plainfield High School last year, is considered an excellent candidate for the baseball nine at that same college. William Rushmore is the crack pitcher at Amherst. Jesse L. Hurlbut, Jr., who died last summer, was the champion intercollegiate pole vaulter. Everett Morgan won honors in the same event at Amherst. There are many others that could be mentioned in the same line.

It all goes to show that Plainfield is even better represented in college athletics than any other of the cities of its size. Wherever they go, the Plainfield boys are always bound to make a mark in whatever line they undertake.

PROGRESSIVE PATCHWORK.

Novel Kind of a Party Arranged by Congregationalists Was a Success.

The progressive patchwork party of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church last evening proved a decided success. It was held at the residence of Rev. M. E. Dwight, of Rockview avenue. Considering the gale that swept from the mountain and threatened to take everybody off their feet, the attendance was good. The evening was spent in making patchwork quilts for the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, the young women sewing and the young men cutting the pieces.

Series of Lectures Promised.

It is probable that a series of morning lectures on "Europe in Africa, in the Nineteenth Century" will be given in this city during Lent by Miss Dorothy Wilberforce Lyon, Ph. D. The lectures would have especial reference to the present situation in South Africa and Egypt. Miss Lyon has given a similar course in Elizabeth, and is also lecturing in New York.

Surprise Party for Mrs. Blair.

A surprise party was given to Mrs. J. R. Blair last evening at her home on Duer street. It was arranged by her mother, Mrs. Thomas Dowd, of Duer street. A number of friends gathered and walked in upon Mr. and Mrs. Blair who were completely surprised. A very enjoyable evening was then passed.

A MEDDLESOME TALKER.

NO DISSATISFACTION OVER WAY BRYAN IS TO BE RECEIVED.

The Editorial in the News Yesterday was Untrue, and Probably Founded on the Gossip of a Discredited Individual.

Listening to the meddlesome mouthings of an individual who concerns himself with the business of people that ignore him, the News yesterday attempted to show in its editorial columns that there was trouble among the local Democrats over the manner in which the arrangements should be made for the reception of Col. Bryan when he visits this city February 7th. The statements in the News, doubtless made on the authority of the discredited gossiper, are untrue in every particular.

There are no Plainfield Democrats who are objecting to the manner in which Mr. Martine proposes to entertain Mr. Bryan on the occasion of his coming visit. Mr. Bryan comes here as the guest of Mr. Martine, but the latter has no desire to monopolize all the attention of the distinguished visitor, an evidence of which is shown in the fact that the "Farmer Orator" will afford every facility that is practicable for as many people to meet Col Bryan as is possible. However, the talk of the red-tape business such as the News editorial suggested yesterday, is all bosh. As everyone knows, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Martine are both very plain men, and it would be highly inconsistent and lead to much bitter feelings to attempt to carry out what it is alleged some Democrats want done. There will undoubtedly be plenty of spontaneous demonstration when Bryan comes, and any effort to mark the occasion with a lot of useless dignitaries for the meeting or the holding of a formal reception, would be undemocratic and unsatisfactory to the very people that Mr. Bryan appeals to—the masses.

WITH THE OLD MASTERS.

Literary Entertainment Given by Epworth League in Vincent Chapel Last Night.

Four score of the members and friends of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church assembled last evening in Vincent chapel for the literary entertainment of the League. "An Evening with the Old Masters" was the title of the entertainment.

The programme included piano solos by Miss Symons, vocal solos by Miss Etta Raybert and Mrs. S. H. Tugwell. There were also a series of short papers on famous paintings and the artists. Harry Gee told of Raphael's "The Madonna of the Chair." Miss Derby described "Angel Heads," by Sir Joshua Reynolds. Raphael's "Sistine Madonna" was the subject of Miss Angleman's talk. Miss Luella B. Crowther described Leonardo de Vinci and his "The Last Supper." Mrs. A. B. Meredith concluded with "Aurora" and its painter, Guido.

Refreshments and a social time followed. The affair was arranged under the joint charge of the literary and social committees of the league.

FED 174 WITH TURKEY.

Trinity Women's Second Night Was a Successful One.

The turkey supper was continued at Trinity Reformed church last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, and the success attending it was almost the equal of the first night. There were 174 persons served with supper. The night being so cold accounts in a measure for the slight decrease in attendance, but the women are very thankful for the liberal patronage and are rejoicing in the fact that they will clear about $160. About everything was disposed of before the affair terminated and the amount received represents practically a clear profit. The members of the society feel well repaid for their earnest efforts in assisting in the work of the church.

Mrs. Brooks' Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, of West Eighth street, gave a luncheon yesterday at her home. It was a brilliant affair, fourteen of Plainfield's well-known society women being present. The decorations were very pretty, blue and white prevailing, even the china being a fancy blue and white ware. White flowers in silver holders adorned the table.

To Consider City Hall Project.

It has been arranged that there shall be a meeting of the special committee, having in charge the selection of a city hall site and probable cost of same, for next Tuesday evening, when a report will be prepared and discussed prior to presenting the same at the next regular meeting of the Common Council the second Monday evening in February.

NEW G. O. P. PAPER FOR PLAINFIELD

Republicans Disgusted With Editor Runyon's Policy.

COMPETITION IS ASSURED.

NEW PAPER WILL HELP MR. FISK'S POLITICAL AMBITIONS.

Definite Steps Are Being Taken to Start the Enterprise, Which Will be a Stock Company—The Idea is to Discredit the News as a Republican Organ and Take Away Official Printing.

Quiet but aggressive steps are being taken by a number of leading Republicans of this city, headed by Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, to start a new Republican paper in opposition to the present local Republican organ, the Plainfield News. For several years the News has violently opposed the Republicans in the policy and management of the party, and that independent spirit has been so manifest that at times it has annoyed the Republican leaders greatly. In the campaigns, however, the News has always fallen in line and supported the candidates, but sometimes in a half-hearted way.

It is well understood in political circles that Former Mayor Fisk desires to be a candidate for Congressman from the Eighth district, now represented by Congressman Fowler, of Elizabeth, and he realizes that a newspaper would aid his chances very materially. Together with several of his friends a canvass is now being made to see how much money can be raised towards aiding the enterprise, the idea being to make it a stock company in which enough Republicans would be financially interested to give the paper a boom at the very outset.

The intentions of those behind the project are to equip an office with all the modern typographical facilities, and turn out an up-to-date paper. It is expected that within a few weeks the project will be in such shape that definite steps will be taken to establish the office. Efforts have been made heretofore to start another Republican paper in this city, but they have failed. This time it is claimed that there will be no failure.

When the new paper is started and as soon as it obtains a legal standing, it will be made the official organ of the city on the Republican side in place of the News.

RECEIVED CHIEF'S DEGREE.

Two Candidates Worked On—Interesting Talk by Mr. Newcorn.

The regular meeting of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men was held last night. Two candidates received the chief's degree, while five applications were received. An interesting talk was given by Great Senior Sagamore Newcorn on the progress of the order as ascertained by his travels through the State. The membership had increased 1,306 during the past year. He also told of the meeting to be held in Trenton soon, when the ritualistic work is to be exemplified for the benefit of the order all over the State.

Watchung Postoffice Running.

Postmaster George A. Schmit, of Watchung, writes to The Daily Press to inform its readers that since last Tuesday, January 23d, mail has been received and sent out at that place. He says the mail is carried by J. Blimm once a day. As to the location of the office, Mr. Schmit says that it is directly opposite the Texier glove factory, and about two hundred yards from Demler's corner, and not half way to Smalleytown as reported.

Entertained Sunday-School Class.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bohi, of Grandview avenue, entertained Mrs. Powell's Sunday-school class last evening at their home. This was one of a series of such social gatherings and the usual good time was had by those present. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

The Ceiling Fell.

What might have been a serious accident occurred last evening about 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Hodge, on Plainfield avenue, when about half of a ceiling in a room just off from the hall fell and completely covered everything therein.

To Bring Suit Against Trolley.

A. Kane, of East Third street, dealer in flour, feed, etc., is about to start a lawsuit against the Plainfield Street Railway Company for damages resulting to his rig about two months ago, when a trolley car collided with it.

First Exposition Tour.

Mr. Honeyman's first exposition tour starts May 3rd, and goes to Norway, where two weeks of interior riding on steamers and stolkjaerres will make it the most novel trip of the season.

BROTHER VS. BROTHER.

DR. DOLAN OBJECTS TO JOHN F. DOLAN'S ACCOUNTING.

It Concerns the Mother's Estate, Who Left an Estate Worth $40,000—The Matter to be Heard in the Orphans' Court.

An exception has been taken in the Union County Orphans' Court to the accounting by John F. Dolan, a well-known contractor, of the estate of his deceased mother, Mrs. Ellen Dolan, who for many years was a prominent woman in Elizabeth, and who was a niece of the late Patrick Rehill, a rich Philadelphia contractor, who presented Charles Stewart Parnell with a gold watch that cost $1,000.

Mrs. Dolan, at her death a couple of years ago, was worth over $40,000, and she leaves three heirs—City Physician Dr. Thomas E. Dolan, of Elizabeth; Peter H. Dolan, a Bayonne contractor, and John F. Dolan, all brothers. Former Judge Gilhooly, of this city, represents Dr. Dolan, who makes the exception to the accounting of his brother John. Dr. Dolan claims, among other things, that bills for janitor's salary for the large Dolan tenement row at Elizabethport, and also wages for servants, should be disallowed, and that the executor should charge himself for the use and maintenance of a fine saddle horse, which is part of the assets of the estate.

Thomas F. Noonan, of Bayonne, represents Peter H. Dolan's interests in the contest, while former Assemblyman T. M. Kelly, of Elizabeth, represents the estate and the executor.

The most important asset of the estate is a wharf and water front at Elizabethport, which was valued at $2,200 in the inventory, and which adjoins Lewis Nixon's shipyard on the west side. It was learned today that Mr. Nixon had quietly purchased Dr. Dolan's interest in the wharf, the deed of which was placed on record with the County Clerk, and that Mr. Nixon had likewise secured an option on John and Peter Dolan's interest in this piece of property, which, it is said, Mr. Nixon will finally secure for $20,000. This goes to confirm the report that Nixon is reaching out for all the water front at Elizabethport in the vicinity of his plant that can be purchased.

There will be a hearing next Monday before Surrogate Parrot in the dispute over the accounting for the Dolan estate.

DEATH NOT EXPECTED.

Mrs. Catharine Kiernan Succumbed to an Attack of Pneumonia.

The death of Mrs. Catharine Kiernan, one of the borough's most highly respected residents, occurred this morning rather suddenly, at her home, 42 Steiner place. She had been ill but a few days with pneumonia, and it was thought that she would recover. Her illness took a decided unfavorable turn during the night and she passed away this morning. Mrs. Kiernan was before her marriage a Miss Walsh. She was born in Ireland. She was a devoted Christian woman and a faithful attendant and a member of Holy Cross church. She was the wife of William Kiernan, a special marshal in the borough, and the mother of Miss Kiernan, a teacher in the Borough Public High School. The funeral services will be held from Holy Cross church next week Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

TROLLEY CAR HIT UNDERTAKER.

E. E. Runyon's Vehicle Wrecked and Mr. Runyon's Leg and Arm Hurt.

E. E. Runyon, the undertaker, while driving across Richmond street into East Third street this noon, was run into by a trolley car. Mr. Runyon was accompanied by one of his assistants, and both were thrown from the wagon which was completely wrecked. Mr. Runyon's injuries seemed to be in the arm and leg, and he was obliged to go home in a wagon. The assistant was not injured. It is claimed that the motorman did not ring his bell, and as the wind was blowing very hard the occupants of the wagon were not warned of the approaching car.

Levied on Justice's Property.

Constable Mattox yesterday, to satisfy a judgment against Wm. H. Abbott, justice of the peace, levied upon two desks and a sign that were at the latter's North avenue office. The judgement is in favor of Jeremiah VanWinkle for an amount of $3.19 due for painting a sign for Mr. Abbott.

Chosen a Delegate.

At yesterday's conference of the Woman's Auxiliaries to the Y. M. C. A., Mrs. James E. Kimball, who was elected president, was chosen a delegate to the Y. M. C. A. State convention to be held at Passaic, February 8th to 11th, inclusive.

CONSUMERS WILL BUILD.

A Project on Foot in Westfield to Break the Monopoly Prices That Now Prevail.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 27—The committee appointed to consider a proposition to build and maintain a consumers' water and light plant held a meeting at the town rooms last night, but the weather being so cold there was but a small attendance. A committee, composed of the following gentlemen, was appointed to get subscriptions for stock in the new company: Messrs C. W. Harden, E. J. Whitehead, A. E. Pearsall, A. G. Anderson, Wellington Morehouse, Edward Harbison and Arthur N. Pierson. Supt. Doud, of the Union Water Company, was present, and after the meeting said to several of the members that as soon as the new company was in a position to supply water he would offer the town water at just half the rate that the new company did and that he would give a ten year contract.

COMING THEATRICALS

MANAGER EDWARDS ANNOUNCES SEVERAL GOOD BOOKINGS.

Three Performances Next Week That Will be Bound to Please—An Important Engagement is Pending for Feb. 12th.

A well filled house and highly delighted audience attended the performance of Vogel & Deming's minstrels at Music Hall last Tuesday night, but had the full merits of the entertainment been known, it is a fair assertion that the house would have been crowded to its utmost capacity. There has never been a better minstrel show in this city—one that gave universal satisfaction—than the Vogel-Deming organization, and we feel assured their coming again next season will be a welcome event.

Tonight the new rural comedy drama, "Hi Hubbard," will be seen, and if the endorsements of the New York press are any criterion a good performance may be anticipated. Mr. H. Horton, who personates the title role, is said to be a character actor of experience.

Next week we are to have three splendid entertainments.

William Gillette has written several charming comedies, "The Private Secretary," "The Professor," "Too Much Johnson," among them, but none of these world-famous conceptions achieved a greater degree of popularity than "All the Comforts of Home," which had record-breaking runs at the principal theatres of the world's chief art centres. This season witnessed notable revivals of former successes, and a revival which has attracted particular attention is that of "All the Comforts of Home," by a carefully selected company, headed by Miss Myrtle Edwards, and which is to be seen Tuesday of next week.

Everybody knows John Kernell, the funniest of all Irish comedians, and "Tim" Cronin, the most versatile of vaudeville performers. These gentlemen have united in the presentation of a great comedy success entitled, "What Happened to Reilly," which will be seen Thursday, February 1st.

What is said to be a masterful, meritorious, mirthful comedy, full of much merit, will be presented at Music Hall Saturday, February 3d, matinee and night, and is entitled "How Smith Met Jones." This farce promises a laugh with every line spoken and a storm of thunderous applause as the curtain rings down upon the fast and furious fun that it presents. Positive artistic novelties are interspersed with genuine, sparkling, humorous situations and complications. The story is clean, clear and bright, and is well-told by a thoroughly competent company of well-drilled farceurs whose every effort is made with the purpose of bringing smiles to the faces of all who desire to know "How Smith Met Jones."

An important engagement is pending for Monday, February 12th, which Manager Mazo Edwards hopes to consummate early next week. February 14th one of Lincoln J. Carter's latest dramas, "Chattanooga," will have its first presentation in this city, followed by St. Felix Sisters, Culhane's Minstrels, and the Macauley Patton Repertoire Company.

Mr. Newcorn Talked to Red Men.

At the union meeting of the tribes of Red Men in Paterson Wednesday night, one of the addresses of the evening was made by Great Senior Sagamore Newcorn, of this city, in the place of Past Great Incohonee C. H. Litchman, of Massachusetts.

May Amend Constitution.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church held a regular business meeting last night at which time several amendments to the constitution were proposed. Action will not be taken until the next business meeting.

ALEX. GILBERT WILL LEAD CITY CAMPAIGN.

Chosen Chairman Of Republican City Committee.

J. B. DUMONT IS TREASURER.

WILLIAM NEWCORN ELECTED AS THE NEW SECRETARY.

Ticket was Elected Without Opposition—Mr. Barrows was Not Present So His Name Could Not Be Used Even If His Friends Had So Desired—Ward Organizations Will be Formed — Registration.

Peace and harmony prevailed at the gathering of the Republican leaders last night. Only one ticket appeared in the organization of the new city executive committee and that went through without a break, meeting with no opposition. The entire committee was not present so action in some lines that had been expected was deferred until a future meeting.

According to the by-laws of the committee, a member cannot be elected to an office unless he is present at the meeting and gives his consent to the use of his name. The name of Former Councilman E. T. Barrows had been mentioned for the chairmanship of the committee to succeed Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, but part of the committee was in favor of returning Mr. Gilbert to the leading position on the committee. Mr. Barrows was not present at the meeting and that effectually prevented the use of his name, even had his friends wished to nominate him.

Mr. Gilbert was nominated and unanimously elected to the chairmanship of the committee. Councilman J. B. Dumont was made treasurer and William Newcorn secretary without opposition.

After the organization had been completed there was a general discussion of the approaching campaign. It was decided that it would be well to form ward organizations. Nothing was done regarding the advisability of securing a registration of Republicans for use at the primaries. If any action is taken it will be at a meeting when the entire committee is present.

There will be a campaign club started during the summer and the Young Men's Republican Club will undoubtedly be revived when the active campaigning begins. No details of the work were arranged, but the members spent some time in discussing the situation.

The meeting was held in the offices in the Marsh building, Park avenue, formerly occupied by Robert A. Meeker. During the meeting, the committee was offered the use of these rooms for a headquarters during the coming campaign. The offer was made by Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and was accepted and a vote of thanks tendered to Mr. Fisk.

DIED WHILE IN HER TEENS.

Miss Jennie P. Ransom Succumbed to an Attack of Typhoid Fever at York, Pa.

Mrs. Emma Ransom, of 437 West Fifth street, received word yesterday of the sudden death by typhoid fever of her daughter, Miss Jennie Pope Ransom, aged 16 years, which occurred yesterday in a hospital at York, Pa., where she and her youngest sister and brother were living with their father. As yet no particulars of the illness can be learned, but it is known that the other two children have been ill with the same disease, but whether they have recovered cannot be learned.

Mrs. Ransom and her eldest daughter, Miss Kittie Ransom, left last evening for York, Pa., where they will attend the funeral this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will take place at York. Two days ago it was believed that Miss Ransom would get well as she seemed to be greatly improved.

She was born between Dunellen and New Market, where she lived for a few years. She was well-known by many about Dunellen as well as New Market who will be pained to learn of her death. She was a favorite with everyone who knew her, and she made many warm friends at York. Mrs. Ransom has the entire sympathy of her many friends in her bereavment. While at York she will learn of the condition of her other two children, Arthur and Elsie, who have been ill with the fever.

Copies Now on Sale.

The book "From America to the Orient," published by Honeyman & Co., 181 North avenue, has not been on sale since the Christmas holidays, owing to the inability of the binders to supply copies. The remaining copies, however, which are not many, can now be had either at local bookstores or at 181 North avenue.

BRITISH DRIVEN BACK

Warren Yields Spion Kop With Heavy Loss.

DISMAY AND GLOOM IN LONDON.

The Fall of Ladysmith Seems Certain—Boers Hold Ten Miles of Strong Fortifications Along the Tugela River.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Seven days of fighting have left the main Boer positions intact and General Buller's army 706 men weaker, according to the official casualty lists, which seemingly do not include the Spion kop losses, as those last forwarded do not mention General Woodgate's wounding.

England is possessed by a depressing sense of failure, although not a word in criticism of her generals and soldiers is uttered. Not much effort is made to place a happy construction upon General Buller's bare 18 words telling of the retirement from Spion kop, and there is an uneasy impression abroad that worse news is yet to come.

At one of the military clubs last night the statement passed from one member to another that the war office had received an unpleasant supplementary dispatch from General Buller which was being held up for 12 hours.

The war office has the following dispatch from General Buller, dated Spearman's camp, Thursday, Jan. 25, noon:

"General Warren's garrison, I am sorry to say, I find this morning, had in the night abandoned Spion kop."

General Buller reports General Warren's casualties on Jan. 24 to be as follows: Dead, officers, 6; noncommissioned officers and men, 18; wounded officers, 12; noncommissioned officers and men, 142; missing, 31.

General Buller's dispatch giving the list of British casualties is dated Spearman's camp, Jan. 26, 10:25 a. m., so there has been no delay in the communications passing between General Buller and the war office. The killed include Colonel Buchanan-Riddell of the King's Royal rifles. He served in the Niger war of 1881. It is not clear whether the casualties include those at Spion kop or only those resulting from the fighting prior to the Spion kop engagement.

Probably as an immediate effect of the receipt of the news of the abandonment of Spion kop by the British force under General Sir Charles Warren orders have been sent to Aldershot to have the Fourth cavalry division in readiness to embark for South Africa early in February.

General Hector Archibald Macdonald has arrived and assumed command of the highlanders at Modder river. It is expected that operations will now be pushed vigorously in that quarter.

Harassed for hours by a heavy fire from the Boer guns, General Warren was forced to evacuate Spion kop Wednesday night after holding it for a day under an incessant shell fire.

The kopje carried by Warren in his night attack proved to be only a small part of the Boer defense, and the half hearted fight put up by Boers to hold it indicates a wily plot to lure Warren into a trap where his troops could be cut to pieces without any risk to the Boers.

No sooner had Warren settled down in the captured trenches than the Boers unmasked the guns they had so sedulously hidden through all the five days of fierce preliminary fighting. From a high plateau dominating the captured trench a tornado of shell and shrapnel broke loose.

The Boer gunners had the range to an inch. All the time their guns had been silent the range finders had been perfecting their work, and when the moment came to tear off the mask the effect of that concentrated fire was overwhelming.

And Warren was absolutely helpless in the trap. No guns had been or could be dragged up the steep hill that led to the trenches.

The position of Ladysmith is now considered hopeless. Practically all of Buller's army was engaged in the attempt to turn the Boer flank. The troops have been fighting without intermission since last Friday morning.

Mr. Spenser Wilkinson, in The Morning Post, writes as follows of the Spion kop loss:

"This is a serious matter, and an attempt will not here be made to minimize it, for no greater wrong can be done to our people at home than to mislead them about the significance of the events of the war. The right way is to tell the truth as far as we know it."

But facts from the neighborhood of the Tugela are scantier than ever. The censorship now is simply prohibitive.

The Standard, which thinks still more troops will be required and which comments upon the "astonishing manner in which South Africa swallows up troops wholesale without any appreciable result," goes on to refer to the continental jubilation and to the predictions regarding General Buller's check. It says:

"It is humiliating to find that the Natal terrain has been more accurately studied in Berlin than at our own headquarters on the Tugela."

The Times publishes the following dispatch from Frere camp, dated Wednesday morning and evidently written before the capture of Spion kop was known After describing the position of the Boers, actively intrenching and bringing fresh guns forward, the corresponden says:

"Their front extends ten miles, and we shall have to try to break it in the middle. Every prisoner says the Boers will never let us reach Ladysmith. This is their last chance of preventing us, for behind this hill lies open country without a single fortifiable position. Therefore they will strain every nerve to throw us back here."

A dispatch from Durban, dated Jan 24, says:

"One hundred and sixty Boers captured during General Buller's recent operations have arrived here. A Free State who is among the recent arrivals, says that President Steyn has been removing his furniture to Pretoria, where several of his officials have taken houses.

"It is also reported that no big guns are now left in the Pretoria forts and that the Boers have exhausted their stock of good Mauser cartridges and are now issuing cartridges formerly condemned by General Joubert. They are said to be manufacturing 12,000 cartridges and 200 shells daily at the dynamite factory."

M'KINLEY'S MATE.

Webster Davis Said to Be Slated For the Vice Presidential Nomination.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 27.—Webster Davis, assistant secretary of the interior and former mayor of Kansas City, has an ambition to become President McKinley's running mate this fall, according to the Kansas City Star. The Star says:

"Davis' closest friends here in Kansas City do not hesitate to express the belief that he went to South Africa on some mission other than in search of health One of Davis' warmest admirers tells of a conversation he had with the assistant secretary of the interior in Washington nearly a year ago.

"'I called on Mr. Davis in regard to a pension claim. He introduced me to Cornelius Bliss. Bliss talked of the future of Davis in politics. After we talked with Mr. Bliss we went over to see the president. Mr. McKinley declared that Davis was destined to be a great man in the nation. The president questioned me closely about the standing of Davis in the west and said that Missouri would be very proud of him.

"'After we left the White House Davis told me he was slated for the nomination for vice president. He declared the president had taken up the subject with him voluntarily. McKinley believes Davis can carry Missouri for the Republican ticket.

"'He was sent on his stumping tour of Ohio and out west for no other purpose than to let the people see him. The trip to South Africa is nothing more than a move on the political checkerboard to bring Davis into prominence.'"

Eulogies to the Late Vice President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The greater portion of the session of the house yesterday was devoted to eulogies upon the life and public services of the late Vice President Hobart. The tributes paid to his memory were not the usual perfunctory eulogies, but breathed the love and admiration and respect in which he was universally held. Those who spoke were Messrs. Gardiner, Stewart, Barker, Fowler and Daly of New Jersey, Mr. Payne of New York, Mr. Dalzell and Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania, Mr. Richardson of Tennessee and Mr. Griggs of Georgia. Before the eulogies began the conference report on the census bill was adopted and an attempt was made to pass a bill to pay the cost of repairing the Manila cable which Dewey cut just prior to his great victory. Opposition developed, however, and it went over.

Wood In Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Jan. 27.—General Lee, accompanied by General Ruis Rivera and the other members of General Wood's party, who arrived here on the Ingalls, paid a visit yesterday to the battlefields, General Lee expressing, as all military men do when they first see the ground, his amazement that the result should have been attained as it was. General Wood arrived by special train from San Luis about midnight. This evening the Cuban club will tender him a reception. It will be the first time that the club has paid this compliment to an American. The Cosmopolitan club will give a reception and ball in honor of the governor general Monday evening.

Dropped Dead In Detroit.

DETROIT, Jan. 27.—Colonel Louis Strassberger of this city dropped dead yesterday in the postoffice, the result of a stroke of apoplexy. Colonel Strassberger formerly resided in Baltimore. He served on the military staffs of three governors of Maryland, McLean, Lloyd and Jackson. Colonel Strassberger served for a year and a half in the Confederate army, enlisting at the age of 13. He had been poor commissioner and a city councilor of Baltimore and was prominent in business there.

The Archbishop Must Explain.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The government has already taken cognizance of the visit Thursday of Cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris, to the headquarters of the Assumptionist Fathers to present his condolences following the conviction of members of the order by the correctional tribunal and the subsequent dissolution of the order. The premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, has written to him asking an explanation of his attitude and words.

German Imports.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Germany's imports last year, according to an official statement just issued, aggregated 5,495,000,000 marks, which was a slight increase upon the previous year. The exports aggregated 4,517,000,000 marks, which was an increase of 141,000,000 marks upon the figures of 1898. The pig iron production for 1899 was over 8,000,000 tons, being an increase of 8 per cent.

Mr. Bryan In Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 27.—Colonel William J. Bryan spent yesterday in Delaware, making speeches here and at Smyrna. Mayor Fahey of Wilmington presided at the meeting in the Opera House here at night. The place was crowded to the doors. Among those in the audience were ex-United States Senator Higgins, a Republican, and Patrick Neary, a well known Gold Democrat of Wilmington.

Commander Carlin's Funeral.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Memorial services over the remains of the late Commander Carlin were held at the Unitarian church yesterday, and a large crowd of the officer's friends were present.

TO CHECK SENILITY.

Dr. Metchnikoff Claims to Have Discovered a Serum by Which Death May Be Warded Off.

Dr. Metchnikoff's discovery of an alleged means of checking senility is still the subject of intense interest at Paris, although the authors are still trying to prevent the premature publication of the results of their researches. The distinguished physician, however, received a correspondent in his private laboratory in the Pasteur institute.

"At present," he said, "we are only in the theoretic stage, but the surprising success that has attended our experiments thus far gives hope that we soon shall be far beyond mere theory. Until the best serum for use to the end of strengthening and invigorating the nobler cells of the human body is found, we shall be defenseless against old age, but this once discovered, the cells needing it are armed for the conflict with their destroying neighbors. Then death will become less terrible, for we can adjourn the final hour until the tired body calls for rest. The time assuredly will come when we shall be able to maintain for an indefinite period the equilibrium between the constructive and destructive forces of the body. I am not prepared to say that man ever will be able to live always. No one would want that. Some force apparently outside one's self, but really within, now commands that one should die. All of us will be glad of death at some time, just as we wish to stop eating when we are satiated."

DR. ELIE METCHIKOFF.
(Reputed Inventor of a Serum That Checks Senility.)

Dr. Mirey, the newly elected president of the Academy of Medicine, expresses regret that this so-called discovery has received such wide publicity thus early. "It has not yet come before any scientific body for examination," he says, "and until this happens scientific men will pay no attention to newspaper talk on the subject."

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER.

Determined to Remain In the Field, Although He Is Now the Richest Man in Great Britain.

The new duke of Westminster, who has just succeeded to his grandfather's titles and estates, is the richest man in England and bears one of the proudest names in the British peerage. But he is not too rich nor too proud to serve his country in war, and at this moment is an aide-de-camp on the staff of Sir Alfred Milner, the governor of the Cape of Good Hope and its dependencies.

The duke, better known under his former country title of Viscount Belgrave, will come of age next March, should he not fall in the campaign. He is a second lieutenant of the Cheshire Yeomanry cavalry. The romantic interest aroused by the determination of the young duke to remain in the field in South Africa, is increased by a recent discovery. It appears that the 600 acres in the heart of London, which constitute the chief wealth of the duke of Westminster, came into the family as the result of a runaway love match made by an ancestor of the present duke. In 1656 Sir Thomas Grosvenor fell in love with the pretty daughter of Ebury Manor, a house standing far without the city, and surrounded by five large pastures. This property became the dower of the bride and gradually London grew up around it. It lay idle, however, until the first part of this century, when the great-grandfather of the new duke conceived the idea of building up the estate with row after row of palatial houses.

Swords May Be Abolished.

The suggestion of substituting a Martini-Metford carbine for the sword an officer usually carries is being largely discussed in military circles. The objection against the sword is that, when marching through hilly country, it hampers an officer's movements in getting over rough ground, while a carbine could be used as a walking-stick, thus being a great help and support.

KOBBE'S EXPEDITION

Many Towns on Catanduanes Island Occupied.

LARGE QUANTITIES OF HEMP FOUND.

Americans Resisted at One Place Only—Natives Passive—Colonel Hayes and Captain Casteol Lead In Successful Engagements.

MANILA, Jan. 27.—A dispatch from Sorsogon, dated Thursday, Jan. 25, says Brigadier General Kobbe's expedition has occupied Sorsogon, Donsol, Bulan, Legaspi and Virac, on Catanduanes island. The only resistance was at Legaspi, where five Americans were wounded and 45 dead and 15 wounded Filipinos were found.

It is estimated that there are 125,000 bales of hemp in these provinces and 76,000 bales in the ports of Sorsogon and Legaspi. The United States gunboat Nashville's shrapnel burned 8,000 bales in Legaspi.

The expedition arrived off Sorsogon Jan. 20, and the town displayed white flags. General Kobbe and Colonel Howe, with a battalion of the Forty-seventh infantry, landed and raised the United States flag. The insurgent force, numbering 300 men, evacuated the place. The natives were passive.

During the morning of Jan. 23 the Nashville and Venus, with four companies of the Forty-seventh regiment under Major Shipton approached Legaspi. Filipino flags were flying, and the trenches were crowded. A detachment of 150 picked men, led by Major Shipton, landed on the beach about a mile north of the town, the Nashville bombarded the trenches, and the enemy retreated to Albay, whence they were easily dispersed to the hills.

About 200 insurgents, armed with rifles, forced 600 unwilling villagers, armed with bows and arrows, to serve in the trenches in the close range street fighting before the enemy fled. The Filipino dead were mostly villagers who were attempting to flee.

The expedition will proceed to Samar and Leyte, where the Forty-third infantry and a battalion of the Third artillery will be distributed.

The natives complain of lack of food resulting from the blockade. They are strongly opposed to the return of the friars. Native priests are officiating in the churches.

Lieutenant Colonel Webb C. Hayes has defeated an intrenched force of the enemy at Sariaga. One American was killed and five were wounded. A record of 11 American prisoners was found.

Captain Casteol, while scouting near Baras with his company, encountered 400 insurgents. He was re-enforced by Captain Gracie, and the enemy was driven to Tanay. One American was killed and one was wounded.

Editors Against Canal Improvement.

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—The New York State Republican Editorial association, composed of editors of newspapers in the smaller cities, towns and villages of the state, at their meeting here adopted resolutions antagonistic to the expenditure of $62,000,000 for the improvement of the state canals. A majority of the editors came from anticanal counties that under the proposition would not be taxed for the improvement, but they used the argument that the improvement was mainly for the benefit of through traffic from the west and that the cost should be defrayed by the United States government.

Fatal Mill Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—The Angora Manufacturing company's plant was destroyed by fire late yesterday, and one employee, Lizzie Blackburn, aged 17, is missing. Her body is believed to be in the ruins. The factory was located at Angora, in the southwestern extremity of the city, and employed 130 hands in the manufacture of cotton yarns. The fire started in the "mule room" and is believed to have originated from an overheated bearing on one of the machines. The loss is about $150,000, partly covered by insurance.

Filling of Signal Corps Vacancies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The war department has issued an order providing for the filling of vacancies in the signal corps by transfer from the line of army officers less than 30 years of age who have served at least two years and passed a satisfactory examination. The order provides that exceptions be made in the cases of officers with distinguished war service, when the age limit may be increased to 40 years. Another order allows 30 cents for every 20 miles of travel to discharged soldiers making their way home.

Graham Receiver Canajoharie Bank.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Edward J. Graham, national bank examiner of Albany, has been appointed receiver of the Canajoharie National bank, which closed its doors Thursday morning. He says it will take a long time to fully determine the condition of the bank and that it is impossible now to say whether it will ever resume business.

Worst Storm of the Season.

GENEVA, N. Y., Jan. 27.—The worst blizzard of the winter prevails here. A high northwest wind has drifted the snow badly, and traffic is greatly impeded. The streets are nearly deserted. Telephone and telegraph companies are suffering considerably as a result of the high winds. The mercury dropped 40 degrees Thursday night.

They Know Nothing About Miller.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—It is announced on the very highest authority that the Dominion police have no knowledge of the whereabouts of Miller, the Franklin syndicate manager, and that no representations have been made to them by any of the United States authorities in the matter.

Nashville Gets Famous Gun.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Secretary Long, at the request of Representative Gaines, has presented the city of Nashville a one pound Hotchkiss gun which was aboard the gunboat Nashville and which was the first American gun fired in the Spanish war.

Murderer Sentenced.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Archie S. Mull, convicted of the murder of Melville B. Lord of Nassau, has been sentenced by Justice Chester to die at Dannemora prison during the week commencing March 4.

HENDRICKS CHOSEN.

Governor Roosevelt Selects the Syracuse Man For Payn's Place.

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—Governor Roosevelt announced last night that he would send to the senate Monday evening next the nomination of former Senator Francis Hendricks of Syracuse to succeed Louis F. Payn as state superintendent of insurance.

In making the announcement he said: "Senator Hendricks was my first choice for the position, but on two occasions he said he could not possibly accept the appointment on account of his private business matters. I appreciate his acceptance very much.

"On Wednesday he promised me that he would accept. I wish to express my obligation to Judge Charles T. Saxton, former Senator Cuthbert Pound and former Mayor Green of Binghamton, each of whom I considered for the office and to each of whom I wrote concerning a possible appointment. Each of them told me that he earnestly hoped I would get some one else to accept the office. Judge Saxton desired to remain on the court of claims bench. Professor Pound did not see how he could relinquish his professorship at Cornell. Former Mayor Green has business interests which would interfere with an acceptance. But each said that he would accept it if I found it necessary to name him. Judge Saxton wrote to me a week ago urging me to prevail upon Senator Hendricks to accept. I have known Senator Hendricks for a long period. We were in the legislature together. He is an old friend of many years."

ENGLAND WANTS CANAL.

Should Not Let the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty Hinder.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Spectator, in the course of an important article arguing that it is entirely to the advantage of Great Britain that the Nicaragua canal should be cut, urges the government to "anticipate the possibility of the Washington administration raising the problem of the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in an offensive form by voluntarily offering to abrogate the treaty.

"We should thus avoid," says The Spectator, "being put into a ridiculous position by seeming unwilling to yield to pressure when pressure was being exerted in regard to something which it was our own interest to do.

"We do not want, in fact, to quarrel with America over not doing something which would be greatly to the advantage of the British empire. If the canal is to be made and cannot be under our control it is immensely important that it should be in the hands of a strong, friendly, neutral power, and, God be thanked, there is less fear of our being at war with America than with any other power in the world. We do not believe Canada would block the way in a matter concerning the welfare of the whole empire."

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Wild Animals at Auction.

ASHTABULA, O., Jan. 27.—The big circus and menagerie auction of the Walter Main shows is nearing a close. All the wild animals have now been sold to the highest bidders. Bostock Bros. of Boston bought more of the animals than any other showmen present. For a Bengal tiger they paid $410, for two leopards $650, two ostriches $200, one elephant $2,450 and another $1,600, a hyena $75, two kangaroos $200 and a female lion $500. The llama was purchased by Welsh Bros. of Lancaster, Pa., for $350, a zebra for $475, a hyena for $150, an emu for $90. Lewis Sells, representing the Sells Bros. and Forepaugh shows, purchased a camel for $125. A native buffalo, scarce as they are, was purchased by E. D. Colvin of Chicago for $275. A water buffalo purchased by William Sells of Chicago brought $100.

Mexicans Shoot Americans.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 27.—The mail from Guayamas, Sonora, Mexico, brings the news that a report is current there that six Americans, David Cusick, John Eldridge, George Lunt, Charles Burns, Lon Webster and Henry Williams, were shot during last week near the foot of the Bacatete mountains, east of Guayamas, by order of General Torres, who is in command of the Mexican troops now operating against the Yaqui Indians in the Bacatete range. It is said the Mexican troops found the Americans in friendly intercourse with the Yaquis, whom the troops have surrounded in the range.

Mr. Bryan's Virginia Visit.

BUSINESS REVIEW.

Woolen Market Brisk—Iron and Steel Lower—Wheat Higher.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

No news is not always good news. New business for manufacturers this year has been light in some branches and much below the production last month. It is perhaps too often forgotten that industries start this year with larger contracts ahead than ever before, and when half the work of the whole year has been ordered in advance there cannot continue quite the same activity in new buying.

The woolen manufacture has just opened a new season with the largest transactions ever known in a single week, it is said, but in most other lines contracts previously booked would make similar activity impossible. Yet there is seen enough of hesitation caused by advanced prices to make inactivity trying.

Iron and steel prices have been yielding for several weeks and are a shade lower for products than at any other time since the middle of September, though bessemer pig and billets are still so scarce and firmly held that only two sales amounting to 8,000 tons are anywhere reported.

Wheat has advanced to 74⅝ cents, with no clear reason for movement either way. Western receipts are small, in four weeks only 10,984,928 bushels against 17,290,257 last year, but the Atlantic exports have been only 7,737,474 bushels, flour included, against 17,037,383 last year. Pacific exports show a little gain, amounting to 3,311,236 bushels for the same four weeks against 2,175,248 last year, but this is of no aid to Atlantic markets.

Stocks are scarcely holding even their moderate rise since Christmas. The average for railways has declined during the week 23 cents per share and for industrials 79 cents per share. The industrial companies are declaring good dividends, and all know that many are doing an extraordinary business, but secrecy of management and excessive capitalization affect the list. Railway earnings continue enough to encourage investors, in January 11 per cent larger than last year and 15 per cent than in 1898, the latest week showing a gain of 15.2 per cent. There was some good buying, with steady demand for bonds.

Failures for the week have been 231 in the United States against 224 last year, and 38 in Canada against 33 last year.

THE TERRIBLE PLAGUE.

Alarming Reports of Its Ravages In New Caledonia.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—From Noumea, New Caledonia, comes the most alarming reports of the ravages of the plague which has been prevalent there since early in December. There were 16 deaths during the first ten days following the development of the malady.

The origin of the plague, an account of which was brought by the steamer Miowera, is attributed to the filthy quarters where a number of Japanese, Tonkinese and Kanakas were lodged. The scourge is believed to be local in origin, and all the Kanakas have been isolated on an island adjacent to the town. Up to Dec. 23 there had been no deaths among the whites, eight of whom had been infected, but nine Kanakas, two Japanese and five Tonkinese had died of the disease, according to the latest advices.

The western end of the town, where the infection first developed, has been fenced off with a high galvanized iron fence 700 yards long, including the water frontage. The principal business houses, official buildings and the banking and shipping offices are guarded by a posse of soldiers. Twenty buildings in the infected quarter of the town were demolished by the health authorities, but despite all the precautions the plague continued to spread, according to latest accounts. Much alarm is felt by the residents, and business is quite at a standstill. The natives believe the plague is a visitation of Providence and that it is wrong to take measures to check the dread disease. Their ignorance and superstition make the labors of the officials doubly arduous.

Collision In a Snowstorm.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 27.—Three men were injured, one fatally, in a collision on the West Virginia Central and Pittsburg railroad three miles south of this city yesterday. Frank Winterstein, fireman, of Cumberland was severely scalded and may die. John Nee, conductor, of Cumberland and Robert Allen, engineer, of Sinclairsville, W. Va., were badly injured. Their train had become stalled on a curve, and owing to a blinding snowstorm it was not perceived by the crew of another freight train approaching in time to avert the collision.

Andrade to Live In Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 27.—Census Director Dingman has sailed for New York on the Caracas. The family of former President Andrade of Venezuela, consisting of ten persons, has arrived here from Venezuela. Andrade has been residing in the suburbs of this city for several months. It is rumored that he will engage in agriculture now that he has been joined by his family and that Porto Rico will probably be his permanent home.

THE LOST URDANETA

How the Ill Fated Gunboat Was Taken by Filipinos.

BRAVE DEFENSE BY WOOD AND HIS MEN

Thrilling Story of the Fight, Capture and Final Escape of Five Survivors to the American Line.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The navy department has made public reports from Cockswain Greene and Apprentice Powers, members of the crew of the ill fated Urdaneta, describing the capture of that boat by the Filipinos last September. In indorsing the reports Admiral Watson says that they show that the little gunboat, under command of the late Naval Cadet Wood, was gallantly defended and was captured only because she was hard and fast aground. Captain Wilde adds to his indorsement the following:

"The conduct of Mr. Wood and of the entire crew under the terrible fire is praiseworthy to the last degree and reflects additional luster upon the brilliant record of the United States navy."

Greene in his report says that the Urdaneta grounded about a quarter of a mile below Balanga, on the Orani river, about 10 o'clock a. m. Sunday, Sept. 17. All hands were sitting around the deck playing cards or reading, waiting for the tide, when at 3:30 o'clock two volleys were fired from the shore, almost taking the deck. Most of the ammunition was below, but at Cadet Wood's order the men manned the guns and smothered the enemy's fire in about 15 minutes. Stone, the man at the Nordenfeldt, had been shot twice when he was relieved by Mr. Wood, who had been firing the 1 pounder. Within five minutes Wood was shot through the stomach, Gray had been hit, Stone had his ear knocked off and received another wound in his head. Gray continued to fire a small rifle after receiving his wound. Powers put ten holes in one man with a Colt gun. The Filipinos were invisible, so the sailors fired where they thought they were.

When Wood was hit, the Colt gun was red hot, the two firing pins on the 1 pounders were broken, so that the gun could not be used; one barrel of the Nordenfeldt would not fire, and three or four of the Lee rifles had broken extractors. Wood revived and ordered out the boat. Green advised that they stay by the ship until dark, but Wood insisted on trying to reach the other bank. The insurgents had reopened fire from concealed places, and the bullets were flying like hail when the boat got away, carrying the sailors who could not swim, while those who could hung on to the gunnet.

The Filipinos doubled their fire and rushed into the river after the boat. The oars were hit until finally only one was left, so the men started to swim ashore, leaving Wood dead in the bottom of the boat. Stone and Drummond were shot close to the boat, and Gray had been killed in the boat. Green was helping Herbert ashore, and Powers was trying to save himself.

As soon as they reached the beach 25 bolo men rushed at them, but their captain prevented them from killing the sailors. They killed the Chinese servant, Wy Lee, and Mitchell was shot while in the water. The Americans were confined in a stone convent for several days and then sent to Porac. Within two days that place was attacked by the American troops, and then the prisoners were carried from one point to another until in the mountains five of them made their escape and reached the American lines.

New York School Moneys.

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles R. Skinner has announced the apportionment of state school moneys for the year 1900, which is as follows: Total for cities, $1,889,563.57; total for counties, $1,835,924.76; state, $3,725,488.33; Indians, $3,511.67; salaries of school commissioners, $114,000; contingent funds, $6,000; state teachers' library, $10,000; total, $3,859,000. Among the amounts received by the various cities are: Albany, $40,466; Binghamton, $23,544; Auburn, $14,482; Buffalo, $143,689; New York, $1,242,156; Poughkeepsie, $10,945; Rochester, $86,674; Syracuse, $53,609; Troy, $26,532; Utica, $25,611.

Cashier Athing Arrested.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Henry Athing, 19 years of age, cashier of the Prudential Insurance company of Long Island City, was arrested here yesterday on suspicion of robbery. Young Athing was taken before a Long Island City magistrate and committed without bail to await examination on Monday. About ten days ago Cashier Athing reported to the police that two strange men entered the company's office and one of them pointed a revolver at him while he took $800 in bills from the desk and then fled with his companion.

Old Chicago Block Burned.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The five story Mason block, 92, 94 and 96 Washington street, an old Chicago landmark, was almost totally destroyed by fire last night. The intensity of the flames put to a severe test the fireproof qualities of the adjoining tall Chicago Title and Trust building. The damage to the building was about $35,000. The loss on furniture, libraries and documents will aggregate three times as much.

Diamond Thief Captured.

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—A diamond thief captured on Tremont street by Lawyer George C. Dickson in the act of trying to snatch Mr. Dickson's shirt stud was identified by inspectors as an old timer who has served several terms in penal institutions. The man gave his name as George Donahue, but he is known to the police as Daily.

Plague Stricken Town Isolated.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 27.—Official notification has been received of the appearance of the bubonic plague at Rosario on the west bank of the Parana about 230 miles by water northwest of Buenos Ayres. The government has issued a decree of absolute isolation.

Bishop Vincent's Opinion.

Widespread interest has been manifested in the scheme of the Topeka State Capital to turn over that newspaper to the absolute management of Rev. D Sheldon for one week in order to allow him to exploit his ideas of "What would Jesus do?" if He was running a newspaper on earth at this time. The fame of Rev. Mr. Sheldon's sermonizing on this topic is already fixed, but now that he is to have an opportunity to demonstrate by practical work the ideals he has given voice to, the experiment will be watched with extraordinary attention wherever modern ways of journalism obtain.

What manner of man Rev. Dr. Sheldon is forms a sidelight of the unusual project that is demanding study and observation. It will be of particular interest to Plainfielders to learn what one man whom they all know to respect and honor thinks of the man who is to put to practical test the delicate question of "What would Jesus do?" That man is Bishop Vincent, himself a former Plainfielder. In an article contributed to the newspaper that is to be turned over to Dr. Sheldon's management for seven days, Bishop Vincent says:

Mr. Sheldon is a dreamer. He has a strong, original and prolific imagination. He is a remarkable dreamer—a genius. Thus endowed, he is of necessity an idealist. His specialty is in the direction of philanthropy. While scholars in seminaries are speculating concerning sociological problems, Mr. Sheldon is experimenting; and as he dreams of the ideal possibility, he puts pen to paper and produces sanctified romance. He is a Christian socialist. Like Mr. Ford's "Peter Stirling," he is a "practical idealist." As his standard of life is the Christ who assumed humanity to show man what to be and how to live, he naturally applies his faith and power of idealization to the practical application of Christ and His ideas to the age in which we live. I have not yet seen any adverse criticism concerning "In His Steps," which I have been able fully to approve.

A Washington correspondent says that in spite of the fact that the majority report in the Quay case favors his exclusion as a Senator, it is by no means improbable that he may be admitted. Extraordinary efforts are being made in certain directions to not only bring recalcitrant Republicans into line, but also to draw Democratic support in favor of Mr. Quay's admission. Strange as it may seem, there are a number of prominent Democratic Senators—some even from the south—who favor Mr. Quay in this matter, one of them having but recently expressed his convictions that Mr. Quay ought to be seated. It will probably be a long time before the Quay case will come up for discussion in the Senate, inasmuch as the Clark case will have to be disposed of before the committee on privileges and elections will be ready to give its attention to the Quay matter. When the matter is finally determined, however, it need surprise no one to find that Mr. Quay is again a Senator from the Keystone State.

If Miss Allen and other pedagogues interested in the affairs of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association would take a special post-graduate course in condensing copy, they would stand a better chance of seeing their effusions in type. Letters making a column and a half of printed matter are out of all proportion to the importance of the subjects which these people are trying to bring before the public.—Paterson Press.

The Press hits the mark exactly. However, the fault of the pedagogues who seek the use of newspaper columns, is not theirs alone. It is one common to too many others who would reach the people through the newspapers.

Congressman Mudd, of Maryland, has introduced a bill to establish an art commission of the United States, the purpose of which shall be the examination of any object of art that may be proposed to be acquired either by donation or purchase by the United States Government. The connoisseurs of art will doubtless claim now that Mr. Mudd is the salt of the earth.

The fund in aid of the widow of Gen. Lawton now exceeds the sum of $93,000. A sum six times greater than it was at first proposed to raise. It testifies to the appreciation of the American people for such a noble soldier as General Lawton proved himself to be.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Here is something decidedly novel in the way of church entertainment. A stocking social was held at Fair Haven Monmouth county, a few nights ago for the benefit of the stewards' fund of the Methodist church. The persons who attended the social were charged at the rate of two cents a number for the size of sock or stocking they wore. Some of the men were charged as high as twenty-six cents, while the women's average payment ranged from twelve to sixteen cents. One of the men whose business it was to charge admissions said he would put Fair Haven on records as having the smallest footed women in the United States.

The Flemington Democrat-Advertiser tells how the recent incendiary fires there opened the eyes of the Grand Army men to a peril they had cherished for years. "Some years ago," it says, "Mrs. Virginia Clark, widow of John J. Clark, presented the Flemington Grand Army Post with a number of shells which she had secured during a visit to some of the battlefields of Virginia, shortly after the war, principally from the trenches about Petersburg. The shells were of all sizes, some being as large as a man's head, and most of them are still loaded. The post appreciated the shells very highly as mementoes of the bloody war in which they were once engaged. The post room is on the second floor of the opera house, opposite the Alex B. Allen building burned a couple of weeks ago. The nearness of this fire aroused the post to the danger of the unexploded shells, and on Saturday they were removed from the building and buried in the garden of Past Commander L. G. Burd—the least likely place to be unearthed by either spade, hoe or rake.

Both Satisfied.

"Papa, if you will not buy me that diamond ring I shall run away with the coachman."

"My dearest child, let me embrace you!"

"I am to get the ring, then?"

"Heaven forbid! You get the coachman. I have owed him his wages for eight months."—N. Y. World.

Deeds of Daring.

Inker—That was a bold robbery yesterday. Fellow took a piano right out of the house while the family was eating dinner.

Photographer—Humph! That's nothing. I took the new courthouse the other day right under the nose of a policeman.—Baltimore American.

Woman and War.

Mr. Simpson—So you are not steadfastly for either Boer or British?

Mrs. Simpson—No, indeed! I'm going to sympathize with either side, just as they happen to need it.—Indianapolis Journal.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Domestic Finish Only.

With our new machinery we are making a specialty of the Collar and Cuff trade. No stretching of collars so common with laundries using the old-style gloss-finish machine. Have you heard about our new turn-down collar shape? No? Well, try it; no break. Call and see us use it. Always welcome.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 27.—The members of the new Century Gun Club of Dunellen and New Market, which was organized several weeks ago, under whose auspices the deaf mutes are to give an entertainment and ball on the evening of Washington's birthday, are the following: Charles McManus, Newark; John D. Shea, Peter Redington, Edward J. Shannon, New York; A. J. Salmon, Lake Hopatcong; William Coombs, Bound Brook; Joseph H. and T. Frank Penrose, New Market; Edwin D. Heller, Thomas P. Heller, William H. Heller, Dunellen.

The regular monthly meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, recently held at the residence of Charles Dunham, on Walnut street, was well attended. After the business meeting the remainder of the evening was passed in social entertainment.

The following members of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., have recently had the oriental degree conferred upon them: Eugene Thompson, Harry Vail, Hervey Walters, Frank Humpston, Harry Dodwell, Wm. Shiveley and W. N. Apgar.

Rev. Thomas Houston, the blind evangelist and singer, is expected to assist Rev. E. S. Jamison for two weeks in February in a series of special services.

Sixteen new members have recently been received into membership by Court Dunellen, Independent Order of Foresters. The lodge is growing rapidly.

The choir of the M. E. church will sing tomorrow evening by special request the hymn entitled "Out of the Shadow Land," composed by Ira D. Sankey.

The next meeting of the literary circle will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Titsworth, Saturday evening, February 3.

The Epworth League topic tomorrow will be "Lessons for Simon and Us." Mrs. P. C. Smith will lead.

A special meeting of those interested in the Baptist church will be held this Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vliet are the happy parents of a son, born to them early this morning.

The sociable held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer Thursday was a pleasant affair.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smalley, of South Orange, have been visiting at Cedar Cottage.

A club room has been opened in Murphy's flats at Lincoln.

PLAINS AND FA

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 27.—Edward Fields, of Orange, who has been ill with typhoid fever for eleven weeks, has so far recovered that he was brought from that place to his parents home on Front street on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Fields is still very weak but is improving slowly every day and will soon be able to be around again.

A stereopticon entertainment will be held this evening in Firemen's Hall at Fanwood. Proceeds are for the benefit of the company. The entertainment programme will be followed by dancing and refreshments, and a very pleasant time is looked forward to by the company and their friends.

Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M., entertained a delegation from Central Council, of Westfield, at their meeting last evening. A very interesting meeting was held and a social time enjoyed in speechmaking, phonographic selections and Junior Order talk.

One of the mules driven to Acheson's provision wagon from Newark died suddenly at Walpole's Hotel sheds yesterday afternoon. The driver secured a horse at Allen's stable to finish the trip to Newark.

Three new cars for the Westfield and Elizabeth Trolley Company arrived Thursday. As soon as they are in operation a better and more reliable schedule will probably be in operation.

Rev. G. M. Shott will take for his subject tomorrow morning, "Vain Suppositions." In the evening, "What Aileth Thee."

No prayer meeting will be held in the Baptist church this evening.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cts. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"Hi Hubbard," which will be at Music Hall tonight, is a play that appeals to all classes of theatre goers. It is a simple story of simple folk, told in a simple way, as refreshing as a summer shower and as delightful as a breath of new mown hay. The pathos, comedy and sentiment are so beautifully blended that you forget your surroundings and live among the characters of the play, each one being taken from life and artistically reproduced. Interspersed during the action of the play are clever, pleasing and refined specialties, and every effort has been made by the management to give a strictly artistic and enjoyable performance, thereby assuring an entertainment that will please even the most fastidious.

* * * * * * *

Good clever comedy, witty speeches, comical situations and bright sparkling specialties, will be the chief characteristics of the performance of "All the Comforts of Home," to be seen at Music Hall next Tuesday night. Miss Myrtle Edwards, with a clever company, is playing the great comedy with Mr. Gillette's endorsements, and with all the equipment used in the original Frohman production, while every member of the caste was chosen because of special fitness for the portrayal of the well-drawn characters of the intensely humorous piece. Miss Edwards, by the way, has a role which not only gives her acting talent full scope, but also gives her opportunity to please her lady patrons by exhibiting for their inspection and edification, some marvelous creations of Worth, the world-famed gown designer.

* * * * * * *

Next Thursday night will be presented for the first time in this city at Music Hall John Kernell and Tim Cronin's latest Irish farce comedy success entitled "What Happened to Reilly." It is said to be one of the jolliest pieces now touring, and the company playing in it are away above the average of such organizations. Farce-comedy is a harmless sort of amusement, and though it is constructed principally to amuse, in some cases it appeals to the common senses as well as the risibilities, and instructs as well as entertains.

Councilman Coddington, of the borough, who sprained his arm sometime ago, is getting along nicely, and he thinks that in the course of a short time he will again have the use of it.

George Jenkins, of Somerville, who is employed by the Jersey Central Railroad, and who is well-known here, has been made a passenger conductor on one of the fast line runs between Jersey City and Philadelphia.

Hints of Shakespeare.

'This weather hints at Shakespeare, Tom!"
Cries Dick, as bellowing wind upswells:
"How?" queries Tom. "Why," answered Dick,
"By 'A Winter's Tale' the 'Tempest' tells."
"Good?" Tom replies, "and if you seek Another hint, I know you'll strike it
If you to Geo. O. Stevens go,
For there you'll get coal "As You Like It."

—With the exception of one clerk, the entire force at the Westfield office of the street railway has been laid off.

—Lawrence Kerwin, corner of West Fourth street and Rock avenue, is building an addition 18x30 to his place of business.

—Tomorrow the W. C. C. U. will meet for the first time in their new quarters on Madison avenue in the Babcock building.

Berlin. Im Laufe des Monats Dezember wurden in Berlin 50,070 Fremde beherbergt; davon entfielen auf Gasthöfe 40,466.—Berlin hat 6478 eingeschriebene Studenten. Außer diesen sind zum Hören von Vorlesungen berechtigt 882 Hospitanten, darunter 406 Frauen.—Im gesammten Weichbilde der Stadt wurden in der Sylvesternacht nur 133 Personen festgenommen, darunter 77 wegen Skandalmachens und Verübung groben Unfugs, der Rest wegen Trunkenheit, Schlägerei, Diebstahls und anderer Uebertretungen. — Das Hauptgebäude der Maschinenfabrik von Hoppe in der Gartenstraße wurde durch Feuer bis auf den Grund zerstört. Der Brand wüthete mehrere Stunden und war weithin sichtbar. Drei Feuerwehrleute wurden leicht verletzt. Die gesammte Feuerwehr Berlins war ausgerückt.—Der Begründer der Villenkolonie Wannsee, Geheimer Kommerzienrath Wilhelm Conrad, ist im 78. Lebensjahre gestorben. Er war bis zum Jahre 1882 einer der Leiter der Berliner Handelsgesellschaft. —Zur Nachtzeit sind im Waarenhaus von Pfingst u. Co., Königstraße 33, circa 12,000 Mark gestohlen worden. Das Geld, die Tageslösung, befand sich in einer schweren Kassette, die in einem eingelassenen Wandschrank festgeschraubt war. Diese Kassette ist losgeschraubt und mit Inhalt entwendet worden.

A gentleman in New York City who had been using Ripans Tabules with beneficial and satisfactory results, recently sent some to his mother, living on a farm three miles from Newburgh, N. Y. He said he thought they would benefit her. She is 73 years old and has for a long time suffered from various ailments that have rendered her more feeble than she naturally would be even at that age. Her most annoying trouble was frequent dizzy spells, and when one of them came upon her she could not walk across a room. The beneficial results she experienced from Ripans Tabules are best expressed in words used in a letter to her son. She said: "I feel as though I had taken on a new lease of life. My poor old head feels as clear as a crystal since using Ripans Tabules. They have done me untold good, and I will not be without them again—never!"

KLONDIKE PICTURES.

Some Peculiar Phases of Every-Day Life at Dawson City.

Capt. Jack Crawford, the Poet-Scout, Now Sells Ice Cream and Puts Up Lunches—The Cape Nome Fever.

[Special Correspondence.]

STORIES of the real life and condition of things in the Klondike mining district drift through with about the same reliability and directness as news from the seat of war in South Africa. The Klondike fever is radically exterminated, it is true, and no galvanic battery on earth is strong enough to resuscitate its germs. Like other fevers, it has run its course. It claimed thousands of victims. Battalions of venturesome and plucky fellows braved the dangers of arctic seas and northern cold to hew riches out of the bowels of the frozen earth or dredge yellow nuggets from the depths of ugly rivers and creeks. And other battalions staked all they had on mining stocks floated by unscrupulous managers of fraudulent stock companies. Out of the huge army of prospectors and investors a few struck it rich; the rest fell, metaphorically speaking, by the wayside of greed—impoverished in money, but enriched in experience. They all learned the lesson, old as mankind itself, that by the law of average the multitude acquires wealth only by industry, not by speculation or adventures.

But, however true this axiom may be, mankind is ever too young to heed it; and even now the goldseekers of Dawson are preparing to emigrate en masse to the Cape Nome district, on the Alaskan gold coast, where a number of prospectors have within the past six months succeeded in digging remunerative quantities of yellow dust out of the sand on the sea beach. By the middle of May the exodus from Dawson is expected to begin, and if common report tells the truth that city will be something like a deserted village before the mosquitoes bite again.

Claims for which vast sums have been paid and which have yielded favorable returns, will be disposed of for a song by their owners, who expect to become millionaires as soon as their feet touch the golden sands of Nome. Old-timers say that the men who will stay at Dawson will have unlimited opportunities to pick up fortunes, and that good claims can even now be bought for a song; a statement which reminds me of the old fellow who said that way back in the fifties he could have bought what are now choice corner lots in the heart of Chicago for a song. "Why didn't you buy them?" asked one of his cronies. "Because I couldn't sing," replied the venerable philosopher. And that will be the condition of affairs up at Dawson. There will be many fine properties offered for sale for a song, but the singers are few. Most of them spent all they had to reach the Klondike and have ever since had a hard time to keep soul and body together.

CAPT. JACK'S KLONDIKE WIGWAM AT DAWSON CITY.

Among the most picturesque characters of Dawson is Capt. Jack Crawford, famed as one of the ablest scouts who ever served in the nation's army, distinguished as a writer of verse and well-known as a popular entertainer. Capt. Jack went to the Klondike at the head of an expedition sent out by one of the numerous "trading and mining corporations," organized in New York and elsewhere. Before he reached the promised land the concern, in which he had invested all his savings, went to pieces, and when he finally arrived at Dawson he had but $200 left—a mere drop in the bucket in a country where gold nuggets are used as a circulating medium.

Instead of bemoaning his fate and sitting idly by to see ill fortune rob him of hope and enterprise, the gallant captain, who for so many years had catered to the intellect of large audiences, concluded to cater to the stomachs of hungry miners and established an eating house and general trading place which are as unique and characteristic as their owner.

He bought a Dawson town lot on time, erected upon it an edifice of wonderful architecture, and at once proceeded to advertise his "wigwam" in the following manner: "When in town stop at Capt. Jack's Wigwam. Warmest stable in Dawson. Grain and hay always on hand. Cigars and tobaccos. Good comfortable beds. Drinks of all kinds (soft). Warm and cold stor- Groceries and general merchandise. Special attention given to orders from creeks. Goods shipped promptly and satisfaction guaranteed. Agency for compressed air washers. One tubful of clothes costs more to launder than the price of the machine. Clothes can be washed in 15 minutes. Good canvasser wanted, lady or gentleman."

CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD.

The Wigwam is located just above the court house, and to attract attention to its precious contents Capt. Jack paid liberal sums to a sign painter, who, in letters well formed and executed in gaudy colors, tempts the passer-by to indulge in the following Klondike luxuries: "Ham and eggs, $1; coffee and pie or cake, 25 cents; coffee and sandwiches, 25 cents; figs, dates and candies; fresh cow's milk, 25 cents per glass." A special feature of the culinary department of the wigwam is ice cream, the price of which, unfortunately, is omitted from the signs.

The artist in letters further informs us that in addition to the numerous commercial pursuits already mentioned Capt. Jack buys gold dust and manages the letting and sale of claims in all parts of the gold country.

That this Pooh-Bahic enterprise has brought rich reward to a good man is evidenced by Capt. Jack himself, who informs his friends in the effete Mississippi valley that he has not only paid for the lot on which his wigwam is reared, but that in addition he has acquired a number of promising claims and some ready cash, the whole exceeding $5,500 in actual cash value. He furthermore ventures the assertion that in the spring he shall have glittering opportunities to invest some of his spare cash in gilt-edge mining properties and that early in the twentieth century he will return to his friends in the states a rich and prosperous man, but in sunshine, as he was in clouds, ever faithfully the plain, unassuming Capt. Jack of yore.

His success not only pleases his friends, but it forms a pleasing contrast to the harrowing hard-luck stories which have come from the Klondike region. It proves that well-directed industry and perseverance had to prosperity everywhere. And it also demonstrates that sobriety is the keystone of happiness. Many of those who lost their lives and money in the far north were the victims of their appetite. Capt. Jack, true to the conviction of a lifetime, never touched whisky, and while others sacrificed their manhood to the demon of drink he pursued the noiseless tenor of his way and laid the foundation of his fortune, all the while extending a helping hand to the sick and unfortunate.

Another cause of his well-being may be found in his ability to adapt himself to conditions and circumstances. Instead of waiting for something to turn up, he boldly engaged in a business of which he knew nothing, but for which, his judgment told him, there was a demand.

No man is so entirely lost in a primitive community as he who seeks to force things to come his way or clings to one idea. He will not only lose all he has, but degenerate into a slave. Many young men who went to the gold country persisted in delving for the yellow metal until despair possessed them who, had they made use of their natural abilities in other directions, might at least have earned enough money to return to their homes and friends.

The scenes which made the early days of Dawson notorious will, no doubt, be repeated directly in the mining camps of Nome, the new Eldorado; and the failures which make the very name of Klondike a hideous sound to hundreds of once ambitious young men will be duplicated.

Human nature is a mystery. No lesson of the past, however potent or cruel, will prevent men from making the mistakes "their fathers have made." No warning will be heeded until experience has impressed it upon minds otherwise rational. But perhaps it is well that it should be so, for if we were all to profit from the misfortunes of others life might become a burden by reason of its monotony, and the spirit of romance and adventure supplemented by a selfishness more repulsive than that which now mars our social conditions. G. W. WEIPPERT.

BEAR CAUGHT HIMSELF.

Climbed Into an Empty Dry Goods Box and Was Nailed Down by a Michigan Farmer.

Just outside our log barn, in the woods of Michigan, we had a big dry goods box with a hinged cover on it. We used to keep corn for the horses in this box. One winter's evening, after getting out the corn as usual, I forgot to drop and fasten the cover. Perhaps I had done so many times before and nothing had come of it, but at about midnight on this night the family were awakened by a great row at the barn. The horse was snorting and stamping, the pig in the pen was squealing, and the hens in the shed were cackling in affright. Father lighted the lantern and took his gun and went out, but for some time he could not make out what all the row was about. Then certain queer noises attracted his attention to the corn box, and he very soon discovered that some wild beast was inside. The cover was down, and as he lifted it he found a full-grown black bear inside. Before the bear could get out the cover was slammed down and made fast.

It had been an easy matter for the bear to get into the box, and it would have been just as easy for him to get out again if he hadn't got scared. When the cover fell down and shut him in he lost his wits and never tried to push it up. He tried to get out by tearing the box to pieces, but he did not succeed. When we knew just what we had caught we tied a rope to the cover and ran it over a log in the barn, and as I stood there and pulled at the rope the bear popped his head out of the box. Father was ready with his rifle, and as the head came up a bullet was sent into it, and Bruin sank down dead. He was so big and fat that we had to tip the box over to get him out, and from his pelt mother had a fur cape made which she wore for many years after. — Chicago Inter Ocean.

WINE BOTTLE GARDEN.

A Very Pretty Way to Make an Old and Ugly Bottle Quaint and Attractive.

Don't throw away that old wine bottle—make it a thing of beauty and a joy, if not forever, at least for many weeks to come. Take some cheap cotton wadding, soak it in oil and then wrap a thin layer of it evenly around an old wine bottle, beginning at the top and working towards the bottom of the bottle. Tie it firmly in place with a string at top and bottom. Fill the bottle with water, and then pour plenty of water over and through the wadding. Buy some water cress seed from the florist and scatter it liberally over the wadding. Put some twisted strands of wool, three or four strands in each wick, and four wicks for each bottle, into the bottle, so that they reach to the bottom and hang over the top about three or four inches. These wicks will draw the water up and distribute it drop by drop over the wadding. In three or four days you will find that your bottle is covered with the green sprouts of water cress, and that these sprouts grow very rapidly. As they grow coarse or long trim with a pair of old scissors, and you can keep this pretty green ornament as long as you please if you will only refill the bottle with water whenever you find that the wicks cease to distribute the required moisture over the growing plants. Do not keep the bottle too near the register or stove, and it will last all winter with very little care, giving you a nice green, fresh-looking ornament for the sitting-room table, if set on a plate to keep the dampness from spoiling the cloth or table.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Electric Whipping Post.

An electrically-operated whipping device has been introduced into some of the penitentiaries in France.

THE SEVEN CHILDREN OF THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

Of the seven children of the German emperor, three by this time are fast leaving behind them their childish ways. The crown prince, Prince Eitel Frederick, and Prince Adalbert have already their position at court, their special tutors and their private apartments. Of their rigid training many particulars have from time to time been vouchsafed, and very few English children would care to go through so severe childhood. That this training, though, has been justified by its results seems more than probable, and happier, healthier children than those of the German imperial family it would not be easy to find. The daily life of the princes, big and little, is on the following lines: They rise at six punctually, summer and winter. At 7:30 they have first breakfast, with the empress, consisting of tea and bread and butter. At eight lessons begin, the younger princes having lessons together and their elder brothers alone. This instruction is pretty severe, all the princes of the imperial house being, among other things, thoroughly grounded in foreign languages, particularly French. At 9:30 comes a second breakfast; then lessons again, with drill and military exercises, until 1:15—lunch time. After dinner they amuse themselves for a time, then science and music lessons fill up the time until six, when supper is served. After this comes a final hour of recreation before bed, the younger children retiring at 7:30, their elder brothers at nine. The crown prince and his next brother play the violin and piano. A sergeant major drills them, and an hour every day is devoted to riding. From their earliest years the children are put on ponies and learn at once to mount a horse barebacked. The emperor superintends these lessons in person, as he is a most skillful rider and very devoted to horses. Each prince has a pony of his own given him on completion of his riding lessons, and they are taught to stable their mounts themselves—unsaddle them and rub them down. The three elder boys are already officers in the army, with corresponding rank in the marines, and the crown prince is reputed to be "a born soldier." Prince Adalbert, who was placed on the roll of the marines as sub-lieutenant at six years old, and who is expected to become some day an admiral in the German navy, is instructed in everything pertaining to naval matters during the hours devoted to military studies. Little Princess Louise, who, with the two younger boys, Prince Oscar and Joachim, recently accompanied her father and mother to England, is brought up in similar practical manner, though with less regard to her playing any part in public, for the first essential in a German woman, be she peasant or princess, is that she should be a pattern haus frau. It is even said that one Christmas one of her presents was a complete apparatus for washing and ironing. Little Princess Louise, the only girl among six boys, is reported to be her parents' favorite, and for this reason was brought over to be shown to her great-grandmother, the queen.

FRISCO'S WHITE SLAVES.

Women and Children Who Work for Chinese Fruit Merchants for Very Small Pay.

Rev. Frederick Poole has said that there were at one time, if not now, in Philadelphia's Chinatown, white women who were little better than slaves to the Mongolians. This is true at San Francisco to-day.

There have been white men who considered themselves, like the Bill Nye of whom Truthful James speaks, "ruined by Chinese cheap labor." Well, in 'Frisco white women and children serve yellow, almond-eyed taskmasters for less than even Chinese wages.

The whites in question are employed chiefly by the Chinese fruit packers of San Francisco. One instance—the latest reported and a fair example of the rest—is that of a fruit packer of Stockton street, who, during the season just ended, discharged nearly all his Chinese help and hired white women and children to do his work, because they would consent to work for less money.

The Chinese boss could not induce his fellow-countrymen to accept the pittance he offered, and, of course, his fellow-countrywomen never thought of such a thing.

There were plenty of white children working in such circumstances, it was said, but there were no little Chinese children at it.

This especial Chinaman's establishment is on Stockton street and his business is to put up canned fruits and vegetables, tomatoes being his specialty.

On the occasion of a recent visit to this place a score or more of white women and 50 or 60 children were found working in Hing's cellar under the sidewalk, peeling pears and peaches under the supervision of a Chinese boss, who ruled them as few masters outside of a slave pen would do.

The little children evidently stood in awe of the master. The eldest woman in the lot looked to be at least 70 and there was one little girl there who seemed not more than six or seven years old.

Boys ranging from eight to 12 were there, and slips of girls, just entering womanhood, all serving their Mongolian master in fear lest they should fall under his displeasure and he should deprive them of the coveted favor of working for less than Chinese wages.

The nose is assaulted with noisome vapors and the odor of decaying vegetation; the cellar is dark and illy-ventilated; but these poor women and children ply their work eagerly amid the whirring machinery and the steaming vats of the canning factory.

Yet investigation shows that this is not the result of hard times. On the contrary, times are good and work is plenty in San Francisco. Indeed, the demand seems far in excess of the supply.

Ignorance is one of the causes, then, for this condition of affairs. But there are other and worse ones.

Many of the women are opium fiends, and can get the drug only by doing a Chinaman's bidding. All, for one reason or another, are said to be under some Mongolian thumb, and are forced not only to work themselves, but to bring their children to the same drudgery.—Philadelphia Press.

Differences in Eyes.

Besides varying in size, shape and color, eyes differ in visual force and in power of accommodation, and also that the same faults affect only one of them. It is an established fact that we all use one eye—the right or left—in preference when looking through a glass or taking aim with a gun. We are right or left-eyed as we are right or left-handed or footed. The ignorance of most people on this subject is illustrated by their buying glasses at the opticians' without taking account of any difference between the eyes.—Chicago Chronicle.

DELAGOA BAY.

Its Commercial Importance to the Countries of South Africa.

DELAGOA BAY is one of the most important harbors of South Africa, both in times of peace and of war. To the Transvaal the port of Lourenco Marquez is of equal importance to any other South African port in time of peace, and in time of war is the only port open to them. Of the imports into the Transvaal Port Elizabeth and Lourenco Marquez share about equally in the amount of goods passing through in transit in time of peace. In 1897 the Transvaal imported through Lourenco Marquez goods to the value of $12,927,263.61, and about an equal amount through Port Elizabeth, out of a total importation of goods to the value of $44,047,230.

That Lourenzo Marquez is the natural port of entry for goods intended for the Transvaal is shown by the distances by rail to the various ports. The great majority of the goods imported into the Transvaal are for consumption in Johannesburg, which is nearer to Delagoa bay than any other port of entry, the distance by rail being 396 miles, while to Durban it is 483 miles, to East London it is 666 miles, to Port Elizabeth it is 715 miles, and to Cape Town it is 1,015 miles.

The importance of Delagoa Bay to the commerce of the world is shown by the number of vessels visiting the port during normal conditions. The record for six months of 1898 show that there were 36 Portuguese vessels in the port, 151 English, 26 German, 19 French, 22 Norwegian, 2 Swedish, 5 Russian and 1 Italian, a total of 262. During that time there were 12 British vessels, with cargoes from the United States, but there were no vessels flying the stars and stripes seen in the harbor. There are, however, at the present time three steamship lines running vessels from New York to Delagoa bay, but all of them are English vessels, sailing under the union jack.

Delagoa bay is said to be the best harbor in all of South Africa. Vessels anchor in the English river, which is mainly a tidal river and an extension of Delagoa bay, and is a perfectly safe and landlocked port. The average depth of water in the anchorage is six fathoms at low water with a mud bottom.

POPE LEO XIII.

The Present Head of the Catholic Church and Cardinal Gotti.

FEBRUARY 7, 1878, the cardinal—Camerlingo, of the vatican, let fall a little silver hammer upon the brow of him who had been Pope Pius IX., calling him Giovanni, his baptismal name; the second, the third time the hammer fell and the sad, unhoping call was repeated. It is only after this strange ceremony that the cardinals will admit that a pope can never again respond to voice or touch, that "gone is gone, and dead is dead."

Six weeks later, 61 cardinals met to decide upon whom his mantle should fall. It was Cardinal Pecci—a man noted for his learning, of noble presence—of distinguished birth. He was born in 1810, ordained priest in 1837. Soon after he was appointed governor of the province of Benevento, where smuggling and brigandage went hand in hand. Without fear or favor, he began the work of stamping them out. A noble implicated was arraigned. In his anger, he threatened to go to Rome and procure the recall of the priest. "Go, my lord marquis," was the calm reply, "but remember your way to the vatican is by the castle of St. Angelo." The chief of the desperadoes, with 14 of his band, was lodged in prison. Henceforth law and order prevailed in Benevento.

The young priest was recalled and sent to other provinces, to bring order out of chaos. When but 33, he had the honor of being sent nuncio to the court of Brussels. The king declared he was as clever a politician as he was an excellent churchman.

Three years later he was made bishop of Perugia. In 1853 Pius IX. bestowed upon him the red hat. In 1878, against his wishes, he was crowned with the tiara. His last public act was the opening of the holy door of St. Peter's.

Though Leo has no power of appointing his successor, he is using his influence to have his mantle fall upon the one he deems most worthy—Cardinal Gotti—the famous Genoese monk. Unlike Leo, he is a man of inferior birth, being the son of a dock laborer. He began his career as a Carmelite barefooted monk. His zeal for the church is boundless.

The old Irish St. Malachy prophesied that the pontificate of Pius IX. would be "cross upon cross," which was verified by his bitter trials. His successor would be a "light in the heavens," which Leo has proved. Then would follow a "flaming touch," which Gotti, if chosen, will symbolize.

PETROLEUM ENTHUSIASM.

Has Taken a Fresh Hold Upon the People of Quebec Province, Can.

TEN YEARS of continuous disappointments have not dampened the petroleum enthusiasm in Quebec province of Canada. The Petroleum Oil Trust company has petered out after ten years of expenditures and experiments from which practically nothing was realized, but in its place there has been organized a new company which has already begun operations on a much larger scale than any attempted by the old company. Twelve miles of pipe line have been laid, and the material purchased for the construction of an oil refinery, and several large oil tanks have been built.

Four new oil wells are under way, and ten to fifteen more will be sunk during the present year, and there are still no more signs of oil than there was ten years ago. The old company began boring for oil in Quebec province in October, 1889. Since that time 33 wells have been sunk, and in all but one oil has been found, but the small supply which each has contributed was always soon exhausted without yielding any adequate returns upon the investment. Experts claim that the conditions are not right for the location of oil wells, and that the dip of the rock is entirely wrong. This should be about 50 feet to the mile, while in the territory which is being operated the dip runs close to 1,000 feet to the mile.

The wells that have been bored vary in depth from 2,500 to 3,800 feet.

OUR TRADE WITH TURKEY.

Efforts That Are Being Made to Increase It At Constantinople.

A PROJECT which is agitating the merchants of Europe is the establishment at Constantinople of a permanent exposition of American goods. More than 100 American exporters are interested in this scheme to capture the trade of the Turkish provinces, and foreign merchants see in it a grave question of competition in a field that they have considered their own.

The scheme, as outlined by Consul General Dickinson, is for the establishment of such an exposition of American goods in Constantinople with branches in all the leading cities of Turkey as rapidly as possible. Samples will be exhibited of the products of the different merchants interested in the scheme, and sales will be made from these.

Among the different industries represented are flour millers, packing and provision companies, store fixture companies, safe companies, sewing machine manufacturers, engine, forge, glass and heating apparatus concerns, hardware, scale and farming implement companies, and clock, rubber and paper companies.

ROD AND GUN.

The live bird shoot that was to have taken place last Thursday at Scott Terry's farm between three men from Hunterton county and three from this county, did not come off for some unknown reason. The visitors arrived and went to Mr. Terry's place, but there was a dispute and the shoot was declared off. The afternoon was passed in individual shooting and everyone had a good time.

DAVIS IS SATISFIED.

He Hoped to Be Acquitted, But Does Not Care to Risk His Neck.

Ex-Senator Marsh and Abe J. David, counsel for Philip Davis, who was convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of George Monks, had an interview with the prisoner yesterday, and he expressed himself as disappointed with the verdict. He had hoped to be acquitted.

He agreed, however, that he had taken a risk, and that a new trial would simply be to place his life in peril again. Davis according advised his counsel not to ask for a new trial, which would probably be granted on the ground that Juror J. Clark Luster had served on the coroner's jury.

Under a new law the penalty for murder in the second degree may be for thirty years, at the discretion of the court.

Grand Jury Finishes Its Labors.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 27.—The Union County Grand Jury for the January term has completed its labors and on next Tuesday will make its report to the Court. A very large number of cases have been considered by the jury. The criminal term will be commenced on Wednesday by Judge Vail. The Circuit Court term, presided over by Justice VanSyckel, ended yesterday with the Davis murder trial.

'PHONE WAR STILL ON.

N. Y. & N. J. COMPANY OPPOSED BY LOCAL CONCERN.

Bound Brook Seems to be a Much-Coveted Field—Trying to Influence Council to Prevent New Franchise.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 27.—The telephone war still wages here although there has been a brief cessation of hostilities. The efforts of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to gain a foothold here are steadily continued and they now have twenty instruments in operation. According to the State law, the borough authorities are powerless to stop them as long as the poles for the stringing of the wires are not set in the streets.

The Somerset Telephone Company, the local concern, still continues in business and is bringing every influence to bear to keep the borough Council from granting the big company the right to establish its poles in the streets and start a regular exchange here. It will be remembered that an ordinance was introduced into the Council some time ago granting the New York company those rights but it was fought there and never passed.

It is expected that the fight will again be brought into the Council, several members of which body are beginning to think differently about the matter. The larger company seems bound to get a foothold here despite the local authorities, while the demand for the larger service of the New York company is beginning to be felt. The general impression among a majority of the citizens is that the Borough Council will do well to secure the best terms possible and give the people the advantages of the larger service.

PINK AND WHITE WEDDING.

Miss Helen A. Smith Becomes the Bride of Dr. E. D. Page.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 27—A pretty pink and white wedding occurred at the Baptist parsonage Thursday night, when Miss Helen A. Smith, sister of the pastor, and Dr. Emmett D. Page, of Brooklyn, were united in marriage.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. F. A. Smith, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The house was beautifully decorated and an elegant wedding supper was served. The couple have gone on a trip South and will reside in Brooklyn, where the groom has a large practice.

RICHARDSON WILL CASE.

An Appeal Filed by a Son of the Deceased.

The decree of the Orphans' court admitting to probate the will of the late David Richardson was filed yesterday with the clerk of the court.

An appeal has been taken by Joseph M. Richardson, a son of the deceased, and his application was filed yesterday by his counsel, Richard F. Foster. The case will now go from the Orphans' court to the Prerogative court.

To Have Distinguished Guests.

Governor Voorhees, Mayor Mack and the mayors of Plainfield, New Brunswick and Perth Amboy, and many other distinguished men will be among the guests at the first annual reception to be given at Quien's Hall, in Elizabeth February 7 by the Superior Officers' Police Protective Association of Union and Middlesex counties and the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of this city. It will be one of the most notable affairs the police in this vicinity have ever given, and several hundred invitations have been extended.

—Bible study calendars similar to those distributed by Mr. Sheldon at his conference may be had at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Riding a Bucking Mule Requires Skill and Courage.

A "Puncher's" Adventure Graphically Described by a Story Teller from Indian Territory—How the Animal Was Subdued.

The Century Magazine's prize for the best short story submitted by a college graduate in 1899 was awarded to John M. Oskison, of Leland Stanford university, whose home is in the Indian territory, and whose blood is partly Indian. "Only the Master Shall Praise" is its title; and one of its scenes is a description of a ride on a bucking mule.

"Out of a knot of excited men Hanner went straight to the waiting, restless mule. With a mock air of bravado he struck the excited mule across the flank with his sombrero, after roughly seizing the reins. No one who has not learned by experience how to mount a plunging horse can understand how Hanner lifted himself out of the chaos of rearing mule and struggling attendants into the saddle before he signed to the men to turn the animal loose.

"When the mule found itself free to act there was a momentary pause. Then began the short, nasty jumps straight into the air, with the animal's back bowed, its legs stiff, and its head lowered. It was the first powerful effort of the angered beast, made with devilish confidence. Hanner was scarcely shaken by these first straight jumps, but then began the twisting series, which is the second expedient of a bucking animal. A jump high into the air, with a seemingly impossible twist to the side, landed the mule with its head turned almost half round. Before the rider caught his breath another jump and another half-turn were made. These are the motions that make a brocho-buster's life shorter.

"Hanner was bleeding at the nose in half a minute. The twisting jumps were continued until the strength of the mule was almost exhausted, and as yet only the hat of the puncher had been dislodged. A short pause followed, during which the mule changed its tactics, and Hanner thwacked its sweaty neck with his open hand. The next motion was a sudden rearing by the mule. As it rose on its hind legs the rider yanked fiercely on the reins, and, slipping to the ground on one side, allowed the brute to fall on its back. The saddle-horn buried itself in the earth, and the mule's hoofs beat the air a moment before it scrambled to its feet.

"Hanner was cooler than the mule now, and swung himself back into the saddle with the first long leap of the desperate animal. This was the easy part of the trial for the rider, and the spectacular part for the world. The mule ran straight away for the opposite fence of the fair-grounds with long, lunging pumps, rising and pitching forward with the speed of a racing yacht. Hanner brought his craft about before it sailed into the fence, and beat it fore and aft with a flourishing hand. He was wild with triumph now, his hair blowing in the wind. He leaned forward as in a race, urging the thoroughly tired and conquered mule straight for the crowd. A particularly vicious dig with the spurs made the beast plunge into the scattering knot of spectators and rise to a four-barred gate. At the opposite side of the track no fence barred its way, and it ran, frightened and quivering, under the awning of a lemonade-vender's stand, scattering glasses and confections to the winds, and wrecking the stand. Hanner slowly dismounted, stroked the sweaty flank of the subdued mule, then turning and picking up an unbroken bottle of soda, proposed a toast 'to our gentle old family-buggy boss!'"

Peculiar Test of Death.

A recent report of experiments at the Academy of Medicine in Paris gives astonishing testimony of the virtue of rhythmical twitching of the tongue as a means of restoring life in cases of drowning or asphyxiation. Within the past few months there have been at this hospital 40 such cases of resuscitation by this one means. Some of the statements made by M. Laborde, of the Academy of Medicine, in connection with this report are of exceptional interest. In one case a drowned man was resuscitated only after three hours spent in an intermittent twitching of his tongue, which is certainly a reminder to physicians that this remedy is one that requires patience.

CITY HOTEL WILL GO INTO NEW HANDS.

Anheuser-Busch Company Has Secured a Lease.

WILL REMODEL HOTEL.

MAKE IT EASTERN HEADQUTERS OF THE COMPANY.

Elaborate Improvements Planned—New Front and Side to be Built—Hostelry Will be Equipped With Up-to-date Restaurant, Cafe and Grill Room—Will Start Changes on or Before April 1st.

It is now a certainty that that well-known hostelry, the City Hotel, is soon to pass into other hands and is to be entirely remodeled inside and out. The Anhauser-Busch Brewing Company has decided to make that its eastern headquarters and will make an entirely new place of it.

For some time representatives of that company have been looking for a location in Plainfield which they think is in every way suited to their needs. A lease has been secured for a long term of years for the present City Hotel. The lease of John Beerbower, the present lessee, does not expire until April 1st, but the Anhauser-Busch people will try to begin their repairs before that time if possible.

The Park avenue and the Second street fronts of the hotel will be torn down and entirely rebuilt on elaborate and handsome lines. Inside, a cafe, restaurant and grill-room will be arranged that, the representatives of the company claim, will excell anything in this part of New Jersey.

The interior finishing is to be on a very elaborate scale. The second and other upper stories are to be overhauled and made over. The rooms will be furnished in first-class shape.

The aim will be to make the hotel one of the handsomest and best equipped in Jersey and it is said that no money will be spared toward that end. It will be the headquarters of the company, and a storage department will be established in connection with the hotel.

JERSEYMAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Harold Michaelson, Formerly of Somerset County, Found Dead in London.

A man supposed to be Harold Michaelson, at one time chief clerk of the Rocky Hill Stone Storage Company, in Rocky Hill, Somerset county, shot and killed himself in a lane behind the historic Temple in London, Eng., Wednesday night.

When found by a constable he was quite dead. Identification as far as possible was made by finding on the body receipts and a registered letter sent by Harold Michaelson, of Rocky Hill, to the New York Herald August 16th, 1899.

The police think the man had not been in London more than a few weeks, that he was unable to get employment, and, his money gone, he shot himself.

Frederick DeCoppet, president of the Rocky Hill Stone Storage Company, when seen at his home in Shrewsbury, said that Michaelson had worked at Rocky Hill for the company as a timekeeper until two months ago, when he left without giving any reason and contrary to the wishes of the company.

He was a valuable employe, Mr. DeCoppet said, and was offered higher wages as an inducement for him to stay, but he declined to accept them. He had been employed by the company for three years. He was married and it was thought his wife was living in Europe.

HOME FOR JOURNALISTS.

It Receives a Tract of Land in New Orange.

The trustees of the International Journalists' Home have deen deeded a tract of land in New Orange, a new hamlet near this city, and it will soon erect a spacious home on the site.

The land has a frontage of one thousand feet and is located on a beautiful hill at the foot of the Orange Mountains.

The International Journalists' Home is backed by the Amalgamated Press Clubs of the United States and is composed of such men as Whitelaw Reid, Melville E. Stone, Victor F. Lawson, A. C. McClure, H. H. Kohlsaat and other prominent men in the field of journalism.

Mr. Honeyman's Tours.

Mr. Honeyman's tours to Europe this summer begin with a Norway trip May 3d, and is probably the most interesting one of any. He advertises other tours May 24th, June 26th, July 12th and September 8th. Two of them go to the Passion Play.

BROKE THROUGH THE ICE.

Twelve Year Old Boy Was too Venturesome in Skating on Thin Ice at Tier's Pond.

John Hovey, aged 12 years, living on Harmony street, narrowly escaped being drowned last Saturday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. He was on Tier's pond, near the bridge. The ice was rather thin, and too dangerous to skate upon. Hovey was venturesome, however, and the first thing he knew was that he was in the water up to his chin. He went down twice, and was just about going down the last time when he was rescued by John Hess and some other companions living nearby. He was rescued with a rake borrowed from Mrs. Emmons. He was then taken to the home of Mrs. Maggie Killoran, where his wet clothes were removed and dry ones were obtained. The boy was so thoroughly frightened that he will not venture on the ice again.

THEY SLIPPED AND SLID.

LIVELY TIMES THIS MORNING FOR THE COMMUTERS.

One Young Man Narrowly Escaped Landing Under Wheels of 8:30 Express—Results of Last Night's Storm.

Several hundred commuters slipped and slid to the North Avenue station this morning, enroute to their business duties in New York. The half hearted snow and the chilling rain of last evening left the sidewalks and station platforms dangerous places. The middle of the street soon collected most of the morning pedestrians.

At the station there was the usual number that arrived just as their train was pulling out. They managed, somehow, to fall onto the train without falling under it. One young man, with a dress-suit case, caught the 8:30 New York express just west of the Park avenue bridge when the train was well under way. He caught the hand rail all right but his foot slipped and he sat down on the lowest step of the car. He just had time to lift his legs in air and prevent their striking the iron girder of the bridge. Then he climbed into the car where he had thrown the case. The crowd held their breath and there were sundry mutterings about the supply of fools not all being lost to this world.

OLD MINISTER BADLY HURT.

Rev. W. C. Nelson Slipped and Fell Downstairs and Fractured His Right Arm.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock Rev. Dr. William C. Nelson, a retired Methodist minister, who resides at 95 Summit avenue, met with a very painful and severe accident, which will detain him at home for awhile. Dr. Nelson started to go to the cellar for something and he slipped and fell down two steps.

In his efforts to save himself he sustained a fracture of his right arm between the shoulder and elbow. Assistance was rendered at once and Drs. Zeglio and Buchanan were summoned. They reset the broken member and the patient is doing as well as can be expected. Owing to Dr. Nelson's advanced age the break will not mend as quickly as otherwise.

Crosby, $50 These subscriptions bring the fund up to $6,400.

Surprised Westfielder.

A surprise party was tendered to R. Mills, of Westfield Saturday evening, under the supervision of Miss Tillie Rowe, of Grandview avenue, in the borough. A large company of friends walked into the house and completely surprised Mr. Mills. Dancing was the feature of the evening, and at a late hour refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Tillie Rowe, Carrie White, Martha Willmer, Ida Wright, Aggie Wright, A. Mills, Samuel Wright, John Wright, John Todd, Edward Volte, Edward Johnson and John DeVine.

SCORE OF YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

Twentieth Wedding Anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Richards.

CELEBRATED PLEASANTLY.

PURSE OF MONEY CONCEALED IN A WEDDING CAKE.

The Occasion Made an Auspicious One by a Reception Tendered at the Chapel of the Crescent Avenue Church—Ladies Arranged the Pleasant and Social Features in Connection with the Event.

The love and esteem in which Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William R. Richards are held was evidenced in a pleasant manner Saturday evening by the members and congregation of the Crescent Avenue church, when they gave them a reception in the chapel in honor of the twentieth anniversary of their marriage. The affair was one of the most delightful in the history of the church. During the hours from 8 until 10 o'clock there was a very large number of guests present, including not only members of the church and congregation, but persons from other churches as well. A pleasant feature was the presence of the pastors of the city, who called to extend their hearty congratulations.

Dr. and Mrs. Richards received, with the wives of the elders and a few other women, beneath a large illuminated bell of white crepe and smilax. To the left of this was suspended against the wall, the figures of the years "1880-1900" in green and white. These colors prevailed throughout the chapel and Sunday-school room where supper was served. In the chapel there was a pleasing arrangement of the green and white which encircled the gallery and filled the alcove directly back of where the guests were received.

As the guests extended their congratulations they retired to the rooms below where supper was served. Here a pretty scene met the eye. The colors of green and white were brought out in charming effect in the table decorations. There were also a number of palms that added to the scene of beauty.

A feature that added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion was the music by an orchestra under the direction of P. Ludwig Conde. They were stationed in the gallery and throughout the evening rendered a programme of classical selections.

During the latter part of the evening the bride of twenty years ago was requested to cut the bride's cake in which was concealed an Oriental silk bag brought from Jaffa, containing a sum of money in gold. This handsome purse was a unanimous gift from the congregation together with the best wishes and hearty congratulations of all. The recipient on behalf of her husband expressed her sincere thanks for the kindly remembrance.

Dr. Richards has been pastor of the Crescent Avenue church for nearly sixteen years, and during that time he and his wife have steadily won favor not only with those associated with the church, but with the people of Plainfield.

The success of the affair is most gratifying to the committees in charge, owing to the short time, ten days, allotted in arranging it. Mrs. Frank S. Martin arranged for the supper and she was assisted by Mrs. H. A. Schuyler, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. H. E. Bowen, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers. In connection with this committe there was a committee of about fifty young women who acted as floaters, and who devoted their time to making the affair as pleasant as possible. The financial part of the reception was in charge of Mrs. George P. Mellick assisted by Mrs. H. R. Halloway, Mrs. O. R. King and Miss Mellick. The decorations were looked after by Mrs. John Doul Miller, assisted by the Misses Andrews, Schoonmaker, Strong, Fisk, Wood, Miller, Bowen, Martin, Patterson, Pierson, Bushnell. Mrs. John Gray Foster had charge of the music and she was assisted by Mrs. Samuel Kimball, Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mrs. Charles L. Abbott, Miss Julia Ketcham and Miss Jessie Munger.

To those composing the various committees too much cannot be said in praise of their efforts. Every endeavor was put forth to make the reception the success that it was and it was only through the untiring energy of every member that the grand result was accomplished.

Speaker From a Southern Institution.

Isaac Fisher, of the Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, will make an address Wednesday evening at the prayer-meeting service at the Crescent Avenue church.

CHOIRMASTER IS OUT.

MUSIC FOR CHURCH OF HOLY CROSS TO BE IN NEW HANDS.

George Hoskins Resigns Owing to Dissatisfaction—Part of the Choir Also Leaves with Him—New Ones Engaged.

A surprise was given a majority of the members of Holy Cross church yesterday when the announcement of the resignation of George Hoskins, as organist, was made. To a certain number the action was not a surprise, but to many it was. Mr. Hoskins had a contract to play at the church until next April, but owing to certain conditions he decided to retire earlier, and he played yesterday for the last time at the church.

It is not a breech of trust to say that for sometime past, in fact since the reorganization of the Church of the Redeemer and Holy Cross church Mr. Hoskins has not been satisfactory to the powers that be, and his retirement was only a question of time. There are certain things that have tended to bring about this dissatisfaction, and rather than continue under these conditions Mr. Hoskins thought it best to resign

Mr. Hoskins has been with the church for several years. His home is in Jersey City, and he came to Plainfield twice a week for choir rehearsal, in addition to the Sunday trip. With the choir he was generally popular, although there has been some dissatisfaction here from the fact that some of the members were paid and some not. This, together with the retirement of Mr. Hoskins, has caused a division, and nearly one-half of the choir retires with Mr. Hoskins.

The new policy of the church so far as music is concerned is to engage Prof. Sears and Prof. Stubbs, both of St. Agnes' church, New York, for one year. The former is a regular organist, while the latter is a teacher of church choirs. At the end of the year Prof. Sears will continue as organist, and Prof. Stubbs will retire. It is hoped that the music at the church will be a strong feature. There will, no doubt, be a change in the choir and some new voices can be looked for. There are many who regretted to see Mr. Hoskins retire, and he goes with the best wishes of all.

ECHO OF AFRICAN WAR

FOUR MEN BATTLED OVER THE AFFAIRS OF BOERS.

Arraigned Before City Judge Runyon This Morning and Fined $5 Each—The English Arrayed Against Germans.

An echo of the war in South Africa was heard on West Front street yesterday afternoon. Two Englishmen stood up in defence of their native land while two Germans used their fits in behalf of the little Boer republic. City Judge Runyon ruled this morning that the fighting should be left to the armies of the two countries and fined the four contestants $5 each.

Exactly how the argument started it is hard to ascertain. The subject of the war was discussed and after a stormy interview, the four men moved up Madison avenue where the discussion was continued with fists.

The four men were gathered in by the police and arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning. Those who fought in defence of England gave their names as Harry Burg and Henry Martin. Jos. Schuler and Alex Kumetet represented the Boers.

TROLLEY CONSOLIDATION.

Three Big Traction Companies to be Formed Into One Organization.

A meeting of the stockholders of the three trolley companies—Brunswick Traction Company, New York and Philadelphia Company and New Brunswick City Railway—has been called for Friday, Feb. 16th, for the purpose of consolidating the three into one company.

The stockholdees will meet at the office of the Brunswick Traction Company, 382 George street, in New Brunswick at 2 o'clock on the date above mentioned. The notice has been issued by Edward H. Radel as secretary of all three companies.

The officers of all the companies are the same so that there will be no difficulty about forming the organization contemplated.

A Cane for a Congressman.

Representative Howell, of the Third district, is the recipient of a handsome cane, sent him from Cuba. It is the gift of Cortland Nixon, first lieutenant of the Second Infantry, U. S. A., now stationed at Sancti Spiritus, Cuba. Mr. Howell was instrumental in aiding Mr. Nixon in obtaining his commission, and the cane was sent as a slight token of appreciation for his kindness. It is made from a piece of the Royal palm.

DID NOT TELL ALL HE KNEW AT THE TRIAL.

Dembroski Says Mrs. Fingerhuth's Life Was Threatened.

HE MAKES AN AFFIDAVIT.

TO BE USED IN TRYING TO OBTAIN A PARDON.

Dembroski Now Swears That Robert Clark Borrowed a Revolver of Him When the Door of the Fingerhuth House was Being Forced by Ed. Clark—Clark Denied This at the Trial.

An effort is being made by Rev. F. Koechli and several leading citizens of Somerville to obtain a pardon for Mrs. Henrietta Fingerhuth, who is serving a six months' sentence in the county jail at Somerville for killing Paul Roebricht, a wealthy jeweller of New York, near Washingtonville last September. A petition for her pardon has been signed by a large number of persons and it will be forwarded to Gov. Voorhees, accompanied by new evidence in the case, which, it is alleged, will show that Mrs. Fingerhuth is innocent of crime. Robert Clark, Roehricht's counsel, Emil Dembroski and four other men were forcibly dispossessing Mrs. Fingerhuth from a house owned by Roehricht, when she fired the shot which killed Roehricht, who was standing on the lawn directing operations.

The New York Sun Correspondent says that: "One of the witnesses for the State was Dembroski, who had acted as foreman for Roehricht. He appeared to be an unwilling witness, and he said some things before he could be checked that were in favor of Mrs. Fingerhuth. On seeing Mrs. Fingerhuth convicted because the jury refused to believe her statement that she had acted in self-defence, he vouluntarily went before Justice William E. Mattison, of North Plainfield, and made an affidavit which is now in the possession of the persons who are trying to secure Mrs. Fingerhuth's pardon. In this affidavit Dembroski says that just before Mrs. Fingerhuth fired the shot which killed Roehricht, Edward Clark was attempting to force open a door and Robert Clark, his brother, was at an open window. Robert Clark turned to Dembroski and asked him for a revolver which he had in his pocket. Dembroski handed Clark the revolver, whereupon Clark placed his elbow on the window-sill and thrust his hand inside the house, pointing the revolver and using threatening language."

Dembroski says he did not give this evidence at the trial for the reason that no questions were asked him by either side relating to it, and he was instructed by the State to make no statements except in answer to questions asked. He avers that he now makes the affidavit in justice to Mrs. Fingerhuth and to relieve his conscience.

At the trial Mrs. Fingerhuth swore that Robert Clark had pointed a pistol at her, but her testimony was not corroborated, while Clark denied it and another witness testified in support of what he said.

NOT LIABLE TO POLL TAX.

False Report Circulated About Town Committeeman Thompson, of Cranford.

In conversation with Town Committeeman Thompson, of Cranford, The Daily Press is led to believe that the report recently circulated that he had not paid his poll tax, and was therefore liable and threatened with arrest, is untrue. Mr. Thompson produced his tax bill, receipted and explained that he was not assessed or liable for poll tax, because he is an exempt fireman. The report was started by some of Mr. Thompson's enemies to injure his reputation, if possible, but fell short of the mark, as he is considered one of Cranford's most upright citizens.

Best Dressed Woman to be Queen.

On the evening of March 1st next the Missionary Band of the Mt. Olive Baptist church will give an entertainment assisted by the other colored churches for the purpose of raising money to assist in entertaining the New England Missionary Convention which meets at the Mt. Olive church this year. The neatest dressed woman attending the entertainment will be crowned queen for the evening.

To Discuss Sunday-school Work.

Marion Lawrence, of Toledo, O., general secretary of the International Sunday-school Association, will make an address in this city February 5th under the auspices of the Plainfield Sunday-school Union. It has not yet been decided where the meeting will be held, but the place will be announced later.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS.

Meeting of State Convention to be Held in All Souls' Church Wednesday Afternoon.

The meeting of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage convention, which will be held at All Souls' church, Park avenue, near the Public Library, Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. promises to be an occasion of interest. Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell will make an address. Although Mrs. Blackwell now lives in New York city, she continues to be a member of the New Jersey association. She is a favorite speaker with the club women of the State, for though many of these have not identified themselves with the suffrage movement, they all love to hear this dear lady speak. Although seventy years old, she continues well and active.

A meeting of the Union county branch for business will be held at 2:30. All persons interested are cordially invited to attend both meetings.

DIDN'T KNOW THE TOWN

JOE MELVIN WANTED AN OPPORTUNITY TO LEALE IT.

So Judge Runyon Gave Him Free Transportation to Elizabeth With Lodging for Ten Days in the Jail.

Joe Melvin didn't know the town. So he told City Judge Runyon this morning and the Judge believed him. Furthermore he asked that he might be given a chance to leave town at once and the Judge gave him the opportunity with free transportation.

The Judge met Joe Saturday afternoon. Joe boarded a train at Cranford and caused a little stir by missing every station for Plainfield and insisting on getting off at each one. The last the Judge saw of Joe Saturday afternoon was when he left the car at the North Avenue station.

Joe drank freely and then wandered on the beat of Patrolman Saunders. Joe didn't like the idea of a colored policeman, and his language grew so vile that Saunders locked him up. This morning Joe insisted that he had walked up from Cranford. He didn't remember the happenings of Saturday night very well and wanted to leave town. The Judge made it ten days in Elizabeth.

PRIZES FOR ARCHITECTS.

Westfield School Board Wants to Get Attractive Plans for Its New Building.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Westfield, Jan. 29.—At a meeting of the Westfield Board of Education at the Prospect Street Schoolhouse the members discussed the question of getting plans and estimates for the two new schoolhouses to be erected. A program for architects' competition was drafted and copies of the same ordered to be sent out for competition. All plans and drawings are to be in the hands of the Board not later than February 21. The Board will make the awards to the successful bidders before March 20.

To create interest prizes will be offered by the Board as follows: For the Westfield School, to cost $40,000. For the best plan, the contract; for the second best plan, $50; for the third best plan, $25; for the fourth best plan, honorable mention. Mountainside School, to cost $5,000—For the first best plan, the contract; for the second best plan, $25; for the third best plan, honorable mention.

MONEY FOR HIS FLOWERS.

Elizabeth Florist Gets Verdict Against Central Railroad.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 29.—A jury in the case of Henry Leahy, an East Broad street florist, against the Central Railroad Company, returned a verdict for $1,044.

One evening last summer while a drill engine was switching some cars on the beef company's tracks, a car jumped the track and shoved a lot of empty gondolas in the Leahy conservatory and greenhouses, completely demolishing the latter and ruining a great many plants and flowers.

Anthony Comstock Will Not Accept.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, Jan. 29—Anthony Comstock says he will not accept the place of Chief Police of Summit, for which his name has been mentioned. He says he would not accept any place under municipal, State or United States Government that would prevent him from carrying on the work to which he has devoted nearly twenty-eight years of his life.

Six Persons Baptized.

Last evening at the First Baptist church six persons received the rite of baptism by the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. The candidates joined the church on confession of faith.

Elmer D. Cutting, of Orchard place, has accepted the position of tenor in the choir of Trinity Reformed church, and entered upon his duties yesterday.

DEMOCRATS WILL NOT ABANDON FREE SILVER

The Farmer Orator Outlined Policy for Coming Campaign

AT MEETING IN NESHANIC.

DECLARED OLD ISSUES WILL BE RETAINED THIS YEAR.

And Added the Denouncement of Trusts and the Republican Policy in the Philippines and West Indies—Addressed Meeting Held to Form Campaigns in the Neighboring Townships.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Neshanic Station, Jan. 29.—The first note of the coming Presidental campaign to be heard in Somerset county was sounded here in Branchburg township Saturday evening. The Democrats of Branchburg and Hillsborough rallied here for a meeting. James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator" of Plainfield, made the address of the evening and the first steps were taken looking toward the formation of a campaign organization.

The meeting was called by M. Mount Corle, secretary of the Neshanic Club of '96. Andrew Lane was made chairman and Peter B. Hall secretary. Permanent organization will be effected later.

Mr. Martine spoke for an hour and a half and roused his Democratic hearers to the wildest pitch of enthusiasm with his bursts of oratory. Among those who attended the meeting was County Judge Lewis Schenck, who has just been appointed by Governor Voorhees. Mr. Martine marked him and turned the tide of his eloquence upon the head of that prominent Republican. The Judge stood his ground undaunted, however, and smiled benignly upon the "Farmer Orator."

Mr. Martine's address was practically an outline of the probable platform of the Democratic party in the coming campaign, much as it had been sketched by W. J. Bryan in his speeches this winter. The old issues would remain, he said, and there would be several new ones. The planks of the platform for 1900 would be, he said, equal rights, equal laws and equal justice, free coinage of silver and gold, the income tax and something to reach the trusts.

Mr. Martine made a special feature of the financial part of the platform. The old "free silver" question he declared was not dead but would be just as prominent this year as it was four years ago. The Republican promises had not been kept.

He also condemned the Republican policy concerning the Philippines and Cuba and declared that if the Democrats were in power, the troops would be withdrawn at once and the Filipinos given a chance to work out their own self government while other nations should be told to keep their hands off.

In conclusion Mr. Martine said that he was not ashamed of being a politician despite the fact that many looked down on those who were in politics. There was nothing incompatible in it, he declared to being honest and a gentleman

ORGANIZATION THE NEED.

Somerset Democrats to Undertake the Work—A Big Banquet to be Held.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 29—The Democrats of Somerset county are preparing to form a regular campaign organization throughout the county. An effort was made to get the movement started the first of the year but it has been delayed until now. An informal meeting will will be held in this place Wednesday evening when plans for the organization will be formulated. At that time, members of a committee will be appointed from each township and borough in the county. Then these appointees will be gotten together the first of March for a big banquet when the permanent organization will be effected.

The Democratic leaders have suggested that local campaign organizations be formed at every polling place in the county. Several of these are under way and one at Neshanic has been started. The leaders say that the effort that is to be made this year will result in a better Democratic organization in Somerset than has been seen before.

Aid for Mrs. Fingerhuth.

A strong effort is being made by those interested to secure the pardon of Mrs. Fingerhuth from jail. One of the schemes proposed is to give a public demonstration of compressed air at Music Hall and charge an admission. It is thought that in this way a large sum of money could be realized.

BULLER TURNS BACK

Recrosses the Tugela With Entire Army.

BOER POSITION IS IMPREGNABLE.

The News of the Disastrous Attempt to Relieve the Ladysmith Garrison Causes Intense Anxiety In England.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The week has opened with the utmost gloom for the British public, and the reaction is all the stronger because of the high hopes that were reposed in General Buller's turning movement and of his announcement that there would be "no-turning back."

At the very moment when Dr. Leyds is being received as an honored guest in the highest circles on the continent Great Britain has to face the worst disaster in a campaign thus far disastrous. Open talk is heard of the absolute necessity of abandoning Ladysmith to its fate, while Lord Roberts reverts to the original plan of an advance over the Orange river upon Bloemfontein.

To Ladysmith the disappointment must be very bitter. A dispatch from the Boer laager near the town, dated Jan. 24, describes the garrison as "very evidently preparing a desperate coup in order to effect a junction with General Buller's advancing army." It may be regarded as a certainty that, in the confident hope of early relief, Sir George White has lately been issuing extra rations, and this fact has given rise to an exaggerated idea as to the length of time the provisions would last.

Even should it be decided to send General Buller re-enforcements and to attempt to reach Ladysmith by a movement through the still more difficult country east of Colenso it is extremely doubtful whether the garrison could hold out long enough, as such a movement would occupy at least a month.

The Times says:

"The most carefully planned and executed movement of the whole campaign has entirely failed, and it can hardly be necessary to dwell upon the extreme probability that we shall learn a little sooner or a little later of a catastrophe almost without precedent in our military history, a catastrophe indeed without a parallel except in the surrender of Yorktown. We are checked at every point of the campaign. In fact, the campaign is still to begin."

The following is the text of General Buller's dispatch, dated Spearman's camp, Saturday, Jan. 27:

"On Jan. 20 Warren drove back the enemy and obtained possession of the southern crests of the high tableland extending from the line of Acton Homes and Hongers Poort to the western Ladysmith hills. From then to Jan. 25 he remained in close contact with the enemy.

"The enemy held a strong position on a range of small kopjes stretching from northwest to southeast across the plateau from Acton Homes through Spion kop to the left bank of the Tugela.

"The actual position held was perfectly tenable, but did not lend itself to an advance, as the southern slopes were so steep that Warren could not get an effective artillery position, and water supply was a difficulty.

"On Jan. 23 I assented to his attacking Spion kop, a large hill, indeed a mountain, which was evidently the key of the position, but was far more accessible from the north than from the south.

"On the night of Jan. 23 he attacked Spion kop, but found it very difficult to hold, as its perimeter was too large and water, which he had been led to believe existed, in this extraordinarily dry season was found very deficient.

"The crests were held all that day against severe attacks and a heavy shell fire. Our men fought with great gallantry. Would especially mention the conduct of the Second Cameronians and the Third King's rifles, who supported the attack on the mountain from the steepest side and in each case fought their way to the top, and the Second Lancashire fusileers and Second Middlesex, who magnificently maintained the best traditions of the British army throughout the trying day of Jan. 24, and Thornycroft's Mounted infantry, who fought throughout the day equally well alongside of them.

"General Woodgate, who was in command at the summit, having been wounded, the officer who succeeded him decided on the night of Jan. 24 to abandon the position, and did so before dawn Jan. 25.

"I reached Warren's camp at 5 a. m. on Jan. 25 and decided that a second attack upon Spion kop was useless and that the enemy's right wing was too strong to allow me to force it.

"Accordingly I decided to withdraw the force to the south of the Tugela. At 6 a. m. we commenced withdrawing the train, and by 8 a. m. Jan. 27 Warren's force was concentrated south of the Tugela without the loss of a man or a pound of stores.

"The fact that the force could withdraw from actual touch—in some cases the lines were less than 1,000 yards apart—with the enemy in the manner it did is, I think, sufficient evidence of the morale of the troops, and that we were permitted to withdraw our cumbrous ox and mule transport across the river, 85 yards broad, with 20 foot banks and a very swift current, unmolested is, I think, proof that the enemy has been taught to respect our soldiers' fighting powers."

The war office does not give any idea of the casualties in taking and holding Spion kop, but a report from the Boer headquarters near Ladysmith via Lourenco Marques says that 1,500 British dead were left on the battlefield. This number is thought to include the wounded.

The report also said that General Buller had been down with fever, but had recovered.

If Boer reports are to be accepted, "the abandonment of Spion kop was due to the inability of the British to resist the Boer attack, the Boers carrying the first trenches and taking 150 prisoners."

THE SPION KOP FIGHT.

Boers Tell the Story of Buller's Disaster on the Heights.

BOER HEADQUARTERS, Modder Spruit, Upper Tugela, via Lourenco Marques, Jan. 29.—During Wednesday night some Vryheid burghers from the outposts on the highest hills of the Spion kop group rushed into the laager saying that the kop was lost and that the English had taken it. Re-enforcements were ordered up, but nothing could be done for some time, the hill being enveloped in thick mist.

At dawn Thursday the Heidelberg and Carolina contingents, supplemented from other commandoes, began the ascent of the hill. Three spurs, precipitous projections, faced the Boer positions. Up these the advance was made. The horses were left under the first terrace of rocks.

Scaling the steep, the Boers found that the English had improved the opportunity and intrenched heavily. Between the lines of trenches was an open veldt, which had to be rushed under a heavy fire not only from rifles, but of lyddite and shrapnel from field guns.

Three forces ascended the three spurs co-ordinately under cover of fire from the Free State Krupps, a Creusot and a big Maxim. The English tried to rush the Boers with the bayonet, but their infantry went down before the Boer rifle fire as before a scythe.

The Boer investing party advanced step by step until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when a white flag went up and 150 men in the front trenches surrendered, being sent as prisoners to the head laager.

The Boer advance continued on the two kopjes east of Spion kop. Many Boers were shot, but so numerous were the burghers that the gaps filled automatically. Toward twilight they reached the summit of the second kopje, but did not get further.

The British Maxims belched flame, but a wall of fire from the Mausers held the English back. Their center under this pressure gradually gave way and broke, abandoning the position.

The prisoners speak highly of the bravery of the burghers, who, despising cover, stood against the skyline edges of the summit to shoot the Dublin fusileers sheltered in the trenches.

Firing continued for some time, and then the fusileers and the Light Horse serving as infantry threw up their arms and rushed out of the trenches.

The effect of the abandonment of Spion kop by the English can hardly be gauged as yet, but it must prove to be immense.

An unusually high proportion of lyddite shells did not explode.

HOW THE KOP WAS TAKEN.

British Account of the Night Surprise and Victory.

SPEARMAN'S CAMP, Jan. 29.—About 2 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 24 (Wednesday), when heavy clouds rested upon the kopjes, the main point of the Boer position, Tabanyama, was stormed by the British infantry under General Woodgate. Our force crossed over a ravine and climbed the mountain side steadily, getting within 30 yards of the enemy's first line of trenches.

The Boers, who had been asleep, decamped, leaving everything behind, and the British, with a ringing cheer, climbed to the summit.

The Boers opened fire from several points, but it was apparent that they had been taken completely by surprise, and their resistance was dispirited. The western crest of the hill was soon won, and the infantry crept along the top of the hill.

At daybreak, however, the Boers, from a high point on the extreme east, sent a withering fire among the British, which momentarily staggered them.

The Boers had the range fixed to a nicety, and their artillery sent several shells right to the top of the crest, forcing the infantry to take cover. A Boer Nordenfeldt also was worked with great precision.

The British held the position against great odds. At 10 o'clock strong re-enforcements were sent up the hill and advanced in skeleton formation, the enemy being driven back to the extreme point.

Dr. Leyds In Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—The Deutsche Tages Zeitung publishes an interview with Dr. Leyds which represents him as having said:

"The war will certainly last a very long time. The Transvaal will decidedly not be the first to seek peace and will refuse any proposals on the basis of the status quo."

Dr. Leyds is a popular lion here. He is being welcomed with an enthusiasm ordinarily extended only to most favored envoys.

Jameson Hit by "Long Tom."

BOER HEAD LAAGER, near Ladysmith, Jan. 29.—It is reported here that as the result of "Long Tom's" practice Dr. Jameson was wounded in the leg. President Steyn has visited this laager. The British dead left on the battlefield Wednesday numbered 1,500.

OVERDUE STEAMERS.

Much Anxiety Because of Delay In the Arrival of Vessels.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The steamship State of Nebraska of the Allan State line, which left Glasgow on Jan. 10 with 26 steerage passengers aboard, is now nearly a week overdue, and her failure to appear is causing some anxiety to her owners and agents and the friends and relatives of those aboard.

The Ethiopia of the Anchor line is also about a week overdue, but her agents say they are not worried, for the weather has been bad on the western ocean for the last week.

La Normandie of the French line, with 238 steerage and a number of saloon passengers, was due at her pier on Saturday, but has not yet been sighted from Fire island.

The American line steamship St. Louis, which arrived here 30 hours overdue, reached her pier last night after a most tempestuous voyage, in which she encountered tremendous head seas and fierce westerly gales.

Accidental Shooting.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 29.—A distressing accident occurred at the residence of John P. Shannahan yesterday by which his 14-year-old daughter Nora was shot and almost instantly killed by John J. Gallagher, the 17-year-old son of Mrs. Shannahan by a former husband. Gallagher was cleaning a revolver in his room when Nora came up to make the bed. In the room was another revolver that had lain unused since last Fourth of July and which Gallagher did not know was loaded. This he took up, and while he was explaining how it worked the weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the girl's face under the right eye and lodging at the base of the brain.

Killed by Falling Tree.

KANE, Pa., Jan. 29.—A falling hemlock tree crushed Edward Reede and his son to death near here. The hemlock had lodged against another tree, and they were endeavoring to dislodge it when the wind swayed the hemlock from its position, and it fell on the men, killing both of them.

Weather Probabilities.

Snow and colder; brisk to high northeasterly winds.

PIGS IN EUROPE.

The Pork Animals Were First Domesticated by the Anglo-Saxon Race.

Pigs were probably a European "reclamation." In the tropical east no one wanted them, for they were neither wholesome as flesh nor givers of milk. But in every case in Europe and Asia there is practically only one wild pig, except the babirussa, which may have been the origin of some of the Chinese breeds. In any case, the enterprising domesticator of pigs in any form must be honored before the disciple of Confucius, who is accredited with having discovered merely by accident their merits when roasted. We can quite understand how the resolve arose. What could be more natural to the tribesmen or the village who already possessed a small and increasing herd of dairy animals reclaimed from the forest than to follow this up by catching, either in nets or pitfalls, a family of young wild swine and adding them to their farm stock? Their prolific character must have been well known, and as Mahomet promised a blessing and angels' visits to the home which possessed three goats, so the neighbors must have looked with envy on the recurrent families of wild piglings in the wicker fenced inclosures of the more adventurous. It is possible even at this distant date to trace under the artificially rounded form of the Tamworth breed the long, suspicious nose, the rufous bristles and the thoughtful eye of its original wild ancestor.

If the east troubled not with the pig, it probably gave to the world its flocks of sheep and goats. Asia is the true home of the domesticated goat. It is there that it flourishes, and it is held in honor. There, too, was the animal which by general consent is the original of the common domestic breed, the wild Paseng goat, or ibex, call it which you please, of Asia Minor and Persia. There would not be the slightest difficulty in domesticating the young of several species of mountain sheep today if this were desired. Difficult as the lambs are to catch, they are taken when very young on the mountains, and the only difference in their behavior is that all become as tame as the proverbial "pet lamb;" some species—notably the Barbary wild sheep and the Indian burrhel—become more markedly friendly than others. All, wild goats and wild sheep alike, have short, smooth coats, though the Barbary sheep grows a woolly mane; but there is under wool in the fur of all the sheep, which care in domestication would increase. The tame species have lost their speed and agility on the English fields, but not on the Alpine pastures, where some of the breeds are not unlike the surviving wild species, the mouflons of Sardinia.

It is tempting and easy to imagine "lost animals" from which our tame ones have sprung. But except in the case of the vanished European, and perhaps Asiatic, wild cattle there is no domesticated quadruped, from the rabbit and dog to the camel, whose origin may not be safely traced to a wild ancestor now living, caught and tamed by personal enterprise and continued in man's service by transmission as property, of which this may have been one of the earliest forms.—London Spectator.

PROGRESS OF THE SOUTH.

Twenty Years Have Shown a Remarkable Industrial Growth Down in Dixie.

The industrial progress of the south during the past 20 years is shown in a late issue of the Manufacturers' Record, from which it appears that the low price of cotton has had the effect of stimulating the output of other farm products. In the past ten years the production of wheat has increased 54 per cent. in the south, and the number of hogs raised there has during that period nearly doubled. Seventy two varieties of field crops are now grown where there formerly was nothing but cotton, and 65 varieties of vegetables, fruits and melons are raised in the south for markets in the north. While five years ago the cotton mills in the south consumed but 700,000 bales of cotton, their consumption now amounts to nearly 1,500,000 bales in the 550 mills, with 4,952,092 spindles and 104,446 looms. The number of mills has increased 206, that of spindles and looms 640 per cent.

The finest blankets made in the country are now manufactured in North Carolina, where 104 woolen mills are in operation. The finest grade of wool can be grown in the south almost as cheaply as cotton. Two decades ago the south produced annually but 6,000,000 tons of bituminous coal; that product has now passed the 40,000,000 mark, and of the 47,000 square miles of coal fields in the south only about 1,000 are under development. While two decades ago less than 500,000 tons of iron were produced, that production has now grown to 2,500,000 tons of a very superior article. And the iron industry in the south is as yet in its infancy. There are enormous iron ore deposits in different parts of that section of the country which have thus far not been touched at all. This is but a short summary of the progress made in the south during the past 20 years, but it suffices to indicate the possibilities of that part of the country and what is in store for it in the future, since it is no longer limited to cotton.—Denver Post.

NEW YORK PRISONS.

Number In State Penal Institutions Decreases.

SUPERINTENDENT ON CONVICT LABOR

Production of State Prisons Greater and Demand Less Than In Former Year—Total Expenditures the Lowest In Ten Years.

ALBANY, Jan. 29.—The annual report of State Superintendent of Prisons Cornelius S. Collins for the past year, ready to be submitted to the legislature, shows a decrease in the number of prisoners for the year as compared with 1898 of 41. There were, in September last, the close of the fiscal year, 3,161 prisoners.

The superintendent devotes much space to the discussion of prison labor. He shows that in the last year the production of the state prisons was greater than in the preceding year, yet the demands for manufactured articles were less. The sales in 1898 reached $494,720.15, but in 1899 they fell to $394,501.61. One cause of the decrease is special—that is, the demand in 1898 was unusual and abnormal, when the needs of the national guard were great and the purchases on its account were large. In 1899 no goods were bought on its account from the state prisons. The other cause is general and must be felt at all times. It is the competition of other state institutions with penal institutions. In 1899 several of these which had formerly bought shoes and clothing from the state prisons engaged in the manufacture of such articles, the managers of them asserting that the employment of the inmates was salutary. As these institutions did not manufacture goods prior to the addition of the present system of prison labor, but bought them in the general market, right here is a distinct addition to the sum of industrial labor by the state. Hence while estimates of the consumption of products by the state institutions and political divisions may prove to be very nearly right the productive power of these institutions may largely exceed such estimates.

The total expenditures for the year were $460,111, the lowest since 1890 and a decrease of $48,679 from last year.

Twenty-eight prisoners died during the year. Forty-two went insane, a decrease of eight from last year.

In all the prisons 632 men were in school during the year. Most of them who were discharged finished the limited course that is taught in these schools. Thus the schools and the libraries contribute much to the employment of the minds of prisoners and aid in the preservation of mental soundness and afford some stimulus to healthful activity.

Porto Rico Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Administration officials are manifesting great interest in the legislation now before both houses of congress providing a form of government for the island of Porto Rico and regulating the tariff rates on imports from the island into the United States. It can be stated that the president is willing that a small or nominal rate of duty shall be imposed on imports from the island, and it is understood that he is not urging delay in legislation affecting its status pending a decision by the supreme court as to whether Porto Rico is a part of the United States.

No Anarchist Demonstration.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—The expected anarchist demonstration decided not to take place yesterday at the burial of Edward A. O'Connor, who was killed during an altercation with a nonunion man at the factory of Winslow Bros. Five hundred men followed the remains to Waldheim cemetery. The red flag of the United Metal workers, of which O'Connor was a member, was carried in the procession, but it was furled and was preceded by the stars and stripes in the hands of a policeman, as ordered by Chief of Police Kiepley.

Wishart Must Prove Statements.

TRENTON, Jan. 29.—Rev. Alfred W. Wishart of the Central Baptist church, who in a sermon a week ago severely arraigned the police department of Trenton, charging that gambling, prizefighting, Sunday selling and indecent exhibitions were being conducted in Trenton, has received a subpœna to appear before the Mercer county grand jury to substantiate his assertions. Dr. Wishart stated that the chief of police was being restrained in his duty by powerful influences and that money was being paid for police protection.

Against Tax on Mortgages.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—At a meeting of both the Central Federated union and District assembly No. 49, Knights of Labor, resolutions were passed protesting against the action of the joint committee on taxation, which has introduced a bill in the senate and assembly of the state to impose a tax on all mortgages by whomsoever held. It was said the tax would discourage savings and was against the interests of workingmen.

The Situation In China.

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—A serious view is taken in diplomatic circles here of the situation in China. The Neue Freie Presse thinks that other powers will follow the example of France and send warships to protect their subjects. The Austria-Hungarian cruiser Xenta will arrive at Hongkong in a few days and will be at the disposal of the Austria-Hungarian minister, Baron Czikann de Wahlborn, at Peking.

More Sympathy For Boers.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29.—The Fourteenth Street theater was packed with enthusiastic sympathizers of the Boer cause yesterday. Dr. Emil Pretorius, editor of the Westliche Post, acted as chairman. Addresses were made by ex-Governor W. J. Stone, Judges Rombou and Estes, J. W. Taylor and Hon. O'Neil Ryan. Resolutions extremely strong and sympathetic were read and adopted.

Woman Burned to Death.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Miss Mary Fitzgerald, aged 34 years, was burned to death at her home on Elk street. It is supposed that a lamp that she was cleaning exploded and set fire to her clothing. Her charred body was found by her niece, Gertrude Fitzgerald. The house was set on fire, but the blaze was soon extinguished.

HOT BURGLAR HUNT.

Two Suspected Safe Crackers Killed--A Third Wounded.

QUINCY POLICE SHOOT WELL.

The Victims Are Believed to Be the Same Who Recently Operated Successfully In Several Illinois Towns.

QUINCY, Ills., Jan. 29.—Quincy police officers have killed two expert safe blowers, supposed to be from Chicago, and seriously wounded another. The men are believed to be the same who recently operated in Galesburg, Freeport and other Illinois cities, making a specialty of cracking safes in building and loan association offices.

On Jan. 6 the safe in the offices of the Adams County Building and Loan association in this city was blown open at the noon hour and cash and securities amounting to $20,000 taken. Saturday last three men came to Moecker's hotel, two of them registering from Kansas City. The proprietor suspected them and warned the police, and when one of the men went out he was shadowed by Detective George Koch.

The officer finally asked the suspect to go to the station and explain himself. The man drew a pistol and pointed it at the officer's heart, but as he did so Koch flashed his own pistol and fired four shots. Three took effect, and the man fell dead. This occurred at 11 o'clock Saturday night in front of the Newcomb hotel. Meanwhile officers had examined the baggage of the suspected men and found it included burglar tools, skeleton keys, dynamite sticks and nitroglycerin. When the other two men returned to the Moecker hotel at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, they found the hotel surrounded by officers. They ran into the hotel saloon and loaded their revolvers.

Then ensued a running fight in the hotel corridors. One man reached the street pursued by Chief of Police John Ahearn. He turned to fire, and as he did so Ahearn sent a bullet crashing through his skull. He died in a few minutes.

The third man was shot on the stairs by Officer Charnhorst and sank to the floor with a broken hip. He refused to say who his accomplices were. When the dead men came here Jan. 5, they registered as J. M. Burt and H. F. Crowley. Saturday Burt was registered as C. H. Rogers. From letters found on his person it appears he also used the name of C. H. Prince of Chicago. The wounded man refused to give his name.

Policemen Worked to Prevent Work

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29.—Nine hundred policemen were busy from midnight Saturday until 12 o'clock last night securing the names of violators of the ancient "blue laws," together with their aiders and abettors. The edict sent out by the police department last week, in co-operation with the grand jury, proscribed traffic in every article except milk and ice, druggists being permitted to compound and sell physicians' prescriptions only. No arrests were made during the day, but the names of all workers known to be such were taken and will be referred to the grand jury. These included editors, reporters, compositors, pressmen and carriers of the Sunday papers.

Milk Producers Meet.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Milk producers in this vicinity attended a meeting called in this city by the International Farmers' union and fixed the average wholesale price of milk on the Binghamton market at 2½ cents a quart. This is the first time that the new farmers' unions has fixed the price of any commodity. The International union was formed, with headquarters in Binghamton, a short time ago, and inquiries have already been received from farmers in 23 states and in Canada, while unions have been formed in Kansas and Indiana. Promoters of the movement predict that it will eventually extend throughout the agricultural regions of the United States and Canada.

Suffocated by Gas.

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Gas escaping from a defective stove in the home of Stephen Kandolf of Honeybrook while all members of the family and six boarders were fast asleep early yesterday morning caused the death of Mrs. Kandolf, aged 39 years, and almost suffocated all who were in the house. The gas was detected by two boarders who returned home at 3 o'clock in the morning and who thereupon awakened the household.

Pastor Resigns to Go to Baltimore.

CORTLAND, N. Y., Jan. 29.—At the close of the sermon in the Presbyterian church here yesterday morning the Rev. John Timothy Stone sent in his resignation, to take effect March 1, to accept a call to the Brown Memorial church of Baltimore, to succeed the Rev. Maltby D. Babcock, D. D. There were about 1,000 persons present at the service, and they were much affected when apprised of the pastor's intention.

Fire In Grain Elevator.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Fire destroyed the Lehigh Valley company's grain elevator at Perth Amboy, N. J., yesterday. The New Haven schooner Alice B. Phillips caught fire and was damaged to the extent of $3,000. The total loss is about $25,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Carlist Arsenal Found.

MADRID, Jan. 29.—The gendarmes Saturday unearthed a Carlist arsenal in a house in Palencia, capital of the province of that name, and seized 100,000 cartridges and a large quantity of arms. Six Carlists who are implicated fled across the frontier.

Crazed by the War.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Jan. 29.—James Jubb, an Englishman, aged 28, in a fit of insanity committed suicide here by gashing his throat with a carving knife. It is said his insanity was the outcome of constant brooding on the war in the Transvaal.

Silk Goods Stolen.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Thomas Henderson's dry goods store here was entered by burglars, and several thousand dollars' worth of silk goods were stolen. The rear store door was forced open.

French Nationalists Defeated.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The election of 99 senators yesterday resulted in a practical rout for the Nationalists, only three out of their 30 candidates being elected.

DIRT CLEARANCE.

IT is a good plan for every bather to know something of the soap he uses. There is a well-founded objection to using a floor-cleaning soap upon the human body. Ivory Soap is the bather's soap. It costs more than common soaps, but the difference is in the ingredients and making. Why not treat yourself with a little respect. Is not the human skin with its marvellous delicacy entitled to pure soap? Ivory Soap—it floats.

SENATOR MASON'S DENIAL.

Not Expelled From Tippecanoe Club. Never Was a Member.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Senator Mason of Illinois in a signed statement concerning the published report that he had been requested to withdraw from the Old Tippecanoe club of Chicago said:

"I notice by the papers that I was expelled from the Tippecanoe Republican club of Chicago. I never applied for membership. I heard through the press that charges against me had been preferred by Colonel (?) McWhorter that I did not agree with the president on Philippine and Boer questions."

The senator then makes a personal attack upon the integrity of Colonel McWhorter and adds:

"This (the reference being to a personal and not political matter) is the only communication as to any charges against my Republicanism, directly or indirectly, I have ever had with Colonel (?) McWhorter, chairman of the committee on political action of the Old Tippecanoe club of Chicago. Had I known that I was a member of the club and that McWhorter was chairman of any important committee I should have resigned. Meantime I am for liberty and self government in Cuba, Philippine Islands, South Africa and Chicago, McWhorter or no McWhorter."

THE KENTUCKY TROUBLE.

Hearing of Contest Cases Resumed After a Day's Rest.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 29.—Politicians of both parties took a rest yesterday, and the lobby of the Capitol hotel was more quiet than it has been for several weeks. Saturday night the leaders of both parties were in caucus, that of the Republicans being prolonged until a late hour. No action of any kind was taken during the day, however. There were persistent rumors all day that another detachment of men from the mountains would arrive in Frankfort during the first half of the week.

E. G. Sebree, campaign manager for the Republicans, denied the story positively. "Nobody is coming that I know of," he said, "and if there was any organized movement among the Republicans to come to Frankfort I would know it. No such thing is contemplated by anybody."

Today another contest is being heard in the house, that of Gill (Dem.) against Brister (Rep.), from Logan county. This case was made a special order for Saturday morning at the same time as the Van Meter-Berry case. The majority of the contest committee is composed of Republicans and will report in favor of Brister.

THE ANTI-IMPERIALISTS.

Claim Large Organizations In Many States.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—The Times-Herald says:

"The American Anti-imperialist league which was organized at the anti-imperialist conference held here in September claims to have an effective organization in 38 states, Oklahoma and the District of Columbia.

The officers of the league, while uncommunicative as to methods, admit that it aims to make itself felt in close congressional districts everywhere for the election of congressmen this year who will be against the retention of the Philippines.

"Connection with the Bryan cause is denied. Bourke Cockran's recent expression of friendliness for Bryan is taken to be significant in this connection; also the declaration of Andrew Carnegie that he will not contribute to the Republican campaign fund this year, but may contribute to the Bryan fund. Both are in this organization."

Asphalt In Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 29.—What is believed to be the best asphalt deposit in Mexico is about to be developed. It is situated near Tampico and is controlled by Mexicans who have refused offers from American contractors for operating. The deposits will be operated wholly by Mexicans. A strong combination of leading Mexican capitalists has acquired a large tract of oil producing land near the Pacific coast and are preparing for active operation. The oil is not suitable, according to tests, for illuminating purposes, but is excellently adapted for lubricating and for fuel and gas making. One pint of this oil will supply one horsepower per hour. The supply of oil is said to be unlimited.

NOMINATION SURE.

Roosevelt Will Name Hendricks For Insurance Superintendent.

ALBANY, Jan. 29.—The eagerly anticipated and long awaited nomination of a successor to Louis F. Payn as superintendent of insurance will be sent to the senate tonight. The governor's nominee for the position will be ex-Senator Francis Hendricks of Syracuse. There is little doubt but that the nomination will be confirmed. Mr. Hendricks was the governor's first choice for this position, but he at first felt impelled to decline because of business considerations. Out of all the names canvassed or suggested the governor has at all times been the complete master of the situation. The universal support accorded him is evidenced in the fact that all persons suggested have been in perfect accord with the governor's ideas.

When the nomination is received in the senate tonight it will immediately be referred to the insurance committee. Just what action will then be had is yet undetermined. Several senators who have always enjoyed Mr. Payn's friendship think that the confirmation of the nomination should be made a party measure in order to relieve them from personal and individual responsibility. It is, therefore, probable that a caucus of the Republican senators will be held some time during the week, when each senator will be permitted to vote his individual preference, and all, with the single exception of Senator Ambler, from Mr. Payn's home district, will then accept the will of the majority, abide by the caucus decision and vote for confirmation upon the floor of the senate.

Aside from this interest in the senate proceedings during this week will be confined largely to the committees. Each committee now has a great mass of proposed legislation before it, and hearings will be given to interested parties each day. Most important of these will be a resumption of the hearing upon the New York school bills begun before the cities committee last week.

The assembly will inaugurate the week's work with a record of over 500 bills introduced and 21 passed as against 360 introduced and 41 passed thus far last year during the same period.

Famous Race Horse Dead.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 29.—Imported Candlemas, the famous race horse owned by J. B. Haggin, is dead from vertigo. He was a full brother to St. Blaize, who won the English Derby in 1883 and sold at that time for $100,000. He was bought by Haggin from C. J. Enright here in 1896 for $15,000, Enright having purchased him eight years before at Tattersalls, New York, from the English owners for $12,500. He was 17 years of age and sired some of the most useful horses on the turf, notably Martimas, who won the Futurity in New York in 1893.

Receiver Appointed.

SARATOGA, Jan. 29.—Justice Houghton in the supreme court has appointed Fred H. Beach receiver of the Ballston Terminal railroad, a 12 mile county trolley line owned by Philadelphia capital and bonded for $250,000. The application for a receiver was made by David Thompson, a judgment creditor of Ballston Spa.

Archbishop Corrigan Going to Rome.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Archbishop Corrigan will go to Rome as soon after Easter as is possible for him to leave his archdiocese. Although the date of his departure has not been chosen, it was said at the diocesan house that the archbishop had made arrangements to visit the pope in the coming spring.

Sandbaggers Foiled.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Jan. 29.—Two men attempted to rob Henry Hayward, clerk of the Park hotel, of $500 late Saturday night, but did not succeed. They sandbagged him, but not sufficiently to prevent him shouting, and the would be robbers escaped.

Blizzard In Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 29.—All south and central Texas is being visited by a very severe blizzard, which from present indications will be the worst of the winter. The temperature has fallen 30 degrees.

Mrs. Platt Better.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The condition of Mrs. Platt, the wife of the senator from New York, is reported to be better.

The proposed consolidation of the spring and fall elections has practically become a partisan issue through the warm endorsement of the plan by Republican leaders in the State, three county organizations already having boldly proclaimed their faith in the abolition of the present system of separating State and municipal elections.

The able Newark News, which has supported the Republican party in every campaign for the past four years, calls it an "unsafe party policy," because "the aim and intent of the proposed bill are to coerce the independent votes, and the practical result would be in all probability to disgust and alienate the very element which it is hoped to control."

The News then goes on to argue that "it is the independent voter who for the past six or seven years has furnished the Republican majorities in New Jersey at State and national elections. He has had abundant justification for his action, and, while the course of the men whom he has helped elect may not always have met his approval, he has not upon the whole had occasion to regret his choice. At the same time the independent voter has always reserved the right of thinking for himself, and he has not hesitated to exercise this privilege at the spring elections to the frequent dismay of politicians, who, judging from results in the fall, have imagined that anything bearing the stamp of party regularity must win. To suppose that this all-powerful element will not recognize in the election-merger scheme an attempt to coerce it into supporting objectionable Republican candidates for local offices, is to discredit the intelligence of its members. To imagine that the independent voters will not show their resentment at the polls is to ignore all the lessons of past experience. Defeat of candidates for State offices is far more likely to follow consolidation of elections than success of candidates for local positions.

Not along a Vice Chancellor ruled that a divorce was a luxury, and as such should be paid for by allowing the defendant wife liberal fees with which to oppose the judicial severing of the nuptial bonds. Now along comes the Legal Aid Association of New Jersey, which was organized to assist worthy poor people to obtain their rights under the law and keep them out of the hands of "shysters," also saying that divorce is not a necessity. If divorces are wanted by applicants to the association they are to be turned away.

The professed desire of some of the Republicans of this city is to clip the wings, politically, of our esteemed friend, Editor Runyon, of the News, and the way they propose to accomplish the result is to furnish him a lively competitor in business. Running a newspaper in a field already well occupied may afford plenty of fun, but that sort of humor will come high-priced. It is seldom that a paying newspaper is built up on a political grudge.

The determination of Susan B. Anthony to retire from the presidency of the National American Suffrage Association at the coming convention of that body, will remove from the active sphere of advocates of equal rights at the ballot box one who has been conspicuous for nearly half a century in that line of work. Miss Anthony had labored incessantly to secure the right of suffrage for her sex, but the goal seems as far off as it ever did.

It is as certain as anything can be in politics that McKinley and Bryan will be the opposing heads of the two national tickets this year. On the other hand, however, there are a score or more of Republicans who are being mentioned as running mates for McKinley, but up to the present time there has been scarcely a whisper as to who will keep Col. Bryan company in the approaching campaign.

The re-election of former Mayor Alexander Gilbert to the office of chairman of the Republican city executive committee is a choice that was argued by the previous record of Mr. Gilbert in that capacity. It is doubtful if there is another city in the State of New Jersey that has a more effective political organization than the Republicans maintain here.

No site has yet been discovered that offers so many varied opportunities as the waste land tract mentioned on various occasions in these columns.—News editorial.

The News editor must regard his patrons as mind readers.

In the joint meeting of the Legislature tomorrow State Comtroller Hancock and State Treasurer Swain will be selected. There is no opposition to either gentleman.

Seventy bills have been introduced in the Assembly and twenty-eight in the Senate.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

What is supposed to be the biggest tree in South Jersey is an oak growing on the old Tantem farm along Mantua Creek, Salem county. This tree measured 34 feet 6 inches in circumference at the base, and from tip to tip of its widest spreading branches it is 122 feet. This tree divests the "old oak" in the Friends' burial ground at Salem of the distinction which it has borne for many years. What is believed to be the largest sassafras tree in the State was felled a short time ago near Vincentown, in Burlington county. Its trunk measured two feet in diameter.

"The West, and Certain Literary Discoveries; or, How Fiction may be stronger than Truth," is an article appearing in the February Century. It is not the record of a new "discovery" of the trans-Mississippian region by an Easterner, but the assertion of the present status of the West by a representative young Westerner—E. Hough, author of "The Story of The Cowboy." Not the least striking part of the essay is the following imaginary dialogue:

"Then, after all, your boasted West is changing. We"—triumphantly—"have discovered that."

"Yes. The West has known and wept ever these changes for a score of years."

"And your cowboy is gone."

"He is at Washington."

"And your plainsman is no more."

"He is raising a section of wheat."

"And your prospector—"

"Is in the Klondike, founding a family tree."

"And all your wild men are coming to be shorn."

"Friend, where have you slept these years?"

"Perhaps, then a new day is after all dawning for the West."

"Friend, it is already noon."

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 29.—Previous to Rev. G. M. Shott's sermon on Sunday morning a very pleasing but short address was made by A. D. Domencia, an Italian missionary, of Newark. Mr. Domencia made a strong and urgent request for the establishing of a local Italian missionary to work among the Italians of the village. The present plan of having a missionary on the field on Sunday has merely shown the good a missionary could do if on the field during the week. The present plan, which is backed by the Baptist church members, cost about $25 per month, while the resident missionary would cost about $50.

A very pleasant and profitable stereopticon entertainment was held in the Fanwood fire hall Saturday evening. The views were scenes from the west and were thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the close of the entertainment programme the fire laddies and their friends enjoyed a short dance until near 12 o'clock. A number from the village attended the pleasant little social affair.

Samuel Pedderwhites horse, while left standing in front of Walpole's hotel Saturday evening, became tired of waiting for its master, and started for its home in Washington Valley. The animal was caught when near the fur mill without any damage to itself or wagon.

Mrs. Edward Smith and child, of West Fourth street, Plainfield, has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Messler.

Miss Susie L. Parse has returned from a pleasant visit of several days with friends in New York city.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest Sunday of his grandmother, Mrs. Jacob V. Coles.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wombold, of Springfield, have been visiting friends in town.

Miss Bella Mercein was the guest of her sister in Plainfield yesterday.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 29.—One of the biggest revivals that this town has ever seen began here yesterday when Rev. E. E. Davidson, the evangelist, spoke at the Presbyterian church. For several weeks cottage prayer meetings have been held throughout the town and a big interest in the meetings have been created before the opening meeting. Fully one thousand people from Westfield and surrounding country were at yesterday morning's meeting and the church was taxed to its utmost to hold the congregation. There were meetings in the afternoon and evening, but they were poorly attended when compared with the morning service. The meetings will be held in the Presbyterian church nightly during this week. The revivals are in charge of a committee selected from the different churches of the town.

There will be a big time at the Westfield Club this evening when the bowling teams of that club and the Social Club will roll a series of three games after which the members of the latter club will be entertained at a dinner and dance by the Westfield Club members.

A rush of orders has compelled the man at the C & C. electrical works at Garwood to work nights for the past week and on Sunday they worked until 3 o'clock.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Pure, legitmate comedy outlives the frothy, farce variety, for the same reason that good literature finds permanent sale while the trashy is forgotten before a single season is over. William Gillette's great comedy, "All the Comforts of Home," has lived and flourished on the irrevocable law of survival of the fittest. Indeed, like good old wine it has improved with age. This season witnesses an elaborate revival of this popular piece, which revival is to be seen here at Music Hall tomorrow night. The company presenting it is headed by Miss Myrtle Edwards and Guy Taylor Bennette, and it is promised that their production in respect to scenery and equipment will be equal to Mr. Frohman's New York Empire Theatre presentation. The humor of "All the Comforts of Home" is delicious and sparkling, the situations being as ludicrous as the lines—an entertainment unequalled in refined mirth-producing features being the result.

* * * * *

There is a treat in store for our theatre-goers next Thursday evening at the Music Hall, when John Kernell and Tim Cronin will be seen for the first time in this city in their latest Irish success, "What Happened to Reilly. It is ope laugh that lasts from the rise to the fall of the curtain; there is a little of everything that goes to make up a good evening's entertainment. Singing, dancing, acting and pretty girls that are clever. Everybody has a chance to do something which they can do best. John Kernell starred for several years in "The Hustler," while Tim Cronin was the the bright star of that funny comedy, "U and I."

* * * * *

"How Smith Met Jones" will be the attraction at Music Hall both matinee and night, Saturday, February 3d. It is said to be a comedy full of rollicking fun, joyous humor and ludicrous complications from beginning to end. The cast is in competent hands and has been recruited from among the Frohman, Hoyt and McKee and former Harrigan and Hart forces.

Monster continuous vaudeville programmes are being prepared for this week at Proctor's theatres in New York city. It is quite safe to say that they will undoubtedly be the most enjoyable entertainments of the present season. At Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre the big "items" of the continuous bill will be: The Rossow Midgets, in their unique athletic pastimes and Montgomery and Stone, the favorite black-face entertainers. At Proctor's Palace the "big typed" numbers are: The Four Cohans, vaudeville's favorite comedians; York and Adams, two plain Jews; Ethel Levey, singing comedienne; John E. Camp, original comedian; Whitney Bros., musical act; Ramza and Arno, with their funny Blondin monkey, and Lenton Bros., acrobats.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I.O O.F., will hold a meeting of importance this evening.

—The February meeting of the Borough Council will be held Friday evening.

—There will be a meeting of the West End Hose Company, No. 2, tomorrow evening.

—There will be a meeting this week of the councilmanic street committee when some important matters will come up.

—C. E. Hepburn & Co., druggists, are making some improvements about their store, corner of Park avenue and Second street.

—The Woman's Association of the Congregational church will hold a sewing meeting in the church parlors Thursday afternoon.

—The Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church meet this evening at 8 o'clock. It will be the monthly consecration meeting.

—This evening the borough Board of Education will hold its regular meeting and consider matters of importance to the schools.

RIPANS TABULES

"Every spring and summer," said he, "I have been greatly troubled with dyspepsia and constipation, and have tried various remedies with no permanent relief. A few weeks ago I came in possession of some of these Tabules and, somewhat incredulously, began their use. The results have been truly astonishing. They hit the right spot from the first, and so far this season I have never felt better in my life."

THE SPRING FASHIONS.

Peeps at the Thin Goods We Will Wear Next Summer.

Every day is a new day, yet it is so like yesterday that one could scarcely define the difference in them, and this is just how it is with the new spring fashions. They are just like the fashions of last spring with a very few shades of difference.

Chief are the dainty thin goods, and these will be covered with delicate ruchings and such other trimmings as one may desire. Organdies, dotted swisses, plumetis, nainsook, dimity, khaki, linen lawns and zephyr ginghams, percales and cotton crepons without end are among the new wash dresses, and all are old acquaintances in new colors and rather new patterns.

The percales are particularly pretty. White with black dots makes the prettiest kind of gowns for morning and shirt waists. Polka dots are seen everywhere, even on the velvets and surah, china and india silk and several of the light flannels.

Of washable goods the counters are full, and, as I said, there is nothing really new among them. Washable silks there are in abundance, some of them exquisitely pretty and some of them so ugly that they are "awfully swell and stylish." There are three or four new weaves in light silks and innumerable ones in wool and silk, some of them thin and some thick, some firm and others flexible and so open as to appear like grenadine.

There are also grenadines in dozens of designs, with the old favorite "iron frame" always leading the list. This made up over colored linings is one of the most pleasing of them all.

In the black goods for summer wear there are china crapes, crepons, gauzes, chiffon, vellings and silk crapes made waterproof. These are mostly in black and are intended for mourning. Yet made up over bright colored linings nothing could be prettier, the shading brought about being very beautiful and the effects so elusive and changing. These are to be trimmed with a little lace, and here and there a suspicion of the bright color beneath shows to the outside. Vellings are to be among the most fashionable of all these dainty dark stuffs unless present signs fail. Velling makes deliciously soft and graceful dresses, especially for the young. There are vellings in the pastel tints as well as black.

Foulards bid fair to be the popular silks for next summer. They are printed in various designs, on black or dark colored grounds. Foulard is not often seen in light shades, but there are a few, but this is not a silk that ever commends itself for very dressy wear. It is more for every day, but it is serviceable. Many of the Japanese wash silks have heavy cords.

ELABORATE SPRING SUIT.

The new panne velvet in all sorts of pompadour designs is among the novelties. It is not intended for full costumes so much as for separate waists, gulmpes and fancy garnitures. Personally I do not like it, but it is thought pretty by most people.

The spring woolens are in the main beautiful. However desirable for many things silk, satin and velvet are, there is nothing to take the place of wool for utility. This is produced in so many different weaves and manners as to make one think there must be hundreds of different kinds of woolen fibers. There are now in black, each one a distinct kind of goods, venetians, tamise, crape cloths, drap d'almas, clairettes, mohairs, both plain and fancy; sateens, prunella cloths, cheviots, serges, estamenes, camel's hairs, coverts and cravanettes, the most of these, and especially the coverts and cravanettes, being waterproof.

Whipcord is one of the prettiest as well as one of the best wearing of the spring woolens. When in the best quality, it is handsome and resembles heavy, corded silk more than anything woolen. A most elaborate costume was made of that. It consisted of a long redingote open in front over a dress of the same.

The front of the skirt was lapped in such a way as to represent three skirts with stitched edges. The panne velvet vest and facings were dotted with tan, and the whole was a stylish costume. It was said to be imported from a famous Paris house, but I take some of these statements with a large sized grain of salt.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

An ambitious woman who is an attorney at law at Helena, Mon., has also served a term as assistant attorney general of her state.

Pretty Things for Breakfast Wear

Gowns and Jackets in Which the Fashionable Woman Eats Her Morning Meal.

DAINTY little house wrappers answer the purpose of breakfast gowns for the hurried housekeeper who has not the wealth of a Gould, a Vanderbilt, a Whitney, a Gerry or a Belmont. But the fashionable woman of New York deems her breakfast gown or breakfast jacket of as much importance as she does her theater or evening gown.

It was at the establishment of my little friend who makes these dainty house gowns that I got my first good idea of the magnificence and expense of these gowns. Of course I have always known that such things were worn more or less, and that the fashion journals gave elaborate directions for making them, but I had supposed that they were more for exceptional use than for everyday wear, even among the very wealthy. But my friend assured me that such was not the case, and that the wealthy women of New York wore these elaborate breakfast toilettes every day.

"If it were not for these half of my business would be gone," said she. "They are as much in demand as are the pretty little tea gowns for afternoon wear, and I believe that I make more of the breakfast gowns than I do of the latter. It was only yesterday that I received an order from Mrs. William R. Garrison for two of the gowns and a jacket that will cost her the price of an elegant evening costume. In fact she wants them made of the very choicest of materials, and of an exclusive design. That means work for my designer, who, by the way, is kept busy these winter days arranging these exclusive styles for New York's fashionable women.

BREAFKAST JACKET OF WHITE CASHMERE.

"Now take this one," continued my friend, as she displayed an elaborate affair of the softest of soft silk, "it will cost its wearer not less than $200."

The gown she showed me was in color shaded from a pink to a gold and resembled nothing so much as the color of a beautiful ripe peach. This was combined with a soft green silk, and an embroidery of shimmering green silk and crystals and the more vivid tones of beatle's wings that were very beautiful on the tight under sleeves which were entirely covered with the lovely embroidery, and having for the background the pale green silk lining of the hanging oversleeves. The long, loose oversleeves were trimmed with a border of the shimmering green silk and crystal. The gown had a low-pointed yoke on the empire style, with the shimmering green silk and crystal embroidery put on in a deep point both in front and in back of the yoke, and the golden pink shaded silk hanging in long, loose folds at the back, with a slight fullness in front.

A $200 BREAKFAST GOWN.

"That I think is the prettiest thing of its kind that I have made this season," said my little friend, "but here is another that is not far behind it in point of beauty."

The second that she showed me was of a cream batiste trimmed with narrow pink ribbon. The back was made a princess, with a loose front of white batiste with pink silk dots. It had a large turn-back collar in the back and small pointed revers to the waist line. The revers were trimmed with ruchings of pink ribbon that were carried down to the bottom of the gown on each side of the pink dotted batiste, and also around the bottom of the gown. The oriental sleeves were made to be worn over a shirred lace sleeve and were edged with frills of pink ribbon.

Both of these were far beyond the means of the ordinary woman, and even those with a few thousand a year would consider them too expensive, but the next one that I saw was much less expensive, although in a way quite as pretty.

It was of flowered challie trimmed with valenciennes lace. It was made with a tight-fitting back with a round yoke in front, having a slight fullness from the yoke, and caught at the waist line with a sea-green velvet girdle. The valenciennes lace was in a cascade across the round yoke, and fell in a pretty cascade at one side to the bottom of the gown. The oriental sleeves were short, and had a full frill of the valenciennes lace on them exposing the white arm.

OF BLUE CHALLIE TRIMMED WITH CREAM LACE.

One that was exceedingly startling in color was of an automobile red made in the empire style, and trimmed with dozens of yards of narrow black velvet and small gold buttons. The entire yoke was covered with rows of the black velvet, and a tight sleeve with rows of the black velvet to the elbow. It had a flounce at the bottom with rosettes of the black velvet that caught the flounce every so often. The effect was quite pretty. The small gold buttons were in clusters on the yoke and the high standing collar and on the sleeves.

Gowns were not the only things that I saw for breakfast wear, however, for there were dainty jackets quite as pretty as the more elaborate gowns. They were made to a great extent as the breakfast gowns, and my friend assured me that they were quite as fashionable.

One of these of white cashmere was a lovely tight-fitting affair made with deep-rounded scallops around the bottom with a frill of lace under the scallops, and brought to the front in a narrow way leaving the scallop in front without the lace. It had a high collar and pointed vest of tucked white silk with a wide frill of lace around the back and to edge the pointed vest, with three large pearl buttons to fasten the jacket in front. The sleeves were of the white silk and made tight with clusters of tucks to the elbow, and a frill of the lace at the elbow.

Another that was very dressy, and quite the prettiest one of them all, was a blue challie trimmed with cream lace, and an applique insertion. It was made with a short bolero back and long-pointed ends in the front, with a deep flounce of the lace around the bottom of the jacket, and the applique insertion down the front and around the long-pointed ends, then up the front to the bust line, and down to the waist line again, thus forming the short bolero. FIRES IN OLD NEW YORK.

The Bucket Brigade of a Century Ago Worked on a Home Rule Principle.

Fire engines in New York a century ago were of very inferior quality and of primitive design. The only water there was for fire purposes was obtained from wooden pumps, and by a law of the corporation every owner of a dwelling was obliged to supply a fire bucket for every fireplace in the house or back kitchen; these buckets held three gallons and were made of sole leather; they were hung in the passage near the front door. When the bell rang for fire the watchmen, firemen and boys, while running to the fire, cried: "Throw out your buckets!" These were picked up by men, women and boys running to the fire. Two lines were formed, from the fire to the nearest pump; when the pump gave out the lines were carried to the nearest river; one line passed down the empty, the other passed up the full buckets; if a person tried to break through the lines he was compelled to fall in and help, under penalty of a severe drenching for refusal. The buckets were marked with the name and number of the owner, and any householder not supplied with a bucket was liable to fine and in some cases imprisonment.

Every morning after a fire the corporation carmen went to the streets near the scene, picked up the buckets and dumped them in the lobby of the city hall. People then sent their children or servants to bring home the buckets, to await the next fire.

This method of fire fighting had many disadvantages, though at that period most of the inhabited part of New York was below the line of Fulton street, and in consequence the distance to either river was not very great. Moreover, the riparian boundaries of New York were less extended than they are now, Greenwich street and Front street being the outside boundaries. As the city grew northward and as the distances from the central Broadway line to the river front were gradually increased it was no longer practicable to depend on buckets passed from hand to hand, and therefore there was adopted a copper pump for drawing water out of the river in case of fire, and thereby avoiding the disagreeable necessity of the inhabitants going down to the slips and handing the water up in buckets. This was ordered by the corporation in 1799. One year afterward this pump was deposited, by authority, in the rear of the city hall. The wheels of the engines were at that time so small that locomotion was extremely difficult when there was much snow. Accordingly a new style of sled was tried and similar ones were ordered to be made for the other engines. But they were found to be worse than useless, for in attempting to turn a corner the engines were often upset and damaged. In very narrow streets sometimes they were left to be burned, because it was impossible to get them away.

About this time each engine house was supplied with two poles long enough to carry 12 buckets each. These poles were borne on the shoulders of four men. The general rule was that the first fireman to reach the engine house after an alarm of fire should have a right to the pipe and take it with him to the fire; that the next four firemen to arrive should bear away the bucket poles, and that the rest of the company should run off with the engine as best they might, "bawling out and demanding the aid of citizens as they proceeded on." The "bawling out" process, which had the indorsement of ordinance as well as custom, was not wholly satisfactory to New Yorkers, as in case of false alarms it often disturbed the slumbers of the burghers and at other times emptied taverns and other meeting places without any practical result. —N. STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Daily Press Bowling League.

	Games Won.	Games Lost.	High Score.
Roselle Casino	7	2	911
Westfield Club	5	4	856
Park Club	5	7	864
Cranford Casino	4	11	863

The Park Club bowling team will roll just six games more in The Daily Press Bowling League and its schedule will then be complete. Its next games will be rolled in Westfield next Friday evening. As Westfield is fairly invincible on its own alleys, the Parks have little hope of winning even one out of three there. The other three games will be rolled on the Park Club alleys the Friday evening following when the team from Roselle Casino will visit here. Roselle will then be fighting hard for first place with Westfield, and will undoubtedly make a strong fight for all three of the games. There is every chance that the home team will manage to get something out of that series.

BASKET BALL.

The New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. team that was defeated at basket ball by a team from the local association a few days ago, has promised to play a return game here next month. The date has practically been settled. The game will probably be played on the evening of Monday, February 12th, Lincoln's Birthday. The same team that went to New Brunswick to represent Plainfield, will play on the Plainfield team. New Brunswick expects to send the team.

C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., has just received a communication from William Jessup, secretary of the Summit Y. M. C. A., regarding the game played here which was protested by Jessup. It was finally agreed that the game should be played over here but Jessup now writes that he will give in and allow Plainfield to claim the game. It is impossible, he says, to get his team together to come over here to play again and admits the defeat and asks for a return game there. It will be played Wednesday evening or on the Monday night following that.

METUCHEN POSTMASTER.

THE TERM OF NATHAN ROBINS ENDED SATURDAY.

No Successor Has Been Appointed as Yet—Has Been Laid Over Two Weeks—Three Men Want the Appointment.

Because no one has yet been chosen to succeed Nathan Robins, as postmaster at Metuchen, he will hold over until one is named. The term of the present postmaster ended at 12 o'clock Saturday night, and it is said on very good authority that because there is such a division of opinion as to who shall be postmaster that the postoffice appointment has gone over for two weeks.

The three candidates for the office are James F. Morton, Former Sheriff Charles Campbell and Edward Burroughs.

Morton had a lot of warm advocates who contend that he has always been a good political worker and should be appointed. Some say his appointment was an assured fact until last week, when a delegation went to Washington and objected.

Former Sheriff Campbell also has a host of friends who want him to be named because he has made himself active in the political arena.

The objection raised by some to his appointment is because he has been Collector of Raritan township for years.

Edward Burroughs is picked out by some as a dark horse. They believe that with the Campbell-Morton forces at work he will come in a winner.

Postmaster Robins says he is ready to turn over the key to the best man of the three.

LITERARY.

Just what the good, helpful church member is in church he is at home, with an open heart and an open hand, never content unless his friends are coming and going, never angry unless they will not stay and have a meal with him, never so full of joy as when he is doing a good turn, or going over old days with those to whom he is bound by a hundred ties of kindly words and deeds. As he has dealt with all men, strangers and friends alike, in his church and in his house, so will God deal by him, and for him we may feel sure there will be a hospitable welcome waiting where the churches of earth have changed into Our Father's House.—Ian Maclaren in the February Ladies' Home Journal.

Concert To be Held in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

There is a mistaken idea prevalent that the concert for the benefit of the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow evening is to be held in the church. The concert will be held in Y. M. C. A. hall and will begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. An excellent programme has been provided and it will undoubtedly be one of the best entertainments of its kind held in this city this season.

Reception for Newly Married Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lester Miller, of Westfield, will hold a reception at the home of the bride's father, Chief of Police Grant, at 203 West Fifth street, Thursday evening, February 8th, at 8:30 o'clock. A large number of the groom's friends from Westfield will be present to offer congratulations to the newly married couple.

WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S.

Nuptials of Miss Bertha Landrigan and John McElgunn Celebrated Yesterday Afternoon.

A pretty wedding was that of yesterday afternoon when Miss Bertha Landrigan, of North avenue, and John McElgunn, of Baltimore, were married at 4:30 o'clock at St. Mary's R. C. church in the presence of a large assemblage of friends of the contracting parties. Rev. Father Smyth, rector of the church, performed the ceremony according to the Catholic church ritual, which is very impressive. The bride, an attractive brunette, was becomingly attired in a gown of grey cloth, with white silk and pearl trimmings. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Landrigan. The groom was attended by John King, of this city, who was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McElgunn left the city for Baltimore, where they will visit the groom's folks for a week. Upon their return they will reside in this city, where the groom has a lucrative position at the Pond Tool Works.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Will F. Williams and wife, of Central avenue, spent Sunday at the home of Theodore H. Hardy, 192 Van-Buren street, Brooklyn.

While leaving his house on Craig place last night, P. M. Demarest slipped and fell in such a way as to badly bruise and sprain himself, though not seriously.

Mrs. Harry Walbridge and Miss Grace Walbridge, of Buffalo, who have been visiting Mrs. Isaac L. Miller for the past ten days' leave tomorrow en route for their home.

Free Delivery for Summit.

Inspector Snow, of the Postoffice Department in Washington, visited Summit Saturday to start the arrangements for establishing the free mail delivery system, application for which had been made by the Common Council and Postmaster Coggeshall. Mr. Snow examined the city thoroughly and announced that he would approve the application and endeavor to further the plan, so that the system can be established within six months. The Street committee of the Common Council expects to submit a plan for numbering the houses to provide for the system at the next meeting of the Council.

A New Idea.

The Hygeia Ice Company has decided to install a new and improved system for making ice in its plant on North avenue. There is now a plentiful supply of ice in the storehouse of the company and the plant will be shut down for three months to permit the change to be made. The supply will be sufficient to furnish all the customers of the company during that time.

Death of Mrs. Flynn.

Mrs. Catherine Flynn, wife of Thomas Flynn, died at her late home 303 Madison avenue yesterday. The deceased is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Michael DeCourcy. The funeral will be held from the family residence on Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at 9 o'clock.

Former Councilman Frost in Town.

Former Councilman George Frost, who recently returned from a trip abroad, came to Plainfield Saturday and attended the reception given at the Crescent Avenue church to Dr. and Mrs. Richards. He remained in the city until today, when he and Street Commissioner Gavett visited the sewage disposal farm.

PICTURESQUE GUANAJUATO.

A Mexican City Which Has Many Attractive Peculiarities—An Altar Deep Down in a Mine.

Guanajuato, derived from the Indian word Quanashuato, signifying "the hill of frogs," has been called the most picturesqu city in the world. Situated in Mexico, 14 miles off the trunk line of the Mexican Central railroad and 250 miles north of the City of Mexico, with its narrow, crooked streets and tier upon tier of flat roofed houses, it is a particularly fascinating place. To reach it one should stop off at the quaint old town of Silao. From there a little mountain railroad climbs 11 miles up a steep incline and then a tram car drawn by six mules takes one three miles over one of the most interesting street car lines in the whole world.

This route starts at Marfil, a Moorish looking town, and crowding the narrow ravine with its one street following the meanderings of a small river, the causeway passes over and under immense silver reduction mines. A coping extends along the river the entire distance. It is a remarkable piece of engineering, begun in 1767 and finished in 1852, after the leisure manner of Mexicans. The reduction works are castle-like structures with large courts inclosed by high walls. There is no outlet to the ravine except toward Silao.

Guanajuato has 60,000 inhabitants, 7,000 feet above the level of the sea, and is without a spot of level ground. The first vein of silver was discovered there in 1548 by two muleteers. Between that date and 1890 over $800,000,000 worth of silver has been taken from the mines. This town played an important part in the revolution of 1810, the first call for the people to fight for freedom from European rule being made by a patriot priest, Hidalgo, who presided over a church in a little town not far from Guanajuato. At 11 o'clock on the night of September 15, 1810, he rang the bell for the ostensible purpose of calling the people to mass, but when they had gathered in the church he told them that the time had come to break loose from the rule of the mother country. That bell now hangs over the main portal of the National palace in Mexico and is rung by President Diaz on the night of September 15 each year, commemorating what is called the "grito" or cry for independence. Guanajuato changed hands many times during this war. A very impressive building, the Alhondige, or the Castilla de Granaditas, still has the marks of cannon balls on the walls, and it is claimed that the blood of conflict can still be seen on the balustrades.

The center of the city is a bit of three-cornered plaza called the Jardin de la Union. Around it are some handrome buildings—the governor's palace, the mint, the leading hotel and the finest theater in Mexico. Every Sunday forenoon and evening a military band gives a concert in this miniature park and there is no more delightfully novel scene than that witnessed by the onlooker from the balcony of one of the hotel windows. Round and round the plaza on the flagged pavements stroll all classes and conditions of Mexicans listening to the music, talking, laughing, mildly flirting, gay with vivid colors and quaint in costume.

A soldier in blue uniform stands at every corner, at the markets, before the public buildings, everywhere, ready to protect the stranger or do him any other service. Every person you meet is good natured and civil, glad to answer any questions propounded by the Americano. You hear no English, except a little at the hotel or at the great Serena mines, which are owned by New York capitalists, and which join the famous Valenciana. The Serena yields an average of $60 silver, Mexican, and $12 gold to the ton. The miners come to the surface four times a day, each carrying 250 pounds of ore on his back, toiling up ladders and stairways to earn his 75 or 80 cents a day. In the heart of the mine, with candles always burning before it, is a shrine or altar, at which every working man offers his daily devotion. On especially sacred days this altar is decorated with flowers. If it should be removed the men would refuse to work.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Typhoid Fever in Armies.

In his address at Boulogne on "Hygiene and Its Progress During the Last Hundred Years," Dr. Bronardel said that while in the French army the mortality from typhoid fever is about 12 in 10,000, in the German army it is as low as one or two per 10,000. The lower mortality of the German army is doubtless owing to the fact that an order of a government authority addressed to any municipal authority is immediately carried out, so that an impure water supply must soon be replaced by a better one. On the other hand, many of the French municipalities are indifferent to their responsibilities. Dr. Bronardel also stated that the first French vaccination was done in Boulogne, and the statue of Jenner there records the event.—Chicago Tribune.

No More Nitroglycerin Powder.

The manufacture of nitroglycerin powder for the use of the army will be abandoned and the ordnance department will adopt a pure soluble cotton powder, similar to that used by the navy. The decision for this change is brought about by an accident which recently occurred at Sandy Hook while testing a six-inch gun and while using the smokeless powder made for use in eight-inch guns, but with the grains cut in half. The charge on this occasion gave a pressure of over 80,000 pounds, which exceeded the pressure gauge of the gun. Several parts of the breech mechanism were injured.—N. Y. Sun.

THREW LAMP AT HIM.

MRS. ELIZA APGAR'S DEFENSE STARTED A BLAZE.

Thought He Was Going To Strike Her—After Husband Had Dodged Missles, Including the Lamp, He Went After Water.

Mrs. Eliza Apgar thought her husband was going to strike her last evening so she threw the lighted lamp at him. She sent a glass after the lamp by way of good measure. Then the sofa blazed away and the fire department was called in. The police followed the firemen and the Apgars were given an opportunity this morning to explain the situation.

George C. Apgar and his wife came here last July from Philipsburg. Apgar has been employed as a driver for a local lumber and coal dealer. They lived in several rooms in the building in the rear of French's mill on Somerset street.

Yesterday afternoon the Apgars and some friends went to Scotch Plains and had some beer. They returned at supper time and all went well until shortly after eight o'clock. In court this morning husband and wife both declared their inability to tell what caused the quarrel.

They quarrelled and Apgar started toward his wife. She seized upon the lamp and hurled it at his head. He ducked and the wreck of the lamp reposed on the sofa. A glass followed the course of the lamp and again Apgar ducked. Then he hurried out after water.

An alarm was sent in from box 12 and the fire department responded. The stream from chemical engine soon extinguished the fire. Husband and wife each accused the other of throwing the lamp and so Sergeant Kiely ordered their arrest.

The arrests were made by Roundsman Frederickson, Patrolmen Myers and McCarty.

The Judge sentenced them both to pay a fine of $10 each or go to jail for thirty days. They will probably take the latter.

Mrs. Keenan Dead.

The death of Mrs. Kate Keenan, of West Fifth street, occurred early yesterday morning at the hospital. She had been ill for a long time, and it was thought that possibly an operation would save her life. Her condition proved, however, that she could not live, but the operation did not hasten nor cause death. Mrs. Keenan leaves a husband and five children.

STARVING IN ALASKA.

Copper River Expedition Tells of Terrible Suffering at Valdez.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The war department has made public an important report from Captain W. R. Abercrombie, Second infantry, who commanded the Copper river exploring expedition in Alaska last season. The chief topic treated in the report is the laying out of the great transalaskan military route from Port Valdez, Alaska, to Port Egbert, on the Yukon.

Captain Abercrombie arrived at Valdez, the starting point of the expedition, on April 21, being received by a motley crowd which had just come across the Valdez glacier from the Copper river valley. He found that hundreds of people were dying of starvation and scurvy in the Copper river country. The people at Valdez were in a most pitiable condition, crowded in miserable huts like sardines in a box. There were no facilities for bathing. Most of the sufferers had scurvy and not a few frost bitten hands, faces and feet. The tops of old rubber boots and strips of gunnysacks made shoes and socks for many of them. The stench was intolerable, and 70 per cent of the inmates of the huts were mentally deranged. This was common to those whom a fear of scurvy had driven over the glacier, where so many had perished by freezing to death.

Old railroad and trail builders were the men selected by Captain Abercrombie to build a military road, and they started from Valdez on April 29 and proceeded to the mouth of Keystone canyon. The harbor at Valdez, owing to the proximity of the Japanese current, is accessible at all seasons of the year to ships of any size except about 1½ miles at its head. The only feasible site for a railroad terminal is a narrow strip of land three-quarters of a mile broad extending up the Lowe river some five miles and south of a small stream flowing from Robe lake. There is practically a nominal grade up the valley passing through Keystone canyon, with ordinary canyon work, and emerging on the foot plain of the inner canyon basin. From that point there are two feasible routes, one east of Marshall pass at the elevation of 1,700 feet and down the Tasnuna to the Copper river valley, the other turning north, crossing the mountain range and Thompson pass 2,600 feet high, thence down the Teikhell river valley, through the swampy pass at the head of the Knata, thence down the Tonsina into the Copper river valley. Captain Abercrombie believes that the future for a railroad through this section of Alaska is promising owing to the presence of large zones of heavily mineralized copper deposits, the development of which, he says, undoubtedly will yield a local tonnage of great volume.

A Long Tunnel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—A report to the state department from Consul Frankenthal at Bern records the progress of one of the greatest engineering enterprises of the century, which began Nov. 13, 1898, when the first blow was struck on the Simplon tunnel. This tunnel will be 12½ miles long, the longest in the world; is to be completed in 5½ years and is to cost $13,413,500.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

TROLLEY CRASHED INTO WAGONETTE.

Party of Six Plainfielders Were Badly Frightened.

JUST BEYOND BRUNSWICK.

A WONDER THAT SOMEONE WAS NOT BADLY INJURED.

Brunswick Traction Company Car Struck the Plainfield Rig, Wrecked It and Scattered the Occupants Around the Road—Superintendent Radel Lays the Blame on Driver—Came Home by Trolley.

Six Plainfield youths on their way home from New Brunswick in a wagonette met a trolley rather suddenly near Phil Smith's Hotel Sunday evening and the wonder is that some one was not killed. The youths were so riled that they attempted to whip Conductor Schrumm and Motorman McDonald.

The Plainfield fellows had been spending the afternoon in New Brunswick. They had a rig hired from Liveryman George W. Cole, driven by William Osborn, a portly colored man. They were driving along the Highland Park road upon the right side of the road, apparently ignorant of the fact that there were trolley tracks there. It was a dismal night, raining rather smartly as the team of grays were jogging along at 9:30 o'clock.

At Phil Smith's Hotel the road branches off, one branch going to Metuchen direct and the other to Bonhamtown. From the Bonhamtown road there is a sharp turn into the main road. A trolley car came bowling down the road from Bonhamtown just as the wagonette was nearing the corner. It swung around the corner and smashed into the wagonette, about twenty feet from the turn.

The car knocked the horses completely around and upset the wagonette, throwing the occupants out. The colored driver fell beneath the car and had to be hauled out.

When the Plainfield men gathered themselves together a couple of them tackled Conductor Schrumm and the motorman. The trolleymen received a few punches. The conductor grabbed a controller from the front of the car and threatened to brain the first man who struck him. People who had been attracted by the accident interfered and assisted in straightening out matters.

Philip Smith and William Burns, who were soon on hand, did much to restore order. Mr. Smith telephoned to New Brunswick to the Traction Company for help. The horses lay as if dead for nearly an hour. They were finally gotten on their feet and stabled at Smith's Hotel.

The Plainfield men were bruised up more or less, but none were seriously injured. They went back to New Brunswick and took the 11 o'clock car for Plainfield. The driver, Osborne, spent the night at the Salvation Army barracks in New Brunswick, and returned to Plainfield yesterday morning. He is suffering from pain in the back.

There were six passengers in the trolley car, Alderman and Mrs. Fred Tappen and two children, Mr. Reed and Miss Newman.

Motorman McDonald had his fingers painfully cut during the trouble.

Supt. Radel, of the Brunswick Traction Company, says the accident was due to the carelessness of the driver of the wagonette. The car was damaged more than the carriage. If circumstances warrant it he says he will bring suit.

New Trolley Connects New York.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Phillisburg, N. J. Jan. 30.—Work on the proposed new trolley line between this place and Washington, a distance of twelve miles, will be commenced this week. The road will pass through Stewartsville and New Village, and will also touch the large cement industries in that locality. From Washington the line will be extended to Hackettstown, Sanhope, Lake Hopatcong and thence to Summit, the direct terminus of the trolley line from New York. The new road will be an extension of the Easton Consolidated Electric Company's line.

MADE PICTURES FOR FUN

CARTOONIST BLACKTON AND MISS WEST IN THE STAR COURSE.

These Two Artists Pleased a Large Audience at the Fourth Star Course Entertainment at Association Hall Last Night.

The fourth entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star course, given last night in the hall of the local association, was well attended. It was also thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of the friends of the association, who have come to look upon these entertainments as pleasant diversions from the common place affairs with which the country is filled. They are parlor entertainments of excellent merit and are highly appreciated.

Last night's entertainment was furnished by J. Stuart Blackton and Miss Emma Elise West. Mr. Blackton is a newspaper cartoonist and has been connected with the New York World and other publications. To his public exhibition as a cartoonist Mr. Blackton has added that of a caricaturist, and he displays almost as much ability in essaying the latter adaptation as in the skill he has obtained in his profession as a cartoonist.

Mr. Blackton kept the audience at the Y. M. C. A. last night in good humor by his clever drawings of character, and his part of the programme was well received and so thoroughly appreciated as to bring forth unstinted applause.

Miss West is a cultured reciter, who gives evidence of being a close student of the elocutionist's art. In her recitation of "The Old Violin" Miss West certainly displayed her powers of expression to excellent advantage. During Mr. Blockton's sketches of ancient and modern warships Miss West favored the audience with selections on the piano, to the delight of all.

The entertainment was much enjoyed and may be classed as one of the best yet given in the Star Course.

GOT WHAT HE LOOKED FOR.

Passaic Valley Farmer Offered to Whip Four Men, But One Less Did Him Up Nicely.

Henry Burnett, who lives in the Passaic valley, was roughly handled last Thursday night when he went to a sociable at Mt. Bethel. He was badly beaten and had to be assisted to his carriage by his friends. It is said that he went into the hotel at Mt. Bethel and offered to fight any four men, but his offer was taken up by three men the hotel.

Burnett's three assailants included a well-known Plainfield sport, a Mt. Bethel man and a stranger. They set set upon Burnett and a lively time followed. One of the men fell against the stove and upset it and the hotel had a narrow escape from going up in flames. At last they let their victim go. He was covered with cuts and bruises.

FAVORITES TO BE HEARD.

A Fine Concert Arranged for Benefit of Park Avenue Baptists.

One of the best concerts given in this city during the winter will be the one at the Y. M. C. A. hall this evening, under the auspices of the Park Avenue Baptist church. It will be for the benefit of that church. Those who are to take part in the programme include Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith, who has always been a great favorite with Plainfield audiences and whose recitations are delivered in a pleasing and unaffected style. Mrs. Nelly Udell Smith, who has shown great ability with the violin, will also take part. Among all the baritones who have been heard in this city, there is none more popular or more universally liked than Charles L. Lewis of the Crescent Avenue church choir. He will sing several selections.

New National Bank in Rahway.

The men who are interested in establishing a new National Bank in Rahway, to take the place of the collapsed Union County Bank of that city, have succeeded in getting $75,000 subscribed in that city alone, and the balance needed, $25,000, it is said, has been offered by Elizabeth capitalists. The new bank will probably be situated in the new Graves building in Irving street.

Sights Seen in Palestine.

On Monday evening, February 19th, Rev. Dr. Richards will tell of a trip through Palestine at a meeting to be held in the First Baptist church under the auspices of the Primary Teachers' Union, of this city. It will be a public meeting and a cordial invitation is extended to all. There will be no admission fee.

Plans for a New Factory.

Plans are on file at S. D. Drake's office, North avenue, for one building, 37x81, to be erected at Dewey Park by the Inter-State Ore Company. This is one of several buildings to be erected by the company. Estimates are now being secured for the necessary work.

GUNN GOT GUN'S LOAD.

Former Got in Range of Latter and Is Now Filled With Birdshot.

James Gunn attended the shoot at Scott Terry's last week and stayed on the outskirts of the grounds looking for stray pigeons that might escape. There was another man there with the same object. A pigeon swooped down between the two men, and the stranger emptied a portion of the load of his gun into Gunn. Gunn is now confined to his home at Washingtonville as a result.

Three of the fine birdshot struck Gunn. Two struck him in the body, passed through the clothing, but did no injury. The other struck just below his right eye, passed through the lid and lodged against the eyeball. A very painful injury resulted. Gunn will not be able to use his eye for some weeks, but it is believed that he will not permanently lose the sight of the eye.

No one knew who the stranger was that fired the shot, although many inquiries have been made.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED.

Senate Approves of Governor Voorhees' Selection of Somerset County Officials.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, January 30.—The session of the Legislature last night was rather brief, but long enough to allow the Senate to confirm the Governor's nomination of Lewis H. Schenck as judge of Somerset county, and James L. Griggs as prosecutor of the same bailiwick.

Assemblyman Cooper introduced House Bill No. 85, which fixes November 10th to December 10th as open gaming season for quail, rabbit, etc. It was referred to the committee on game and fisheries.

There was an influx of unimportant bills in both Houses and a rather lively debate in the Senate over a proposition by Senator Martin to have adopted an amendment to the rules, providing that where committees refused to report bills, the Senate should take action to relieve such committees. It was, of course, defeated by the Republicans.

When the Legislature adjourned there was a lengthy meeting of the joint committee to arrange for the memorial service in honor of the late Vice-President Hobart. As told in yesterday's Press, Tuesday, February 21st, was fixed upon as the day for the memorial. It will take place in the Assembly Chamber at half-past two o'clock in the afternoon. Attorney-General Griggs will deliver the eulogy. Invitations will be issued to President McKinley and his cabinet and the New Jersey members in Congress.

COMBINES MEAT WITH GROCERIES.

Alex Thorn Purchases the Market Run by Charles Arnold.

Charles Arnold, 35 Somerset street, has disposed of his butcher business at that place to his landlord, Alex. Thorn, and Mr. Thorn has removed his grocery store one door east of his former place of business, so that it adjoins the meat market, and by cutting an archway through the wall has connected the grocery store and meat market as one store, and will hereafter run the two places of business. E. J. Smith, formerly in charge of Mr. Arnold's market, will remain with Mr. Thorn and have charge of that department.

Case Will be Settled.

Freeholder Andrew Lutkins, of the borough, was called to Somerville last week to consult with Director Logan, of the Board, regarding a recent accident near Raritan on one of the county bridges. A party in driving home late at night went off the bridge and narrowly escaped serious injury, and he signified his intention of suing the county for damage. An investigation proved that the man was intoxicated and therefore not responsible for his actions. It is believed on good authority that he was driving carelessly when the accident occurred. The case is likely to be settled without much trouble.

Editor's Remains to be Interred Here.

The remains of the late Ernest O. Chamberlain which were interred at Edgewater-on-the-Hudson, at the time of death, will be brought to this city at an early date and interred in Hillside Cemetery. This is done at the request of Mrs. Chamberlain who desires that her husband's body shall rest in this city owing to the fact that his parents reside here. Permission to remove the body has been secured.

Hope for Advancement.

Mayor Smalley and the Borough Council hope to take some advanced steps in the matter of widening Somerset street at the regular meeting to be held Friday evening.

STEPPED INTO PATH OF FAST FREIGHT.

Harry Park, Medical Student, Seriously Injured.

AT GRANT AVENUE STATION.

STEPPED OFF WEST BOUND LOCAL INTO PATH OF LIMITED.

Was Struck By Cylinder Head And Thrown Violently To The Platform — Arm And Leg Broken And Internal Injuries Received — Injuries Are Very Serious But Not Fatal.

When Harry Park, a medical student whose home is in Plainfield, stepped off a train at the Grant avenue station last evening, he stepped directly into the path of a fast freight bound for New York. He still lives but the injuries he received are of such a serious nature that it will be many weeks before he recovers from the effects.

Harry Park is a young man, twenty years old, who lives with his father, Albert E. Park, 942 West Sixth street. He is studying medicine in New York and it is his custom to commute daily to and from New York. He usually takes the train at Grant avenue.

Last night he came out on the local, leaving New York at 6:15 o'clock and due here at 7:12, and at Grant avenue station two minutes later. The train was a few minutes late. He stepped off the train at Grant avenue on the side toward the station. He did not see the head-light of the approaching freight.

He had nearly crossed the east-bound track when the train came through moving at the rate of forty miles an hour. The side of the cylinder head struck him on the shoulder and he was thrown violently to the platform. He was carried to his home on West Sixth street and then Drs. Hedges were summoned.

His arm was broken at the joint and his leg was broken in two places. His body was badly bruised and internal injuries are feared. The shock was a severe one. His injuries are considered very serious but not fatal.

SI DRAKE, G. O. P. EDITOR.

IRREPRESSIBLE BOOMER TO ISSUE A NEW PAPER.

It Will Mix Real Estate and Politics—First Issue Will be Out Next Saturday—Editor to Talk Into a Phonograph.

S. D. Drake, editor of the Real Estate News, is about to startle the residents of the city and surrounding country. Next Saturday he will issue what will be known as the "Real Estate News and Union Star," which will be devoted to politics and real estate. Mr. Drake says that there will be no need of starting another Republican paper in Plainfield.

The politics will be Republican of the red hot kind and he says that he will see that the interests of his party are carefully looked after. The first issue will appear next Saturday. It will be a weekly paper. Mr. Drake wants it distinctly understood that nothing but real estate and politics will be found in its columns.

For the purpose of facilitating matters he has purchased a phonograph and will also employ a stenographer. His enthusiastic political thoughts will be carefully recorded. It has been found that no ordinary man can stand in front of Mr. Drake any great length of time without unusual powers of endurance, so he has secured this phonograph which will simply do as it is bid, and will offer no serious objection to Mr. Drake's untiring efforts. The stenographer will then write the matter off and prepare it for publication. Mr. Drake claims that his paper will wield untold influence in the coming elections and will show neither fear nor favor in doing what is right.

GETTING READY.

Plans for the Special Iron Work Required for the Arlington Avenue Trolley.

Residents of Arlington avenue will be glad to know that Engineer Van-Emburgh is preparing plans for the curves and other special iron work for the construction of the southeastern extension of the Street Railway.

As these curves have to be made to order for each corner turned by the railroad it is usual to order it some time in advance of construction.

Barn Burned in Roselle.

A barn situated on the farm of D. W. Reynolds, near the Wheat Sheaf Hotel, was destroyed by fire Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. The loss was $1,500.

—An important meeting of the Sons of Veterans will be held this evening.

SUFFERING FROM INSOMNIA.

John Daget, Who Tried to Kill His Mother and Sister, Examined by a Physician.

County Physician Wagner made an examination yesterday in Bound Brook of John Daget, the young man who on Saturday tried to kill his mother and sister. Dr. Wagner found that he was suffering from insomnia and said that with proper care he could overcome the disease in time.

Daget ate a slice of bread at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This was the first thing he had eaten since he was taken to jail Saturday night. He appears to be in good mental condition, continually asks for his mother and wonders why she does not come to see him. Sheriff Schoonmaker has allowed Daget to smoke in order to keep him quiet.

Another examination will be made this week by authorities from the insane asylum. Mrs. Daget is under the physicians care and is found to be suffering from fright more than her wounds, which are not as serious as were at first thought.

HANNA'S NEW BILL.

It Provides for Incorporation of National Association of Manufacturers—Chas. A. Moore Interested.

Senator Mark Hanna, of Ohio, has introduced a bill into the United States Senate providing for the incorporation of the National Association of Manufacturers. This bill has been read in the Senate twice and referred to the committee on manufactures. According to the bill, the general objects of the association are to promote the manufacturing industries of the United States and to give proper direction to the efforts looking toward that end and also to extend the facilities of transportation, both at home and abroad, and generally to take all proper methods for advancing the manufacturing interests and promoting the commence of the whole country.

Among the incorporators and members of the proposed organization is Charles A. Moore, of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, and prominently interested in the Pond Machine Tool Works, of this city.

BIG COCKING MAIN

Madison Birds Pitted Against the Murray Hill Cocks—Eleven Rounds Were Fought.

One of the largest cocking mains held in this section in several years was pulled off with much secrecy in a barn near Madison on Saturday night. The main was one of a long standing dispute as to who had the best birds—Murray Hill or Madison.

The sports from both places backed their opinions with their last dollar. Eleven battles were fought, running the main well on toward daylight Sunday morning and it was not until the last battle was fought that either side was sure of victory. The eleventh and concluding battle was won by Murray Hill amid great excitement. The Madison sports had backed their birds and lost a great deal of money which was brought home by the Murray Hill crowd and their friends.

SILK MILL BUSY.

Ten New Looms to be Installed to Accommodate the Increased Business.

The Watchung Silk Company is very busy at present. The increase in the number of orders has made it necessary for the company to purchase additional machinery and looms. Ten new looms have been ordered and they will be put in operation the last of this week or the first of next. There is a great demand for the silks and the present number of looms are run to their their full capacity. As soon as possible other improvements will be made at the mill so as to be better able to meet the increase in business.

TO THE HOLY LAND.

Miss Julia M. Carman Sails Tomorrow With a Party of Tourists to Visit Palestine.

Miss Julia M. Carman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Myron Carman, of 317 Franklin place, sails tomorrow on the steamship "New England," from Boston for a two month's trip through the Holy Land. S. S. Clark, former United States consul at Jerusalem, will have charge of tourists who have chartered the steamer and will sail direct to the Mediterranean ports, visiting the places of interest en route to the Holy Land. On their return, they will stop five days at Liverpool and pay a visit to London.

Still Alarm for Chimney Fire.

A still alarm was sent into fire department headquarters yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock for a chimney fire at a house on Watchung avenue, near East Front street, belonging to J. Fred MacDonald. Chief Doane and No. 2 hose wagon responded. One extinguisher was used.

TO WELCOME COL. BRYAN

DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATIONS OFFER TO AID MR. MARTINE.

Adopted Resolutions in Which It is Promised to Make the Visit a Notable One in History of Local Democracy.

A joint meeting of the Democratic city executive committee and the members of the Somerset County Democratic committee from North Plainfield was held in the Hotel Kensington parlors last evening for the purpose of offering aid to James E. Martine in any way possible to make the approaching visit of Col. Bryan to this city a notable one in the history of the local Democracy.

The meeting was attended by nearly all the members. The following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, The announcement of the approaching visit of Hon. William Jennings Bryan to Plainfield as a guest of that loyal and popular Democrat, James E. Martine, at which time a public meeting will be held and an opportunity given to the people of this vicinity to meet and hear the distinguished leader of the Democracy, has aroused great interest; be it

"Resolved, That we, the Democratic city executive committee of the city of Plainfield, and the members of the Somerset county Democratic executive committee from North Plainfield, hereby express our appreciation of the services of our townsman and party colleague, Mr. Martine, in prevailing upon Col. Bryan to visit Plainfield and deliver a speech here, and we offer our aid in every way possible to make the occasion a notable one in the history of the local Democracy. We esteem it a high honor to have the pleasure of cheering on the distinguished and devoted exponent of Democratic principles such as Col. Bryan has proven himself to be, and believe that the result of his visit to Plainfield will be to encourage and inspirit the Democrats of this vicinity in a manner that will be reflected favorably at the ballot box next November."

Another meeting will be held Thursday evening when definite plans will be made to co-operate with Mr. Martine in accordance with the resolutions.

SLEIGHS WERE OUT.

The Going Last Evening Was Good—Mercury Fell Down to Eight Degrees Above Zero.

Although there were a few that realized the fact, the sleighing last evening was far from bad. The roads were covered with a sheet of ice and where travel had worn off the rough edges, the going was first rate. There were a number of sleighs out during the evening and the occupants had a pleasurable time despite the cold.

The mercury took quite a drop during the night and registered eight degrees above zero at 7 o'clock this morning. It lacked three degrees of reaching the lowest mark of the season however. The brisk north wind died out during the night so that the cold was not as unpleasant as it was yesterday.

HOTEL MAY CLOSE.

Manager of the Beechwood, of Summit, Has Given It Up.

Whether the Beechwood Hotel, of Summit, will be closed for the remainder of the winter season after Wednesday, has not yet been decided, but the present manager, John A. Hicks, will retire on that day and no successor has yet appeared. Mr. Hicks' lease of two years does not expire until April. Owing to dull business he has been induced to give up the management. Mr. Hicks is the fourth manager who has scored a failure in the effort to make the Beechwood Hotel a profitable venture during the winter months. The hotel was erected at a cost of over $300 000. It was owned by Dr. M. H. Cheseborough, who died last April and whose will provided that this and all of his other property must be sold within two years, and the proceeds devoved to the establishment of an orphan asylum.

W. H. Olmsted's Mother Dead.

William H. Olmsted, of Bank place, received the sad news today of the death of his mother about 5 o'clock this morning at her home in Newark. Mrs. Olmsted has been a great sufferer with an incurable disease, but so patient was she that never a murmur at God's affliction ever escaped her lips. She leaves a husband and another son to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother. Her funeral services will be held at the home of her son, J. H. Olmsted, 282 South Ninth street, Newark, Friday afternoon next. Interment will be at Fairmount Cemetery.

—Next Monday evening the borough Board of Health will hold a regular meeting and consider some important matters.

BRIDGE FROM JERSEY TO NEW YORK CITY.

Work on the Immense Affair to be Begun Before Long.

THE LARGEST SINGLE SPAN.

TO BE DOUBLE-DECKED AND HAVE FOUR VIADUCTS.

The Enterprise Will Cost $60,000,000 and Preliminary Arrangements Have Already Cost $500,000—Will Cross From Hoboken to a Point Near Fifty-fourth Street — Will be 130 Feet High.

The project of bringing the Hudson river between New York city and New Jersey seems about to be actually undertaken. The time when those who have undertaken to raise the $60,000,000 which the bridge and its approaches will cost can enter into contracts for construction is said now to depend only upon a satisfactory arrangement being made between the projectors of the bridge and the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund regarding the location of one of the approaches and the fixing of terms upon which the franchise for this approach is to be granted.

The work of getting general franchises for this bridge and of satisfying all the requirements of the States of New York and New Jersey, of Congress, the War Department and of New York has been under way for many years and has involved the expenditure of something like $500,000. This work also involves the acquiring of much property in New York for terminal and approaches, the location of the terminal and approaches, and the terms upon which these rights are to be held by the Sinking Fund Commission.

All of this work has been actively aided, so far as lay in their power by the New York and New Jersey Bridge Commission, of which Andrew H. Green is chairman, and but one portion of the work now awaits official sanction. The promoters of the scheme declare that the financing of the great project is all arranged for ahead, and that work will be begun on the bridge as soon as this final connection is officially authorized and that contractors have already been secured who will undertake the building.

The Hudson River bridge, when it is finished, will be the largest single-span suspension bridge in the world. It is to cross the Hudson from Fifty-ninth street in New York city to a point in Hoboken, and to stretch between piers in one span a distance of 2,730 feet. This is about one thousand feet father than the distance between the piers of the new East River bridge now building, which, in turn, is longer than the Brooklyn bridge.

The clear height above the river is to be 150 feet. Since the general plans were changed from those for a cantilever bridge to a suspension bridge they have been changed so that instead of the structure carrying a single deck, it is to be double decked and provided with a carriage road, a footpath, a bicycle path and four trolley-car tracks on the upper deck, besides the six tracks for regular steam railroad, freight and passenger trains on the main deck.

On the New Jersey shore, where the land is high, the approaches will be simple, and all are arranged for, but on the New York side these must be elaborate, costly and extensive to give the bridge its full value to the investors and the public. The terminal station is to cover the four square blocks between Forty-ninth and Fifty-first streets, facing on Broadway on its eastern side, and a curved approach will bring the trains to the station from the end of the bridge proper at Fifty-ninth street down the necessary grade.

The location of this approach and that of the terminal station was made in December, 1896, and was approved by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. This provides for the main passenger traffic, but in order to provide direct connections between the bridge and the steamship piers along the North River front and with the yards of the New York Central Railroad and accomplish one of the most important purposes of the bridge, another approach is needed. This approach is to curve southward from the bridge near the New York tower and run along the river front to Battery place.

Reorganizing Church Choir.

Prof. Stubbs and Prof. Sears, of St. Agnes' church, New York, who have been engaged to take charge of the music at Holy Cross church in the future, were at the church last evening and began preparations for reorganizing the church choir.

BRITISH CONSUL HIT.

Senators Take Exception to Certain Utterances.

INVESTIGATION MAY BE ORDERED.

Discussion of Philippine Question Resumed—House Kills Pension Clause For Weather Bureau Employees—Sulzer Attacks Gage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Senator Mason (Rep., Ills.) arose soon after the senate convened yesterday to a question of privilege and sharply attacked the British government and the British vice consul at New Orleans because of an interview in which the consul had assailed Mr. Mason for the position he had taken in behalf of the Transvaal republic in its war with Great Britain. Mr. Mason attacked not only the consul, but the policy of Great Britain in levying war upon an inferior nation.

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) thought the consul's purported remarks so serious that it ought to be investigated by the government, but at the same time he deprecated any attack upon Great Britain, with the people of which the American people ought not only to live in peace, but as loving and devoted friends.

Mr. Lodge (Rep., Mass.) sharply arraigned the British consul for his utterances against a United States senator and believed it ought not lightly to be passed.

Mr. Tillman (Dem., S. C.) delivered a forceful and quite characteristic speech on the Philippine question, in which he maintained that this government ought to extend to the Filipinos the right to govern themselves, the United States guarding them against the aggression of other nations.

The bill for the reorganization and improvement of the weather bureau, which includes provision for pensioning disabled and aged employees of the service, received a black eye in the house yesterday. The bill was bitterly fought by the opponents of civil pension rolls on account of the life tenure provision it contained, and it was sidetracked on a test vote by 57 to 73. Although the speaker ruled that it remained unfinished business when the house was again in committee of the whole the opponents of the measure believe the action kills it.

The early portion of the day was devoted to a lively scrimmage over the Sulzer resolution to investigate Secretary Gage, which the committee on rules recommended should be sent to the ways and means committee, as the latter committee has the response of the secretary in its possession. There was no opposition to the proposed action, but Mr. Richardson of Tennessee and Mr. Sulzer of New York used it as a text for renewing their attacks on the secretary. Mr. Gage was defended by Mr. Hopkins of Illinois, Mr. Hill of Connecticut and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

The house committee on mileage discussed the claim of Brigham H. Roberts for mileage, which amounts to about $1,000. A majority of the committee are of the opinion that he is not entitled to this money, as he was not sworn in as a member of the house. Mr. Roberts will be heard by the committee Thursday.

Our Army Quickly Mobilized.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Surgeon General Sternberg has compiled some figures as a basis of mortality calculated in the Spanish-American war, which incidentally developed the interesting fact that the mobilization of the army during the Spanish-American war was accomplished in only a fraction of the time required to assemble an equivalent number of troops at the outbreak of the civil war. In May, 1861, the main strength of the Union army was 16,161, and in one month it had increased to only 66,950. In the first month of the Spanish-American war the United States army, starting at 163,726, had increased before the close of the month to 202,526. This is regarded as a remarkable feat of military organization, far surpassing the best results obtained by the British government.

Americans Shot In Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The secretary of state is in receipt of a telegram from United States Consul Kindrick, at Juares, Mexico, reporting that six Americans have been shot. Their names are Don Cusack, Jack Eldridge, George Lunt, Charles Burns, Lon Webster and Henry Williams. It is said that they were shot by order of General Torres near Guaymas on the ground that they were found with Yaqui Indians. The consul has not yet been able to confirm this report, but the secretary of state has suitably instructed our embassador in relation to the alleged shooting and has also instructed Consul Kindrick to ascertain and report to the embassador all particulars.

Irish Joan of Arc Arrives.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Miss Maud Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, arrived on the French line steamer La Normandie from Havre. A party of friends had chartered a boat to meet Miss Gonne, but failed to meet the steamer owing to the fact that the stormy weather had delayed her over 24 hours. She could say but little about her future movements in this country beyond the fact that she would stay a month and then hurry back to Ireland, as her time was fully engaged there. She will address several meetings in the interest of the Boers.

Moore Case Decision Delayed.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Jan. 30.—The supreme court, which a week ago began the hearing on appeal from the decision of the court of first instance in the case of Frederick T. Moore, accused of embezzling $53,000 from the National Bank of Commerce of Boston, has decided to postpone further consideration of the affair until March, after the holidays. Popular opinion thus far has been strongly opposed to a confirmation of the decision of the court of first instance to turn Moore over to the Americans.

A Veteran Drowned.

ARCADE, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The body of Horace Jones, aged 55 years, a veteran of the civil war, was found in Cattaraugus creek. Jones had been missing since Wednesday. He is supposed to have fallen from a bridge.

Striking Blacksmiths Win.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The striking blacksmiths at the Brooks Locomotive works have returned to work, having been granted an increase of 10 cents per day. No more trouble is expected.

MANY STUDENTS INJURED.

No Fatalities Probable as a Result of the Cornell Clubhouse Fire.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The members of the Delta Chi fraternity who were injured in jumping from their burning lodgeroom yesterday morning spent the day at the Cornell infirmary. Ten of the 14 are now under the doctor's care. H. C. Brooks of Hartford and J. F. Lonergan of Albany, who were the most seriously hurt, are now considered out of immediate danger. Lonergan was operated upon for a compound fracture of the thigh, broken nose and fractured arm, but his physician believes that amputation of the limbs will be unnecessary. All of the men at the infirmary are suffering from burns and bruises of more or less serious nature. Several had their feet and hands frozen from exposure, none of the students being fortunate enough to save any clothing. All their personal effects, valued at $3,000, were totally destroyed.

The origin of the fire is as yet unaccounted for by any of the men. President Schurman was one of the first to call at the Cornell infirmary. He said that all fraternity and boarding houses would hereafter be required to procure adequate fire escapes to prevent a repetition of this sad affair.

BLACKBURN MUST WAIT.

Credentials as Senator Will Depend on Result of Present Contest.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 30.—It is not likely that United States Senator Elect Blackburn will receive any commission from Governor Taylor until the present gubernatorial contest has been finally settled. Governor Taylor, it is stated on excellent authority, will assume the position that if it is decided he is illegally the governor of Kentucky the legislators who elected Blackburn and who were declared elected at the same election at which he was a candidate for governor were also illegally elected and have not, therefore, the power to choose a senator.

Yesterday was the last day for the taking of evidence. Today arguments are being made. The decision of the contest board is looked for in about one week after the conclusion of the arguments.

Steel and Wire Company Prosperous.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The directors of the American Steel and Wire company have declared a dividend of 7 per cent on the common stock, payable in four quarterly payments, April 2, July 2, Oct. 2, 1900, and Jan. 2, 1901. The statement issued showed that the company had made a net profit of $12,162,530 in 1899. The stockholders will meet in Chicago Feb. 10, when action will be taken on the proposition to retire $5,000,000 of the $40,000,000 preferred issue of the company. From the outlook of the business it is safe to say that the earnings for the year 1900 will be still better than those of the past year, assuring to the stockholders of the company, both preferred and common, every expectation of permanent dividends.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, Jan. 30.—The two houses of the legislature had a short session last night and transacted very little business of importance. In the house Charles H. Folwell was elected supervisor of bills and Jesse R. Salmon was elected to the same position in the senate. Mr. Folwell's nomination in the house was seconded by the Democratic side, Mr. Benny, the Democratic leader, speaking highly of the efficiency shown by Flowell last winter as engrossing clerk of the house. A resolution introduced in the house by Mr. Abbett favoring the election of United States senators by the people was referred by the speaker to the judiciary committee.

Rush For Goldfield.

TACOMA, Jan. 30.—It is estimated that 15,000 men and women are preparing to go to Cape Nome on the first steamers sailing from the Pacific coast ports and Dawson. From 10,000 to 12,000 are already booked or have applied for passage on steamers sailing from Tacoma, Seattle, Portland and San Francisco. It is not certain that the 30 steamers now chartered can carry all who want to join in the first rush. It is too late, however, to secure any more steamers from the Atlantic coast.

To Fight Fertilizer Trust.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 30.—Senator J. C. Alexander, president of the State Farmers' alliance, has issued a call to all of the alliances in the state to meet and decide upon a plan of fighting the so called fertilizer trust. The Virginia-Carolina Chemical company recently bought nearly all the fertilizer factories in this state, and it is against this corporation that the call is directed.

California Legislature In Session.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 30.—The California legislature is in extra session to elect a United States senator. It is not yet known when balloting will begin. If the old organizations of the two houses are kept in force, voting will commence at once. If, however, it is decided to reorganize, the balloting for senator will not commence until one week from Tuesday.

To Restore the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A favorable report has been made from the house naval committee on the bill to restore the historic frigate Constitution, the cost to be borne by patriotic societies of Massachusetts.

HOW ARE YOUR KIDNEYS?

It wouldn't be a half bad idea to ask your self this question every morning—how are the kidneys? If the cold of your shoe gets chin and a hole appears, you straight away have a patch put on. But how about your kidneys? Do you ever watch them? They are the most important organs of the body, because the blood constantly passing through them all day and night. They are the filters of the system and remove from the blood all the poison. If they are neglected the poison spreads, then comes Bright's Disease and perhaps death.
Watch Nature's signs—backache, pain in the loins, scalding dark urine, headache and sleeplessness. If you have any of these, your condition may be serious.

STEEL MILL WRECKED

A Dozen Workmen Injured, Five Seriously.

AN EXPLOSION SHAKES PITTSBURG.

Heartrending Scenes About the Shops While Searching For Victims—Cause of the Distressing Accident a Mystery.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 30.—The steel department of Philipps, Nimick & Co.'s rolling mill on West Carson street was completely wrecked and a dozen men were injured by the explosion of a battery of four large boilers. The shock of the bursting boilers was heard throughout the lower end of the city, and several thousand people were attracted to the scene of the accident. The loss to the plant will be enormous.

All the injured men were quickly removed from the ruins. Five were mutilated almost beyond recognition, and one or two more deaths may result. The injured were taken to a temporary hospital, and local physicians were summoned to relieve their suffering. A rescuing party then went to work searching the wreckage, which it is supposed entombs others of the workmen.

The explosion was one of the most terrific that ever occurred in a Pittsburg mill. The roof of the boiler room was completely lifted from the building, and the flying iron and steel fell in all directions. Heavy beams and portions of the masonry were thrown from the foundations. The men were crushed to the ground on the spot where they were attending to the rolls, and those beside the boilers were scalded by the escaping steam. The bodies of the men were so burned and begrimed that they were scarcely recognizable.

The families of the workmen who live in the neighborhood realized the extent of the accident the moment the thunder of the explosion was heard, and women and children rushed at once to the mill, crying for their loved ones who were believed to be buried beneath the ruins. It was impossible for the cooler heads to keep back the torrent of humanity that surged up to the gates, and for a time the frantic women interfered with the work of the rescuers.

The mill had been stopped over Sunday, and the boilers had just been fired preparatory to starting the mills again. More than 100 men were standing about ready to go to work when the explosion occurred. One of the boilers rose on end, and a sheet of flame shot out of the furnace door, completely enveloping the fireman.

The cause of the explosion cannot be known until a thorough investigation is made. No estimate of the property loss can at present be made.

The Census In Alaska.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—After two weeks spent in Washington receiving instructions as to his duties Mr. E. H. Kelley, census supervisor for the southern district of Alaska, has left here for Sitka. It is the intention of the census officials to take a complete census of all persons in Alaska, and as this territory comprises an area as large as that portion of the United States lying east of the Mississippi river and natural obstacles to travel abound the work will be extremely difficult. Special efforts will be made to secure a complete list in order that the census bureau may be able to answer inquiries made by friends and relatives as to the whereabouts of persons in Alaska.

The Clark Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The senate committee on privileges and elections yesterday heard a number of witnesses on minor points involved in the charges against Senator Clark of Montana. The protestants took occasion during the day to withdraw all intimations against Hon. J. K. Toole, who withdrew from the Montana contest for United States senator under circumstances which the protestants at first were inclined to consider suspiciously favorable to Mr. Clark. The prosecution also declined during the day to put two witnesses on the stand who had been summoned at their instance because the men had talked unsatisfactorily since their arrival in Washington.

Marriage In the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Root has received from Manila a copy of the marriage law laid down by General Otis. Up to the date of this order, Dec. 18 last, only Catholic marriages were celebrated in the Philippines or recognized as legal. To meet the peculiar conditions in the islands General Otis laid down no specific ceremony, only providing that any established form will suffice, providing there is an open acknowledgment of the marriage of the parties thereto. The form of a certificate is prescribed, and this may be attested by a priest, rector or judge.

British Embassador to Retire.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The term of Lord Pauncefote, the British embassador to this capital, will expire in April. Some time ago, in view of his long and honorable career here, the embassador's tenure was extended until April, and inasmuch as no official intimation has been received here of a further extension it is supposed he will retire after another month's service. The date of the embassador's departure for England will depend entirely on his own wishes and comfort. His retirement will make Baron Fava, the Italian embassador, the dean of the diplomatic corps.

Consumption Hospital Favored.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—The committee of the state board of charities, which has been investigating the need of the establishment of institutions for the treatment of persons afflicted with consumption, has recommended to the board that local public hospitals be established by cities and villages; that one or more state institutions be opened as a part of the general scheme of treatment and that local boards of health establish regulations to protect the healthy public.

A Large Indemnity For England.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Lisbon correspondent of The Standard says: "I hear that the indemnity to be awarded Great Britain in the Delagoa Bay arbitration will be so large that Portugal will be obliged to make over the railway and the port of Lourenco Marques to the British government."

HOMAGE TO THE CZAR.

One Place in New York Where Even Americans Must Doff Hats to Him.

Although the United States is a republic and its metropolis one of the most democratic cities in the world, there is one place in New York city, U. S. A., where even American citizens must take off their hats to the czar.

This place is a pleasant, well-lighted suite of offices on the sixth floor of the handsome new structure at No. 17 State street, facing Battery park. Alongside the door on the corridor wall, are emblazoned the imperial arms of Russia. The officers themselves are occupied by the Russian consul general and his attaches.

A man not yet initiated called at the Russian consulate a day or two ago. Two or three clerks were seated at desks behind the railing. The visitor asked for one of the clerks and began to state the object of his call. The clerk listened a moment courteously. Then he stopped the speaker with an eloquent gesture.

"Your hat!" he cried. "Will you not be kind enough to remove your hat at once? I cannot allow you to remain here with your hat upon your head."

"Why can't you?" queried the visitor.

"Because, sir," responded the clerk, "you are in the presence of the czar. Do you not see his portrait and also the portrait of the czarina?"

As he spoke he waved his hand in the direction of the portrait hanging high on the wall over a rather tall bookcase. The visitor saw, but did not remove his hat. He asked if he were ordered or only requested to remove his hat. The clerk began to protest volubly.

"If you will make it a request," said the visitor, "I will gladly remove my hat."

"I can have nothing whatever to say to you," the clerk asserted, "until you remove your hat."

A gentleman entered the office from an inner room, and to him the clerk explained the situation. He was Vladimir Teploff, the Russian consul himself. As he listened to the story he stepped forward to repeat the statement that the visitor's hat must be removed before any questions could be answered.

"Suppose I decline positively to remove my hat," said the visitor, "would you put me out of the office or have me arrested for lack of respect to the czar?"

"I could at least treat you as if you did not exist," was the reply. "If you have any business with this office, I request you as a gentleman to remove your hat. In the presence of the czar and czarina I am not at liberty to transact any matters with a person whose head is covered."

The visitor's hat came off instantly—as a concession to the custom of the office, however, and not as a sign of deference to the czar and czarina. In the conversation which followed M. Teploff expressed surprise because of the general custom of Americans to remain covered not only "in the presence of the czar" as represented by his portrait, but also in public offices generally.

The portraits which M. Teploff insists should be reverenced are large, brilliantly colored lithographs, displayed behind glass, in plain oak frames. It is held by some who are conversant with the circumstances that M. Teploff would be well within his legal rights if he should cause the arrest of anyone who should persist in remaining covered before the pictures.—N. Y. Herald.

WANING OF THE GRAND ARMY

Veterans of the Civil War Will Soon Have Marched to the Other Shore.

One of the bravest "standing armies" in the world is dying out. The Grand Army of the Republic, that band of gray-haired warriors whose pride and dearest recollection it is that they once served their country, is sinking with appalling swiftness to the point where it will be only a memory of good deeds and brave men who have done them.

Statistics as to the membership and death rate of the organization tell a story as touching as the tenderest funeral sermon. They show that in a few years more the roll call will be an empty ceremony—the summons to the national encampment a vain appeal to the heroes of 1861.

Within 12 months—the year of 1899—according to a report just issued, more than 17,000 members of the grand army died. This death rate was more than double that of the previous year. If the past year (1899) has shown a corresponding decline in membership the friends of the organization have ample ground for the concern they express as to its future.

The high-water mark of the grand army's prosperity was not reached until some time after the death of its founder, Dr. Benjamin F. Stephenson. The army's excellent organization, however, is due to Dr. Stephenson's genius as a founder.

It is set down to the eternal credit of the army that it originated one of our most inspiring holidays—Memorial day. This is the most interesting act in the history of the army and by all means the most popular act of Gen. Logan's administration.

This holiday, which has been celebrated with such fervor for 30 years, was originally the suggestion of a citizen of German birth, whose very name has been forgotten. It was established by Gen. Logan, and the leaders of the army, and a few years later made by congress a legal holiday.—N. Y. World.

Both Satisfied.

"Papa, if you will not buy me that diamond ring I shall run away with the coachman."

"My dearest child, let me embrace you!"

"I am to get the ring, then?"

"Heaven forbid! You get the coachman. I have owed him his wages for eight months."—N. Y. World.

HENDRICKS NAMED.

The Senate Will Ratify Roosevelt's Choice—Other Nominations.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—A feature of the senate last night, which was crowded with spectators, was the sending in of the name of Francis Hendricks of Syracuse by Governor Roosevelt to succeed Louis F. Payn as state superintendent of insurance. The nomination was referred to the committee on insurance. The governor also sent in the name of J. Y. Chapin of Ogdensburg for special surrogate in St. Lawrence county. The nomination was confirmed. Edward T. Boyd of Sodus was named by the governor to succeed John A. Boyd as a commissioner for loaning certain moneys in Wayne county. The senate adjourned at 9:30 o'clock.

The confirmation of ex-Senator Hendricks is assured, as Mr. Payn had a conference with Chairman Odell and has given up the fight. His senator, H. S. Ambler, will vote to confirm Hendricks. This insures 27 Republican votes for the governor's nominee.

The session of the assembly was devoted to the consideration of resolutions. Their debate consumed two hours, after which the house received several new bills and passed the measure of Assemblyman Gale establishing a garbage crematory for Queens county. The house then adjourned.

Assemblyman Ahern introduced two railroad bills in the house, the outcome of the Troy strike. One provides that no employee on a street surface railroad in cities of the first and second class shall be obliged to work more than ten consecutive hours a day, including a half hour for dinner. His other bill is to compel railroad companies to place vestibules on all their cars.

Mr. Bradley of Buffalo in the house called up his resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers in their struggle for self government with England and proceeded to debate it.

WOOD INSPECTS.

While In Santiago Nothing Escapes the General's Notice.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Jan. 30.—Governor General Wood's visit to Santiago came to an end last night with the reception and ball given in his honor by the Cosmopolitan club. Nothing since the capitulation has done so much as his presence here now to bring about a thoroughly satisfactory understanding between the Americans and Cubans. He enjoys to the full the confidence of all elements. His speech at the Cuban club banquet Saturday night, in the course of which he said that the United States would certainly fulfill its promises to Cuba and would guarantee the safety of the business interests of the island, met the wishes of even the most radical Cuban partisans as well as of all Americans and foreigners.

General Wood inspected the new barracks at Morro, which will soon be the finest post in the island. Observing the great activity with which the government wagons were being worked, he directed that the work be stopped and said that in future there would be no necessity for Sunday work on the part of government employees.

This rule, however, General Wood did not observe himself, as he worked 14 hours and then held an official reception at the palace. He inspected the highways and ordered extensive improvements. He directed that specifications for waterworks be prepared. In the course of the afternoon he inspected the rural guard and complimented their commander, Captain Mangum, saying it was the best command of rural guards he had yet seen. At 2 o'clock this morning the party left for Guantanamo.

Big Blaze In New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—One hundred men were driven in panic down fire escapes and over roofs; half a dozen firemen were slightly injured; several others had hairbreadth escapes; between $300,000 and $400,000 worth of property was destroyed, and two blocks were threatened with destruction in a fire that started in the seven story building 297 to 303 Cherry street, occupied by Haywood Bros. & Wakefield, chair manufacturers. Besides, it was one of the most picturesque fires that New York has seen in many a day. Twenty thousand gallons of turpentine and varnish fed the flames. It was contained in four tanks on the fifth floor of the building.

Large Pro-Boer Meeting.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—An immense mass meeting, attended by over 8,000 persons, was held in the Grand Central Palace last night under the auspices of the New York committee to aid the united republics of South Africa, and the great throng expressed in no uncertain terms its sympathy for the Boers. Every available inch of the hall was packed, even to the three galleries, and there was present a large proportion of women who lent their voices to the general acclaim every time a piece of Transvaal or Orange Free State bunting was displayed or the names of the leaders of the South African republics were mentioned.

Chicago River Falling.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—As a result of the heavy flow through the drainage canal the Chicago river has been lowered three feet. The canal trustees are worried. It had not been believed the flow through the canal would have the effect to lower the river more than a few inches. With the river at its present stage navigation, except by a few light draft boats, is impossible, and the canal people are beginning to have visions of damage suits aggregating millions of dollars.

Electric Car Kills Two.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 30.—A runaway electric car on the Dayton and Xenia traction road left the track at a sharp curve just east of the city yesterday and was demolished. An unknown man was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. Hattie Kling, a young woman residing at Alpha, O., was instantly killed.

MR. BRYAN IN RHODE ISLAND.

Receptions In Pawtucket and Woonsocket For the Nebraskan.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 30.—William Jennings Bryan was well pleased with the result of his first speech in the state of Rhode Island at the Opera House here yesterday afternoon. The large auditorium was packed, and there was much enthusiasm.

Mr. Bryan was given the freedom of the city by Mayor John J. Fitzgerald, who introduced him. The colonel kept every one in good humor by applying Biblical sayings to his subject. Mr. Bryan declared that the Chicago platform stands today the only one adopted in 1896 that will be remembered for all time.

"I have a higher ambition than to be president," said he. "That is to do something to make the government better. I have no doubt that the time will come when the principles of the Chicago platform will be a part of the law of the United States. I believe in its ultimate triumph."

At Woonsocket a great crowd greeted Colonel Bryan as he stepped from the train at 4:07 on his arrival from Pawtucket. To be sure, it was a good natured one, but there was no semblance of order, and the crush overwhelmed the police. Mr. Bryan and Mayor Green of this city were as shuttlecocks and were pushed and jammed about in the frantic endeavors of the enthusiasts to shake the hand of the prospective Democratic candidate.

On the way to the home of Hon. Seth S. Getchell for lunch Colonel Bryan stopped at the office of The Call and was presented to the entire staff.

At 5 o'clock he held a reception at the Monument House and at 6:15 entered the Opera House, where a big mass meeting was held.

A fight between train robbers and Union Pacific detectives was reported in the Hole In the Wall, Wyoming, Saturday, in which two bandits were killed.

Russian Spies In Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—The newspapers are becoming persistent in their demands for explanations from the government in regard to the steps it is pursuing relative to the alleged Russian spies who for several weeks past are reported to have been seen in different parts of Sweden, especially in the neighborhood of fortified places. The papers declare that if the reports are true the government must address an unequivocal intimation to Russia that such proceedings must cease. There will probably be an interpellation in the riksdag on the subject.

A Queer Coincidence.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Bartholomew Sorocco, now serving a 20 years' sentence in the New Jersey state prison for the murder of his cousin, Pasquale Marquette of Paterson, N. J., has received word that his father has been arrested in San Loreuzello, Italy, for the killing of a gendarme. A peculiarity of the incident is found in the fact that the killing of the gendarme in Italy and the murder of Marquette by Sorocco at Paterson occurred within an hour of each other.

Exposition Strike Ends In Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The strike of carpenters engaged on the exposition buildings has come to an end in consequence of a decision by the arbitration committee, composed of representatives of the employers and the workmen, in favor of the strikers. An increase of 10 centimes per hour for work on buildings 25 meters or more in height was recognized as a just demand, such work being considered dangerous.

Much Whisky Burned.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 30.—The Roxbury distillery, the output of which is controlled by Steinhart Bros. & Co. of New York, was burned, together with about 60 barrels of new rye whisky. The loss will reach about $12,000, fully insured. The flames did not communicate to three warehouses wherein are stored between 6,000 and 8,000 barrels of whisky. The fire was caused by an explosion.

Some Hope For Professor Phelps.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30.—Dr. Gilbert, who has been attending Professor Edward J. Phelps of the Yale law school, formerly minister to England, since his severe illness with pneumonia, stated last night that the patient's condition was more hopeful than at any time since he had been taken ill. The crisis will not be passed for a few days, however.

The President's Birthday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—President McKinley was 57 years old yesterday, having been born at Niles, Trumbull county, O., Jan. 29, 1843. He received many congratulations from visitors and a large number of cablegrams and telegrams felicitating him upon the occasion. Many floral remembrances were sent him.

A Michigan Fire.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Jan. 30.—The burning of George B. Thayer & Co.'s fruit packing factory, W. H. Berkheizer's planing mill and the Benton Harbor Stamping works caused a loss of $30,000, and 100 persons are thrown out of employment.

Bursting Gun Kills Two.

HONGKONG, Jan. 30.—Two men were killed and three seriously hurt by the explosion of a gun on the United States gunboat Wheeling. A salute in honor of the birthday of the German emperor was being fired when the gun burst.

Senate Elects Officers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The senate elected Charles G. Bennett and Danie. Ransdell secretary and sergeant-at-arms respectively. They take office Thursday.

Wreck on Spanish Coast.

BILBAO, Spain, Jan. 30.—The Spanish steamer Valle has foundered off the coast, 13 of the crew being drowned.

LULL AFTER BATTLE

Buller's Terrible Defeat Grows In Enormity.

TWO THOUSAND KILLED AT SPION KOP

Description of the Fight—To Hold the Exposed Position Taken by Warren's Men Was Beyond Mortal Power.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—History pauses for a time in South Africa. It is one of those unsatisfactory pauses that are nearly as trying to British nerves as a sequence of reverse, and apparently it will terminate only when Lord Roberts gives the word for the forward movement into the Free State, which, according to the most cheerful view, he will be unable to do for a fortnight.

Whether he will permit General Buller to make another attempt to relieve Ladysmith is quite outside the knowledge even of those closely connected with the war office. With the troops due to arrive next month he may think himself strong enough to try two large operations. Combining the forces under Generals Methuen, French and Gatacre and adding to them the arriving troops, Lord Roberts would have 70,000 for the invasion of the Free State, with 40,000 to 50,000 guarding communications and 40,000 trying to rescue Ladysmith.

The public burns with impatience that something should be done.

The government's declarations in parliament, the counter suggestions of those outside the government and the consequent discussion in the press and on the platform will immediately enthrall public interest. The thing on which everybody seems agreed is that more men must go.

Twenty thousand, two hundred and twenty-two men and 155 guns are at sea. Eleven thousand infantry and 9,000 cavalry, including 50,000 yeomen, are practically ready to embark. Therefore the government, without doing more, can place at the disposal of Lord Roberts 40,000 additional men and 155 guns. The further purposes of the war office are supposed to embrace somewhere in the neighborhood of 50,000 more men.

General Buller's operations have cost 912 men so far officially reported within ten days.

The latest reports from the fighting around about Spion kop show that 2,000 men were killed in the assault on the hill by the British and its recapture by the Boers. The Boers report that 1,500 British dead were left on the field after Spion kop was abandoned. Whole regiments were annihilated.

The Boer losses, too, were heavy, and a conservative estimate of their dead is 500. No estimates of the wounded have come through, but the list must be a terrible one. Enough is known to mark Spion kop as one of the bloodiest battlefields of recent wars.

The losses at Spion kop make the total British killed, wounded and missing thus far in the war number 10,268. Of this heavy total 6,938 were lost in the campaign at Ladysmith.

Great anxiety has been removed by the announcement that Lord Dundonald's cavalry forces, which it was feared were isolated among the hills in the neighborhood of Acton Homes, are safe on the south bank of the Tugela river.

A special dispatch from Frere camp, dated Friday, Jan. 26, 9:10 p. m., says:

"I have just ridden in here, having left General Buller's forces in the new positions south of the Tugela to which they retired in consequence of the reverse at Spion kop.

"The fighting, both before and after the occupation of the mountain, was of a desperate character. Spion kop is a precipitous mountain overtopping the whole line of kopjes along the upper Tugela. On the eastern side the mountain faces Mount Alice and Potgieter's drift, standing at right angles to the Boer central position and Lyttleton's advanced position. The southern point descends in abrupt steps to the lower line of kopjes. On the western side, opposite the right outposts of Warren's force, it is inaccessibly steep until the point where the nek joins the kop to the main range. Then there is a gentle slope which allows easy access to the summit.

"The nek was strongly held by the Boers, who also occupied a heavy spur parallel with the kop, where the enemy was concealed in no fewer than 35 rifle pits and was thus enabled to bring to bear upon our men a damaging cross fire, the only possible point for a British attack being the southern side, with virtually sheer precipices on the left and right.

"A narrow footpath, admitting men in single file only to the summit, opens into a perfectly flat tableland probably 300 (?) square yards area, upon which the Boers had hastily commenced to make a transverse trench. Our men were able to occupy the farther end of this tableland, where the ridge descended to another flat, which was again succeeded by a round, stony eminence held by the Boers in great strength.

"The ridge held by our men was faced by a number of strong little kopjes at all angles, whence the Boers sent a concentrated fire from their rifles, supported by a Maxim-Nordenfeldt and a big long range gun. What with the rifles, the machine guns and the big gun, the summit was converted into a perfect hell. The shells exploded continually in our ranks, and the rifle fire from an absolutely unseen enemy was perfectly appalling.

"Re-enforcements were hurried up by General Warren, but they had to cross a stretch of flat ground which was literally torn up by the flying lead of the enemy. The unfinished trench on the summit gave very questionable shelter, as the enemy's machine guns were so accurately ranged upon the place that often 16 shells fell in the trench in a single minute.

"Mortal men could not permanently hold such a position. Our gallant fellows held it tenaciously for 24 hours and then, taking advantage of the dark night, abandoned it to the enemy."

Horses and Mules For the War.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 30.—Lieutenant Colonel M. Stephens, a representative of the British army, has come to St. Louis to purchase an additional 1,000 mules for use in South Africa. The commission to which he is attached has been ordered to buy several thousand cavalry horses in this country. Most of this order is being filled in this vicinity.

A Way to Kill the Salt Trust.

Probably no more flagrant case of evil arising from the liberal incorporation laws of New Jersey is offered for present instruction than is afforded in the case of the National Salt Company, which is capitalized for $12,000,000. The policy of the National Salt Company characterizes it as a Trust pure and simple, yet with the legal asylum which New Jersey affords under the lax and liberal laws of the State in reference to such concerns, all of its unfair and even disreputable practices are winked at officially.

It is stated that by ownership and lease of factories and by purchase of product it now controls about 90 per cent. of our product of salt. It and the smaller combinations which it has absorbed since 1896 have nearly doubled the price of common salt to many consumers in this country. It has "dead rented" and closed many of its plants, and is now being prosecuted in Ohio because it has, for monopoly purposes, bought and closed three or four furnaces at Pomeroy, Ohio.

While the matter of closing factories—and the consequent deprivation of work for a large number of men who have been employed in them—in order to serve its own selfish ends, is one that is contrary to the public welfare of the country, yet it is not such practices alone that arouse popular indignation to this industrial octupus. The thing that galls the public and makes them most rebellious is the fact that price of the commodity dealt in has been raised unnecessarily.

Realizing, however, that the present administration of New Jersey seems to be committed to the idea of sustaining the law system that permits the existence of such a concern as the Salt Trust, those who would seek a remedy are looking for it outside of New Jersey. Along this line it has been suggested that an effective way to reduce the Trust to a decent appreciation of its functions is to throw all the competition possible in its course. What is regarded as the most successful move in this direction is to remove the tariff on the importation of salt into this country. Looking at it from this standpoint, the Philadelphia Record says:

"While the removal of the duty upon imported salt might not kill this Trust, it would surely lessen its power over our citizens living near the seacoast. It is absolutely impossible to frame a sound economic reason why the duty on salt should not be removed. The natural protection in cost of transportation amounts to about 30 cents per barrel. It is absurd to increase this protection by duties amounting to from 20 to 30 cents per barrel."

A change is evidently coming over Rev. Dr. Charles Parkhurst in his ideas of what are needed to elevate the moral tone of the metropolis. For years Dr. Parkhurst has had the reputation of one who was strenuous and aggressive in his purpose of reforming the urbanites, but some recent utterances of the distinguished clergyman show that he thinks a new tack is necessary for his sail into the winds of vice and iniquity of the proud city of the Empire State. Dr. Parkhurst's ideas of a campaign as now announced discloses him as a veritable temporizer, a radical difference in the views he has heretofore exploited. He now offers three views of a cumulative sort. He says first that the Sunday law is broken anyway, which is worse than if there was no law; second, the police derive a revenue from this lawbreaking; and third, the Sunday opening would remove the sole reason which a large class of citizens have for supporting the Tammany organization.

The much-mooted question of whether or not a railroad ticket is good for transportation in the opposite direction for which it calls, has at last been decided by a New Jersey court. Judge Lewis, of Passaic county, had a case before him in which a man sued the Erie Railroad Company for damages because he had been ejected from a train when he refused to pay his fare after the conductor had declined to accept a ticket which was meant for a trip in the opposite direction. Judge Lewis' opinion is that a ticket is not a contract but the regulation of the company printed thereon, and that tickets good one way are not on that account good the other way.

The biase manner in which the News attempted to dilate upon the private affairs of The Daily Press office in its issue of yesterday, must have been a severe strain upon Editor Runyon. However, we are very thankful to our esteemed friend for telling us so many things about ourselves that we never had the pleasure of knowing before. Nevertheless, it will require a pretty thick headed dunce to swallow such senseless stuff as Runyon wrote yesterday.

It is noticed that despite the continued absence of Aguinaldo and the diligent search that is being made for him South African war news is now printed on the first page of the Manila Freedom and gets the biggest head lines.

"Whom the gods would destroy the first make mad" seems to fit the case of Editor Runyon to a dot in respect to the proposition of establishing another Republican newspaper in this city.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

An Appeal to the Council.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

It will doubtless surprise a good many people to hear that the number of horses that drink daily at the Memorial fountain on West Second street averages 120 by actual count, and that too in Winter. But there is no other fountain for man and beast in Plainfield and this fast growing city ought to have several of them. The City Fathers will soon be called upon to give their consent to provide intoxicating drink for those who prefer it to cold water. Will they not be impartial and help the children of the Loyal Temperance Legion in their efforts to furnish "natures beverage" to the large majority of men, women and children who are opposed to strong drink by having erected a fountain for man and beast near the railroad station, and will they not appropriate for that object a sum large enough for one that will be an ornament to our beautiful city?

Mrs. E. T. DeForest.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Holder, of West Fourth street, in the loss of their infant son, Stewart, aged one month, which occurred Sunday.

—A celebrated toilet soap "Savon LaBaronesse," in rose, violette and heliotrope, is a specialty at Randolph's drug store. It is made by the German firm with the well known trademark "No. 4711."

—The second-hand trolley cars received last Saturday from Brooklyn are intended to take the place of the remaining old cars that have been in use. The latest additions are considered a little improvement over the old ones.

—The wife of Dr. Frank Tiernan, police magistrate of Roselle, died suddenly of heart failure at her residence there yesterday. Mrs. Tiernan was taken ill Thursday night with an attack of grip, but nothing serious was anticipated from her ailment. She was over sixty years of age and leaves one son, Dr. Charles B. Tiernan, who is now residing in Baltimore.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Washingtonville, January 30.—All Washingtonville is greatly interested in the rumor that four of the young women of that section have just become engaged. None of the engagements have yet been formally announced but the young people are talking about them and everybody is wondering when the marriages are to take place. Another topic of general conversation is the project of Constable George Stewart to establish a picnic ground on the shores of the large pond belonging to the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company. He has secured the summer privileges of the pond and will put row and sail boats on it. The great feature of the place will be the water toboggan, commonly known as "shoot the shutes," which will be established there. There will also be a dancing platform. The place will be opened during the summer and Stewart ex-

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"All the Comforts of Home" is a comedy which will never lose its charm nor it's hold on the popular affections while human nature is what it is, while people love to laugh, and while Home Sweet Home remains the dearest spot on earth. It is one of the few comedies, even among those of Mr. Frohman's production, which have lived and grown in the esteem of theatre-goers, and the announcement of its performance at Music Hall tonight, is received with pleasurable anticipation. Miss Myrtle Edwards and Mr Guy Taylor Bennette and the company supporting them in this revival, were specially selected for their individual qualifications in the portrayal of the diversified characters, and with new scenery and other complete equipment, the production should fulfill the promises of the management as well as the anticipations of local theatre patrons.

* * * * * *

All who love to laugh at the follies and eccentricities of humanity, as depicted in farce-comedy, will soon have an opportunity to do so, as John Kernel and Tim Cronin, two comedians whom everybody knows, will be seen in their latest successful absurdity, "What Happened to Reilly," at Music Hall, Thursday evening. It is said to be one of the hits of the season, and to contain the essence of preceding pieces in its particular line. The people in it are from the New York Casino, Koster & Bial's and the Victoria Music Hall, and as each member of the company has been engaged with an eye to his or her special fitness for the part played, an almost perfect performance is the result.

* * * * * *

A three act farce with a more substantial plot than most comedies will be the offering at Music Hall Saturday matinee and night when will be shown "How Smith Met Jones." We are informed that this play is a rushing roaring, seven starred farce brimfull of the most heterogeneous conglomeration of humor and frolic that keeps the audience breaking out in fits of laughter.

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Summons—Rogers against Krom, possession of premises; returnable February 5th.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

A. Willis West, of Central avenue, has gone to Brooklyn to spend a few days.

Lawyer John Frecht, of Somerville, was in town yesterday calling on friends.

Among the guests at the Lakewood House, Lakewood, is C. W. Burton, of Plainfield.

James Field, of Somerville, has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a short time.

Raymond Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

F. C Lounsbury, of Plainfield avenue, has returned from a visit with Philadelphia friends.

Miss Farenholz, of West Front street, has returned from a visit with her sister in Newark.

H. C. Piker, who lives in Plainfield, won the gold watch at the Westfield Club pool tournament.

Peter B. Hodge and family, of Plainfield avenue, spent Sunday with relatives at Somerville.

William B. Wadeworth, of West Seventh street, is registered at the Laurel House, Lakewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Symons, of East Third street, entertained company from out of town over Sunday.

Mr. Hurley, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of Rev. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvaino VanName, of Elmwood place, have returned from a visit with Staten Island relatives.

J. M. Dryden, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a pleasant visit with relatives at St. Michaels, Md.

Charles Vail, of Valley, this State, has returned home after a short visit with Plainfield friends and relatives.

Clarence Brokaw, of West Front street, who has been quite ill with appendicitis, is now able to be out again.

Ralph K. Miner, of East Sixth street, is home after a trip to York, Pa., in the interests of the American Engine Co.

Among the guests registered at the Morton House, Atlantic City, are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Runyon, of Netherwood.

Willard M. Miner, of East Sixth street, has returned after a business trip to Atlanta, Ga., St. Louis and Chicago.

W. N. Brown, of Park avenue, who has been ill for some time past, is greatly improved and is able to go out occasionally.

William Newcorn, great senior sagamore of the I. O. R. M., will go to a district session at Rockaway, N. J., this evening.

Miss Louise Runyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Runyon, of West Front street, is spending a few weeks at Atlantic City.

Miss Marion Henderson, of New York, formerly of Plainfield, spent Sunday at the home of A. E. Faber, of Rockview avenue.

Mrs. David Hitchcock, of Peekskill, N. Y., who has been visiting at the home of her brother, George McGinnis, of Somerset street, has returned home.

H. P. Greenwood, of Woodhull & Martin's dry goods store, started yesterday on his vacation of one week, which is his Christmas present from the firm.

Miss Glover, of Scotch Plains, has accepted a position in the music store of Wesley R. Brokaw, now of East Front street, but who will soon move to Park avenue.

A. Willis West, of Crescent avenue, will be an usher at a big society wedding in Brooklyn tomorrow evening when Miss Agnes T. Bryan and Russell W. Whitlatch, both of that city, will be married.

Next Thursday Miss Nettie Beeching, of Watchung, will go to Caldwell, Essex county, to make an address before an assemblage of Sunday school workers. The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Sarah Howell, of East Millstone, and Howard DeMott, of Middlebush. Both have friends in this city who will be interested to know of the coming event.

Mrs Emma Ransom and daughter, Miss Kittie Ransom, of this city, returned yesterday from York, Pa., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Ransom's daughter, Miss Jennie Ransom, whose death occurred last week of typhoid fever.

Münster. Der Kreistag des Landkreises Münster sprach sich einstimmig dagegen aus, daß Theile oder das ganze Gebiet der Landgemeinden Mauritz, Lamberti und Ueberwasser zum Zweck der Erweiterung des Gebietes der Stadt Münster vom Kreise abgetrennt werden.

Dortmund. Die hiesige Zwangsinnung der Barbiere und Friseure beschloß die Auflösung der Innung. Die Mitglieder wollen eine freie Innung bilden.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Das Stadtverordneten-Kollegium bewilligte 50,000 Mark aus der Stadtkasse zu Zwecken des 13. Deutschen Bundesschießens mit dem Vorbehalte, daß hiervon ein Betrag bis zu 25,000 Mark zurückzuzahlen ist, wenn das Bundesschießen mit einem Ueberschusse abschließen sollte.—Nach den Mittheilungen des städtischen statistischen Amtes betrug die Bevölkerung Dresdens am 1. Dezember 400,000 Seelen.

Dahlen. In den Heydaer Steinbrüchen explodirten plötzlich in Folge Unvorsichtigkeit die niedergelegten Sprenggeschosse. Zwei Arbeiter wurden in entsetzlicher Weise verstümmelt; einer ist tödtlich verletzt worden.

Kaitz. Hier hat der Schuhmacher Schneider seine Ehefrau und deren Kind ermordet und sodann Selbstmord begangen.

Leipzig. Einen frechen Raub führte ein 24jähriger Gärtner aus Leutzsch aus. Auf dem Hauptpostamte riß er einem jungen Manne, welcher Geld einzahlte, plötzlich vier 100-Markscheine fort und floh. Dem verfolgenden Burschen versetzte er einen Schlag in's Gesicht; am neuen Theater wurde der Räuber indessen eingeholt und verhaftet.—Hier verschied im Alter von 94 Jahren das frühere Mitglied des Gewandhausorchesters, Friedrich Robert Sipp, zu dessen Schülern im Violinspiel auch Richard Wagner als Knabe gehört hatte.

Limbach. Hier hat der Schlosser Ermscher in einem Eifersuchtsanfall seine Frau und dann sich selbst erschossen.

Westewitz. Die Frau des Fährmeisters Beyer und ihre Enkelin Frida wurden ermordet. Als muthmaßlicher Mörder wurde ein Sohn der Beyer, der sich zehn Jahre lang in Amerika aufgehalten hatte, in Untersuchungshaft genommen.

Zwickau. In Markneukirchen hat ein verzweifeltes Liebespaar, der Instrumentenmacher Donnerstag und die Bürgerstochter Hofmann, Selbstmord begangen.

Thüringische Staaten.

Hildburghausen. An Stelle des zurückgetretenen Landtagspräsidenten v. Stocmeier wurde von den Höchstbesteuerten der Stadt der Rechtsanwalt Dr. Michaelis dahier als Landtagsabgeordneter gewählt.

Koburg. Hier ist der frühere Generalsuperintendent und Oberkonsistorialrath Müller, ein hervorragender Theologe und Prediger, Ehrenbürger der Stadt Koburg und Ehrendoktor der Universität Jena, 90 Jahre alt, gestorben.—Der zum Thronfolger in Sachsen-Koburg-Gotha ausersehene jugendliche Herzog von Albany hat mit seiner Mutter bisher in seinem dereinstigen Herzogthum kein Unterkommen finden können. Er wird auch im neuen Jahr bis Juni in Stuttgart bleiben, dann aber wenigstens die Sommerfrische auf einem der Landsitze des Herzogs von Koburg im Thüringer Wald genießen und im Winter in Dresden die Schule besuchen.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Der Raubmörder Fischer, der zweimal zum Tode verurtheilt worden war, wurde, nachdem der Antrag des Vertheidigers auf nochmalige Aufnahme des Verfahrens abgelehnt und auch das Gnadengesuch an den Senat abgeschlagen worden, dieser Tage guillotinirt.—Die während der letzten Wochen in Cuxhaven und auf der von dort nach Helgoland zwei Mal wöchentlich fahrenden „Silvana" angestellten Versuche mit Professor Brauns Telegraphie ohne Draht hatten in Bezug auf Entfernung wie auf praktische Anwendung solch' günstige Ergebnisse, daß demnächst die an der Elbemündung liegenden Leuchtschiffe mit Professor Brauns Apparaten ausgestattet werden. Auf diese Weise wird die Verbindung mit den Leuchthürmen von Cuxhaven und der Insel Neuwerk hergestellt.—In dem Vororte Barmbeck beging die Beamtenwittwe Jürgens Selbstmord, nachdem sie ihren fünfjährigen Knaben zu erschießen versucht hatte. Das Kind ist lebensgefährlich verletzt.

Bremen. Der „Norddeutsche Lloyd" wird nicht nur ein Kadettenschulschiff sondern eine ganze Anzahl in Dienst stellen, auf denen Offiziere und Mannschaften für seine Flotte ausgebildet werden sollen. Das erste dieser Schiffe, die „Herzogin Sophie Charlotte," Kapitän Warnecke, wird am 17. April seine erste Reise und zwar nach Philadelphia, antreten.

Lübeck. Der Ausschuß der hanseatischen Invaliditäts- und Altersversicherungsanstalt beschloß die Ausdehnung der Heilstättenpflege auf die Familienangehörigen der Familien während der Krankheitsdauer des Ernährers.

A gentleman from Ohio knows a working man living at Canton who has been benefited by

Ripans Tabules

The following is the story as told by the patient: "I had an attack of the grippe four years ago this Spring that left me in a bad way. My nervous system was broken down and my digestive apparatus in a condition that made me miserable for days. While able to work at my trade as a shearman in a rolling mill, I suffered more or less all the time with my stomach. Bitters and tonics were taken, and pills and potions that promised relief. I derived some benefit from the use of some of them if I continued taking them, but if I quit a few days my old trouble would return. Noticing the advertisement of the Ripans Tabules, for impaired and bad digestion, I concluded to invest in a few of them, which I am pleased to inform you have proven all or more than I expected of them. They have done me more good than all the other remedies that I have tried. They relieve the belching and sour stomach almost at once, and I feel better in every way since I commenced taking them. The distressing headaches, which I always had preceding a fit of indigestion, have entirely left me."

WANTED—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only and Plainfield Is Learning This.

Nothing can be good for everything.
Doing one thing well brings success.
Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.
They're for sick kidneys
They cure backache, every kidney ill.
Here is Plainfield evidence to prove it.

Mrs. W. W. Mills of No. 86 Summit avenue says; "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days, when I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

WINTER FASHIONS.

The Princess Gown and Its Various Modifications.

The princess form is becoming more emphatically the model for fashionable gowns, yet all are not cut in one piece, although that is, of course, the true princess characteristic. Even in two piece gowns the junction of the skirt and bodice is now rendered as inconspicuous as possible, the belt which has hitherto marked the division so noticeably being replaced by an extremely narrow stitched band made of the material of the gown itself and invisibly fastened. Another and yet newer idea is to sew the skirt and bodice together, as children's gowns are sewed. The seam which unites them is pressed open and is rendered practically nonexistent, no trimming or belt being employed to cover it.

Linings of satin for covering wraps are covered with ruffles, plaitings or puffings of mousseline de soie of delicate colors.

Tiny ruches of mousseline continue to be highly favored as trimming. They often entirely cover silk or satin bodices, being sewed on so as to form stripes, checks or serpentine lines. Chenille network is another fashionable decoration and is used chiefly in black over light colors.

The cut shows a princess gown of black broche silk. It has a long train formed by two flat plaits starting from the waist. The redingote front opens over a plastron and tablier of jonquil satin, crossed by diagonal bands of knotted silk fringe. There are fringe epaulets over the tight broche sleeves also. The bands of fringe are fastened by choux of black mousseline de soie, with plaited ends. The collar and sleeve frills are of black mousseline de soie.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THEATER BONNETS.

Trifles Light as Air Which Take the Place of Hats.

The newest theater bonnets are a mere nothing, but they simplify a vexed question. No woman likes to put her hat on or off in a crowded theater without the aid of a mirror and with her hands cumbered by gloves, nor does she enjoy holding her hat in her lap during the course of the play; hence the little so called bonnets are a welcome resource. They consist sometimes of a cluster or diadem of flowers, sometimes of a small, wired bow, sometimes of a gauze or lace butterfly or a chou of tulle. The wearer feels that she has a hat, yet it is so small that it does not obstruct the public view.

The color of gloves to be worn depends upon the sort of costume they are to accompany. Dark or medium shades are proper for ordinary hard service, but for social occasions white continues to be considered the most elegant. Perfect freshness is a requisite, and right gloves are condemned as inelegant. The hand must never be pressed out of shape by its covering.

The costume illustrated is of garnet brocade. The skirt is closed at the side under a band of feather trimming, the front being slightly draped by three choux of garnet panne. The fitted bodice has a plaited plastron of garnet panne, framed in bands of white satin, embroidered with black velvet and edged with black feather trimming. The collar and belt are of garnet panne, the close sleeves of brocade, plaited at the top and bordered with feather trimming at the wrists. The directoire bonnet of garnet velvet is trimmed with black plumes and black velvet. The strings are of black velvet, and there are tea roses under the brim.

Contract Labor in Hawaii

Conditions of the System That Has Provided the Planters with Cheap Help.

CONDITIONS of contract labor in the Hawaiian islands were recently described in an exhaustive report upon the subject by Mr. Wray Taylor, secretary of the bureau of immigration of the islands. While the existing conditions as shown by this report are probably a betterment of the home conditions of the laborers, and the wages paid are as good or better than the same class of laborers could secure under any other method, yet the system is certainly a hindrance for the free labor and does not improve the prosperity or commercial or industrial resources of the islands, for, as Mr. Taylor says, this class of immigrants seldom become permanent and industrious citizens.

But there is one thing which the report does show conclusively, and that is that during the continuation of the contract labor system in Hawaii the islands are a good place for the man seeking for a place to earn a living for himself to stay away from, and that the real prosperous growth of the islands in point of population will not begin until the contract labor system has been abolished and its effects neutralized by a lapse of time.

On the sugar, rice, coffee and fruit plantations of the islands there are employed 35,937 unskilled laborers. Of this number 20,641 are under contract and 15,346 day laborers. Japanese number 25,654; Chinese, 5,961; Portuguese, 2,153; Hawaiians, 1,326, etc.

The contract laborer is imported and held under contract for a term of three years, during which time he is practically the property of the planter to whom he has been assigned by the government. He must perform such work as the planter directs, and at such places as he directs, but the number of his working hours are regulated by the government and for over time additional wages must be paid. The planter must also provide food, lodgings and medical attention when necessary, and must also provide these things throughout the entire three years for which the contract is made, but wages are paid only for the actual time employed at work, deductions being made for all idle hours whether enforced by sickness or other causes. For a laborer to desert an employer before the expiration of his contract is a crime under the laws and punishable by the courts.

Of the method of securing these laborers Mr. Taylor says:

"When contract laborers are needed from abroad, application is made to the government for permission to import laborers of the desired nationality. If permission is granted, the order to recruit there is given to immigration companies, authorized by law, who employ recruiting agents in the localities whence the men are to be drawn. These companies are then responsible for the delivery of the required number of men to the final employer.

"In obtaining European labor, the planters have the benefit of the authority, forms, and official connection of the board of immigration, and, while all expenses are met by the planters in the first instance, afterward a sum, not to exceed $130 for each family, is paid by the government to cover recruiting expenses and passage of women and children accompanying the immigrants. In this case, the immigrant contracts with the board of immigration and signs his agreement before the Hawaiian consul at the port of departure in his own country. In this case, also, steerage passage, food, and medical attendance are furnished free to his destination, and oftentimes a money advance is given, this to be repaid in small monthly installments. The board of immigration assigns these laborers to their several employers and they are at no expense until they reach their field of labor."

The quarters furnished these laborers on the plantations vary with the plantations and also with the class of laborers to be accommodated. As a rule oriental labor is not accorded quarters as commodious and inviting as those from European countries. European labor has for a family, or for two single men, two rooms in a four-room cottage. Chinese, being single men, are housed in barracks with from six to forty men in a room. Single Japanese are often provided for in the same way; sometimes, however, only two occupying the same room. Married Japanese are furnished with a small room for each family.

The staple article of diet furnished the orientals is rice, to which additions are made by the laborers themselves.

European laborers do not fare differently from those in their own country.

Wages vary according to the supply of labor, and in many instances are governed by the price of the products at the time the contract is made.

The contract price is now $15 per month for oriental and $18 for European laborers. Old contracts call for only $12.50 for oriental; but in most cases a $2.50 bonus is given to these latter, conditioned on good behavior. Women receive $7.50 to $10 per month. Only actual time spent in labor is paid for. A plantation official, called a timekeeper, keeps strict account of working time and the pay roll is made out from his report.

COCOANUT ISLAND, HILO.

Of the general conditions of the system Mr. Taylor says:

"Now, what are the hardships? The main one is compulsory work under a master. Here the law compels. At home, need held the whip. They expected to work when they came; but the comparison with free men makes compulsion seem a hardship. Generally they are contented. The sewing machine is common in every camp. The tailoress plies her trade. The petty storekeeper, with his room nearly filled with goods, drives his bargains with his countrymen. All day long the simple laundering is in progress. The mother works with her babe near at hand, while the older children are at school. The happy chatter of women's tongues does not evidence discontent. There is food enough and a place to eat and sleep and live in, equal in comfort to what they left behind.

"But these people came here not to settle and make homes, but in as few years as possible to accumulate sufficient to enable them to return to their native country with capital enough to live on in a manner superior to their own class at home. With this object in view, as a class, they are saving to an extreme degree. A Japanese will live on from four to six dollars per month; a Chinaman, from nine to eleven dollars per month; and a European, eleven to thirteen dollars. The latter only is likely to be assimilated and become a desirable citizen."

That changes will come in the islands within a short time is certain, and it is probable that among the first will be the abolishing of the contract labor system.

In The PUBLIC eye ABROAD

SOUTH AFRICA.

A Hard Problem for the Cape Colonial Authorities to Deal With.

SUFFERING in South Africa is not confined to the battlefields on which English and Boer soldiers are laying down their lives for their respective governments. In the cities of Cape Colony and Natal there are conditions caused by the war which are beginning to cause the colonial authorities considerable uneasiness and which may result in the starvation of many helpless individuals.

When war became an assured fact the uitlanders of the Transvaal began pouring into the cities of Cape Town and Natal by the thousands. Every possible method was utilized for getting out of the country that was to fight England. The Transvaal government needed the coaches of the railways to transport troops to the Natal and Cape Colony borders, and nothing was left for the uitlanders but the freight and coal cars, and in these they poured into Cape Town and Durban by the thousand. Many of them were able to continue the journey back to England or other parts of the globe from which they had come, but many others became stranded in the cities where the railroad had landed them, and there they are to-day. They have neither the money to get away or to buy the necessities of life, and must either be cared for by the city or colonial authorities or starve.

Even in times of peace the countries of South Africa do not produce sufficient foodstuffs to feed the people. To-day the production is less than in times of peace, the steamship lines are overcrowded with supplies for the English army, foreign merchants are skeptical about shipping even such goods as they can find transportation for into a country ravaged by war, for fear of being unable to collect payment for them, and the authorities of the English colonies in South Africa are facing a crisis which is taxing their ingenuity to handle. Should the war continue for an indefinite period this question of foodstuffs would in all probability have an important bearing on the final result, or the home government will be forced to come to the relief of the destitute people of the colonies.

American consular officers report that the usually busy mining cities of the Transvaal are deserted; that Johannesburg is but a city of deserted buildings, and that all business relations have ceased.

FRENCH WORKING HOURS.

Eleven Now Constitute a Legal Day for Labor in the Republic.

ELEVEN hours now constitute the legal working day for men, women and children throughout France. The labor committee which recently passed a resolution fixing the number of hours to constitute a day's work provided also that after three years the working hours should be decreased to 10½ hours per day, and after six years the time should again be reduced to ten hours per day. Previous to the passing of this resolution 12 hours was not considered an unusual day's work.

SIAM'S RAILROADS.

Comparatively Rapid Rate of Construction Is Being Maintained.

RAILROADS are being built in Siam at a comparatively rapid rate at the present time. Less than ten years ago the only method of transportation that in any way resembled a railway was a little horse car line in Bangkok. To-day American electric cars run over this line, and dividends of 12 per cent. are paid on the investment. That the people take kindly to these modern improvements is proven by the crowded cars.

The first regular railway was begun in 1891, and consisted of a short line of narrow gauge track, 15 miles in length, connecting Bangkok to Pak Nam, the port at the mouth of the Menam river. Another line from Bangkok to Korat, a distance of 165 miles, was begun in 1892, and is just now nearing completion. This is owned by the government, and its construction has cost $33,000 per mile. Another line that will start at Bangkok and run to Ratburi, 45 miles, and to Petchaburee, 75 miles, is expected to be started the coming spring. This will be towards the Burmese frontier, and when completed will be one of the most important lines of road in the country.

The longest line of railway which has ever been proposed in the country is that now under construction from Ban Mayee to Chiengmai, a distance of 400 miles. Another line for which a concession has been granted a native prince will run from the Menam river to the Nakawn river, a distance of 70 miles. In addition to these the government expects to undertake the construction of lines running east and west, which will have a mileage of about 550 miles. These lines will not be undertaken this year, at least.

COTTON'S FOR CHINA.

America Is Selling a Majority of Those Bought at Shanghai.

EUROPEAN countries fear American competition in the far east, and that they have good ground for their fears is proven by the figures in the following table, which gives a comparison of the imports of cotton goods into China through the port of Shanghai for the quarter ending September 30, 1895 and 1899. While such figures are unpopular in Europe, they cannot help but prove pleasing to the people of this country:

GOLD PRODUCTION.

Big Figures Representing Output of the Yellow Metal.

FOR the 12 months closing December 31, 1899, this great round world of ours turned out the enormous total of 968,000 pounds of the precious yellow metal of which our eagles and double eagles are made. That was not quite as much as was turned out during the year of 1898, but the total of that year, it is estimated, would have been passed had it not been for the war in South Africa, which put a stop to the mining in the Transvaal and so shut off one of the greatest sources of the world's supply. It is estimated that with a speedy termination of the war in South Africa the total output of gold for the present year will reach a total of 1,014,116 pounds, valued at $305,364,000. Should this estimate be realized, it would mean that the output of gold alone for the year 1900 would exceed in value by $119,000,000 the average output of gold and silver of the world combined during the years 1866 to 1870.

The value of the Transvaal gold fields may be imagined from the fact that competent students estimate that should the war close early this year the year's production in that field alone would be 5,000,000 ounces of refined gold, while all other portions of Africa are estimated to be equal to not more than 250,000 ounces during the year.

Since 1871 the world's gold production has amounted to 13,420,035 pounds, and from the time of the discovery of America to 1871 it amounted to 19,087,823 pounds.

Of the production of silver during the year 1899 there are as yet no reliable figures, but the following table gives the production for the year previous and for 1896. The figures are for ounces of pure silver:

FASHION'S MIRROR.

Pretty Gowns for Evening Wear—Latest Hair Dressing—Coats and Sacques.

The old-fashioned box plaits are to be seen as the trimming of underskirts. A box-plaited ruche is four or five inches wide. There are one or two-inch wide box plaits separated by an equal space, and the plaiting is stitched on an inch or so below the upper edge, and the top of each plait is caught down.

A pretty dinner gown is made of alternate narrow strips of accordion-plaited crepe de chine and lace. The plaits are set close together at the waist line, and gradually widen to the lower edge of the skirt. The narrow panels of lace are slightly narrower at the waist, and also widen gradually at the edge of the skirt. The bodice is made of alternate horizontal rows of the lace and plaited crepe also.

Toques with sable crowns and brims of mirror velvet, trimmed with muslin flowers, are a feature of millinery. Roses are the special kind and the smaller sizes are much used, a wreath of white roses being the only trimming on a sable hat.

Long coats of velvet, a half-fitting loose sacque, in shapes without any seam in the middle of the back, are one of the specialties in winter garments. Wide bands of stitched panne are the trimming and distinguishing feature in this style of garment, whether of cloth or velvet, and triple revers, one of cloth like the coat, one of white satin embroidered with lace on the edge, and one of colored cloth covered with stitching.

For evening a pretty way to dress the hair is first to wave it with hair curlers, if nature has not done this for you. Arrange the hair in the revived French twist style, coiled, however, very loosely, and softly puffed at the top in front; save out a strand that you roll a la pompadour, and if you wish this effect accentuated, twist the hair over night on rather large pins. Curl little tendrils of short hair about the forehead, fasten a half wreath of pink or damask roses, with a delicate rosebud cigrette, and one or two effective loops of black velvet ribbon, just back of the pompadour roll—and the effect is charming.

Effective evening gowns have net overdresses worn over contrasting silk foundations, and small silk flowers, such as are used in millinery, are tacked to the net. They are in a color to match the goods beneath or in a contrasting color, as red flowers on black net over white satin.

Applique effects and cutwork are always in vogue when braiding is fashionable. Laid over rich satin, velvet or ladies' cloth, the elegant pieces of lace or silk passementerie en applique show to distinct advantage, but it seems a pity to see these handsome patterns laid over gowns or jackets of inferior fabric without any apparent reason. Lace is always so beautiful that it seems a waste to utilize it for many of the everyday uses, for which any amount of it is ruthlessly applied this winter.—Boston Budget.

CHILDREN AND THEIR STUDIES

Five Hours' Brain Work, the Maximum; Two Hours' Play, the Minimum.

The cramming system and its accompanying evils are a national crime at the feet of American parents. No child under 15 years of age should be given any home study whatever by his teachers. He should have not more than from one hour to four of schooling each day, the hours increasing with his years. Outside of school hours he should have at least three hours of play. After 15 the brain has another period of rapid development, with special increase of the higher faculties. Four hours of schooling, then, is not too much, provided the child's physical being is capable of it, and in time an hour of isolated study may be added. But that is enough. Five hours of brain work a day is the most that we should ask of our children, and the child should pass at least two hours a day in the open air. Our boys and girls do not get enough fresh air and sunshine into their bodies and natures. The higher institutions of learning understand the need of physical development for brain growth far better than do our lesser schools and our homes—and as it is to admit it.—Edward W. Bok, in Ladies' Home Journal.

A Child's Sleeping Hours.

The baby should be taught to sleep at regular hours. At first he will sleep most of the time not occupied in feeding. At the age of six the child should sleep 10 or 12 hours at night and two hours during the day. Between these ages the amount of sleep should gradually diminish. The method of training babies to sleep is simple: Be sure that they are comfortable as to externals, and are well, then leave them alone in a properly guarded crib. After several months' humoring it may be dangerous to leave a child alone, as the little tyrant may work himself into such a rage as to have convulsions or to do himself physical injury, but the young infant may be trusted to "cry it out" in safety, and after the first disappointment is over he will be happier and more contented to take the ups and downs of life uncomplainingly.—Dr. A. L. Benedict, in Woman's Home Companion.

Table Finery.

Hardly anything is too fine in the way of linen and laces for the table nowadays. Centerpieces and individual doylies are made of the finest linen lawn and trimmed with beautiful Brussels point, point de Venise and point de Bruges.—N. Y. Times.

To Avoid Hard Times.

One way to avoid hard times is to steer shy of soft snaps.—Chicago Dispatch.

COLLEGE BOY'S FUN COST $12

Rutgers College Freshman Will Behave Better When He Visits Bound Brook Again.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 30—Carl Herbert, the freshman from Rutgers College, whose depredations at this place last week got him into trouble and was the cause of his arrest, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Justice Brampton and a fine of $12 was imposed and paid. The young man offered no defense, and accepted the inevitable with good grace. Herbert's home is at Manasquan. The cause for his arrest was the wilful tearing down of a sign and committing other acts in violation of the law.

Lost Both Wife and Child.

Mrs. Pangborn, aged 32 years, wife of Lloyd Pangborn, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 1024 West Third street, of blood poisoning. A week ago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Pangborn lost their infant child, and in this double affliction Mr. Pangborn has the sympathy of the community. The funeral services of Mrs. Pangborn will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of James F. Pangborn, 1088 Arlington avenue, Interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders

—Gavett has sold hundreds of the Miller oil heaters, and says they have given great satisfaction.

—You might look until your eyes grow dim for hose to equal those sold at Peck's. Three pair for $1.

—Our Glenwood and Blue Point oyster stock this week will be fine. The weather is just right, Rogers.

—The Thursday Night Euchre Club will meet this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Woodruff, Westervelt avenue.

—Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, is having his three houses corner of West Front and New streets painted.

—The annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be held next week Monday evening, at which time officers will be elected.

—The epidemic of pink-eye that was prevalent in the borough has subsided and the physicians think that the disease has run its course.

—There was a regular meeting of the Borough Board of Education held last evening, but nothing outside of routine business was considered.

—There was good sleighing in the vicinity of Coontown yesterday, although it did not last very long. During the morning many sleighs were seen on the road.

—Some extra fine cars have been placed in the service of the Brunswick Traction Company. They are much longer than the usual style, and are handsomely furnished.

—The ladies class in calesthenics of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 instead of 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. The class has about one dozen members.

—Miss B. Meyer, of Martinville, lost a valuable gold watch. A little ad was inserted in The Daily Press and with the inevitable result. The watch had been found by W. S. Ayres, of West Third street, and was returned to its owner, all the direct result of that little ad.

—Word has been received in this city of the death of the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Watters, aged five months at their home in New York. The child was the grandson of Howard Watters, of Somerset street. The funeral services were held today at 12 o'clock from the late residence in New York. Interment took place this afternoon in Evergreen cemetery, this city.

Murderer Davis in Prison.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 30.—Philip Davis, the negro murderer of George Monks, of Brooklyn, was taken to State Prison yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Houston to begin his twenty-year sentence. He will make the third Union county murderer who has escaped the gallows and is now serving a twenty-year punishment in that institution. The others are George Manshanda, one of the slayers of old Farmer James Pitts, of Summit, for which crime his confederate was hanged, and Thomas Quinn, of this city, who killed his sweetheart, a married woman.

AN ARSENAL BLOWN UP.

Explosion Wrecks Ordnance Factory in Johannesburg.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, Jan. 30—It is reported from Durban that the Boer arsenal at Johannesburg has been destroyed.

The news was brought by a refugee from Johannesburg, who says the arsenal was blown up on Jan. 20. The loss is said, by the military experts, to be irreparable to the Boers, as all their shells were made at that place.

It was, in fact, the only shell factory in the Transvaal, and owing to the practical closing of Delagoa Bay was the last resort for material for the big guns at Ladysmith and elsewhere. If the news is true it explains the reluctance of the Boers to use their artillery in the last few days. Many reports have filtered through of their shortness of big-gun ammunition.

It is not known whether the destruction of the arsenal was the deliberate act of a British spy or an accident. In any event the loss is a great blow to the Boers.

GOEBEL SHOT

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Frankport, Ky., Jan. 30.—Senator Goebel was shot from ambush as he entered the capital grounds this morning. His assailant has not yet been captured. Great excitement prevails.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Theophilus Smith, of 1226 Park avenue, is dangerously ill with an attack of dropsy.

Miss May Shreve, of Grove street, has gone to Philadelphia to spend some time visiting friends.

Mrs. Howard Runyon and family, of Rahway road, are enjoying themselves at Atlantic City for a short time.

Mr. Sisk, of LaGrande avenue, formerly an engineer at the plant of the Plainfield Hygeia Ice Company, has secured a lucrative position in Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cummings, of Newark, and Mrs. Harry Davis, of Jersey City, spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Bellis, of Elmwood place.

Miss Harned, formerly of Craig place, is visiting relatives in the borough and city. Miss Harned and her parents are now residents of New York, where they like it very much.

W. F. Mannix, a member of the staff of the Philadelphia Press, who came to Plainfield last week Thursday for the purpose of spending a week here in preparing an important article for his paper, left the city last Saturday evening.

Rev. Bergen D. Stelle, who has been pastor of the Salem Baptist church at New Rochelle, N. Y., for seven years, has accepted a call to the Allegheny Avenue church in Philadelphia. Mr. Stelle and his wife were born and reared in Stelton, and many friends in this vicinity will be interested in this change to take effect in April.

TO PAY THE FINE.

Liquid Air Entertainment at Music Hall for Benefit of Mrs. Catherine Fingerhuth is Probable.

Arrangements are being made for a benefit for Mrs. Catherine Fingerhuth who is now serving a sentence at the Somerville for the killing of Peter Boehricht. It will be remembered that she was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and part of the money was raised by subscription. The benefit is intended to raise the remainder. It is understood that Former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield is prominent in the movement to hold the benefit at the Music Hall early next month. The entertainment proposed is an exhibit of liquid air and the funny stunts that it accomplished.

—An important communication of Trinity Co. 17., K. T., will be held next week Monday evening.

LIEUTENANT GENERAL SIR CHARLES WARREN.

Lieutenant General Sir Charles Warren, who commands the right wing of the British force that began weeks ago the advance to relieve Ladysmith, has been one of the most prominent figures mentioned in South African war news lately. His command consists of the Fifth division of the British army. General Buller is in command of the left wing.

The Bluff Alpenite.

I like the bluff manner of men just raised from the ranks. Truce to convenance! My host sits, while I stand; half the guests in the hotel tuck their napkins down their throats, as if prepared for a shave or a shampoo; strangers unpack their inmost souls, disembosoming themselves gratuitously of half their family history. Your faithful Alpenite sports a diamond stud with a negligee shirt—the stud for brag, the soft shirt for comfort, the two for individualism. Coarser fellows—and I like them best of all—wear immense badges or buttons adorned with photographs of their sweethearts. Delicious! Many a time and oft I have been Tommy Atkins caressing Judy O'Grady on the top of the Mile End 'bus; Abner Glenn sat for his tintype with his brawny arms wound close about pretty Rachel; both had their hearts on their sleeves So be it, say I; but here struts a man with his heart in his buttonhole. In quite this boyish spirit the errant chevalier sang forth his love, when knighthood was in flower. — R. L. Hartt, in Atlantic.

Knew the Tricks of the Trade.

Tramp—Kin yer give me a cold bite, leddy?

Housewife—Let me see. You were all through the Cuban war, wasn't you? When a boy you fell and injured your spine, didn't you? You are trying to get to a certain place where steady employment is awaiting you, aren't you? You haven't had a square meal for three days, have you, and the cake I am baking smelled so good to you, didn't it? You tried the lady next door and she said all she could give you was a little advice, and that was that you should come here, because my bread was something awful, didn't she? You've got a wife and seven children to support, haven't you? You—"

But the tramp had fainted. He knew he couldn't offer anything new.—Indianapolis Sun.

Nature the Embalmer.

A curious circumstance concerning the body of Admiral Spotts has been reported from the Falkland islands, where he died 17 years ago. The Falkland physician who attended him during his fatal illness was present at the exhumation of the body when the cruiser Badger was sent for it this year. The coffin had disappeared, but the corpse was absolutely unchanged, even the features having retained the exact appearance that they presented on the day of death. This wonderful preservation was due to the action of the peat water which saturates the islands. It had embalmed the body completely. —N. Y. Press.

Varshapratipada of Western India.

Unlike other orientals, the natives of India pay little heed to the return of the year, which, according to their chronology, begins with the verual equinox. In western India the first day of the first month, called Varshapratipada, is celebrated to some extent. In honor of it houses are decorated with festoons of mango leaves and a pole from ten to thirty feet high is erected before the house door. This pole, draped with red cloth and crowned with a small polished brass kettle, is worshiped as an idol to insure a lucky year.—Woman's Home Companion.

Sow's Milk for Babies.

A novel petition has just been submitted to the French chamber of deputies by a woman resident in the Finistere department. She proposes that steps be taken to test the quality of sows' milk as a form of nourishment for babies. Donkeys' milk, as is well known, is superior to cows' for the purpose, but the employment of the domestic pig has the merit of novelty. Several doctors have already pronounced in favor of the innovation, however.—London Chronicle.

Small Diamonds the Best.

There are more perfect small diamonds than there are perfect large ones, and where a man gets together a collection of perfect diamonds he is most likely to have a collection of small ones. Thus the diamonds owned by Americans are not, as a rule, so large as the ones owned in Europe. Artificial light enables the European diamond wearer to wear his big stones that are not altogether perfect.—N. Y. Sun.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

A Budget of Information for Every-day Use in the Home Work.

A lemon custard pie that is always appreciated is made in this wise: The crust is baked first, an open shell, perforating it in several places with a fork before putting in the oven, to avoid blistering. For the filling, cream together one-half cupful of sugar and butter the size of a walnut. Add the juice of half a lemon and two tablespoonfuls of boiling water, and, lastly, the beaten yolks of three eggs. Grate in a little of the rind and cook in double boiler until thick. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and stir in after the filling is taken from the fire. Pour all in the open crust already baked and set in oven for a few moments. If a meringue is desired, whip the whites to a froth, add two tablespoonfuls pulverized sugar, spread over the top and dry slowly in the oven until an inch thick and a golden brown.

A fruit and nut cake indigenous to California, but much appreciated by tourists from "the states," is made in this way: Stir to a cream two cupfuls of sugar and one of butter. Add the yolks of six eggs beaten light, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and nutmeg mixed and one teaspoonful soda dissolved in one cupful of cold water. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and fold in alternately with the flour, into which two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar has been sifted, until four cupfuls of flour have been used. Lastly, stir into the mixture one pound of raisins seeded, chopped and dredged with flour and one cupful of hickory nut kernels, also dredged. Mix all thoroughly and bake in two loaves in a slow oven.

The most wholesome and altogether delicious way in which the large Spanish or Bermuda onions can be cooked is by roasting in their skins. Lay the onions directly on the bottom of the oven and bake three or four hours. By this method they will be cooked in their own steam, and none of the medicinal properties of the onion be dissipated. When ready to serve peel, put on hot dishes, add salt, pepper and butter, and realize that you have the onion at its very best. Invalids can eat onions prepared in this way. When boiled in the usual fashion they are sure to disagree. The onions may be served whole or be cut in small pieces, but in either case they will be found tender, juicy and delicious.

Cod liver oil, say physicians, should be taken during or immediately after meals. It is best given as clear oil when it can be taken. If this is too distasteful a pinch of salt taken before and after the dose rapidly removes from the mouth the unpleasant fish taste. Many aver that it is easier taken in ice water. Just enough ice water for a swallow is put in a glass, and to this the oil should be added. The oil will gather in a mass in the center, and if the whole is swallowed at once it will scarcely be tasted.

Apple toast makes a delightful and simple dessert for invalids or the aged. The foundation of the dish is bread toasted in the oven until crisp throughout. Place the slices in the bottom of a colander set within another dish, turn boiling water over each slice, drain immediately and serve hot in a pretty china saucer with sweetened apple sauce about the consistency of marmalade turned over each slice. The sauce may also be made of dried apples or preserved peaches.

Old and obdurate stains in linen may be removed by the fumes arising from a small piece of burning sulphur (sometimes even a sulphur match will be enough), followed by washing in water in which a little soda has been dissolved.

A dainty dessert for the nursery or invalid's tray consists of an apple cored and carefully baked, then covered with whipped cream or the white of an egg beaten stiff with a little sugar.

In disinfecting a room with sulphur the vessel containing it should be placed as high as possible, so that the heavy fumes may fall. — Washington Star.

REDUCES FEES ONE-HALF.

MR. HOWARD IS VERY MUCH OPPOSED TO IT.

County Clerks Throughout the State are Opposed to it — Assemblyman Smith Proposes a Law to Compel Railroads to Provide Better Accommodations at Their Stations for Passengers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, January 31.—County Clerk William Howard, of Elizabeth, is very much concerned over the proposed law which legalizes the registration of mortgages in place of fully recording them. Mr. Howard has been hovering around the State House doing what he can to defeat the proposed law, as if it passes it will result in cutting down his fees considerable.

It costs about 75 cents to register a mortgage and about $1.50 to record one. Some lawyers prefer to have the mortgage placed on record in full; others have hitherto taken the risk of simply registering them. A question was raised last summer as to the legality of merely registering these documents, and to cure any defect a bill has been drawn making legal all such documents as have been thus registered, and all that may hereafter be registered.

The county clerks of the State held a meeting in Trenton Monday and decided to oppose this last clause of the bill. It cuts down their fees somewhat, and it also makes the records somewhat incomplete. The bill is, however, favored by building and loan associations and by institutions which loan money on mortgages. They save half the mortgage fees by registering instead of recording their mortgages.

Assemblyman Smith, of Westfield, has for some time past had a bill in his possession to compel the railroad companies to provide better accommodations for their patrons, not on the cars, but in their stations. He said he would not introduce it unless compelled to, but he has yielded to what he believes to be the necessities in the case. The bill is a general one, but it is aimed at the Cranford station on the Central Railroad. It provides that in towns where there are sewer systems, railroad companies must provide proper closets for the convenience of passengers.

Assemblyman Meeker has explained his bill to change the name of the Jamesburg Reform School to the "State Industrial School for Boys." It is to divest the school of even the nominal suggestion that it is a penal institution. When the State reformatory at Rahway is completed, it will be known as a prison for young offenders, and the Rahway reformatory and the Jamesburg Reform School will be improperly considered as similar institutions. Hence the advisability of changing the name of the latter institution.

The spring elections bill, which is one of the most important measures of the present session, is meeting with strong opposition in its present form. The current opinion about the State House last night was that it would be greatly modified. One suggestion was that a referendum clause be embodied in it, leaving it to the people to continue or abolish spring elections in their respective places. Another and more probable plan is to make the bill apply to cities, but not to towns or townships.

To Avoid Littering the Streets.

Manager Slocum, of the Plainfield Bill Posting Company, has determined that the chances of the city streets becoming littered from pieces of loose paper flying from his boards, shall be reduced to a minimum. He has therefore ordered his local bill poster to take a horse and wagon and make a trip around the city and take up all loose pieces of paper after a heavy wind or rain storm.

Somerville Man Hurt in Runaway.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 31.—A horse ran away with George W. Hope, assistant Superintendent of the Prudential Insurance office at this place, yesterday afternoon, throwing Mr. Hope against a lamp post, breaking his leg and otherwise injuring him. The buggy was wrecked. The accident occurred in front of Sisser's hotel at Raritan.

English Services in German Church.

Commencing with next Sunday evening English services will be held at the German Lutheran church. The choir that will assist in the services will meet tomorrow and Thursday evenings for rehearsals.

START OF GOOD ROADS

MOVEMENT ORGANIZED OVER THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Essex County Claims the Honor of Taking the Initiative, But Union County Has Done Much Work in That Direction.

The great movement for improved roads in the United States originated, it is generally believed, in Essex county, more than thirty years ago. Some progressive men in the Board of Freeholders conceived the idea of building a system of hard roads by the macadam process, and a special act was passed constituting a Road Board. The bulk of the cost was assessed upon the county at large and was provided for in the annual taxes. Newark paid four-fifths of this tax. There was much opposition and constant protest, but the work went resolutely on.

The good results soon became evident. East Orange, Montclair and other suburbs attracted the best class of population, and handsome houses went up by the hundreds, while property prices enormously increased. The roads built were of excellent workmanship, and excited the wonder and admiration of strangers who drove over them. Union county subsequently procured a law for county aid to road building, and the work was prosecuted there with the same energy and good results. This led to the enactment of the law for State aid, under which hundreds of miles of new improved roads have been built in all sections of the State. In Essex county the improvement has gone on under the State Aid act until the county is a network of good roads. For road improvements projected for the present year the county will pay about $55,000.

The law imposes one-third of the cost of new roads on the State, 10 per cent on the property owners, and the balance on the county. By the new law townships can petition independently on the Board of Freeholders for State aid, and this will promote road building in counties which have been backward by reason of the unwillingness of the county authorities to assume the county's share of the cost.

PRO-BOER SENTIMENT.

There is Talk of Holding a Meeting in Music Hall for Sympathizers of the Dutch Republic.

There is a prospect of another pro-Boer mass-meeting in this city some evening in the near future. The large attendance at the first meeting, held in Saengerbund Hall, encouraged those in charge to believe that there was a strong sympathy for the Boers existing in this city. The advisibility of securing Music Hall for another and larger mass meeting is being considered. In that case the meeting would be held under the joint auspices of the German and Irish societies of the city.

The Germans of Somerville are also considering a pro-Boer mass-meeting in that place. There is a large number of people of Dutch and German descent there, and a rousing gathering is expected if the meeting is held. No date has yet been set.

GOES SOUTH TO GAIN HEALTH.

T. B. Green Will Probably Remain in Georgia if Climate Agrees With Him.

T. B. Green, of East Front street, who is associated with the Home Insurance Company, of New York, will leave Plainfield Thursday for the south, where he will remain until next spring. He takes this trip on account of his health which has not been very good. He will be accompanied by Francis Whitely, of Steiner place, who has been a groom for him for the past nineteen years, and in whom he has implicit confidence. Mr. Green is a valued officer in the company in which he is employed and the company feel as though the trip will greatly benefit him. If the climatic conditions are agreeable he will remain in Georgia for sometime.

Commissioners Will be Necessary.

The all-important matter to be considered at the meeting of the Mayor and Borough Council Friday evening will be the widening of Somerset street. It is understood that a sufficient number of property owners have signed for the improvement to warrant the Council in going ahead and making the street wider. No doubt commissioners will have to be appointed to assess benefits and damages, and this will not work to the advantage of those opposing it.

An Illustrated Lecture.

An illustrated lecture on "China, India and Arabia" will be given in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow evening by A. S. VanDyke. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. No admission will be charged, but a collection will be taken to defray expenses.

A SAD CHAIN OF EVENTS.

Rev. Dr. Nelson's Accident Will Prevent His Preaching Funeral Sermon of Old Friend.

There is a very sad home at 95 Summit avenue. Sunday evening Rev. William C. Nelson fell and broke his right arm. Then Monday morning a telegram came announcing the sudden death of Mrs. Lizzie M. Roe, Newark, mother-in-law of Mrs. S. S. Roe, who has been stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson for some weeks and also an old friend of forty years of Mr. Nelson and wife. Twenty years ago he preached the funeral sermon of Mrs. Roe's mother, and thirteen years ago he preached at her husband's funeral. Mrs. Roe died about the time the doctors were setting Mr. Nelson's arm Sunday evening. And before the family heard of Mr. Nelson's fall and accident they had sent him a pressing invitation to conduct the funeral in Newark, which took place this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Roe was one of the happy circle present at Mr. Nelson's birthday party in October.

THE COMING OF BRYAN.

EVERYBODY IS ANXIOUS TO HEAR THE NEBRASKAN.

Mr. Martine, Whose Guest Mr. Bryan Will Be, Has Received Countless Applications for Seats From Many Places.

Of all the men who are now at the front in the political arena, there is probably none more generally talked about than William J. Bryan, the probable Presidental candidate of the Democratic party in the coming campaign. Now that it is assured that Mr. Bryan is to speak in this city, men have expressed a great desire to hear him. Regardless of political opinion, there is a general desire to see and hear the man who has played such an important part in the recent history of the Democratic party.

Plainfield is naturally a Republican city and a great majority of the citizens differ from Mr. Bryan in their political views. They are nevertheless quite anxious to hear what he has got to say in defence of his position.

Plainfield will undoubtedly have a big representation of its citizens at the meeting Wednesday afternoon, February 7th, that Mr. Bryan is to address. But reports from all the neighboring cities and towns tell of a great crowd that will invade Plainfield that afternoon. Up in the country districts of Somerset and Hunterdon counties it is declared that the entire male population of several towns will turn out to hear the great Democratic orator.

James E. Martine, of this city, who has the meeting in charge, has been simply overwhelmed with requests for tickets from all the adjoining countries. There will be no seats reserved except those on the platform for a few prominent guests and the representatives of the press. It is expected that a great crowd of newspapermen will be present.

The meeting will not be for men alone but the women will be just as welcome as the men. It is not intended to have a crowd of small boys present. Those who accompany their parents will be admitted but some steps will be taken to prevent the hall from being flooded with a crowd of children who cannot understand or appreciate the speaking.

A MYSTERIOUS WEDDING.

Miss Grace Burdick's Relatives Profess Ignorance of Her Reputed Nuptials.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, January 31.—The many friends in the borough of Miss Grace Burdick will be surprised to learn of her marriage to John La Maire, of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield. For some months Miss Burdick has been living with her sister Mrs. J. E. Thompson, at North avenue, Dunellen, although her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burdick, live at Westfield.

When it became rumored that Grace had married the news spread rapidly through Dunellen and there was much speculation.

A Daily Press reporter called upon Mrs. Thompson to verify the rumor. The latter said that she had learned from her sister that she was married, but that when the ceremony took place or by whom it was performed she could not state. Mrs. Thompson said that she understood that her sister had been married at the home of the LaMaires in North Plainfield. She was under the impression that the wedding took place last week Wednesday, though she was not sure as to that. Mr. and Mrs. LaMaire are said to be living at the home of the bride's parents in Westfield, where it is understood the couple are to hold a reception in the near future.

FELL INTO LAW'S HAND TWICE IN ONE DAY

Once Theodore Glaser Pummeled Ernest Roth.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

FINALLY LANDED IN LOCKUP FOR BEING DISORDERLY.

When Patrolman Myers Attempted to Arrest Glaser a Friend of the Latter Interfered and Was Arrested Also—Both Culprits Were Fined in the Police Court This Morning.

Theodore Glaser, a dealer in hides and fat, took a day off yesterday and before night he landed in the station house. Early in the day Glaser dropped into Blatz's saloon at West Front and Somerset streets, where he got into trouble with Ernest Roth, an employe of Drake & Mundy. The men quarreled after a dispute and finally got into a rough and tumble fight. Glaser was too strong for Roth and it took but one round for him to put Roth in a condition of almost insensibility. He was severely beaten and cut about the face. When the men were separated Roth was found to be so badly used up as to require medical attendance. He was assisted to Shaw's drug store where his injuries were treated. Later he went before Justice Moffett and swore out a warrant for Glaser's arrest on a charge of assault. He was arrested by Constable Weaver and gave bail for his appearance in Justice Moffett's court this morning at 10 o'clock.

In the meantime Glaser continued on his spree in company with Fred Bendelstader, who is in his employ. About 8 o'clock last night Glaser was making night hideous by yelling and using vile language on West Front street in the vicinity of Koch's meat market. Patrolman Myers advised Glaser to keep quite and go home. For his advice the officer was roundly abused. Myers then placed Glaser under arrest. The latter made a desperate resistance and for a few moments there was a lively scrimmage between Glaser and the officer for supremacy. The men rolled about the floor of the meat market and the excitement drew a crowd.

Special officer Martin, who happened along, went to Patrolman Myers' aid. Bendelstader, who attempted to prevent Glaser's arrest, was also taken to the station house by the officers. He was charged with interfering with an officer.

This morning Glaser was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, charged with being drunk and disorderly. The prisoners were represented by Wm. G. DeMeza. Glaser was fined $5 and Bendelstader $3. The fines were paid.

At 10 o'clock Glaser was arraigned before Justice Moffet to answer for his assault upon Ernest Roth.

At the request of S. S. Swackhamer, counsel for the complainant, the examination of Glaser was adjourned for one week. In the meantime he was released on bail.

NEW MOVE IN 'PHONE WAR.

Big Company Has Opened an Exchange in Opposition to Local Concern in Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 31.—The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has made a new move in its war against the local company. The larger company has opened an exchange of its own on Main street in the building formerly occupied by the First National bank. Heretofore the exchange was located in Manning's pharmacy on Main street. The number of local subscribers then were so small that there was no trouble in handling them at the store. With twenty 'phones in operation, Manager Charles W. Runyon, of this district, decided that an exchange was necessary.

This final move of the New York and New Jersey Company practically settles the question. There is no doubt now that the big company is here to stay and all the efforts of the Somerset company cannot drive them out. The new telephones have been put in without locating any poles in the street and no change was necessary to start the exchange.

A meeting of the Bound Brook Borough Council will be held in a week and then it is probable that a new ordinance granting the invading company the rights that they have been seeking will pass its first reading. There may be opposition but the big company is here to stay and the borough officials are beginning to recognize the fact and make the most of it.

SEVERAL ARE WILLING.

A Lively Contest for the Postmastership in Elizabeth is in Prospect.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 31.—There is apt to be a lively contest for the Postmastership of Elizabeth, as the term of the present Democratic incumbent, William J. Whelan, expires this year. Ex-President John D. Barr, of the City Council, has strong backing for the place, and thinks he has an inside track. Other aspirants, it is said, are ex-Councilman Meline W. Halsey, treasurer of the Union County Savings Bank and manager of the German-American Insurance Company, and Samuel S. Moore, keeper of the New Jersey State Prison, who formerly held the office. United States Senator Kean, who, with Congressman Fowler, controls the appointment, is non committal. Congressman Fowler, it is said, favors Mr. Barr, but has not expressed himself openly on the subject.

WILL NEED DEEP STUDY.

PLAINFIELD UNIVERSITY CENTRE HAS BEEN ORGANIZED.

Aims to Give a Better Knowledge of Important Educational Subjects—Dr A. H. Lewis Elected President.

The Plainfield University Centre, a branch of the University Association of Chicago, was organized at the Plainfield High School last evening. It is somewhat on the same plan as the University Extension work and aims to give a better knowledge of various important educational subjects. The particular subject that the local organization is to take up is a course in sociology and political economy.

At the start the membership has reached seventy five, of whom a large number are from the ranks of the teachers in the public schools here. Most of Plainfield's clergymen have joined, and there are several of the lawyers in it as well. Dr. J. B. Probasco and S St. John McCutchen, the presidents respectively of the city and borough Boards of Education, are included in the membership.

The meeting was called to order by Prof. Davis, of Chicago, who has organized the local branch. Irving L. Brady was made temporary secretary. The election of officers was then held and resulted as follows: President, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis; vice president, Miss Clementine Yates; secretary, Irving L. Brady; treasurer, Henry M. Maxson; members of the executive committee, Miss Adams, Miss Cidner and S. St. John McCutchen.

The regular meeting night will be Tuesday night from eight to nine o'clock. The first study session will be held next Tuesday evening. Prof. Wightman, Mrs. Rushmore and O. S. Rogers were selected to analyze one section of the lesson each. The superintendents of the city and borough public schools were appointed a committee on examinations. Rev. G. W. Gardner, William N. Runyon and O. S. Rogers were appointed a committee to select a permanent place of meeting.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.

Case of E. E. Milliken Against Mary Cortell Will be Heard Again in Circuit Court.

Upon application of S. S. Swackhamer, counsel for the defendant, a new trial has been granted in the case of E. E. Milliken vs. Mary Cortell. Both parties live at Dunellen. Milliken brought an action against Mrs. Cortell last fall to recover $50 for a heating furnace, which the plaintiff had placed in the defendant's house at Dunellen. At the trial before Justice Warden a verdict was secured by the plaintiff. The case was carried to the Circuit Court where the plaintiff was awarded $33. Yesterday argument was had at New Brunswick for a new trial, which was granted. The case will be retried at the spring term of the Circuit Court of Middlesex county. H. C. Runyon represents the plaintiff and S. S. Swackhamer the defendant.

Want Flowers Kept on His Grave.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Mount Holly, Jan. 30.—By the will of Thomas Watford, who died recently at Moorestown, there are bequests of $300 each to the Odd Fellows' Home and Odd Fellows' Orphanage, of Philadelphia, and a further bequest of $1,000 in trust, the income to be devoted to keeping flowers on the Watford burial lot in Mount Peace Cemetery forever. The residue of the estate is to be devoted to the purchase and distribution of books on the philosophy of spiritualism.

Christian Endeavor Day.

Christian Endeavor Day will be observed Friday evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church. The programme to be used will be the one recommended by the united societies of the Christian Endeavor.

ADIEU TO HOPE CHAPEL.

FRED H. ANDREWS TRANSFERRED TO WARREN CHAPEL.

A Farewell Reception Given to Mr Andrews by Hope Chapel Members—Presented With a Handsome Chair.

Hope Memorial chapel was filled last evening with members and friends who gathered to give Fred H. Andrews a farewell reception upon the eve of his departure to Warren chapel, where he has been transferred to the position of superintendent of the Sunday-school. For twelve years, or since the founding and organization of Hope chapel, Mr. Andrews has been associated in the work there and had charge of the music. Leander Lovell was superintendent at Warren chapel, but recently withdrew from the work. Mr. Strong has been holding the position but he is called to the Crescent Avenue church Sunday school, where he will be superintendent. This left a vacancy at Warren chapel, and Mr. Andrews was selected for the place.

A committee, composed of Donald McInnis, Thomas Hendry, James Brown, Alex Muir, Mrs. Donald McInnis, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs Robert Fray, Mrs. Robert Gow, Mrs George Vetter and Fred Wharton, secretary and treasurer, arranged the affair of last evening. The chapel was prettily decorated with American flags, kindly loaned by Crosby & Hill, and flowers donated by Brooks-Carson.

Mr. McInnis introduced the several artists who took part. The programme opened with a piano solo by Miss Carrie Dewey, followed by several pleasing vocal solos by Elmer U. Cutting, accompanied by Clifford Braider on the piano. A feature was the appearance of Miss Grace Overton, who gave some recitations in her best style.

Another feature was the flute solos by Fred Newman, accompanied on the piano by Miss Dewey.

After the rendition of the musical and literary programme Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards was introduced, and made an address in which he recited the ability of Mr. Andrews as a Sunday-school worker. Then on behalf of the Sunday-school he presented Mr. Andrews with a handsome Morris chair. At this time Mrs. Andrews was remembered and she was presented with a beautiful bouquet and a handsome handkerchief case.

Mr. Andrews thanked all most heartily for the kind remembrance. Other remarks followed by Rev. G. K. Newell, H. C. Squires, H. R. Munger and others.

During the evening Louis Martin took a flash-light picture of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and a portion of the audience. This was followed with a social time and the serving of ice-cream and cake.

MAJOR COLEMAN RETIRES.

He Finds That There is Not Enough Patronage for Him to Succeed at Park Hotel.

The management of the Park Avenue Hotel will change hands tomorrow. Major F. W. Coleman, who ran the Hotel Hunterston last summer and took up the Park Avenue Hotel at the opening of the winter season, has found that the patronage at the latter hostelry was not enough to make it a success and so he has decided to give up the establishment and retire to private life until April 1st, when the Hunterston will re open for the summer.

H. J. Bronson, owner of the Park Avenue Hotel, will take charge of the house and will run it hereafter for a time. The complete corps of servants will remain and the affairs of the hotel will go on as usual. Mr. Bronson believes that the hotel can be successfully conducted. The change in the management will take effect tomorrow.

Major and Mrs. Coleman and their daughter, Miss Coleman, will remain at the hotel until they can secure a furnished house which they will occupy until the opening of the big hotel at Netherwood.

Brewery Company's New President.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 31.—The stockholders of the Rising Sun Brewery Company in this city will hold a special meeting today to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Charles Seeber, president of the company. It is probable that Philip Schauble, of Elizabeth, the company's treasurer, will be elected to the presidency.

School at New Orange.

The Cranford Board of Education, at its meeting Saturday night, decided to build a primary school at New Orange. There are 104 children at that place who are practically without school opportunities, owing to the distance to the present schools. Plans are to be secured and a building erected at once.

MANY SITES OFFERED, BUT NONE CHOSEN YET.

City Hall Will Not Lack For A Location.

OFFICIALS CONSIDERING.

COMMITTEE WILL RECOMMEND CHOICE OF THREE SITES.

The General Sentiment is That There Should be a City Hall—Some of the Proposed Locations are Not Regarded With Much Favor — Three Places Are Available on East Front Street.

The Common Council will be advised that Plainfield is greatly in need of a City Hall and that it would be well to secure the necessary ground and erect a proper structure for that purpose. The committee, appointed to consider the advisibility of building a City Hall and to suggest a proper site for it, held a meeting last evening and will make that report. The committee discussed many possible sites but finally settled on a few that seemed to answer the requirements and will recommend them to the Common Council at the meeting Monday evening.

It will be remembered that the members of the fire and police committees were appointed a special committee to consider the subject. Mayor Rockfellow and President of the Council Smith were members ex officio. The meeting was called for last evening and all the other members of the Council, not included in the committee, were invited to attend the session. It was held in the Council chambers and all the Councilman were present except Mr. vanHerwerden. The Mayor was there.

It seemed to be the general sentiment that there should be a City Hall and the only question was where it should be located. The site at the corner of East Fifth street and Park avenue was suggested and was strongly favored by a number. The vacant lot at the corner of West Fourth street and Arlington avenue was mentioned but was objected to as not being centrally enough located.

There were three sites mentioned in the vicinity of East Front street and Watchung avenue. The Gardner property, which lies on the north side of East Front streeet between the store occupied by Powlison & Jones and Dr. Probasco's residence, was favored by several. The Mrs. Thomas MacDonald property on the opposite side of the street had its advocates who agreed that it would be particularly valuable in that the property backed up against that owned by the city on which the fire department headquarters is located. It was argued that it would be particularly advantageous in that the city would then own a strip clear through the block and the city buildings would thereby be grouped. Its central location was pointed out. It was urged against it that a valuable house stood on the lot and would have to be torn down, thereby increasing the expense.

The third location in that vicinity suggested was that owned by J. Fred MacDonald on the corner of Front street and Watchung avenue, now occupied by a frame house and store. It is directly across Front street from the Y. M. C. A. building.

Another proposition was that the City Hall be located on the southeast corner of West Front street and Central avenue, directly at the head of Grove street. The chief objection against this location was that it was not centrally located.

From these various suggestions the committee will probably recommend two or possibly three sites to the Council. The members of the committee are reticent about saying which site will be recommended.

New Process for Making Steel.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, N. J., Jan. 31.—The fires of the Carteret Steel Company's furnaces have been lighted and the new process of making open-hearth steel from the the iron as it comes out of the furnaces promises to revolutionize the steel industry. H. A. Jones, of Brooklyn, the president of the company, and the inventor of the new process, lighted the furnaces. By the new process steel is made direct from the molten iron in about three hours. It is claimed that if the process works satisfactorily steel can be made there, shipped to Europe and sold at a lower cost than the cheapest European steel.

To Work the Copperas Mines.

After being closed fourteen years the Copperas Mines, on the Copperas mountain, near Marcella, Rockaway township, will resume this week. The Carteret Steel Company, whose furnaces are at Hackettstown, where it is expected to make steel direct from iron ore, has control of the mine.

THE GOEBEL TRAGEDY

Contestant For Kentucky Governorship Fatally Shot.

THE SUPPOSED ASSASSIN ARRESTED

Shots Were Fired From a Window In the Statehouse—Intense Excitement In Frankfort—Contest Board Votes to Unseat Taylor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 31.—While walking through the capitol grounds on his way to the capitol building at ten minutes after 11 o'clock yesterday William Goebel, the Democratic contestant for governor of Kentucky, was shot down and very dangerously wounded.

Harland Whittaker, a farmer from Butler county, the home county of Governor Taylor, is now in jail at Louisville charged with the crime. There is no direct evidence against Whittaker, and he was placed under arrest more because he was caught around the capitol building when the shots were fired than for any other apparent reason. He denies in the most positive manner that he had any connection with the shooting or knew anything about it. He was running toward the scene of the shooting when he was arrested.

Senator Goebel was wounded by a rifle ball of small caliber, not over .38, which struck him in the right side just below the armpit. The ball passed through the back part of the right lung, across the body in a diagonal line, passing out below the left shoulder blade. No vital organs were injured with the exception of the right lung.

Mr. Goebel was on his way to the senate chamber in company with Colonel Jack Chinn and Warden Eph Lillard of the Frankfort penitentiary. Mr. Lillard was a few feet in advance of Goebel and Chinn, who were walking side by side, Goebel being on the right and Chinn upon the left.

From the outer edge of the capitol grounds to the steps of the capitol building the distance is about 300 feet. Two-thirds of this had been passed, and the men were walking slowly, when suddenly a shot rang out from a large three story building which stands 50 feet east of the capitol building. This building is used for offices by nearly all the leading officials of the state, Governor Taylor and the secretary of state having rooms on the first floor. As the shot was heard Goebel gave a quick, involuntary exclamation of pain and made an effort to draw his own revolver. His strength was unequal to the task, however, and he sank upon the pavement. With great rapidity several more shots were fired, the bullets striking the brick sidewalk close to where Goebel lay. None of them touched him, however.

Lillard hastily turned around to aid Goebel, who was supported by Chinn, who had his arms about him almost as soon as he touched the pavement. "Get help," said Chinn to Lillard, and, turning to Goebel, he asked:

"Are you hurt, Goebel? Did they get you?"

"They have got me this time," said Goebel. "I guess they have killed me."

In less than a minute a crowd of men was around Goebel. He was losing much blood and was becoming very weak. He was hastily carried to the office of Dr. E. E. Hume, in the basement of the Capitol hotel, about 1,000 feet from the spot where the shooting occurred. Here he was laid on a sofa, while Dr. Hume made a hasty examination, pronouncing the wound to be of a nature that must cause death in a short time. Goebel, who showed great fortitude and courage throughout, smiled weakly as he heard the verdict and feebly rolled his head from side to side in token of dissent from the opinion expressed by the physician.

In addition to Drs. Hume, Ely and McCormick of this city, who were in attendance upon the wounded man, Drs. J. C. MacKenzie, N. P. Dundridge and E. W. Walker were summoned from Cincinnati, and Dr. McMurty came from Louisville. As soon as the physicians from Louisville and Cincinnati had examined the patient a consultation was held, at the conclusion of which Dr. Hume announced late last night that the chances had turned very much against the wounded man and the probability was that he would die before morning.

"He has internal hemorrhages," said Dr. Hume, "and we are unable to stop them. Unless we do so his death is a question of a very short time. We have taken from him over a pint of blood, and there are symptoms of the gravest character. There is hardly a chance that he can live through the night and practically none that he recovers."

The bullet which struck Mr. Goebel was fired from a window in the center of the third story of the office building just east of the capitol. That window was raised about eight inches from the sill to permit an unobstructed passage for the bullet when Mr. Goebel should come within range. Both Chinn and Lillard assert that, while the first shot came from the direction of the window in the third story, there were other shots fired from different portions of the same building. Some of those who heard the shots say that at least one shot was fired from the office of the secretary of state. This, however, is not true, as there were men in the office of the secretary of state who rushed to the window as soon as the shots were heard, and all of them declare that there was no shot fired at all from that part of the building.

The window in the third story was left open, no effort having been made to close it by the would be assassin, while not another window in the building was opened, nor were there any places where bullets had been fired through them.

Senator Goebel is a lawyer, 43 years old and single. He came to Covington when a young boy. He has lived there ever since. Since his advent in politics he has served several terms in the Kentucky state senate and has a year to serve. He was born in a small town in Pennsylvania and is considered one of the leading attorneys of Kentucky.

Senator Goebel was the author of the present election law of Kentucky, a measure which has attracted unusual attention on account of its peculiar provision. On the returns of the county boards afterward affirmed by the state board of elections, the certificate of election was given to Taylor, the contestee.

The adherents of Goebel then began a contest in the legislature for the unseating of Taylor and the seating of Goebel. This contest is still pending.

Mr. Goebel's first advent in politic was as a candidate for state senator to fill the unexpired term of J. W. Bryan who was elected lieutenant governor with Buckner in 1887, and has since continuously represented Kenton county in the senate. He was a man who despised any ostentation whatever. He steadfastly refused to have his picture taken up to his candidacy for governor and persistently refused to write an autobiography, and none is found in the many histories and lives of famous men of Kentucky. He made his home for years with Mrs. M. Bryson on Sixth street. He was very simple in his manners, was a close student and was ever poring over lawbooks or literature. Goebel is a fearless man and has had various encounters, the most notable one being with John L. Stanford, president of the Farmers and Traders' bank of this city, April 11, 1895, in which Stanford was killed by Goebel.

The Republican state officials and members of the legislature without exception denounced the shooting in the most unmeasured terms. Governor Taylor immediately caused a small address to be published in which he declared the affair to be a disgrace and an outrage and calling for the most sober condemnation. He sent orders at once to Adjutant General Collier directing him to take steps for the preservation of order.

General Collier is a Republican and is opposed to Mr. Goebel. He declared the shooting to be a most cowardly affair and one that upon every consideration was to be regretted. He lost no time in making speeches, however, and before Goebel had been lifted from the ground to be carried to the hotel General Collier had telephoned to the armory, half a mile distant, directing the local infantry company which was stationed there under command of Captain Walcott to proceed at once to the capitol grounds, take possession of them and its approaches, allowing nobody to enter the gates. Twenty minutes after the shooting Captain Walcott and his men marched across the front of the capitol building and halted at the foot of the steps.

Orders were issued to outside companies throughout the state to make ready at once to come to Frankfort, the entire state guard being called into service. It was feared that the news of the shooting would so inflame the Democrats that they would come to Frankfort in swarms, while the mountaineers would lose no time in coming to the capitol for the purpose of holding their party principles.

"It makes no difference to me," said General Collier, "who starts anything. We will preserve order on both sides."

GOEBEL DECLARED ELECTED.

Contest Board Decides In His Favor and Against Taylor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 31.—While William Goebel lay at the point of death in his room as the result of an assassin's bullet the contesting boards which for two weeks had been listening to the evidence in his contest for the governor's chair declared him entitled to the seat.

The boards having in charge the contests between Goebel and Taylor for governor and Beckham and Marshall for lieutenant governor met at 7 o'clock last night in the city hall to consider the evidence submitted to them and prepare their report to the legislature. A few legal authorities were read to them at the request of Senator Allen, who wished light shed upon a few doubtful points. The vote was then taken, and by a strict party vote of 10 to 1 William Goebel was declared to have been legally elected governor of Kentucky.

The Beckham-Marshall contest was then voted upon, and a strict party vote of 9 to 2 settled this matter. No announcement was made of the reasons leading up to the report being made last night, the boards taking everything at one leap. Each one of the members of both committees announced that he had made up his mind as to the merits of the case and voted promptly as his name was called.

Canal Survey Successful.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 31.—The Caledonia bay canal survey commission has reported that it has not only overcome the principal obstacle, the opposition of wild Indian tribes who rigidly exclude strangers and have never recognized civilized authority, but have won their co-operation, thus far carrying the survey 12 miles. The report adds that the technical results have proved satisfactory. The health of the members of the commission is good.

Noted Inventor Dead.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—Mr. Benjamin Wells Dunklee, the originator of furnace heating and a man widely known in the religious world, is dead at the residence of his daughter in Newton Centre. He was born in Brattleboro, Vt., and was 78 years of age. He was the original furnace inventor, devising largely in the line of business. He was an authority in the business, and his writings on ventilation and heating are considered standards.

Carnival at Saranac Lake.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The first day's programme of the annual carnival of the Pontiac club went through successfully. Hundreds of strangers from New York, Montreal and other cities were present. The streets and residences were elaborately decorated with greens and bunting. The grand parade of decorated sleighs and floats started at 7 o'clock, the floats being finer in artistic design than ever before.

Venezuelans Dine on the New York

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 31.—President Castro, the members of the cabinet and 50 officials visited Admiral Farquhar yesterday on board his flagship, the New York, and later the admiral gave a dinner in honor of United States Minister Loomis and Mrs. Loomis. Late in the afternoon the New York sailed for Cartagena.

CHARACTER IN ONE'S VOICE.

According to This Authority It Is as Perceptible as the Words You Speak.

Unless the voice sounds cordiality, words are powerless; unless the voice attests self-confidence, protestations do not convince; unless the voice speaks sincerity, the apology is useless. It is necessary that we should control the voice to a reflection of that phase of mind and mood which we desire to present. When we would convince people of our efficiency we must not permit a weak-kneed voice to stagger under the words. When our hearts go out in warmth and affection it cannot get far in a brass-lined, iron-bound voice. Conciliation is vain when the voice rings defiance.

Imagine yourself at a telephone when the instrument whirrs and wheezes. The most impassioned appeal to John to come home to dinner and meet Cousin Mary is likely to prove ineffectual. A message to "that brute of a dressmaker-man" who wants his money may be divided into the receiver with all dignity of tone and choice of word, but the wobbled reproduction at the other end does not go. You may use all your words when you are talking through the possessed wire to the business manager, but if the possessed wire is in a creaky fit the business manager does not get the right idea at all.

The truth is that most of us are always talking through a telephone. The honest will, the courteous intent, the high heart of courage, speaks clear and sweet and strong, but the muffled, wheezy, creaky, thin, unnatural colorless result at our lips misrepresents us, and John doesn't, the dressmaker-man insists, and the business manager gives the other fellow the job.

What can we do about it? The difficulty is almost always first a voice habit—a color the voice has taken on from some prevailing tint in our life. This is so with almost everyone. This stain of the natural voice color is not voice individuality; it is a modifying of voice individuality, an obscuring of it. It is a habit—not a characteristic. It must be gotten rid of.

Only just what you want must go into your voice. Think of that a little. When you call to the child who stands on the edge of a fall, shall your panic go into your voice, or just the reassuring note of gentle authority that you know will bring the child to you, instead of starting him over the dreadful edge? When you interview the insubordinate cook, shall your sense that she very well deserved to be thrown out of your back door and her trunk on top of her prevail in your voice, or your earnest desire to keep her in hand till after the impending dinner? When you face just the personality in your world who holds at the minute your fortunes in his gift, shall your sick sense that he does not know and may not believe in your fitness for what you are going to ask, color your voice, or shall your firm belief that you can fill the place characterize it? That is the whole question. Shall your voice vibrate to such a quality of your mood as you choose, or shall it be at the mercy of just what will do you injustice in the mind of those who hear?—Werner's Magazine.

Small Diamonds the Best.

There are more perfect small diamonds than there are perfect large ones, and where a man gets together a collection of perfect diamonds he is most likely to have a collection of small ones. Thus the diamonds owned by Americans are not, as a rule, so large as the ones owned in Europe. Artificial light enables the European diamond wearer to wear his big stones that are not altogether perfect.—N. Y. Sun.

WITH WOOD IN CUBA

Governor Continues His Tour of Inspection.

GUANTANAMO'S WATER PRAISED.

A Large Sugar Plantation Visited. Owner Needs More Help—Troops, Jails and Public Buildings Carefully Examined.

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Jan. 31.—Governor General Wood, on board the Ingalls, left Santiago with his party shortly after midnight and arrived at dawn yesterday off Caimanera. A special train brought the party to Guantanamo. Accompanied by General Chaffee and Colonel Black the governor general visited the new waterworks about six miles out among the hills. He expressed himself as much pleased with arrangements that give Guantanamo a perfect water supply. Formerly water was sold in the streets from house to house.

Colonel Burton, inspector general of the division of Cuba, inspected the troops and barracks. Meanwhile the ladies of the party made a tour of the principal sights and points of interest.

At noon a special train took the governor general and most of his companions to Spiedad, one of the largest sugar plantations in Cuba, where the plant cost more than $1,000,000 and some 700 men are employed. Mr. Ernest Brooks, the proprietor, says the output this year is more than double that of last year and is indeed almost normal. He has no difficulty in finding work for all who wish it and is actually in need of more help than he can get. Fully 5 per cent of those now working on the plantation were there before the war.

After breakfasting at the house of Mr. Brooks on deer and wild fowl killed in the morning the party returned to Guantanamo, arriving at 3 o'clock.

The jail, hospital and public buildings were then visited, after which there was an inspection of troops and police.

Two Bodies Saved From the Wreck.

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 31.—After a search covering two days the life saving patrol men yesterday recovered two bodies from the wreck of the oyster schooner Nausett. Patrolman Burns of the Watch Hill station saw the body of a man on the beach yesterday. Later it was identified as that of Captain Marquis of Dighton, who accompanied Marks, the owner of the schooner, on the trip on which she was lost. During the afternoon the body of one of the Marks boys was taken from the surf by E. F. Nash of the Watch Hill station. The body of Marks and the other boy are still missing.

Ohio Antitrust Law Constitutional.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—The supreme court has handed down a decision which sustains what is generally known as the Valentine-Stewart antitrust law, which prohibits the combination of companies or firms for illegal purposes which are therein outlined. The decision is given in a demurrer filed by the Standard Oil company on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. The litigation was that instituted by Attorney General Monnett against the Standard Oil, Buckeye Pipe Line and Solar Refining companies.

Hal Pointer Returns Home.

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—The famous old champion pacer Hal Pointer, whom Geers drove to the then famous record of 2:04½, has been shipped back to East Aurora, N. Y., and will spend the rest of his days at the Village farm, a pensioner of his former owners, the Hamlins. Last autumn Hal Pointer was purchased by Charles H. Fee of Detroit for $600. Yesterday Mr. Fee sold him to Harry Hamlin of Buffalo for the same price.

Clark Case Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—When the senate committee on privileges and elections adjourned its hearing yesterday of the charges made against Senator Clark of Montana in connection with his election to the United States senate, it was understood that the defense would be prepared to proceed with its witnesses not later than Monday next.

General Davis Reaches Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 31.—Governor General George W. Davis has arrived here. He was welcomed by a crowd of 2,000 persons, who thronged the wharfs. The people, through press circulars, announce that they owe General Davis a debt of gratitude for his honestly expressed opinions during his visit to Washington.

Cotton Mill Strike.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The weavers in the Newburg Steam mills, a cotton factory employing about 400 operatives, have struck in a body. About 150 men and women are idle. The remainder of the employees continued work. The strikers could not agree with the superintendent on the question of wages.

Mexican Ships Quarantined.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—United States Minister Swenson at Copenhagen has advised the state department that the Danish West Indian islands have declared a quarantine of 15 days against ships arriving from Mexico on the ground of smallpox in the latter country.

Noted Pastor Drops Dead.

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 31.—Rev. George F. Jenks, a Universalist clergyman of Chelsea, Mass., dropped dead yesterday. He was 73 years of age and for many years was an associate editor of The Christian Leader, the official organ of the Universalists.

Election Disturbances In Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 31.—Senor Cesario Alvim, prefect of the federal district, an office second only to that of president of the republic, has resigned. There have been serious disorders in all the states, due to the verification of the election returns.

French Archbishops Cut Off.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—As a result of the cabinet council Premier Waldeck-Rousseau has suspended the allowances of the archbishop of Aix, of the bishops of Versailles, Valence, Viviers, Tulle and Montpellier and of the vicar of Avignon.

Olympia to Be Repaired.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—The Globe says that within ten days orders from Washington for the work of repair to Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, and of rebuilding "Old Ironsides" will be received at the Charlestown navy yard.

IS INVASION FEARED?

British Cabinet Secretly Discusses Naval Plans.

TEN THOUSAND MEN DETAINED.

General Buller Claims to Have Found the Key to Ladysmith—A Plan to Invade Orange Free State Is Indicated.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—It is now known that the cabinet devoted much of its discussions on Saturday to the mobilization of the fleet. Nothing was settled except that until further security to the home coasts has been obtained by naval preparations the Eighth division shall not be sent to South Africa.

This decision to delay the Eighth division at a time when re-enforcements are so urgently required may only mean that transports are not yet available and that the division will embark when the shipping is ready.

The mobilization of reserve warships, if such a course shall be determined upon, would be of the utmost importance.

One thing is certain. Ten thousand men, all ready to go to South Africa, are detained for reasons of which the public has no knowledge.

Such scraps of information as can be gathered regarding the movements of the armies in the field seem to indicate that the relief of Ladysmith has been abandoned for the present and that a concentration of the British for an invasion of the Free State is in progress. In addition to General Kelly-Kenny's movement General Brabant, chief of the Cape colonials, has arrived at Sterkstroom.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing yesterday, says:

"General Buller on Monday read the following message from the queen to Sir Charles Warren's force:

"'I must express my admiration of the troops during the past trying week, especially of those regiments you specify, and of the accomplishment of your arduous march.'

"General Buller told the men that they ought not to think because they had retired from their position that all their work was of no avail. On the contrary, in his opinion, they had gained the key of the road to Ladysmith, in which he hoped to be within a week.

"General Buller then called for cheers for the queen, which were heard for miles around."

A dispatch from Sterkstroom, Cape Colony, says:

"General Kelly-Kenny's column has occupied Thebus Station, between Steynsburg and Rosmead."

The railway line on which Steynsburg and Rosmead are situated runs on the eastward of Steynsburg to Stormberg Junction, near which General Gatacre is operating. To the northward of Rosmead Junction, on another line of railway, is Colesberg, where General French now is. The place occupied by General Kelly-Kenny is, roughly, a hundred miles from General Gatacre's base of operations at Sterkstroom.

A dispatch from Pretoria, dated Jan. 27, says:

"A dispatch from Colesberg, Cape Colony, says Commandant Delarey reports that a large body of British advanced Thursday, Jan. 25, and he attacked them, causing the British to retire after suffering severe loss. The Boer casualties were two men slightly wounded.

"General Grobler reports heavy fighting since daybreak, the British in great force endeavoring to surround the Boer position. General Schoeman hastened to the assistance of General Grobler. General Schoeman returned this evening and reports that the British were repulsed and that the Boers maintained their positions. The Boer loss was four men slightly and one man severely wounded. The British loss is not known, but must be severe.

"The bombardment of Kimberley continues.

"The other Boer forces are reported quiet."

The queen's speech at the reassembling of parliament opened as follows:

"My Lords and Gentlemen—The peace which had recently been broken in South Africa when last I addressed you has unhappily not been restored, but otherwise my relations with other states are friendly. In resisting the invasion of my South African colonies by the South African Republic and Orange Free State my people have responded with devotion and enthusiasm to the appeal which I have made to them, and the heroism of my soldiers in the field and my sailors and marines who were landed to co-operate with them has not fallen short of the noblest traditions of our military history.

"I am deeply grieved that so many valuable lives should have fallen a sacrifice, but I have witnessed with pride and with heartiest gratification the patriotic eagerness and spontaneous loyalty with which my subjects in all parts of my dominions have come forward to share in the common defense of their imperial interests. I am confident I shall not look to them in vain when I exhort them to sustain and renew their exertions until they have brought this struggle for the maintenance of the empire and the assertion of its supremacy in South Africa to a victorious conclusion."

Many Vessels In Danger.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 31.—Monday night's storm swept Placentia bay with particular violence, forcing some 40 American vessels lying there and awaiting cargoes to put to sea in order to avoid being wrecked. Serious losses have resulted in the way of fishing gear along the coast, in addition to the destruction of a lot of herring in nets.

Leather Employees Strike.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The men employed in the Bay State Shoe and Leather company's factory at Sing Sing to the number of 150 are out on a strike. They say the company has been cutting down wages and discharging men. They now demand an increase in wages and the reinstatement of three men discharged last week.

The Governor Receives.

ALBANY, Jan. 31.—Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a reception at the executive mansion last night. The guests included a number of prominent New Yorkers, the state officers and their wives and the governor's personal friends in the legislature.

Senator Gear Better.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Senator John H. Gear of Iowa, who has been ill, is much improved, and his physicians say he will be able to leave his residence in a few days.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Assembly Will Object to Some Features of the Educational Bill.

ALBANY, Jan. 31.—That the assembly will object to a unification plan which will give the state board of regents the power to appoint the chancellor to preside over the unified school system developed at a conference held yesterday between Governor Roosevelt, Republican leaders in the legislature and representatives of the department of public instruction.

The assembly is averse to losing the power of appointment of the head of the common school system of the state. The sentiment seems to be in favor of the chancellor to govern the unified school system being elected by the senate and assembly as the members of the board of regents and the state superintendent of public instruction now are. It is said that Mr. Hills was upbraided at the conference by certain members of the legislature for being too lenient with the board of regents in framing a unification plan. It was stated that the board of regents was given too much in the proposed plan. It was likewise stated that the Horton academic law, which gives the board of regents the power to distribute certain moneys among high schools and academies, would be repealed. No decision was reached as to the plan to be adopted.

Assemblyman Weeks of New York appeared before the judiciary committee of the assembly in favor of his bill to amend the domestic relations law by abolishing common law marriage. He read from a number of textbooks showing that the present system had been condemned by all writers. The bill provides that a written contract of marriage must be signed by both parties. Mr. Weeks may amend his bill so as to provide that the marriage contract must be duly acknowledged before a notary.

Assemblyman Bryan has introduced a fire insurance bill which is to compel the companies to pay the full amount of insurance named in their policies in cases of total loss. The measure is designed to protect policy holders from the interposition of the appraising experts.

Among the bills introduced in the senate were the following:

Senator Graney, prohibiting the sale of liquor within a half mile of a camp meeting ground at any time when religious services are being held.

Senator Johnson, appropriating $5,000 for the erection of a monument to the One Hundred and Ninth regiment, New York volunteers, the monument to be erected upon the battlefield of Spottsylvania, the battlefield of Petersburg or in the national cemetery at Petersburg.

Senator Brackett, providing for the appointment of a deputy clerk for the appellate division of the supreme court, third department, by the justices of the court and fixing the salary of the clerk at $3,500 and the deputy clerk at $1,500 per year.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A slight earthquake shock was felt in Missouri.

The circulating libraries of Scranton, Pa., have been closed by the board of health.

By the overturning of a lamp by a dog two hotels at North Beach, N. Y., were destroyed.

The German steamer Remus was wrecked on the coast of Denmark, and 14 lives were lost.

The condition of Mrs. Platt, wife of Senator T. C. Platt, who is ill in Washington, is considerably improved.

The French cabinet decided on the naval bills, and they were introduced in the chamber of deputies by the premier.

Fredonia Votes Against License.

FREDONIA, N. Y., Jan. 31.—In a special election held here yesterday the town people voted against three of the four propositions of the Raines liquor law. The vote was an adverse one as regards hotels, saloons and stores and favorable as regard druggists. As a consequence the five hotels here will close on May 1. The result was brought about by the big fire of last Thursday, reports having been freely circulated that a gang of drunken men had started the blaze that destroyed a great part of the village.

Harvard Professor Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Chicago has been received here announcing the death of Charles Franklin Dunbar, professor of political economy at Harvard university. Professor Dunbar was a recognized authority on political economy and was widely known. He went to Chicago during the Christmas vacation to attend a convention and while there was taken ill. Professor Dunbar had been connected with Harvard since 1874. He was at one time managing editor of the Boston Advertiser.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Admiral Schley's flagship Chicago, the Montgomery and the Wilmington arrived at Montevideo Monday from Ensenada, having left the latter point on account of bubonic plague existing in that locality. They will be quarantined at Montevideo for the next five days. The Yankton has left Gibara for Port Antonio. The torpedo boat Dupont has sailed from Newport for New York. The supply ship Culgoa has arrived at Sydney.

Skirmish Near Subig.

MANILA, Jan. 31.—A scouting party of the Twenty-fifth infantry, while operating near Subig, was ambushed by the insurgents, and a lieutenant and three privates were killed and two or three privates wounded. A company some distance in the rear on hearing the firing hurried to the scene and recovered the bodies. The local papers assert, although the statement is not confirmed, that the insurgents lost 40 in killed and wounded.

Carload of Stamped Envelopes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The post office department is preparing to make the largest single shipment of stamped envelopes in the history of the department. They will be consigned to the New York postoffice and will require an entire freight car to transport them. The number to be shipped is 2,910,000, and their value is $50,957.

Nicaraguan Minister Robbed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Report was made to the police that Minister Lewis F. Corea of Nicaragua had been robbed on a Pullman car while on his way to Washington from Jersey City of two $50 bills and a scarfpin.

Weather Probabilities.

Snow and much colder; brisk to high west to northwest winds.

Dress Slasher Pleads Guilty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Herman M. Krebs, who was arrested on the charge of slashing women's dresses, has pleaded guilty in nine cases. Sentence was suspended until an examination can be made into the prisoner's mental condition and other circumstances regarding him. The prisoner confessed to detectives that he was guilty in 18 cases. He is accused of having committed similar acts in New York and Philadelphia.

Injured Student Dies.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 31.—John F. Lonergan of Albany, the Cornell student who was badly hurt in escaping from the Delta Chi fraternity fire here, died at 6 o'clock last night as the result of his injuries. His body will be removed to Albany today. He was a member of the freshman law class and was 19 years old.

To Thwart the Paper Trust.

Publishers throughout the country are beginning to feel the effect of the monopolistic prices put on print paper by the Paper Trust, and aggressive steps are being taken to bring about some action that will result in re-establishing a scale of prices that are guaged in accordance with "live and let live" business principles. In this connection the Colorado Editorial Association has followed up the action taken by the Pennsylvania editors by unanimously agreeing to resolutions demanding the repeal of the tariff duties on wood pulp and paper. They also invite the publishers of the country to send representatives to the convention of the National Editorial Association, which is to be held in New Orleans February 26th, in order that a more aggressive demand may be made for immediate Congressional action.

Discussing the matter, the Philadelphia Record says: "The cost of white paper has been advanced in the West from 97 to 110 per cent. in the past two years, and has made such serious inroads upon the profits of many newspapers as to seriously curtail their usefulness. There is undoubtedly a legitimate reason for part of the advance in the price of paper growing out of the enormous demand and the increasing cost of wood pulp, as there have been similar advances in the prices of nearly all manufactured staples; but the tariff duties enable the Paper Trust to push the price beyond the level of the general outside market. Access to the forest supplies of Canada has become a necessity because of our own failing resources. The paper and pulp duties are in the nature of a tax on intelligence; they never should have been exacted, and the sooner they shall be repealed the better."

The only direct State tax in New Jersey is the school tax and it has long been the hope of certain statesmen to abolish this tax as a beginning in this direction. Senator Foster, of Hunterdon county, has proposed a bill appropriating $200 000 annually to be distributed by the State Treasurer among the wards and townships of each county. At present the school tax is collected by the taxing district, it being assessed or apportioned upon each district by the County Board of Assessors each year, and then turned over to the State. The money so collected increases the local tax rate about 33 per cent. and means, virtually, that each taxing district pays for the maintenance of its own schools. In fact, some districts, by the apportionment made by the State under the present system, aid materially in maintaining the schools in the more sparsely settled school districts of the State. The total school tax of the State is about $2 000 000 annually.

Philadelphia is contradicting its reputation of being the City of Brotherly Love by the squabbling and bickering that is ensuing over the matter of holding the National Republican convention there this year. A promise of a gift of $100 000 to the Republican National committee in return for deciding to hold the convention in Philadelphia has brought it all about. Thus far but $30,000 of the proposed sum has materialized, and there appears to be great trouble in raising the remainder of the sum. Probably realizing the fact that politicians make platforms for the purpose of getting into office only, Philadelphians have proceeded on the same general principle and only made financial assurances to the Republicans in order to get the convention, believing that the carrying out of promises could be evaded.

In discussing diplomatic matters of this country many newspapers and public men refer to the Peace Treaty negotiated at Hague last summer and cite its provisions as an argument for the administration to do this or that. It is a fact, however, that President McKinley and his administration are unable at the present time to take official recognition of the Hague Peace Treaty for the simple reason that the Senate has not yet ratified it. Senator Mason, of Illinois, intends making an effort to force action on the Hague Treaty with the view of opening the way for this Government to offer its good offices toward procuring peace in the Transvaal.

The Philadelphia Press cannot see any new reason why Canada should play the dog in the manger with regard to Alaska or any other United States question, and says: "If Canada is to take advantage of Great Britain's imperial necessities, and in exchange for a handful of troops sent to South Africa is to enact an anti-American policy from the British government, it is time the United States puts its foot down, and firmly. Whenever the United States and imperial British government were about to come to any agreement Canadian intrigue began its evil work to defeat the high purposes of both countries."

A bound set of newspaper obituaries of the late lamented Vice-President has been delivered to Mrs. Hobart. The obituaries fill three volumes of 130 pages each. The material was restricted to the editorial utterances of first-class publications. Democratic and Populistic, as well as Republican papers, were taken without distinction and in them all there was no word concerning Mr. Hobart that was not kindly. The clippings were selected from 5,816 editorials published throughout the United States. More than 20,000 publications were read for the work.

Most people regard those who enjoy a foreign trip as blessed with extraordinary supply of the world's goods, and if this consideration is a sound one there must have been twice as many prosperous people in the United States in 1899 as there was in 1898. According to the reports of the State Department the passport business was increased more than 100 per cent during the last month as compared with the month of January in 1898. The number of passports issued in the month of January, 1900, was 1,100, against 680 in January, 1898.

Those who have a fine appreciation of the dignity attaining to the office of President of the United States will probably think it rather indecorious to refer to the age of Mr. McKinley as more than seven, but be that as it may it will be interesting to know that the President has seen an even half-century of years more than seven. In a word, Mr. McKinley celebrated his fifty seventh birthday Sunday.

When two or more persons have wants that can be mutually satisfied the interested persons should be brought together, says the Philadelphia Record. The merchant wants customers, and the public is anxious to know where to purchase. Advertising brings the seller and the buyer into close business relationship, to the benefit of both.

Republican leaders in Washington are considering the proposal by Congress of a constitutional amendment putting trusts under government control as a means of taking the issue out of the coming political campaign.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 31.—At Monday evening's meeting of Court DuneHen, Independent Order of Foresters, it was decided to hold a literary and musical entertainment Wednesday evening, February 14th. The affair will be held in one of the large rooms at the Lincoln School building. It will be only for members of the order and their families.

Patrons of the trolley cars are still complaining of the poor service by way of connections that are made between the cars of the Brunswick Traction Company and those of the Plainfield Street Railway. It often happens that though a car may be in sight of the terminal the car of the other line will leave the starting point before the arrival of the approaching car.

A notice posted in the postoffice at this place requests the writer of a letter addressed to "Miss Cora Ganswyk Rahway, N. J," on November 8, to communicate with the postmaster at Oak Tree.

There are letters advertised at the postoffice for Mrs. J. H. Hoffman and Miss Nan Waldron.

Miss Ethel Jamison has returned from a visit with friends at Englewood.

John P. Apgar, of North avenue, is confined to his home by illness.

The infant child of George Huffman is seriously ill.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, January 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frentz, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. Frentz's parents, have returned to their home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ola Johanson and family have moved from the Dobbin's cottage on Front street to the A. D. Shepard house on the same street.

Rev. G. M. Shott will continue the evangelistic meetings in the Baptist church every evening this week but Saturday evening.

The skating on Marsh's lake is fine again, and the young people are enjoying the skating every day.

Mrs. Albert Darby, of Plainfield, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. John R. Marsh, Tuesday.

Miss Jennie Frentz was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, at Plainfield, yesterday.

Mrs. George Schick has returned from a visit of several days with New Brunswick friends.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 31—Suit has been commenced by Charles E. Burtis to eject Harry Edwards from the building known as "The Castle," corner of North and Central avenues, this place. Edwards and his family of four small children are in destitute circumstances, and have been so for some time, but the poor authorities will take no steps to give them public relief. The suit for ejectment has been brought to force the officials to take some action in the matter or leave the family on the highway.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

South Plainfield, Jan. 31.—Al Manning is building an addition on Mrs. Hogan's house. It will contain four nice rooms.

George Smith is running an engine at the storage ground at night lately. He works part of the day in the shop for Mr. Laing.

The crossing over the Lehigh Valley Railroad at the station has some very rough places in it.

The blacksmiths of this place were kept very busy since the icy roads came.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The skating on the river at Cranford is now the best it has been this winter.

—At the meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., Friday evening, one candidate will receive the first rank.

—Business of importance to every member will be considered tomorrow evening at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.

—The regular meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held Friday afternoon next in the chapel.

—Next Sunday Captain Geo. D. Morrison will address the meeting of the Swedish Mission Society in the W. C. T. U. room, Babcock building, at 8 p. m.

—The Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the First Baptist church next Friday night will be of special interest and a cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

John Kernell and Tim Cronin, everybody's favorite comedians, are coming to amuse you. So get ready to laugh, and if you don't want to laugh, stay away, for Kernell and Cronin in their new Irish success, "What Happened to Reilly," which will be at Music Hall tomorrow night, cannot help it; it is their business to make you laugh. Everything is bright and new and up-to-date in this farce; it makes people laugh till their sides ache, and what more can any lover of amusement desire. As far as plot is concerned, there is little to speak of—and as high an authority as William Dean Howells has said that plot is not essential to the success of a play—but in its place there is wonderful life and bustle, and the jokes fall thick and fast to the accompaniment of song and dance; all of which are the main factors in a successful farce comedy.

* * * * *

What is promised to be one of the brightest of comedies in which a lot of clever folks make furious fun will be seen at the Music Hall Saturday matinee and night when Manager Lewis H. Frost's company of farceurs present "How Smith Met Jones." The story, and it runs through the entire play, relates the ambitions of a fashionable mama who in endeavoring to keep her darling daughter from falling in love actually helps her along. From what we are told we would infer that there is nothing stale about its lines, which sparkles with fun of the good sort and makes one laugh sixty times to the minute.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

"Dr." Smith, who was indicted in the Middlesex county courts for permitting his patients to bathe in Lawrence brook, the source of New Brunswick's water supply, is now living at Egg Harbor City, in Atlantic county. He claims to be 123 years old, and attributes his longevity to using the waters of Lawrence brook both for bathing and drinking purposes. Now the "Doctor" announces that the cedar swamp water of Atlantic county has the same marvelous powers, and by a free use of it he expects to prolong life indefinitely.

Two New Jersey women traveling in the White Mountains before the days of Health Board prohibitions against spitting on the floor of public conveyances, were much annoyed by two men who sat opposite and expectorated on the aisle of the car. After a time one of the women said to the men, "If you must do that, can't you do it out of the window?" A dignified silence followed which was broken after a few minutes by one man saying to the other, "My mother-in-law has gone to Washington." "Ah!" said the other, "How is that?" "Yes" answered the first speaker, "She has gone to Washington to get a pension—two cents for minding her own business, and two cents for letting other folks alone." It is needless to say even the reproving dame laughed, but the bad habit ceased.

* * * * *

According to the Red Bank Standard, Captain Charles Allen, of Middletown township, has in his possession a Spanish dollar of the date of 1762, which has a history attached to it. During and after the war of 1812 his grandfather, Captain John Patterson, lived upon Sandy Hook, at the head of Spermaceti Cove, where he kept a store of naval and general supplies. He was the father of eight children. Out of the first money that he could spare he put aside eight Spanish dollars, one for each of his children. About 1816 Captain Patterson bought a small farm opposite Red Bank in what is known as Blossom Cove. After moving to his new home Captain Patterson gave each of his children the silver dollar he had set aside for him or her. Captain Allen's mother kept her dollar until thirty-two years ago, when she gave it to her son. He in turn will give it to one of his children.

—The ice at Watchung yesterday was about six inches, hardly thick enough to cut. Inasmuch as the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company has gathered a large crop this year and the houses are nearly filled, this ice will not be cut unless it gets thicker. Otherwise it will not pay the company to cut it.

—It was reported in real estate circles in Morristown yesterday that negotiations were pending for the sale of Eugene Higgins' place known as "Glen Farm," to D. C. Flannagan, who is prominently interested in speedy horses. The half-mile track on the Higgins place is one of the desirable features sought by the prospective purchaser. The present owner, who is the multi-millionaire carpet manufacturer, occupies his Morristown place but rarely.

BRITISH BALLOONISTS WATCHING BOER MOVEMENTS.
Until quite recently efforts by the British to make use of balloons for spying purposes in South Africa have amounted to little. A marked improvement in this line is reported by General Lyttleton, who says the balloonists have given him valuable assistance. The map shows the passes through which the British have advanced from the Orange Free State.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oldenburg.

Ofternburg. Eine Wittwe Harms hatte beim Kartoffelschälen sich eine kleine Wunde am Daumen zugezogen. Später hatte sie an einem gefärbten Kleide zu thun. Von dem Farbstoff drang etwas in die Wunde, und es entwickelte sich Blutvergiftung. Die Frau wurde zum Hospitale geschafft, doch konnte die Gefahr nicht abgewendet werden. Die Frau starb nach wenigen Tagen.

Mecklenburg.

Eternberg. In Folge vielfacher Nachfrage hat sich die Direktion unseres Technikums entschlossen, zum 1. April außer den bisher schon bestehenden Abtheilungen für Hochbau-, Tief-, Eisenbahnbau und Tischler, von welchem die ersten drei je vier und die letztere drei Semester umfassen, noch eine Ziegelerschule und eine Maschinenbau- und Elektrotechnikerabtheilung einzurichten. Die Elektrotechniker- und Maschinenbauschule zerfällt in eine höhere für künftige Elektro- und Maschineningenieure (fünf Semester Studienzeit), eine mittlere für künftige Elektro- und Maschinentechniker (vier Semester) und in eine Werkmeisterschule (zwei Semester).

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Bad Nauheim. Der Geheime Medizinalrath Dr. Friedrich Bode, seit 1837 Badearzt, ist, 88 Jahre alt, gestorben.—Hier haben der Agent Groeber und seine Ehefrau wegen unglücklicher Vermögensverhältnisse gemeinsam Selbstmord begangen.

Bodenheim. Hier lebt die Wittwe Cordini aus Caub, die jetzt in ihr 103. Lebensjahr getreten ist. Sie ist geboren 1797, kann sich also des seltenen Vorzugs rühmen, in drei Jahrhunderten gelebt zu haben. Die Frau ist noch verhältnißmäßig rüstig und trinkt alltäglich ein Glas Wein; sie wird nur dann ungehalten, wenn Fremde kommen, die sie ausfragen wollen.

Lampertheim. Neulich Mittags wurde auf der Station Bürstadt (Riedbahn) der 28 Jahre alte verheirathete Streckenarbeiter Wendel Anthes aus Groß-Rohrheim von dem Basel-Berliner D-Zug erfaßt und getödtet.

Offenbach. Eine sonderbare Ueberraschung bereitete in der Neujahrsnacht ein hiesiger Gastwirth seinen Gästen. Diese hatten sich, als die Uhr 12 schlug, erhoben, und riefen ein freudiges „Prosit Neujahr!“ Plötzlich ertönte ein Schuß und unterbrach den allgemeinen Jubel. Der Wirth hatte sich hinter seinem Büffet durch einen Schuß in die Schläfe getödtet.

Worms. Die Stadtverordneten beschlossen die Errichtung eines städtischen Elektrizitätswerkes und den Betrieb einer elektrischen Straßenbahn.

Bayern.

München. Das aus hervorragenden Finanzkräften der Rheinpfalz und der hiesigen Stadt bestehende Konsortium, das sich die Erbauung eines modernen Theaters an der äußeren Prinzregentenstraße zur Aufgabe gemacht hat, hat sich nunmehr endgiltig als Gesellschaft Prinzregententheater, Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, konstituirt. Die Gesellschaft wird mit der Ausführung dieses Projektes alsbald beginnen, und man hofft, daß dasselbe am 12. März 1901—dem 80. Geburtstage des Prinzregenten—dem Betrieb übergeben werden kann. Der Betrieb des neuen Theaters wird von der königlichen Hoftheater-Intendanz übernommen werden.—Nach der „Münchener Post“ starb eine Arbeiterin der Roßhaarspinnerei Neufreimann an Milzbrandvergiftung.

Aschaffenburg. Dieser Tage starb hier die Wittwe des Appellationsgerichtsrathes Schipp. Ihrem Dienstmädchen, das 24 Jahre lang treue Dienste geleistet hatte, vermachte sie testamentarisch verschiedene Zimmereinrichtungen und den Betrag von 10,000 Mark.

Bamberg. Die Kommission der städtischen Kollegien erklärte in einer ihrer letzten Sitzungen die Unterhandlungen mit der Straßenbahngesellschaft wegen Errichtung einer städtischen elektrischen Kraftcentrale für abgebrochen. Man geht nun wieder daran, ein selbstständiges Werk zu errichten, das mit Dampfmotoren betrieben und mit einem vorläufigen Anlagekapital von 500,000 Mark ausgestattet werden soll.

Eichstädt. Zwei hiesige Gymnasiasten der vierten Klasse, die zu den Buren wollten, wurden in Hamburg kurz vor Abgang eines Schiffes abgefangen und nach Hause transportirt.—Hier fiel der Brauerlehrling Johann Markgraf in die Braupfanne und verbrannte sich derart, daß er anderen Tages starb.

Kaisheim. Der bisherige Hausverwalter der hiesigen Strafanstalt, Franz Xaver Glecker, wurde, als des Meineides verdächtig, verhaftet und in das Untersuchungsgefängniß Donauwörth abgeliefert.

Paul Ludlam of Millville, N. J., Manager of a large pharmacy in that prosperous town, says that one of the medicines most frequently called for is RIPANS TABULES. He has customers who believe in them as the greatest remedy for all ills of the stomach and he knows others who have been cured by them and constantly speak their praise. One notable case is that of a prosperous farmer, who has an immense place about eight miles away and who drives into town every now and then to renew his supply of RIPANS TABULES. He told Paul that he had been a sufferer from indigestion and biliousness for several years and old house-wife remedies failed to cure him. "I am not so situated that I can call on a Doctor every time I am affected," said he, "and were it not for RIPANS TABULES I would not be able to get along with comfort. I began to take them over a year ago and they have invariably aided me. They have practically accomplished a cure of what has been a most severe case of chronic dyspepsia." Not alone in the great cities, but in thousands of towns and hamlets as well, are the virtues of RIPANS TABULES known, recognized and appreciated as a friend to man. The story of this farmer who would drive eight miles on a country road to reach the nearest drug store twice every month to renew his supply of RIPANS TABULES is only one instance out of thousands of their wide appreciation.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

Amateurs at Billiards

The Possible Competitors at the Tournament to be Given by the Central Association of the Amateur Athletic Association.

WHEN the Central association of the Amateur Athletic union announced its intention to give a class A amateur billiard championship for the west and middle west, followers of the gentlemen's game began to cast about for men who would be eligible to compete. One figure stands out in great prominence—Clem Ellison, the oldest real amateur in the United States, in point of time put in playing in competitions. Since 1865 Mr. Ellison has played billiards and he holds the title of champion of Illinois. This honor he gained in a tournament held in 1894. This tourney was a 14-inch balk line competition and he got a high run of 74 and a grand average for the whole tournament of so much over seven that I can safely call it eight. No amateur in the west can defeat Ellison, it is thought, and it is doubtful whether Poggenburg, the recent winner of the Slosson-Daly loving cup trophy, or even Mullen, Foss or McCreery could make a better showing than this veteran.

"Play a little every day and you will win the class A championship," said one of Ellison's acquaintances to a player whose future is thought to be bright.

"If I played eight hours a day for eight years I would not get that good," was the retort. Mr. Ellison pricked up his ears at this. "I did more than that, I am afraid, young man, to get good enough to play 18-inch balk line. Thirty-five years of playing, averaging over an hour a day, would be near my record, I guess."

Practice, practice and then practice, appears to be the slogan of all the billiardists, yet the billiard world is soon to be confronted with the situation—the professional is a thing of the past and the amateurs will never be able to supply men to fill the shoes of the late Frank Ives, "Wizard" Jacob Schaefer, "Student" George Slosson and the numerous shortstops, in which division are included Carter, Catton, Jevne, Daly, etc. Reluctantly, yet manfully, the remaining adherents of the game who once took part in the general enthusiasm over great professional contests admit that the closing of the year 1899 marked the certain passing of the professional. It is the amateur's year. Yet the men who will gain fame in this department will never become known as great professionals. When the contingency is reached—the time when there are no longer any professionals of note—men will play billiards for iron crosses, silver and gold medals and for the pleasure they derive from a friendly contest.

"Columns may be written about the definition of the real amateur," said

C. F. CONKLIN.

Clem Ellison when I pressed him for a talk on the subject. "but the fact remains that if amateur tournaments are to be held the definition of the term 'amateur' must be made liberal, and when once defined must not be departed from, as in the recent case of the Amateur Athletic union, whose ruling was elastic enough to permit almost any player needed to fill in a place, to contest as an amateur.

"Professionals of note have never graduated from amateur tournaments or championships. They have come from the ranks of the young men who played from billiard halls. Unless a natural born player has had the opportunity and experience that comes from years of employment in a billiard hall—in the atmosphere of billiards—he cannot attain the high place that has come to several. To sleep on a billiard table, so to speak, is necessary to secure perfection in that line of skill. Roomkeepers in the United States have gradually worked away from the practice of engaging white boys to attend to tables and the colored men who are now generally found in the room are not the kind of men that will make champions."

Mr. Ellison is such a strict amateur that he remarked recently that if the Cherry Circle amateur billiard tournament for the championship were to be held in March, he would enter to play, only if his business would permit him to compete without losing time. He would not permit friends to donate a dollar towards repaying him for the time he might lose from his avocation. There were six years in Mr. Ellison's life—from 1882 to 1888—that he lived on a farm in South Dakota, and the billiard matches he played during that period on the "roly-poly" tables of the agricultural towns out on the treeless prairie would make interesting reading, to followers of the game, if they were written with all the humor that must have surrounded them.

C. F. Conklin, who will represent the west in a championship if it is played next March, has gathered great laurels of late in his balk line game. He is a young man and is a stereotyper by trade. For seven years he has been playing with good results, his business affording him much leisure time to click the ivories, and from a player with an average of two he has become known as a 5½ man, although he comes nearer seven most times. Many of the tournaments given by Clark were captured by Conklin. It was in a match with Your Uncle Adrian Anson, at 18-inch balk line, that Conklin showed championship form. He not only defeated Anson, but showed a grand average of 7 1-20. Then Orn Morningstar, a professional of some repute, was beaten at 18-inch balk line with an average a fraction better. If the A. A. U. supervision of the coming championship is as strict as the letter of its law defining an amateur, Conklin might be disbarred from competing because he played this match with Morningstar, a professional. However, that would be straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel to debar Conklin.

Another promising amateur in the western list is Al Taylor, who a year ago landed second in the class B tournament in New York. Followers of billiards regard him as an amateur, but unfortunately for the promoters of the western championship Taylor may not be eligible to play as an amateur on account of having become the proprietor of a billiard hall. Taylor began to play difficult billiards when but 16 years of age. His conception of the intricate points of balk line is such that he will become one of the best players of the times. Straight rail, eight-inch and 14-inch balk line tournaments have been won by this young man with an easy, graceful yet convincing style that has gained for him the place of scratch in his tournaments.

There will be enough amateurs for the A. A. U. championship without taking in a certain much discussed player who is credited with having played under assumed names for the purpose of throwing off their guard various susceptible people who were credulous enough to believe that he could not play 18-inch balk line. A young player who is not known much outside of a circle of friends that have watched his work in the Foley amateur handicap at 14-inch balk line is Thomas Nolan. He is said to have a draw shot that is marvelous in its accuracy and as prettily played as Schaefer could do it, besides possessing much knowledge of the finer points of the game. He is kept busy in the mercantile house with which he is connected and might be induced to pit himself against would-be champions if the style of the game was 14-inch balk line. E. G. WESTLAKE.

Spectra of Hot Stars.

Sir Norman Lockyer describes the order of appearance of metals in the spectra of hot stars. Helium appeared first, then hydrogen, then magnesium, calcium, oxygen, nitrogen, carbon and silicon, followed by copper and iron in the protometallic form. This term protometallic was given because the lines were only associated in terrestrial work with extremely high temperatures. Assuming that the substance of lowest atomic weight appeared first in a spectrum, we must suppose magnesium and calcium as we know them to be molecular forms of proto-elements which dissociated at higher temperatures into atoms of smaller mass. —Chicago Tribune.

Problems for L. A. W.

The National Assembly Will be Called Upon to Face Grave Questions at the Annual Session in February.

AS SOON as Billy and I came together on Monday evening we began to discuss the latest pugilistic event in New York. Although I am a humane person, opposed to bloodshed and distressed by any sight of bodily suffering, I must confess that I take more or less interest in those physical culture exhibitions, sometimes known as prize fights.

I have attended a few in my time, merely to satisfy myself that the exhibition was as brutal as it had been described, and I find that when the two men begin to fly at each other I become greatly excited and want to see one or the other reduced to a pulp.

In making this confession I do not admit that I am a depraved person, as my observation goes to show that the more kind and gentle a man may be in every-day life, the more wildly does he become excited at a glove contest. He usually stands up in a chair and howls, and wants to see more bloodshed.

I was talking to Billy somewhat in this strain and he agreed with me fully.

"I guess when you come right down to it, nearly everybody gets waked up a little when there's a big fight comin' off," he said. "Now you take the Prof and his sister up at the house. You'd think if there wuz two people on earth that didn't have no use for pugs, they'd be the two. And I guess they think they're down on 'em, too. I remember one day Prof was readin' the evenin' paper an' he kicked becuz there wuz two columns in there about prize fighters. He said the editor o' that paper must think that people wuz a lot of savages to be interested in what two brutes done to each other. Oh, he made it strong! Then about a month ago, just before McGovern and Dixon got together, they beefed a good deal becuz there wuz too much prize fight stuff in the papers. I wuz afraid there for awhile they'd chop off readin' the newspapers altogether, but they didn't. As far as I wuz concerned, I couldn't get too much of it. I had two dollars up on McGovern an' wuz all excited. Now, you know, the night o' the fight I went down to hear the bulletins come in. I wuz right up in the front row, sweatin' an' rootin' from the ring o' the bell to the end o' the last round. When McGovern won out I certainly wuz glad. Well, I collected my coin an' pulled out for home for fear I might get reckless an' begin to spend it. You know I've got a room at the back o' the house up over the kitchen there, an' I go in the side door to get to it. When I come up the walk I see the Prof and his sister settin' in the front room readin'. I went in easy an' wuz makin for the stairway when Prof called to me to come in there—said he wanted to see me."

"Something important, no doubt," I suggested.

"Say, I was on to him in a minute," said Billy. "He may be a purty wise gazaboo when it comes to mixin' up dope in a lab'atory, but he can't fool me when he begins to beat around to get the news from a prize fight. He thought he wuz very much Johnny Smooth, though. When I went in the front room he started out by askin' me if the mare didn't need to be shod. I told him I'd had her shod just the week before that. Then he wanted to know if we had plenty of hay in the barn. I said we wuz runnin' a little short, but I'd ordered some. Then his sister asked me about the weather outside. I told her it had cleared up an' didn't look like rain at all. Say, it wuz funny. Prof didn't want to know nothin' about the mare or the hay an' his sister knew all the time what the weather wuz. They wuz just killin' time an' waitin' for me to tell 'em how the fight come out, becuz they knew mighty well I'd been downtown to get the news. I knew what they wanted, easy enough, but I wouldn't 'a told 'em for anything in the world unless they come out an' asked me. But neither one of 'em wanted the other one or me to think for a minute that anybody cared for a brutal old prize fight. Prof was achin' to hear all about it, but didn't want to show his hand."

"So he didn't find out?" I inquired.

"You bet he found out. The Prof's a purty foxy boy. After he'd talked about everything else he turned to me, as if he'd just happened to think of it, an' says: 'Oh, by the way, this is the night they're havin' that shameful prize fight in New York, isn't it?' I told him it wuz. 'I hope the police stopped it,' says the sister. I never peeped. 'Did they?' she asked, after a little while. 'No, ma'am,' I says, an' let it go at that. If they found out I wuz goin' to make 'em ask. 'I suppose it wuz a brutal affair,' says the Prof, lookin' at me as if to say: 'Well, why don't you go on an' tell us all about it?'

KNEW ALL ABOUT M'GOVERN.

"'It wuz a Jim-dandy,' I says. 'Wuz either man badly hurt?' he asks me. 'Both of 'em got it good,' I says. 'Knocked senseless, I dare say?' is the way he put it then. I simply says 'No.' He couldn't stand it any longer, so he up an' asks me pointblank: 'Who won?' an' I told him McGovern. At that the sister forgot, an' shouted out: 'I just knew he'd win, becuz he's taller an' heavier.' That's a purty fair crack for a church lady that hates prize fightin', don't you think?"

"Then before they got through I suppose you had to tell them the whole story of the fight?" I said.

"You know it. They wanted to know if either man got knocked down and whether Dixon seemed to have the best of it at any stage, an' so on. It wuz a dead give away for them. They knew more about the fighters than I did. There wuz Prof's sister, a nice, motherly old girl that had been roastin' the tar out of all prize fighters, that knew just how much McGovern weighed, an' had it all figgered out why he wuz goin' to win. Oh, I'll tell you, when you come right down to it, we're all a little sporty an' it will crop out now an' then, no matter how hard we go to church every Sunday an' try to roast boxin' shows an' let themselves be interviewed so they tell how they're down on these brutal exhibitions. THE CUBAN ENGINEER CORPS.

Red Lemonade It Came from and to Red Lemonade It Had to Return.

"I noticed in the papers the other day," said an ex-volunteer soldier, "that an old street corner telescope man had got into a comical row with a lot of newsboys. The item was of no special importance, but it recalled a singular character I met when I was with the army down in Cuba. He was known as 'Col. Todd, chief of the Cuban engineer corps,' and, although he was engaged in selling red lemonade on the plaza in Havana, when I first encountered him, the title was bona fide. Possibly you remember the once famous 'Florida expedition' that sailed from Tampa with men and supplies for the insurgents shortly before we declared war. Well, the junta agent who had the affair in charge was especially anxious to secure a corps of engineers, but he was unable to find anybody in that line who was willing to go. The night before the expedition sailed he happened to notice a telescope man on a street corner selling peeps at the moon for five cents a squint. Business seemed to be dull, and the agent had an inspiration. Here was an astronomer in hard luck. An astronomer was necessarily something of a mathematician, and a mathematician was, or ought to be, more or less of an engineer. By that process of reasoning he arrived at the conclusion that the telescope man was exactly the person to fit the job of chief engineer of the army of Cuba. In two minutes he had made his proposition and it was accepted on the spot. The telescope man's name was Todd, and the agent immediately brevetted him colonel and chief of corps. At first he was a little nervous and said he was afraid the engineers in the corps would kick about being under his command. 'Rest easy, colonel,' said the agent, blandly; 'you are the corps.' That settled it, and he went over, his uniform consisting of a cap he got from a trolley car conductor. After that, when the war correspondents referred to 'the newly organized engineer corps of the patriotic army' they were really referring to Col. Todd. Shameful to relate, no provision was made for him at the conclusion of hostilities, and he was obliged to fall back on red lemonade. Maybe ere now he has purchased another telescope."—N. O. IMMUNITY FROM PLAGUE.

Certain Races That Have Strangely Escaped the Bubonic Pestilence.

Apropos of the bubonic plague now creeping into Portugal, has it ever been noticed in what an erratic manner immunity from this disease seems to have conferred upon certain races and sects? Thus in 1584 it was noticed that the Protestants of Lyons escaped almost to a man. So did the Jews in an outbreak at Nimeguen in 1736. Something of the same sort has been noticed with regard to other diseases, for while in the outbreak of typhus at Langoens in 1824 the Jews remained immune, their coreligionists in Poland have always been the first to catch cholera. But the strangest thing in connection with the plague is that in most cases the seeds of the disease seem to remain dormant in the systems of those exposed to the risk of contagion until some new epidemic calls them into activity.

Procopius, who observed the plague in Consiantinople pretty closely during Justinian's reign, declares that if persons born in an infected town settled in a town hitherto free from it they were sure to be the first attacked if the plague again visited the country, even after the lapse of several years. A similar fact was noted during the Nimeguen outbreak, where two children of one Van Dam were sent to the immune town of Goreunen and remained there in perfect health for three months. At the end of that time the plague came to Goreunen, and they died there at the same time as the rest of their family.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, Jan 4th, 1900, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholders Adams, King and Miller.

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted), were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS ETC.

From W. F. Brower, of New Providence, as follows:

Dec. 16 1899.

Mr. J. Frank Hubbard, Director Union County Board of Freeholders, Elizabeth, N. J.:

DEAR SIR: I have made several complaints to the county road committee of a great injustice done me, from which serious damages will arise, and can apparently obtain no satisfaction from said committee.

I therefore appeal to the board that justice may be done, and no damage result, thereby saving the county expense, as I hereby give notice that I shall hold the county responsible for all damages I may sustain. The case in question is as follows:

The Presbyterian church of the borough of New Providence, N. J., private property situate on Springfield avenue, in which is a large pond hole, into which sewerage from sewer at houses empty (report of inspector of the Board of Health of the borough of New Providence, N. J.). The board of trustees of said church claim that the county road committee gave permission to drain said pond hole through pipes laid in gutter line running parallel along the north side of said road to a point within a few feet of my property, resulting in the throwing of the water on me, thereby injuring me.

I hope that you will give this matter due consideration, and inform me if the board sanctions the act of the county road committee, giving the trustees of the Presbyterian church said permission.

Awaiting an early reply, I am, most respectfully,

Yours very truly,
W. F. Brower.

Freeholder Roll, chairman of the county road committee, said that the matter was one for which the county was not at all liable; he did not think that permission to lay pipe as stated had ever been granted; if the pond hole mentioned had been filled up, and persons in the neighborhood of Mr. Brower had not closed a natural water course, the present trouble would not exist.

Freeholder Wahl said that he thought permission to lay the said drain had been granted, and after some further discussion the communication was received and placed on file.

From Cranford Township Committee as follows, viz:

Cranford Jan 3, 1900.

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen: The township committee of the township of Cranford, having received an application for the construction of a sewer in North avenue, from a present sewer at Lincoln avenue, to the boundary line of Westfield township, respectfully ask permission of your honorably board to build said sewer within the roadway of said North avenue, between the above named points.

The macadam pavement in said avenue is not to be disturbed, as it is the intention to build near the gutter line of said avenue. Awaiting your reply,

Yours truly,
John H Cromwell,
Chairman of the Township Committee of the Township of Cranford.

Attest:
S T. Marshall, Township Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Robison received and referred to the county road committee with power.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By committe to settle with the county collector:

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan 4th, 1900.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your committee to settle with the county collector respectfully report that they have examined his books, showing his receipts and disbursements, together with his vouchers, bonds and coupons paid and bankbooks, and we find the same agree and are correct in every particular.

His total receipts from May 10, 1899, to November 15, 1 99, were $220.88 60; disbursements were $145,414 31; balance on hand, $75.145 29.

Respectfully submitted,
Benjamin King, Jacob Brucklacher, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Farrell:

Resolved, That a legislative committee of three be appointed by the director to look after the interests of the county during the coming session of the Legislature.

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Farrell, Roll and Brucklacher.

By Freeholder Scudder:

Resolved, That Charles H. French's bill for Middlesex street bridge, in Westfield, amount $:74, be paid when approved by the committee.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Wahl:

Resolved, That the bill of W. T. Kirk for $225, contract for iron bridge in New Providence borough, be paid when properly audited by the committee.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was adopted unanimously.

The following bills, properly audited and approved were read, and on roll call ordered paid, viz:

Women in Peru.

According to social usage, women in Peru cannot attend funerals, and they do not appear at weddings unless they are very intimate friends. When a funeral procession passes through the streets the coffin is carried upon the shoulders of the pallbearers, who are followed by an empty hearse drawn by two, four or six horses, according to the means of the mourners and their desire for display. All the male members of the family and friends of the deceased follow on foot, with a line of empty carriages behind them. As long as they are in the presence of the dead it is considered a proper and necessary evidence of respect to walk. After the body has been committed to the grave those who attend the funeral are brought home in carriages.—N. Y. Sun.—Chicago Daily News.

The Science of Dreams.

According to the recent studies of Sig. De Sanctis, of Turin, children begin to dream before their fourth year, but are unable to recall dreams before the age of four or five. This age, he concludes, is that at which a child first becomes distinctly conscious of self. Aged people dream less frequently and less vividly than the young. Women's dreams are more frequent, more vivid and better remembered than those of men. Criminals and delinquents dream much less frequently and much less vividly than other people. Two-thirds of the most depraved criminals examined by Sig. De Sanctis were never conscious of dreaming. This is ascribed to lack of mental activity.—Youth's Companion.

A GRIZZLY AT BAY.

Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson Tells an Anecdote of a Wild Animal He Has Known.

In the Century Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson relates "The Biography of a Grizzly," telling of the days of his strength. The story opens with this anecdote—which is grizzly in more senses than one:

Wahb's third summer had brought him the stature of a large-sized bear, though not nearly the bulk and power that in time were his. He was very light-colored now, and this was why Spahwat, a Shoshone Indian who more than once hunted him, called him the Whitebear, or Wahb.

Spahwat was a good hunter, and as soon as he saw the rubbing tree on the Upper Meteetsee he knew that he was on the range of a big grizzly. He bushwhacked the whole valley, and spent many days before he found a chance to shoot; then Wahb got a stinging flesh wound in the shoulder. He growled horribly, but it had seemed to take the fight out of him; he scrambled up the valley and over the lower hills till he reached a quiet haunt, where he lay down.

His knowledge of healing was wholly instinctive. He licked the wound and all around it, and sought to be quiet. The licking removed the dirt, and by massage reduced the inflammation, and it plastered the hair down as a sort of dressing over the wound to keep out the air, dirt and microbes. There could be no better treatment.

But the Indian was on his trail. Before long the smell warned Wahb that a foe was coming, so he quietly climbed farther up the mountain to another resting place. But again he sensed the Indian's approach and made off. Several times this happened, and at length there was a second shot and another galling wound. Wahb was furious now. There was nothing that really frightened him but that horrible odor of man, iron and guns, that he remembered from the day when he lost his mother; but now all fear of these left him. He heaved painfully up the mountain again, and along under a six-foot ledge, then up and back to the top of the bank, where he lay flat. On came the Indian, armed with knife and gun; deftly, swiftly keeping on the trail; gloating joyfully over each bloody print that meant such anguish to the hunted bear. Straight up the slide of broken rock he came, where Wahb, ferocious now with pain, was waiting on the ledge. On sneaked the dogged hunter; his eye still scanned the bloody spots or swept the woods ahead, but never was raised to glance above the ledge. And Wahb, as he saw this shape of Death, relentless on his track, and smelled the fearful smell, poised his bulk at heavy cost upon his quivering, mangled arm, there held until the proper instant came, then to his sound arm's matchless native force he added all the weight of desperate hate as down he struck one fearful, crushing blow. The Indian sank without a sound, and then dropped out of sight. Wahb rose, and sought again a quiet nook where he might nurse his wounds. Thus he learned that one must fight for peace; for he never saw that Indian again, and he had time to rest and recover.

They Knew What He Meant.

An ocean-going captain was so much given to using bad language that his first mate, in the laudable desire to reform his chief, made a bet with him that he could not do without swearing for a week. The captain was confident that he could. It went on all right for two or three days, until a bit of a squall came on, and the sailors were up aloft attending to their various duties. The captain was displeased with their work, and he stood it as long as he could in silence. Then he began to mumble under his breath, and finally he threw his cap on the deck and jumped on it. Even this did not relieve his feelings, so he shook his fist at the men aloft with an angry scowl and hissed: "Bless you, my dears! You know what I mean!"

TIGER WAS BURNED.

An Indian Boy's Presence of Mind Causes Great Rejoicing Among the People of His Village.

A widow in a village in India was called from her house one night by sickness, and she left at home her son nine years old. He was asleep when she went away, but after awhile he woke up and called out. Not receiving any answer, he got out of bed and struck a light. Then he went out on the street to see what had become of his mother. By and by, when he could not find her, he returned to the hut, but as he drew near he saw a tiger enter the door. The beast had come out of the jungle close by, and was looking for some one to carry off and devour. Instead of running away the boy advanced on tiptoe and closed the door and shut the tiger in. Then he began calling for help. The people came running to see what was going on, and as the tiger heard them he went dashing about the hut to find a way of escape. There were no windows, and the door was shut against him. In his leaping about the savage beast upset the candle, and as the hut was made of wood and grass it was soon ablaze. The people did not try to save it. It was a good way to destroy a tiger which had done them much damage, and they danced around the blazing hut and jeered at him as he howled and whimpered. In a few minutes the flames had overcome him and he was dead. The widow's home had been destroyed in destroying the tiger, but next day the villagers turned out and built her a new and better one, and some travelers who came along and heard the story gave the boy so much money that he was the richest lad in the village.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

TIGER ENTERED THE DOOR.

Takes Exercise by Proxy.

The ameer of Afghanistan is getting stout and the doctors have ordered him to take gentle exercise. But the ameer intends to carry out the orders with as little discomfort to himself as possible, judging from the carriage that has been built for him in London. The bulk of the propulsion of the vehicle will be done by two stalwart Afghans, who will pedal behind their sovereign and receive their orders through an unglazed window. When his highness feels so inclined he can assist in the work by pedaling two foot boards. He can do this while lounging on silk cushions and enjoying a smoke. This is his idea of exercise, and if it does not prove beneficial he will probably discharge and imprison his doctors.

Who Was Shot, Boys?

A duel was once fought by two men named Shott and Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not. In this case it is better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, but that Shott was shot notwithstanding. Circumstantial evidence is not always good. On trial it might appear that the shot Shott shot Nott, or it might be possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself, when the whole affair would be as at first, and Shott would be shot and Nott would be not. We think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott, but Nott; anyway, it is hard to tell who was shot.

Nature's Own Shoe Polish.

There is a species of plant growing in New South Wales whose showy flowers contain a very large quantity of gummy juice of a black, glossy tint. Chinese ladies use it in dyeing their hair and eyebrows, and every boot worn in Java is covered with the same liquid as blacking.

CROWDS IN NEW YORK.

Nothing Short of a Quarter of a Million Rush Makes Much of a Showing There.

New York is the only American city in which an ordinary crowd of strangers and sightseers does not make much showing. Thus 25,000 persons arriving simultaneously in any other city of the country make a difference forthwith, but in New York, or more properly the Manhattan Island part of it, 100,000 strangers add little to the outward appearance of the town, and even 200,000 can be accommodated without any change specially manifest on the streets. This is not due to the fact that New York is one of the largest cities territorially in the country, for it is not. Philadelphia, New Orleans, St. Louis and Chicago are each of them better able relatively to provide space for strangers than is New York, but in none of them can so large a crowd be accommodated as here. This is due to the geographical formation of New York, which is different from that of any other American city.

Strangers arriving in New York soon separate. Some are to be seen on Broadway; some on the Bowery; some in the lower part of town; perhaps as many in Harlem or on the river side as elsewhere. They are soon absorbed in the throng, and the addition of even a very large number of newcomers passes without much notice. Another reason for this condition of affairs is to be found in the fact that New York is one of the few cities, American or European, which has, practically, no Union station for incoming tourists. A majority of the strangers who come to New York enter the city on railroads having ferry connections. There are a dozen such lines, and each of them has two or more New York ferries. As a consequence the incoming stream of visitors is separated almost into fractions. Few arrivals in New York accommodate themselves at hotels or in lodgings with reference to their point of arrival, thus what is sometimes called the tourist class is dissipated throughout town in such detail as to avoid a great crowd anywhere. Still another reason for the almost phenomenal ability of New York to handle crowds is to be found in the fact that on occasions of public observance or entertainment, holidays, celebrations, parades less or public functions the ordinary business of the city is temporarily suspended in what are generally its busiest districts, Sixth avenue, Fourteenth street and Twenty-third street in the dry goods district; Wall street and its vicinity down-town; and some of the most thickly populated of the East side streets. Such thoroughfares become almost deserted when there is a holiday, and the persons employed in them are to be found on such days in or near their homes.

Still another reason for the absorption of the crowds in New York is to be found in the fact that unlike most cities there are no outlying territories on Manhattan Island exclusively devoted to residences from which in times of public interest residents come to add to the throng of sightseers. New York is, in fact, the city of thoroughfares, and not the least important of these are along the water front. This water front is more crowded when there is no holiday in progress than when there is one, and it is often an occasion for surprise to visitors coming to New York for the first time that when there should be nothing to attract sightseers so many of the streets are crowded, while with perhaps 150,000 strangers in town for some observance the same streets should be comparatively deserted. It takes 250,000 extra people to make much of a showing in the way of a crowd in New York, and even then there is room for all. New York has more regular commuters in a day than any other American city has ever had visitors in a day.—N. Y. Sun.

Curious Effects of the Air.

Prof. H. A. Hazen records that on one occasion he walked down to the edge of Lake Michigan in the face of a strong wind. Although he was in perfect physical condition, within five minutes he had every symptom of a very hard cold. This severe influenza continued until, on walking away from the lake, it disappeared as by magic when he had gone less than 500 feet. He then learned that hundreds of residents had been compelled to move back from the shore to escape influenza. He ascribes the effect to the abundance of ozone in the air at the edge of the lake. He has accumulated many instances of persons of nervous temperament who cannot sleep during the passage of high pressure areas in the atmosphere. The cause in this case is obscure.—Youth's Companion.

The Pole Star.

Prof. Campbell, of the Lick observatory, says the north pole star is approaching our solar system at the rate of seven miles per second. This velocity he calculated by means of the spectroscope. The professor further announces that the star is not single, but double. The companion star is not visible to the naked eye, but can be made out with a powerful telescope. The two stars revolve around their common center of gravity in a period of four days, their orbit being comparable in size to that of our own moon. It is also further believed that a third body is attracting the two-star system, thus causing a periodical variation in the velocity of the pole star.—Chicago Tribune.

SICK BENEFITS.

Franklin Council Trustees Say That the Question May Never be Brought Before the Lodge.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—An article having appeared in the issue of the News of the twenty-seventh inst. relative to the payment of sick benefits by Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will you permit us to make an explanation concerning the same?

At the present time the lodge pays benefits from the first day a member is taken sick, weekly. There has been some discussion among certain members as to the advisability of amending our by-laws so that if a member is sick but for one week he will receive no sick benefits but if his illness is prolonged through a period longer than one week then to pay him benefits for the entire time he is indisposed. However, this matter has never been brought before the attention of the lodge and may never assume any tangible form as a lodge matter.

Yours respectfully,
J. V. Beekman,
Robt. M. Clark,
W. V. Sutton.
Trustees of said lodge.

DOG'S MASTER IS MISSING.

William Reed's Canine Turns Up in a Starved Condition, and Rahway's Police Are Investigating.

Rahway's Police Department is looking for William Reed, who has been missing since Friday.

Reed did chores of all kinds for the neighbors in that section of Rahway known as Leetown. He had an inseparable companion, a small dog, and the two were fast friends. It was the dog that suggested that Reed had met with some misfortune, as the animal appeared at the house of City Treasurer Vanderhoven Monday afternoon in a nearly starved condition. It is thought the dog had remained with Reed until hunger drove it away. The animal was fed, but is not inclined to show the whereabouts of its master.

Reed is thought to have succumbed to the sever storm Friday night.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Week of the Session Ended by Electing State Comptroller and Treasurer.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 31—With the holding of two sessions by the House of Assembly and one by the Senate yesterday, the fourth week of the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Legislature was brought to a close.

At the afternoon meeting of the House the only act performed was the adoption, by a rising vote, of a memorial on the death of the late distinguished son of New Jersey, John P. Stockton.

William S. Hancock, of this city, and George B. Swain, of Newark, were re-elected State Comptroller and State Treasurer, respectively, at a joint meeting of the Legislature held at noon yesterday. This will make the third term of three years for each of the officers. The salary in each case is $6 000 a year.

Senator Stokes introduced a bill appropriating $15,000 for water supply, sewerage and the erection of two cottages at the New Jersey Village for Epileptics in Somerset county. The additional room is badly needed at the settlement and the water supply and sewerage are absolutely essential.

Last year the Legislature failed to make proper provision for the conduct of the village, so that the superintendent, Dr. Weeks, has been badly handicapped.

GRAND JURY'S WORK.

Some of Those Indicted Will Plead Tomorrow—Criminal Term to Commence Monday.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Elizabeth, Jan. 31—Some of those who were indicted by the Grand Jury, which reported yesterday, will be arraigned tomorrow to plead and the remainder next Monday.

The criminal term of the court will begin Monday. So far as can be learned, the newspaper reports that a large number of saloon keepers were indicted for selling Sunday seem to be without any foundation, and it is even said that the two Italian saloon keepers on Third avenue here, in whose places the men were drinking Sunday, December 24th, who afterward participated in the fatal shooting affray on that day, have both escaped being indicted.

There was no presentment made by the Grand Jury.

THEOPHILUS SMITH DEAD.

He was Well-Known Resident of This City—Married for More Than Fifty Years.

Theophilus Smith, aged about 77 years, one of Plainfield's best-known citizens died at his home on Park avenue this morning. Death was due to dropsy, with which Mr. Smith had been a great sufferer. Mr. Smith was born near the Catskills, in New York State, but the largest part of his life was spent in this city. A few years ago he and Mrs. Smith celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Up to within a comparatively short time ago he was able to come to town in a carriage.

He is survived by a wife, a son and a daughter. The latter is Miss Grace Smith, and the son is Roland Smith, who was for years secretary of the Knickerbocker Ice Co., of New York.

FINE TALENT WAS HEARD

CONCERT FOR BENEFIT OF PARK AVENUE BAPTISTS.

Recitations and Vocal Music Furnished by Clever Artists—Programme Was Varied Enough to Please All.

The concert given last night in the Y. M. C. A. hall for the benefit of the Park Avenue Baptist church was a decided success in every way. There was a very large attendance, and a most enjoyable programme was rendered. Those who had a part in the programme were all Plainfielders. They were Mrs. Frank J. Smith, reader; Mrs. Nelly Udell Smith, solo violinist, and Charles L. Lewis, baritone. The accompanists were Mrs. Charles L. Lewis and Frank J. Smith.

Mrs. Frank J. Smith's first recitation was "The First Quarrel," by Tennyson, a love story with a sad and tragic ending. Her other readings were a patriotic selection, "When the Northern Bands Played Dixie," by Stanton, "The Serenades," by Herbert, both with music, two bright little encores, a comic selection entitled "The Tea Party," by Rogers, and the witty little dialogue "If I Were You," with piano accompaniment, and a dance at the close. All were given with spirit and sympathy, and the gestures and bits of dance were full of grace and humor.

Mrs. Nelly Udell Smith played a brilliant "Fantasie de Ballet," by De-Beriot; a dreamy encore, played with the mute; a Romanza, by Norris; a Mezurka, by Wienewska, and the violin obligato to Mr. Lewis' last song. Her playing was strong, easy and graceful, and her selections were well chosen and thoroughly enjoyable.

Charles L. Lewis sang "Gipsy John," by Clay; "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," by Nevin; "Thy Beaming Eyes," by McDowell; "Broken Dreams," by Zardo, and "Because I Love Thee," by Ford, with violin obligato. His varied and pleasing selections, his easy and sympathetic manner of singing, and his clear pronunciation of the words of a song, gave great pleasure.

The two accompanists did excellent work, playing the difficult accompaniments with ease and sympathy. The soft, running accompaniment to Mrs. Frank J. Smith's recitations added much to their effect.

The programme was so varied as to present something to the taste of everyone, and the entire entertainment was one of the most enjoyable given in this city during the season.

GOEBEL DYING.

Gov. Taylor Adjourned the Legislature This Morning and Declared Martial Law.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Frankfort, Kty., January 31.—The death of Senator Goebel, who was shot by an unknown assassin yesterday morning, now appears certain. Dr. Hume, who is attending him, says that recovery is impossible and that the internal hemorrhage will soon cause his death.

The Goebellites declared their intention of having Goebel proclaimed Governor by the Legislature this morning. Governor Taylor adjourned the Legislature early this morning and refused to allow it to assemble. He also proclaimed martial law and the city is crowded with the soldiers and armed men.

ACTRESSES IN A FIRE.

Several Faint at Broadway House Blaze and Six Men Carry One to the Roof.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Jan. 31.—Somebody set fire to the two long rows of letter boxes in the hall of Frank Cook's theatrical boarding houses, 200 East Fourteenth street, at 2:30 this morning. James West, Frank Medway and Thomas Higgins, actors, returning home, discovered the fire and alarmed the seventy five other tenants.

Several actresses fainted after reaching the street. One very stout soubrette on the fifth floor swooned and was with difficulty carried to the roof by half a dozen men.

The fire was soon put out.

Cook, the proprietor, who formerly lived in Plainfield, says an incendiary set the fire, with what object he can't imagine.

Funeral of Mrs. Kiernan.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Kiernan were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Holy Cross church, and Rev. William M. Downey, the pastor, officiated. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends. The display of floral tributes were many and beautiful. During the service E. E. Runyon sang two favorite selections of the deceased. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

STYLISH COLORED WEDDING

Jones-Jones Nuptials Were Celebrated Last Evening With Considerable Eclat.

A stylish wedding in colored circles was that of last evening when Miss Nettie Jones, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Branch, and William P. Jones, both of this city, were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Mann, Plainfield avenue. The event came off at 8:15 o'clock, and Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, officiated. Miss Adelaide Woodson, of this city, was bridesmaid, and Bert Harvey was the best man. The bride was gowned in blue henrietta cloth trimmed with white silk and pearl trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. The bridemaid wore a grey henrietta cloth gown with steel trimmings and white silk, and carried pink roses.

As the bridal party entered the parlor where the marriage was performed the wedding march was played by Miss Smith. Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned to 407 Central avenue, where they will reside. They are both in the employ of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Truell, of Central avenue.

ROCKAWAY VALLEY ROAD'S PLANS.

Extension of the Line to the Business Centre of Morristown.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, Jan 31.—In an interview with Superintendent Melick, of the Rockaway Valley Railroad, a reporter was informed the prospective plans of the new management of the road. The first important project under consideration is the securing of a convenient terminal depot in Morristown. The present depot is situated at Watnong, about two miles from the business centre of the town, which necessitates the employment of stages to convey passengers to and from the terminus. Surveys and plans have been made to extend the railroad down the south shore of Speedwell Lake and then down the Whippany River Valley to the business section of the town.

The roadbed of the railroad from Morristown to Whitehouse, on the New Jersey Central Railroad, is being regraded and ballasted by large crews of section hands, and several curves are to be straightened out. New railroad stations are to be erected at several points, and new and improved rolling stock will be placed in service.

Plainfielder Hurt in Westfield.
